SOUTH FULTON OPENS BASKETBALL SEASON

The South Fulton Red Devils and Red Angela will swing into action next Thursday night when they match powers with the teams of Rives High School on the Rives court. This will be the initial game of the season, with the local teams entering the conflict after a two weeks practice period, practice having started Monday with Coach Leon Smith putting the teams through strenuous workouts to get them in shape.

The boys' team is fortunate in having five letter men carried over from last year. Omar, goal shooting star of last season, is back with the Devils and is expected to turn in some brilliant performances this year. Other last year men who earned letters are Frankum, Allen, Faulkner and Frazier. All of these men are expected to see a good bit of service, according to Coach Smith. Buchanan, Cannon, Sanders, Dyer, Edwards and McKinney are some of the younger players making good showings in the practice sessions. There are about 25 others coming out to make a bid for the squad, with the number being gradually reduced. The girls are preparing for the opening game with a marked degree of enthusiasm, and expect to annex a victory from the Rives lassies.

South Fulton is indeed fortunate in having a coach with the experience and record that Coach Smith has acquired. His name is a very familiar one in West Kentucky basketball circles, having coached four years in two of the high schools of this region. After his graduation at Murray State Teachers College, he coached one year at Arlington High, with his team winning the district championship. The following year he began his duties as coach at Heath High where he served for three years, with his boys winning three district championships and one regional title. He states that he is well pleased with the showing made by the teams here, and expects them to pull down some creditable victories, although they are slightly handicapped by size.

Judge Adams And Walker In Dissention

Lon Adams, judge of the Fulton police court, and Claude L. Walker, judge of the Fulton county court, are at loggerheads over a case involving the arrest and trial of A. Dinwiddie, negro, charged with knowingly receiving stolen property.

Dinwiddie's examining trial was held before Judge Adams on October 4, and his bond set at $750.00, in default of which he was held in the county jail at Hickman to await the action of the grand jury. After he had been jailed under this commitment, Judge Walker is alleged to have reopened the case and fixed bond at $300.00, with T. J. Sapp, colored, undertaker of South Fulton as surety on the bond.

After Dinwiddie had been released, Judge Adams issued a warrant and had him re-arrested and jailed. Shortly after that was done Dinwiddie sued out a writ of habeas corpus or from in any way interfering with proceedings of the Fulton police court.

A hearing is to be held before Judge Hindman at Clinton on October 23.

LOOKING TOWARD MEETING OF CONGRESS

In a little more than two months, Congress will convene again. According to most forecasters it will be a far more independent body, so far as White House influence is concerned, than its last few predecessors. The failure of the President's party "purge"—every Senator against whom he campaigned was renominated, and his only victory was the defeat by a very small margin of Congressman O'Connor of New York—has, the reports say, aroused a belligerent spirit in the hearts of a large number of lawmakers who have been spending their time sitting on the fence, in fear of making commitments that might cost them votes.

In still another particular this next Congress, unless the unlooked-for happens, will be different from those it immediately follows. Legislation dealing with many vexatious domestic problems will be on the calendar. But this will be overshadowed, during a large part of the session at any rate, by proposed legislation arising from the chaotic European and Asiatic situations, and dealing with what this country will do if and when war breaks out.

According to Business Week, suggested "war proposals" for Congress fall into two broad categories: "1. Measures to support domestic economy disturbed by derangement of the normal functioning of trade at home and abroad. 2. Measures anticipating the eventual involvement of the United States—and this is taken for granted in all quarters of the Administration."

To many observers, both kinds of legislation are ominous—for they inevitably mean a tremendous increase in the control of government over business and individuals in the event war comes. It is strongly advocated, for instance, that if our trade abroad were thrown out of balance, the government must create machinery to buy, hold and sell both agricultural and industrial products which go into export. And the government would become the virtual czar of the securities markets if a real war threw them into chaos.

Going on with the facts, it is said that legislation of the second category has already been prepared for proposal. Under its terms, the government would instantly take over operation of all transport, power and communications industries the day we declared war. It is probable that a law stringently limiting war profits will be passed—this has been advocated by a number of presidents, including Mr. Hoover. The government would be given authority to draft materials and supplies even as it has the power to draft men. There are some who think that something very close to military dictatorship would be established. It would of course be necessary to invest tremendous power in the President, and through him, in the Army and Navy staffs. All this may seem far away, but it cannot be discounted when the chance of a European war occurring is as great as it is today. After the "peace" of Munich, practically every foreign observer and correspondent forecast that it would be a conflict within three years at the outside. As a result, the legislation that will be proposed, and perhaps passed, at the next Congress to deal with war, will be of great concern to every citizen.

