THE LISTENING POST

How quickly names and things pass in this swiftly changing world of ours! The things which occupied and interested us only a few short years ago are almost completely forgotten now, and men who caused us to think of those things are likewise forgotten almost completely. Thus I was made to think this morning as I looked over a copy of the Memphis Commercial Appeal published on June 10, 1935, less than six years ago. A friend found it behind his desk and handed it to me a few days ago. Certainly a newspaper of six years ago is not old in years, but in changes it is very old.

Arthur Brisbane—remember him—then occupied the spot which is now occupied by Paul Mallon. This is the first column of the first page of the Second section. Brisbane was a Hearst man and for many years was reputed to be the highest salaried editorial writer in the United States, and probably the world. Personally I never saw a great deal in Mr. Brisbane's column. He merely quoted news stories, sometimes expressing his opinion of the implication of those news stories, sometimes merely quoting the stories, and sometimes saying, in effect, "so what," after the question, I know that he had a tremendous vogue, however, and so he must have had something.

On this particular day Mr. Brisbane was quoting something Mussolini had said about his invasion of Ethiopia. Remember that tiny country? Well, because it has bobbed back into the news column again in recent weeks, many of us recall that Italian victory, but had it not been for that condition, not many of us would remember it very clearly.

Brisbane also spoke of the United States fleet returning from spring practice and Admiral Standley saying that America need not fear invasion from any power. Brisbane, who was prophetic about air power, reminded the Admiral that no invasion would come from land and sea forces, but rather from air squadrons, flying five miles in the air and loosing gas as well as explosives. Brisbane had the right idea there, and I remember he was preaching this doctrine many years before 1935.

One saddening little feature brought a sort of choke into my throat. It was the Will Rogers saying, tucked away in the bottom part of the same page, and the beloved Will was talking about Alfalfa Bill Murray in Oklahoma. He spoke of the man with the same lovable manner in which he spoke of every person he mentioned, and the rough hewn words brought quick sadness to me. No, Will Rogers is not forgotten, and will never be, but Alfalfa Bill—well, I leave it to you. You may remember him, but you never think of him any more. Six years have brought oblivion, but sixty years will not bring oblivion for the kindly American who wrote that day about Murray.

Even the sports page reveals strange and forgotten things. Two games of the Kitty League are reported, with Lexington beating Paducah 3 to 2 and Portageville beating Jackson. A glance at the box scores reveals few names which are familiar, although Lexington did show a few which I remembered. For instance, there was Hankins, and this lad, by the way, was the referee in a recent basketball game here. James I. Braddock—remember him?—was

Filibuster On Lend Bill Is Mentioned

Gillette Says Action Might Be Justified To Stop "War Measure"

Washington — Three middle-western Senators denounced the lend-lease bill today as likely to lead to war and one of them, Senator Bulow (D-S. D.), asserted that the measure's opponents might be justified in conducting a filibuster until the war abroad is over.

As the bill stands, he said, "its passage will lead this country to war and disaster," and postponing its enactment by prolonging the debate might have the result of keeping the nation at peace.

"This is a war bill, with war powers, with the deliberate intention to become involved in not one, but several foreign wars," Senator Brooks (R-Ill.), had said earlier. Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) said: "It will not support any proposal to dissipate (United States) defense resources now and leave America defenseless or greatly weakened by the participation in a foreign conflict which means war involvement now and is war now, regardless of our attempts to disguise the facts by self-deception."

Bulow contended that the measure would give the President excessive power. He was "alarmed," he said, at "placing the destiny of my country in the hands of one man to determine when and where an emergency arises and let that one man handle that emergency for 130 million human beings in any manner that he desires."

"No one man ought to want that job," he continued, "and certainly it ought not to be granted to any one man. A republic, a democracy, if it wants to survive, ought never to place the power of the sword and the power of the purse in the hands of one man, no matter how great and how good that man may be."

Probe Of Spies On U. S. Ships Is Proposed

Washington — Rear-Admiral R. S. Hooper, representing the Navy Department, told the House Merchant Marine Committee Friday it would be "advisable" for Congress to look into the question of subversive activities in the American Merchant Marine.

A Communist or bund member at sea as a radio operator, he commented, was in a position to do "much more than merely harm the vessel or its radio apparatus."

