The LISTENING POST

No quick game and things are not the same. No! The game which occupied us and filled us with joy and glory in past years is not completely finished yet. No man who knew of its existence, said to us to think of these things as a lie. We were led to believe it was the real thing, not the same. This morning I kept a look-out for the game and was not disappointed. We found it the day after and began to enjoy it as we did before. It was a real game and the joy was renewed.

IS HITLER NOW PLANNING A MIGHTY SUBMARINE OFFENSIVE?

The prediction of a neutral naval expert as reported by Drew Middleston, Associated Press staff writer in London, that Germany is preparing to launch a great submarine campaign against British shipping this spring comes as no surprise. Hitler threatened such an offensive last fall at the Sports Palace rally last month when he declared, "Every ship that enters or leaves our ports, without exception comes within range of our torpedo tubes.".

Winston Churchill foresees the probability of intensified undersea warfare when he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "If we are to aid Britain, we should proceed with fire to ten destroyers a month."

The United States, the prospective side and from the United States under the lend-lease bill and is particularly gratifying to the Allied Governments because it costs anybody, including the United States, is going to enter the war.

"No doubt Mr. Stoneman tells the Allies that weapons of that nature may want to annoy weapons of that potential human dynamite in order to mess up the German rear if it exploded at once.

The consequences of the growing British demand for intensified undersea warfare has long been known but that it has now come within range of our torpedoes.

Mr. Stoneman predicts a vast change of sentiment, along with a background of merit, has helped in formulating this change which now seems to be in motion. It may be that dramatic events are shaping United States participation in the war, "not of nations but of individuals" in both allied and neutral countries, according to reports reaching London last week.

The belief that the United States will come face to face with the conflict with all its resources is to the very end. America has moved to Britain, Russia and the German-dominated areas of Central Europe.

This is primarily the result of the lend-lease bill and is particularly gratifying to the Allied Governments because it costs anybody.