One piece of legislation—the Neutrality Act—may cause something of a storm in House and Senate. Some influential members want to revise the Act to greatly limit the President's authority in permitting commercial dealings with embattled nations. The White House wants to retain that authority, and even enlarge it. If matters come to a head, there's likely to be a knock-down-and-drag-out fight over this vital piece of legislation, with no holds barred.

Business is showing considerable vitality. Even when the war scare was at its height, it didn't go back a great deal on the whole, though security prices sagged. Today, with business certain that hostilities

POSSE RAIDS HUGE STILL LAST SUNDAY

Sheriff J. S. Burcham of this county and Sheriff O. C. Henry of Fulton County, Ky., accompanied by a posse of officers from both counties discovered Sunday afternoon what Sheriff Burcham described as the largest still he has ever seen.

The still was located about five miles north of Clayton, near the Kentucky-Tennessee line, but on which side Sheriff Burcham was uncertain. It was housed in a metal building, Sheriff Burcham said, "all ready for winter," adding that, in addition to being the largest, it was the most complete still he had ever seen.

Fifty-three barrels of mash, amounting to approximately 2,650 gallons, was discovered in addition to 200 lbs. of sugar. Several empty whiskey bottles were found near the place. No one was at the still when it was discovered, so no arrests were made.

The officers poured gasoline over the building and mash and burned it. Sheriff Burcham said, and the officers now have enough sugar to satisfy their sweet teeth for some time to come.

Sheriff Burcham was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff C. L. Harris, Constables Joe Noah and J. T. Witherspoon and Sergeant C. M. Townes of the State Highway Patrol. Sheriff Henry was accompanied by three other Fulton county officers.

POWER PLANT ISSUE DRAWS FIRE AT C. C.

The proposal to construct a municipal light and power plant in Fulton by floating a $110,000 revenue bond issue was a topic which claimed much of the program at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night. Vernon Owen, chairman of a movement sponsored by the Young Business Men's Club to obtain T. V. A. power for Fulton, led the discussion in favor of the plan. Abe Thompson, manager of Kentucky Utilities Co., in Fulton and Tom Goldsmith, presented the utility side of the matter.

Under the plan Fulton would have to vote $110,000 revenue bonds against the revenue of the electric plant, Vernon Owen pointed out, and the federal government is to provide $85,000 as a direct grant for the project. At the general election on November 8, the people will vote on the question: "Are you in favor of purchasing, constructing and operating a municipal light, heat and power plant in accordance with the plans and specifications adopted by the City of Fulton, and the incurring of an indebtedness of revenue bonds in the amount of $110,000?"

It was brought out during the course of the discussion that the vote will be for or against revenue bonds for the purpose of purchasing on constructing an electric system for Fulton, and will not be a vote for or against T. V. A. power. It was stated, however, that floating the bond issue was the first step.

Tom Goldsmith said that the cost of electric current has showed a gradual decrease in recent years, and pointed out that this has taken not been true on other products produced by private concerns.

Both sides of the question were discussed at length, with figures being quoted pointing out the advantages of municipal and private ownership of electric plants.

C. P. Mabry, mayor of Hickman, which city is also voting on a project to purchase or construct a municipal light and power plant, and Messrs. Henry, Dobson and Fields, were guests at the meeting. Each member of the delegation spoke on the subject.

BUILDING IS ON THE RISE

Business and industrial activity continues to gain on a widening front, but in no sector is this more encouraging than in the broad revival to building which seems definitely under way. Mostly it is residential building but there also has been a very considerable investment in new business and industrial structures.

The development is one that economists regard with an intense interest. Residential building appears to move in fairly regular cycles, of a good many years duration from crest to crest. The last crest was reached and passed around 1928, many months in advance to the 1929 crisis of the basic business cycle. According to the cycle theory, a new wave of building has been due now for several years, but seems to have held off for various reasons connected with the depression and the character of the recovery from it. An infant building boom got handsomely under way in 1936-37 but was killed off, seemingly, by a swift rise in labor and material costs.

Many economists believe a new boom beginning now would stand a good chance of continuing until around 1945 and could afford a foundation for a sound prosperity lasting at least until that date. The repeated recovery movements the country has experienced hitherto since 1933 all have been recoveries primarily of the consumption goods industries, of which building and building materials form an important part, have lagged stubbornly. For a 'sound' or 'moral' prosperity these industries must advance along with the rest.

Thus the interest with which the new incipient building boom is being watched as a possible harbinger of prosperity. In the wake of it, of course, there would seem to come a resumption of capital investment, not just in homes, but all along the line of the economic system. To that end there must be business confidence.