"He can shift his apparatus to frequencies which other ships won't hear and communicate with the enemy," he continued. "He can divulge the position of his ship in a convoy he may be in."

"He can divulge the position of the fleet. It might prove the difference between victory and defeat in war."

United States Destroys Fifteen Tons Of Foreign Propaganda

Washington — The Postoffice Department disclosed Thursday night that more than fifteen tons of foreign propaganda mail has been seized and destroyed.

Confiscation of the mail—75,000 pieces—was announced by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker in a letter to Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Postoffice Committee.

Walker suggested to McKellar that Congress provide new and more stringent regulations governing movement of foreign mail in the United States.

Senders Not Registered. Seizure of the propaganda was made under regulations designating it as "non-mailable" because

Bulldogs Come From Far Behind To Beat Arlington

The Bulldogs won from Arlington last night at Arlington 23 to 19, and in the victory showed the best teamwork and the most cold and crafty courage they have exhibited this year. Handicapped by a small floor and puzzled by a baffling shifting zone defense, the Bulldogs failed to score a single goal in the first quarter, and the period ended with Arlington leading 5 to 1. At the intermission the home lads talked over the situation and opened the second quarter with such a rush they gathered seven more points. The Bulldog defense was still ragged, however, and the half ended 13 to 8, Arlington.

Opening the second half, the Bulldogs piled on more steam and ran with the throttle wide open. They did not give Arlington time to get set for the defense, and McAllister and McClellan began penetrating the defense for crisp shots. In the third quarter they tied the score at fifteen-all, and a moment later a free throw put them into the lead. They held it from that point, although Arlington was a threat until the final moments. McAllister was high with nine points, closely followed by McClellan, with eight. All the boys played superbly, operating as a unit and the last half was a revelation in tight defense, Arlington being held to six points for the entire half.

Americans Are Considered Nude Without Pistols In Shanghai

Shanghai. — Foreigners live dangerously in Shanghai.

The ordinary American business man in this great war-torn metropolis lives in a place of all the races never leaves his home unarmed. A gun is as much a gentleman's accessory as cuff links and wrist watch. He sits in his office with a blue-steel "equalizer" within wrist reach—in a drawer or even on the desk.

Under many desks are burglar alarm buttons. A touch of the knee sounds a shrill signal, brings Indian guards with drawn guns. By the same token, steel doors, bullet-proof vests, bullet-proof automobiles and bodyguards have become normal adjuncts of life.

All Vices Unlimited. Shanghai, occupied by the Japanese since 1937, is wide open. Even its international settlement is not entirely secure.

Every form of vice the human imagination has been able to devise is offered. You can gamble at 9 o'clock in the morning. It is less difficult to find narcotics than to get an ice cream soda. And the city is not limited to white slavery—it has brown, black, yellow, red, the whole chromatic scale.

All the known rackets are represented, plus countless Oriental variations. Money, flowing in torrents, opens any door. The streets teem with gangs and gangsters. A normal "rub out" costs $50 Mexican, less than $3 gold.

City Is Sounding Alarm. Shanghai is a vast, poisonous plant, luxuriantly alive in the mud of the Whangpoo River. It is the Barbary Coast on an incredible scale, the Wild West with slant eyes.

Furthermore, the city is a sounding-board for all the world's wars and international collisions. The population—Chinese, Japanese, British and German and Italian, Russian, American, Polish, French and all the races and nations in the world.

All the political hatreds are present, too. Somewhere, every night, they come to the surface in a blaze of gunfire.

Police Go In Paris.

A 70-year-old French lawyer died on his doorstep the other day, and two Chinese gunmen disappeared in a waiting car. A Japanese policeman got a meat-axe at the base of the brain. He was the fifteenth Japanese to go within the past few months. The police hardly bother to list, any longer, the killings of spies, gamblers, racketeers and gunmen.

So the foreigner carries a gun and is always within sight of guns. On every street, soldier-policemen with steel helmets, rifles and pistols, stroll along, two by two.

Income Tax Originated In 1580 B. C.

Washington, Penn. — There's nothing new about the income tax, says Reynold V. Ullom of Washington and Jefferson College faculty, who in his "History of the Income Tax" has traced such forms of revenue to 1580 B. C. He places the origin of the tax in Egypt, from where it moved on to Greece. The Grecian tax was based on the individual's ability to pay.