BOYS—GOOD AND BAD

Disinterested parents and community neglect explain most juvenile delinquency, Right Rev. Monsignor Edward J. Flanagan, noted founder and head of "Boys Town" in Nebraska, told delegates to the National Conference of Catholic Charities, in Richmond recently. Father Flanagan's ideas are of particular interest to Fulton right now because of our own juvenile delinquency problem.

"I have really never found a boy who wants to be bad," Father Flanagan says, adding that "laziness, selfishness, ignorance and downright viciousness of too many parents lie at the root of the delinquency problem." That Father Flanagan knows what he is talking about is shown by the fact that 4,500 delinquent and homeless boys have learned the right way to live at his Boys Town.

In discussing what to do for them, Father Flanagan pointed out that if their home environments had been the cause of their delinquency, they cannot be rehabilitated in their own homes. He said it was equally obvious that reformatories fail miserably in dealing with delinquent boys, often making them hardened criminals.

The solution seems to lie in educating parents to provide a better home environment, in waking up the community to its neglect of young boys and girls, and in providing something similar to Father Flanagan's Boys Town for the rehabilitation of those who have become too old or too chronic to be reached by other methods.

It is interesting to note that Father Flanagan puts delinquents into seven classifications— theft, truancy from school, running away from home, vandalism, sex offenses, ungovernability and homicide. He told of how parental and community neglect drives boys into delinquency. To prevent this they must be provided with the right kind of recreation and training. We must take more interest in our boys and girls and provide better opportunities for them.

buying here in Fulton.

But you not only directly benefit yourself by saving yourself money, when you buy all that you can here at home, you also indirectly benefit yourself by helping the community, thus lightening your own share of community responsibility and taxation.

Part of every dollar you spend in Fulton stays here to help you in one way or another. Part of every dollar you spend outside goes to help the people of that community. Don't be fooled. It is the part of enlightened self interest to buy at home.

MURDER BY MOTOR CAR

Murder by motor car is on the decline, according to the National Safety Council. Traffic accident fatalities for the past nine months have registered a steady decline. This decline has taken place in the face of a slight increase in mileage figures.

All of which seems to indicate that the speed crazed mass of 40,000,000 drivers, known as the motoring public, is slowly awakening to a new found responsibility—safe driving. Possibly the average driver is discovering that the modern high speed automobile can be a vehicle of horrible death as well as of comfort and convenience. If so, a great stride is being made toward the day when once again the family car can be trundled out for a week-end holiday with reasonable assurance that all will return intact.

Sooner or later the motoring public will have to get the fact through its head that the present slaughter on highways is criminal—needless. As was recently pointed out by the New York Times, "it will have to learn that murder by motor car—although it may not lead to the chair—is still murder and that it is the part of good morals, good sportsmanship and good citizenship to drive and walk safely."

It is to be regretted that the above statistics do not apply to the Dixie highway, where "murder by motor car" is not on decline, but is increasing.

Capitol Comments

By DAVID M. PORTER

September was the first of this fiscal year's three completed months to bring in more receipts than the estimated budget called for, according to Frank D. Peterson, Director of Accounts and Control.

Receipts for September for the general fund were $1,506,105.66, which was $38,720.62 more than estimated in the budget. For the first three months of the fiscal year the receipts were $4,622,408.60 or $797,363.16 less than planned for in the budget.

The state road fund's receipts for the fiscal period April 1-September 30 were listed at $8,608,996.26, which was $66,204.36, or .8 per cent, under the estimate.

Alcohol taxes and licenses, which provide revenue for the general fund, showed a budget deficiency of $944,134.31 for the fiscal year.

All other revenue groups combined, the report said, exceeded the budget estimate by $146,771.15.

Property and inheritance taxes (except franchise corporations) exceeded the estimate for the quarter by $466,629.23; county and court fees by $7,668.41; and "miscellaneous revenue" by $427.49.

Deficits for the quarter, for other than alcohol taxes and licenses, were accumulated as follows: income and special corporation taxes, $5,944.48; excise taxes (other than alcohol), $243,561.78; licenses and license taxes (other than alcohol), $2,701.06; departmental fees, sales and rentals, $3,746.71.

For September, property and inheritance taxes brought in $525,749.60 against an estimate of $223,040 to rank as the biggest "excess" producers, while alcohol taxes and licenses gathered $320,476.57 against an estimate of $504,750 to rank as Treasurer Buckingham's report of the distribution of each balance among the various funds showed:

General, $288,938.61; check collection, 71,721.56; motor, $1,429,148.90; highway ridge bond, $7,688.65; highway bridge sinking fund, $826,325.11; county road trust fund, $218,079.18; state road, $992,268.39; old age pension, $235,381.75; unemployment compensation, $65,451.03; construction, $1,045,915.24.

In addition, there was a $216,401.86 cash balance in the federal aid fund for highways.

The decline in revenue was due to the business recession and the large quantity of whiskey on hand in warehouses caused a decline in taxes from that source of production tax.

It is the honest, industrious, and well-disposed who have the greatest reason to be afraid of it, for they are the most acutely conscious of their helplessness. ## When the Sweet Magnolia Bloomed

By IRVIN S. COBB

ACCOMPANIED by a small, skinny black child, a large colored woman entered a railroad station in a North Carolina town. She deposited the offspring on a bench by the stove and approached the ticket window.

"Mista," she stated, "I'd please, sub, lak to have a ticket fur Magnolia."

"Magnolia?" repeated the puzzled agent, who couldn't remember any station of that name on the entire system.

"Yas, sub, that's whut I sez—Magnolia."

"On this line?"

"Hem," said the baffled railroader. "I'll have to look it up." He consulted a timetable without results. Then he took down a tariff file where all stops were recorded alphabetically and ran his finger and his eye through the list of M's. Still he didn't find that for which he sought.

"Say," he demanded in desperation, "where in thunder is Magnolia, anyhow?"

"Magnolia!" exclaimed the patron. She pointed across the room to where her small daughter sat. "Why, Mista, dar she sets right yonder!"

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs.

What you may need is a particularly good women's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and thus help calm your shaking nerves, give more energy and make life worth living again.

More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's Compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling third" trying time like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? IT MUST BE GOOD!

AIRVIEW OF NEW YORK FAIR AS IT IS TODAY

A New York World's Fair 1939 flying cameraman took this aerial photograph of the Perisphere and Trylon at the Theme Center of the Fair just as the final rivet was being driven in the 200-foot sphere. In the foreground is the New York City Building, now serving as the Summer City Hall, while behind the Perisphere may be seen Constitution Mall, extending to the Lagoon of Nations and the Federal group of buildings on the far side of the grounds.

BRADY BROS. GARAGE

Other subjects of wide import will be taken up at the meeting. One of the most significant will be a discussion on "The American Farmer and the International Situation" by Dr. Chris L. Christenson of the University of Wisconsin. What about markets for American goods? Can we sell to foreign countries without also buying from them? How would a war affect the situation? These questions may be dealt with by this Wisconsin educator.

Few problems have received more attention recently than that of producer-consumer relations. How much can and should consumers pay for a given product? Can they pay high prices very long unless wages and salaries receive a proportionate boost? What is a fair return for the producers? What part does speculation play in raising prices to the ultimate consumer? Murray D. Lincoln, of the Ohio Farm Bureau, is to take up the whole problem of "Producer-Consumer Relations" at a dinner at the closing session.

Dr. William J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, will be on an evening program to consider "Programs for Rural Improvement in Appalachia." On the same program will be President Frank L. McVey of the University of Kentucky, who will report on "Rural Statesmanship in the South."

The national picture as to people of low-income farms will receive the attention of Louis H. Bean of the United States Department of Agriculture. Practical programs for improvement will be presented by Dr. B. L. Hammel of Virginia. A panel discussion on the subject will be led by Dr. Carl C. Taylor, noted sociologist and author within that field who is on the United States Department of Agriculture staff.

The convention will be held in the Memorial Building at the University of Kentucky, and will be attended by hundreds of Kentucky farm men and women, and agricultural leaders, sociologists, religious workers, educators and other persons interested in rural life.

Farm Program Year Closes October 31

Kentucky farmers cooperating in the agricultural conservation program are reminded by O. M. Farrington of Lexington, state executive director of the Agricultural Conservation Administration, that they still have time to earn full payment for achieving the soil-building goals for their farms. October 31 is the closing date for carrying out soil-building practices under the 1939 program.

While it may be too late to sow grasses and legumes, it is pointed out that provision for improving non-crop open pasture land is included in the 1939 soil-building goals for farms. This allowance can be earned by applying limestone or superphosphate to pasture land prior to October 31.

Most Kentucky land needs lime and phosphate, and Farrington says that "farmers are passing up a great opportunity if they fail to take advantage of the conservation program whereby they in effect will be paid for carrying out soil-building practices which enterprising farmers long ago have found to be profitable."

UNCLE JIM SAYS

Cut cull trees for fuel so as to save well formed ones for lumber. The farm woodland is a source of timber, fuel, posts and poles, and encourages bird and animal life.

Soil students estimate that 75 million acres of land now being cropped in the United States should be taken out of cultivation.

Give the old hens a final culling, disposing of those that were not able to maintain good production throughout the summer months.