Pennsylvania was the first State to adopt an income tax, Ullom says. It was adopted in 1840 and discontinued thirty-one years afterward.

State's Attorneys Get Ruling As To Their Pay

Frankfort, Ky. — Commonwealth's attorneys whose fees fall to pay the maximum $3,500 a year allowed them from that source must try to make up the deficit in the succeeding year. They can't get their money from a previous year's excess.

That opinion was given to Commonwealth's Attorney Beckham A. Robertson of Owensboro by Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman today.

Herdman said the State Court of Appeals had upheld the statute and had declared "there must be an incentive" for the Commonwealth's attorney to collect the fines and forfeitures due the State and from which their fees come.

Army Adviser Renounces 1940 Profits

Washington — Francis Blossom, member of the War Department's civilian construction advisory committee, informed the House Military Committee Wednesday that he had decided against participating in any way in the 1940 profits of his New York construction firm which is doing work for the Government.

Blossom was questioned at length by the committee last week about the contract which his company, Sanderson and Porter, obtained for construction of a shell-loading plant near Elwood, Ill. He said at that time that the advisory committee had nothing to do with the award of that contract.

Committee To Study U. S. Defense Asked

Washington. — Creation of a special committee empowered to investigate all phases of the defense program was recommended to the Senate today.

After brief discussion, the Senate military affairs committee approved a resolution by Senator Truman (D-Mo.), calling for a special committee of seven Senators to make a "full and complete" investigation of all defense "procurement and construction."

Would Study Wide Field.

The resolution directs that the committee study, among other things, "types and terms of contracts," methods of making awards and selecting contractors, utilization of "small business concerns," geographic distribution of contracts and plant facilities, effects upon labor, performance and accounting required, practices of management or labor which "interfere" with the program and "such other matters as the committee deems appropriate."

There was no immediate indication of the administration's attitude toward the proposed inquiry. Before it could be undertaken, the Senate committee on audit and control would have to approve the proposed expenditure of $25,000. Then the resolution would have to win approval of a majority of the Senate.

POLICE COURT

Robert Pemberton, charged with assault and battery, and Lena Pemberton, charged with breach of the peace, were arrested last night by South Fulton officers. They will be tried today by Mayor D. A. Rogers in South Fulton police court.

PERSON MUST REGISTER BEFORE LAST ELECTION TO VOTE

Frankfort, Ky. — A person, to be qualified to vote in a party primary must have registered under the party's emblem prior to the last general election.

"A person registered as a Democrat or a Republican for the last November election," said Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman in a letter to R. A. Childers of Landsaw, Ky., today, "can not afterwards change his party affiliation and participate in the following primary."

Herdman held in another opinion that deeds for property purchased under Kentucky's former delinquent tax law should be turned over to the buyers after the five year period of exemption has expired.

Under the present law, he told Clarence L. Freeman of Calverty City, Ky., the purchaser of property on which taxes are delinquent receives no deed, but gets a certificate of delinquency, or a lien which is enforceable like other liens.

Week-End Overtime Called Unwise By Wage And Hour Administrator

Bangor, Maine. — Grig. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, declared Thursday that agreements for the payment of overtime for Saturday and Sunday work—simply because it is Saturday or Sunday—should be waived for the present to cut down "week-end blackouts."

The administrator referred to overtime payments, which are not required by law but are arranged for privately to cover the days at the end of the week. The wage-hour law merely requires the payment of time and a half for overtime beyond forty hours a week.

Wants Saturday Just a Day. In a speech prepared for delivery here at a meeting of service clubs, the administrator said:

"Extra legal or extra work where Saturday work must be paid for as overtime, simply because it is Saturday, can hardly be justified now."

Efforts To Pass Lease-Lend Bill Are Stimulated

Belief Europe's War May Soon Flare Anew Spurs Administration

Washington. — The belief that Europe's war is on the threshold of a momentous new phase brought redoubled efforts by administration leaders today to get the British aid bill on President Roosevelt's desk by next week-end.

Chairman George (D-Ga.), of the Senate foreign relations committee said that the need for speed was dictated by the swiftness with which world events were moving. "Undoubtedly," he said to reporters, "Germany is preparing to move very fast. I think there will be tremendous developments within the next 10 days."