Young pullets reaching maturity should not need much culling, but market those that are smaller than the others and those that come into production last.

Fall is the best season for building terraces. They can be secer to winter cover crops and strengthened and improved following winter rains.

Lespedeza stubble should have small grain seeded on it to prevent erosion, provide winter and early spring pasture, and furnish a grain crop next year.

Farming to be most profitable must be continued for two or three generations. Moral: Keep the boy on the farm and help him to become a better farmer than you are.

In 1787 it took 19 persons living on farms to produce enough for themselves and one person in town. Today 19 persons on farms can produce enough for themselves and for 66 persons in town.

Two heads are better than one—where farm problems are under consideration.

The Agricultural Conservation program is administered by real dirt farmer committeemen in more than 25,000 communities.

Before cold weather arrives strawberry beds on land that heaves or blows away should be mulched heavily with straw, pine needles or coarse manure.

Many clover and alfalfa failures attributed to dry weather, unfavorable seasons, and the like, are really due to insufficient lime and phosphate in the land.

Farm family records show that most rural families subscribe to a daily paper, weekly paper and an agricultural magazine or paper, and at least one other magazine.

The city man envies the farmer because he can produce his living, yet home accounts show the average cash expenditure in Tennessee homes amounted to $493 in 1937.

All land seeded this fall or to be seeded next spring to legumes and grass should be limed as soon as possible and the phosphate requirement applied at or before the time of seeding.

Eleven bushels of corn alone are required to produce 100 pounds of pork. Six bushels of corn and 50 pounds of a mixture of equal parts of tankage and cottonseed meal will do the same thing.

Large farm surpluses of such crops as wheat, corn and cotton sometimes actually create scarcity conditions in the city by lowering farm prices so much that the farmer is unable to buy city-made goods.

Unusual Event Being Staged At Fulton, Oct. 30

What promises to be one of the most unusual and antique events of the sport season will be held at the Fulton Fair Grounds on Sunday, October 30 at 2:00 p. m., when the Young Business Men's Club of Fulton will stage the first event of its kind in Kentucky, The Old Car Derby, a 50-mile novelty auto race of old automobiles that were built between 1900 and 1926. Cars 12 years old and older will compete.

All cars must be strictly stock cars of the year they were built.

Pits will be built at the Fair Grounds where all cars entered will be checked over by the technical committee before the race will be run. Fifteen cars is the limit of the number of cars that can run in one race.

The cars will be lined up three abreast and five rows. They will be led by a pacemaker who will cover one lap to warm the motors up. If more than enough cars are entered for one race, then two races will be run.

The price of admission is only 10c and at such a low admission price every one should avail themselves of this opportunity to see these old gas buggies by attending this unusual event.

There will be a $100.00 Purse for the 50-mile speed classic divided as follows: $50 for first; $25 for second; $15 for third; $10 for fourth.

"Wildlife Week" October 23 To 29

The week beginning October 23 has been set aside as "Wildlife Week" in Kentucky by Governor A. B. Chandler.

In his statement, Governor Chandler said:

"Interested in the preservation of our wild life and knowing of its value to the welfare and pleasure of our people, I am glad to cooperate with the League of Kentucky Sportsmen in calling the attention of our people to 'Conservation of Wildlife Week,' beginning October 23.

"I believe that all sportsmen and interested citizens in the Commonwealth will want to observe this week. An educational program has been planned to impress school children with the importance of conserving and increasing our national supply of fish and game."

The Division of Game and Fish, in cooperation with Governor Chandler and the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, has had 10,000 placards printed. These placards have pictures on them of the Raccoon, Deer, Squirrel, Dove, Quail, Rabbit, Opossum, Wild Turkey, Red Fox, Cardinal, Large Mouth Black Bass and the Mallard Duck. The Division has also printed a pamphlet which contains a description of these animals and of the fishing and hunting conditions in Kentucky and what conservation will mean to wildlife in the future.

These placards and pamphlets will be distributed to all schools in the state for educational purposes during "Wildlife Week."

NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW HONORS DESCENDANT OF FAMOUS KENTUCKY COW

A new world's record Jersey that descended directly from a Kentucky cow was the subject of special honors at the recent National Dairy Show in Columbus, Ohio. The new champion, which produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat in 305 days, traces back directly six generations to Dollie's Valentine, a cow that produced 579 pounds of butterfat in a year at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in 1899. That was the first world's record production for a Jersey cow.

In 1911, J. M. Dickson & Son of Oregon came to Kentucky in search of a good sire, and purchased a grandson of the famous Kentucky cow. Taken back to the western state, this sire produced 26 daughters that averaged 664 pounds of butterfat.