George, an intimate friend of Secretary of State Hull, did not indicate whether his remarks were based on some unexpectedly new and disquieting information, but this conclusion was drawn in some quarters.

Would Halt Changes.

To expedite the British aid bill to the White House, George and other administration strategists were understood to be working to have the House accept the version of the legislation which the Senate finally approves. A Senate victory for the measure is generally conceded.

Ordinarily the procedure would be for the two branches of Congress to appoint a joint committee, which iron out such differences as exist between the House-approved and Senate-approved versions of the bill. This, however, is a time-consuming process, and leaders would like to avoid it on the lease-lend program.

Census Reveals Smaller Towns Show Most Gains

Washington. — Main St.—symbol of the Nation's thousands of towns under 2,500 population—was the fastest growing part of the American map in the last decade.

The Census Bureau said sample figures from the 1940 census showed that while larger cities gained 7.9 per cent and strictly farm territory declined by a small fraction of a per cent, towns under 2,500 boasted a 14.5 per cent gain.

The survey also showed that while men slightly outnumber women, it's not true in the big cities, where females predominate. Males have a slight edge in the small towns and a big margin in the farm territory.

Week-End Overtime Called Unwise By Wage And Hour Administrator

whether it happens to fall on Saturday or any other day of the week, should be paid for in accordance with the law, but if the thirty-second to the fortieth hours of the work week fall on Saturday, I do not believe these eight hours should be counted as overtime.

"The Saturday overtime penalty simply prolongs the week-end blackout and discourages the use of additional shifts."

Seeks End of Blackout. The building trade unions have long required payment of double time for Saturday and Sunday work, but recently proposed to abandon the double time requirement and apply only time and a half for week-end work.

Current Federal law requires double payment for Saturday work, but not for Sunday work. The administrator said that Saturday work must be paid for as overtime, simply because it is Saturday, can hardly be justified now.

Editorial

CHANGE IS SENTIMENT

There is no shrewder observer in Europe than William H. Stoneman, and when he expresses a certain belief his opinion is worth a great deal. It is always based on close and expert observation, along with a background which makes for good understanding. He has watched the European scene for a long time and understands the forces which are working under cover in practically every nation of prostrate Europe. These things being true, when Mr. Stoneman predicts a vast change which now seems to be in motion, it may be that dramatic events are shaping.

Mr. Stoneman says that in recent weeks the conviction has been growing in all European countries, save Germany, of course, that Britain will win the war. This belief is not based on any British victories in Africa or other areas, although these developments have helped in formulating this growing belief. This belief is brought about by the conviction that the United States is going to enter the war, and the further conviction that Germany cannot stand up under the vast help which the United States can and will give Britain. Mr. Stoneman's words are a significant. Read them:

American participation in the war, "short of nothing," is commonly expected in both allied and neutral countries, according to reports reaching London the last few days.

The belief that the United States will come pounding into the conflict with all its resources in the very near future also has spread to Italy, Russia and the German-dominated areas of Central Europe.

This is primarily the result of the lend-lease bill and is particularly gratifying to the Allied Governments because it has been achieved without having it cost anybody, including the United States, a single man.

The consequences of the growing conviction that the British are now on the road to victory may be of utmost importance when and if Germany attempts to deliver a frontal assault on the British Isles.

Although it has refrained from organizing armed resistance and sabotage in enemy-occupied countries since occupation of Norway last April, Britain may want to employ weapons of that kind when the pressure becomes greater.

If the people of occupied countries believed Britain was going to be beaten anyway they probably would not take the risks involved. If, thanks to fixed belief in American invincibility, they are going to win, there are probably few risks they won't run.

While some occupied countries are tougher than others, there is enough potential human dynamite in all to mess up the German rear if it exploded at once. One of Britain's problems is to prevent it from exploding in small charges before the time comes for the big show.

Neutral and allied diplomats and officials in London agree, privately, that an actual American declaration of war would have a volcanic effect on the Continent and would make German's position in occupied countries practically intolerable.

No doubt Mr. Stoneman tells the literal truth of conditions in Europe. These countries which are held under

IS HITLER NOW PLANNING A MIGHTY U-BOAT WAR?