With this Kentucky blood as a foundation, improvement went forward, until the present champion nearly doubled the record of Dollie's Valentine. The champion cow is owned by an Oregon breeder, and was brought to Columbus especially for exhibition purposes.

Business Outlook Is Encouraging

For the past week the business outlook generally continued encouraging, though the improvement was not uniform, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. Employment, construction, wholesale trade, and basic industrial lines displayed definite signs of progress. Some manufacturing lines, however, were weak, and retail trade, adversely affected in many sections by unseasonably warm weather, failed to respond in any marked degree to the general improvement. It was pointed out, however, that retail trade is now being compared with last year's comparatively high levels, while at the same time, wholesale and manufacturing business was already experiencing a decided reaction. Despite these facts, practically all cities reported increases in retail trade over the previous week, and several registered advances over last year's comparative.

Louisville reported that leading department stores reported sales about 5 per cent ahead of previous week. Retail trade generally continued off about 10 per cent from last year. Wholesale furniture sales showed some improvement, but were about 10 to 15 per cent below last year. Industrial activity advanced slightly, but remained 15 to 20 per cent year ago.

Kentucky employment services reported placements, 529, decrease of 11.8 per cent from preceding week. Placements for September, 2,205, increase of 23.2 per cent over August.

Louisville bank clearings decreased 7.8 per cent from last year. Quality of much of the tobacco crop promises to be far ahead of normal. Investigation proved tobacco crops in many counties not injured by wildfire, but in Logan County, Ky., loss probably will exceed 60 per cent.

Bonds For Municipal Plant To Be Voted On

The question of whether the city shall float $110,000 bonds for a municipal light plant in Fulton will be decided by the vote of the people at the polls on November 8th. There are two distinct groups on the issue, one side favoring bonds looking toward the establishment of T. V. A. service, and the other opposed to further bond issues incurring greater indebtedness on the part of the city.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientists, throughout the world on Sunday, October 23.

This includes Christian Science Society, Fulton, Ky., which holds regular services Sunday at 11:00 A. M., and Testimonial Meeting Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Reading Room at 211 Carr Street open Wednesday and Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and to visit the Reading Room where The Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

Among the citations is the following from the Bible: "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death." (Rev. 2:11.)

"We mount to heaven mostly on the ruins of our cherished schemes finding our failures were successes."—A. B. Alcott.

It is as hard for the good to suspect evil as it is for the bad to suspect good.

COUNTY AGENT

By J. B. WILLIAMS

A. A. A. Election of committeemen to be held in all districts in the county during the last week of October.

The election of community committeemen has been scheduled for District 1 at Fulton, Tuesday, October 25 at 7 p.m.

District 2—Cayce, Wednesday, October 26th at 7 p.m.

District 3—Hills and bottoms, Hickman court house on Thursday, October 27th at 7 p.m.

District 4—Sassafras Ridge, October 28th at 7 p.m.

Since the committeemen are selected by the farmers who are participating in the program, every farmer should go to the community election and assist in selecting the committeemen for that district. Every farmer that has cooperated with the program is eligible to vote so let's all go vote.

Hybrid Corn

After gathering an equal acreage of Kentucky 69 hybrid corn and Neal's Paymaster on the farm of J. A. Whipple's farm at Sassafras Ridge. The hybrid corn gave an increase of 9 bushels per acre or 72 bushels more corn from a bushel of seed than did the Neal's Paymaster. If the corn had been sold for 40c per bushel this would have returned the owner $28.80 more per bushel of seed than would the Neal's Paymaster. After deducting $6.00 which is the cost of the seed $22.80 is left, which makes a nice profit for a $6.00 investment.

Corn Loan For 1938

The loan value that will be placed on this year's corn cannot be determined until after the November crop estimate has been made. However there are certain requirements that have been made and these are that the crib must be separate from the barn where livestock are housed and must not be over 8 feet wide. The crib should be made of slats in order the corn will get free circulation of air. The crib should be constructed so that all doors and windows can be closed and sealed.

A crib 8 feet wide, 32 feet long and 10 feet high will hold 1,000 bushels of shucked corn. Two cribs can be built facing each other with a hall way between that makes a good storage space for farm machinery.

One Variety Cotton Meeting Nov. 3

All cotton farmers should remember this date as J. E. Hite will hold a meeting at the court house at Hickman at 1:30 on that afternoon to explain the workings of an organized movement to improve the grade and staple of cotton in the county. The farmers west of Hickman should be particularly interested in this meeting and unless a large percentage of the farmers are interested the movement may not be worth while, so let's remember the date, November 3rd at 1:30 and fill the court house that afternoon.

Some of the larger cotton growers have already heard this explained and are very much interested.

LOOKING FORWARD MEETING OF CONGRESS

have been postponed for some time, it is moving up steadily. There are some dark spots in the picture, of course. One big one is the dilemma of the railroads—the upshot of the wage negotiations will to a large extent determine the immediate future of this industry. In some areas labor troubles remain an unsettling factor, and there are rumors of more strikes ahead. If these occur on a large scale, the entire outlook could be quickly changed for the worse.

In the meantime, retail trade is improving in most parts of the country, production is picking up in all lines of raw and manufactured goods, and construction is going forward. New life in construction, as a matter of fact, is one of the very best of the business omens.

Thrills Aplenty for Women At New York Fair, 1939

NEW YORK (Special).—The thrill capital for women next year will be the New York World's Fair. Designers, merchants, manufacturers, artists, governments—all "the authorities"—have seen to that.

And yet, uniquely enough, there will be no "woman's building" at the $150,000,000 exposition. Fair officials at the outset decided against such "segregation." Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair Corporation, said that "a woman's building at a modern-day exposition would not be in tune with the progress of woman-kind."

Now, in this last year of construction, it is already obvious that woman is going to have her due at the New York fair. Those fortunate enough to attend are going to know thrills that will live with them all ways. The following presents only a pot-shot at all there will be to interest and delight women in the 1216½ acres of fair grounds. It is one observer's idea of what to see where.

Some of the Wonders

House of Jewels—a $5,000,000 display, by gem mining concerns and leading jewelers, showing stones in the rough, precious gems in finest settings, famous gems and perfect examples of goldsmith's and silversmith's art.

Apparel and Accessories—in their own building along Petticoat Lane—a $750,000 exhibit of all dear to woman in her costume and in furs, hats, handbags and similar wearables or gadgets.

Cosmetics Building—showing just about everything ever done since the history of beauty aides and preparations began a few thousand years ago—with accent on the cosmetics and perfumes of today and a look at those of tomorrow. (They put thousands of dollars' worth in the cornerstone alone.)

Hall of Textiles—showing how they (worms to machines) make woven fabrics—hand looms, demonstrations of needle arts, discourses on home furnishing materials—silks and woolsens here, rayons in one wing, cottons in another, 69,094 square feet, to be exact, of allied exhibits.

Health and Science

Home Furnishings Building—"Heart of the Community Interests Zone," with its focal display showing the meaning of "Home" in present and future phases and how to create one of your own—all in exhibits that thrill.

Medicine and Public Health and Science and Education Building—a "famous first" exhibit showing the wonders to be accomplished by due attention to the "body beautiful"—a must attraction that'll not leave one with a dull moment.

Gas Industries Building—everything from a laboratory to an all-gas house, a cooking school and a gas flame 50 feet high—spectacular but looking to comfort at home.

Food Buildings 1, 2 and 3—putting romance into the age-old task of fixing a meal, by and with the world's knowledge and products.

Horticultural Exhibit—acres of gardens, flowers and equipment (with a chance for a cup of tea).

Thrills in a Lifetime

Theme Centre—thrill of a lifetime from a ride on the "Magic Carpet" through the 200-foot globe and the World of Tomorrow.

Contemporary Arts Building—World's Fair Theatre (music and drama)—Consumer Building—an "Hospitality Centre," first of its kind, for feminine get-togethers—spectacles on the island stage of New York State's Amphitheatre on Fountain Lake—products and kitchens of the world in two score foreign-built pavilions—the Hall of Nations, the Court of State Buildings, the $3,000,000 Federal Exhibit—buildings of industries and the City of New York—nightly spectacles of water-fire-color—and-sound—289 acres of amusements—and, withal, a setting of courts and garden with an ample supply of shaded benches.

Refreshment to go on and on may be had in any one of some 80 restaurants, affording a total of 43,200 seats, and serving the meals of almost every known nation. And—perhaps most thoughtful provision of all—the youngsters can be parked in the Children's World where they'll be happy and well-cared for.

IN PRAISE OF THE COW

Our modern farm management may have degraded the horse from its former position, but it has given additional honor to the cow. Milk has come to be one of the necessities of our time, in city as well as in country. Cows have had some place in poetry and other literature, but they deserve some more attention for the part they have played in building up our civilization.

I will leave to others the cow on the dairy farm, where old Bossy is made to fit into a scheme of specialized farming; I want to talk about the cow on the farm, where all sorts of occupations have sway. From the earliest settled abodes of man the cow has been a valued animal, contributing to the life and happiness of every civilized man, woman and child. In any part of America the sure sign of permanence was the arrival of the cow; then there would be a continuous supply of food, a care for the cow and her calves, a building up of a livestock industry that behooved permanence of life and food supply.