The prediction of a neutral naval expert as reported by Drew Middleton, Associated Press staff writer in London, that Germany is preparing to launch a vast submarine campaign against British shipping this spring comes as no surprise. Hitler threatened such an offensive in his Sports Palace speech last month when he declared, "Every ship, with or without convoy, that comes within range of our torpedo tubes will be torpedoed."

Wendell Willkie foresaw the probability of intensified undersea warfare when he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "If we are to aid Britain effectively, we should provide her with from five to ten destroyers a month." The prospective aid from the United States under the Lend-Lease Bill in guns, tanks, planes and ships calls for desperate measures on the part of the Nazis if they are to prevent that aid from thwarting their plans for world revolution.

The estimate that Germany has 600 "minnow type" U-boats and can put into action 300 of these submarines at any time is, of course, largely conjecture. That it has been constructing such craft on a mass production scale has long been known but that it has trebled or quadrupled its undersea fleet since September may be doubted. The prediction that Hitler can put into operation three times the number of these vessels as were in operation last fall is probably an exaggeration.

But the threat cannot be exaggerated. In 1940 Germany sank 3,500,000 tons of British and neutral shipping—more than the losses of any year during World War I, with the single exception of 1917.—Courier-Journal.

the heel of German military forces cannot be pieces of sweetness and light. Men and women who have been accustomed to freedom do not lightly give up that priceless possession. History of past centuries proves that. Certainly in France, Poland, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark there is still a desire for the things which those nations once had and which have been lost. A series of pictures in Life this week reveal graphically what is going on in those occupied countries. German firing squads are pictured shooting down Poles; one gripping picture shows ten executed Poles lying in a heap, while other Poles dig a great grave for the ten unfortunate men. In fairness Life says that these pictures do not prove Germany is guilty of atrocities, for the magazine says that the executions may have been necessary from a military standpoint. Even so, such things do not make for a peaceful country and if hope can be revived in Poland and other conquered nations, Hitler will need more armies than he now has to keep the peace in the lands he has already conquered.

District Attorney Told Draftees Create Illness

Miami, Fla. — The District Attorney's office investigated reports Wednesday that some selective service registrants were artificially creating heart and other disorders in efforts to evade the draft.

One local board reported that certain registrants, when they learned the dates set for their physical examinations, drank excessive quantities of intoxicants to create heart and kidney disorders. Others were reported to have taken large quantities of aspirin, with still others rubbing soap under their arms to induce a temporary fever.

AUTOMOBILE TAXABLE IN TWO CITIES, SAYS HERDMAN IN OPINION

Frankfort, Ky. — Persons living in one town and working in another are liable for each municipality's automobile license tax.

That was the opinion given today to E. H. Streete by Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman. Streete wrote that his home city, Hopkinsville, imposed a license fee on his car and that he had to pay another one in Eddyville where he worked.

"A harsh case," commented Herdman, but pointed out the state Court of Appeals had upheld such fees last January 31. He added, however, Eddyville could tax non-residents' cars only if it also taxed those of residents, and suggested Streete look into that.

MISS MARY ANDERSON ENTERTAINS CLUB

Miss Beagle Lee Brumfield was a visitor among the three tables of bridge players when Miss Mary Anderson entertained her regular Thursday club last night at her home on Central Avenue.

At the conclusion of the contract games Miss Bessie Jones won the high score prize, a purse, and Mrs. George Moore was winner of the second high prize, a pair of pictures. Miss Brumfield was also given a gift, a handkerchief.

Miss Anderson served ham sandwiches and cold drinks late in the evening.

GARDEN DEPARTMENT HEARS INTERESTING "ANTIQUe GLASS" PROGRAM

The Garden Department of the Woman's Club met at the club building yesterday afternoon with the chairman, Mrs. Clint Reeds, presiding. The roll was called by the secretary with nineteen members answering.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames Robert Graham, Doris Valentine, Ira Little and Smith Atkins.

Leaders of the program were Mrs. John Earle and Mrs. J. O. Lewis who presented a most entertaining program on "Antique Glass." Mrs. Earle said "of all hobbies, glass collecting is the most infectious and all members present are going to be exposed to a bug, the old glass bug. The virus from this bite enters the system in a painless and unobtrusive manner. Many women and a few men have been falling victims to this insidious disease for a number of years. It is indifferent to age, creed or the size of one's pocket book." She gave the general symptoms so that each one might know whether or not they had "caught it." First, you may have a friend in the violent or dashing about stage and she persuades you to visit an antique shop with her. You go along, amused at her enthusiasm. You wander about the shop, entranced with the sparkling colors and the smooth feel of the old glass and upon leaving the shop, you have bought some bright little piece. You tell the family that, of course, you are not seriously interested but isn't it precious and just the thing for matches on the coffee table. Then you begin to take a new interest in second hand stores. You snoop in the cupboards of your elderly aunts, this being the period of "incubation." Then, when you find yourself reading articles on the history of old glass, you can be sure you have been bitten by the old glass bug.

Mrs. Lewis, in a very amusing way, told of hers and Mrs. Earle's search for antiques. She also read an article from the February issue of the Antique Magazine of one of our local girls, Miss Sue Clements, and her collection of old glass salt cellars. The article says that Sue has 1,000 cellars from 21 states and 10 foreign countries. Mrs. Earle and Mrs. Lewis then presented a beautiful display of their own, including old barber bottles, old lamps, old pictures, milk white glass and other pieces of rare glass.

That concluded a very unusual program and during the following social hour the hostesses served chocolate ice cream roll and coffee.

Senator Forgets '12 Campaign Fund

San Francisco.—It wasn't until the American Trust Company gently reminded him, that veteran California Senator Hiram Johnson remembered that the bank held the sum of $104 for him.

The amount was duly transferred to the Senator's major account in another bank. The sum is the unpaid remainder of Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" Presidential campaign fund of 1912. Johnson was vice-president candidate on the unsuccessful ticket.

HOUSE MAY BE ASKED TO RELIEVE BUSINESS OF TAXES

Washington.—The House may be asked next week to relieve business of tax "hardships" created by the 1940 Excess Profits Act.

The bill will be the second step taken this year to meet tax and financing problems of the defense program. The first bill increased the limit on the national debt to $65,000,000,000 and authorized inture issuance of taxable securities. That was signed by President Roosevelt yesterday.

SCOUT NEWS

The following Scouts attended a supper in Whitesell's woods last night: Tommy Valentine, Paul Ohlson, Cleod Hogg, Norman Barnes, Eugene Cates, Eddy Bell, Tom Edd Williams, Billy Hagan, Reuben Allen, Jack Austin, John Ellis Edwards, Samuel Trevathan, Trevis Moss, Paul Rhodes, Eugene Byassee, Dick Cummings, Billy Ayres, John Mac Travis, Dave Winfrey, Robert (Cotton) Davis, Robert Crawford, John Joe Campbell and Edward Crutchfield. Absent were Don Sensing, Dick Meacham, Robert Whitesell, Tolbert Dallas, Jimmie Lowe and Charles Pigue. Where were they?

The group left the Methodist church at 8:30 o'clock and proceeded out the Union City highway until they came to the Jordan road. They went west on the road until they came to a culvert at which point they invaded the woods on the south side of the road. About a hundred yards in the woods, the Scouts dispersed and built their various campfires for cooking. The food was mostly wieners, buns, cakes, marshmallows, pop, bacon, pork and beans and spuds.

At nine o'clock the boys were led back to town by their leaders, W. H. Edwards, Scoutmaster, and Jack Wellons, Assistant Scoutmaster, Virgil King, Scribe.

There will be a meeting at the Scout cabin next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

Scribe—VIRGIL KING.

Troop No. 44
Troop No. 44 met at the Baptist church Thursday night with seventeen members and Scoutmaster Jones present. We also took in one new member from Pierce. We enjoyed having Mr. Louis Weeks with us who made an excellent talk. Also Mr. Hendon Wright who gave us some instructions on drilling. We are making plans to buy a flag and will have our meetings at a different place. If the weather is not too cold, we will have a werner roast next Thursday.

After all business was completed, we played "O'Grady" and Hafford VanCleave was winner. In the game of "Darts," James Shankle held the championship longest. We are striving for twelve new members and hope to welcome many more. Boys of scout age will receive a hearty welcome.

Scribe—R. B. WILLINGHAM.