Some one might collect the names of cows in Kentucky. Each one would reveal some traditional or neighborhood way of doing things, some bias that shows racial origin or cultural background. Cows, like the old family name, soon are called "old," regardless of their age. After a few years they seem to have been a part of the farm life since time immemorial. Successive calves often bore the names of their mothers, long before there was any effort to establish proper ancestry for cows as well as for people.

When the uncultivated areas were still unfenced, it was a great sight to see the cows of a whole neighborhood wandering in their unlimited pasture. Only recently I had to slow down my car in some mountain counties to keep from hitting some cows on the range. To keep up with Bossy, we put a bell on her, a practice that may still be observed, even when the cow runs on the owner's pasture. The notes of the various bells have been celebrated over and over, but not too much for me. I cannot help regretting somehow that I seldom see cows roving around in elder times.

Milking time had its unpleasant features, especially in fly time and also in severe winter. But in fly time we could build smudge fires of chips and help allay some of the agony of old Bossy while Big Sister or Mother milked her. Then there was the calf to rope off, a job that Dr. Ganssels, president of a great art institute, once declared was not only the essence of poetry but also the very making of a boy. He even went so far as to say that every boy needed the thrill of roping off a calf and that it ought to be made possible for every boy to do so. That may be going a little too far, but it was great sport anyway.

The cow as a domestic institution is here to stay for a long time, let us hope, even though as the years pass, it may be more and more common for the cow to be concentrated on a few acres rather than a part of every home. But the poetic cows were those that were almost a part of the household, like the cow in Murn's "Cotter's Saturday Night" which was chewing her cud beyond the partition separating the kitchen and her stall.

Mills Point First Permanent Settlement

The first permanent settlement in Fulton county was made at Hickman, then called Mills' Point, in 1819, by Mr. Mills. Between the time of the settlement of Mills' Point, 1819 and 1820, quite a number of families located in various parts of the county. In 1824, the following families were settled: Robert and Samuel McKinney lived on the Bayou de Chien, about twelve miles from Hickman; A. M. Rush lived on Rush Creek, named after him, between Hickman and Moscow. In the vicinity of Cayce lived John Menese, Ben Menese, Hugh Sparkman, and a man named Drummond.

One night, the last three called at the house of William Bailey with the view of plundering him. He endeavored to have them depart, as did also his wife. Failing in his purpose, he shot with a rifle and sent a ball through the body of Ben Menese, killing him. Bailey gave himself up to the nearest magistrate, Dempsey White, father of Rev. Willis White, who was then a new resident of the county. No conviction followed, Bailey having acted in self-defense. White ordered the arrest of the gang. Sparkman was afterward sent to the penitentiary.

In about 1824, Duncan Campbell, Martin Oliver, Jerry Mitchell, William Bynum, the father of Rev. Finley Bynum, and others, settled in the neighborhood of Cayce. David Browder was also one of the pioneers of the county. In 1825, Bill Conley came to the county and entered 320 acres of land at $1 per acre. With him was Mary J. Conley, later known as Aunt Polly Hoffman, who has lived in the county continuously ever since, practicing midwifery. Her first case was Mrs. James Alexander. It is said that she was present at over 2,300 births.

Of those living in the county when Aunt Polly came to Fulton county, 1825, were Bluford and Wilford Gore. In 1827 Isaac Barnett, came here from Trigg county, and Andrew Shuck from Henry county, Ky. Other old settlers were: Simon Ramey, Robert Tyler, Mr. Maddox, Billy Morris, Samuel Lamar, Billy Lamar, Mr. Weston, Samuel Hodges, Cornelius Grider, Henry A. Bush.

Game was exceedingly abundant, embracing bears, deer, wolves, panthers, foxes, raccoons, and squirrels. Panthers and black wolves killed hogs, thus compelling the closest guard of these animals. One day, in 1826, a colored woman, named Tilda Dooms, was down at a branch washing when she was attacked by a huge panther. Her screams attracted the attention of her husband, who came to her rescue with a large knife in his hand. He finally rescued his wife, but in the contest with the fierce animal received on his breast wounds which he bore to the day of his death.

Billy Morris, in 1825, taught the first school about a mile from Matson's Switch. He was a poor man, and his wife, to help establish a home, dug the well at their house, which stood where Luther Maddox later lived. John Pryne was the next to teach, near the old Sylvan Shade Seminary in what was known as Simmon's school house. Other teachers were Willis White, George Fair, Finley Bynum, Mr. Singletary.

JESS JORDAN'S GRAND-FATHER EARLY SETTLER

Thomas G. Jordan, grandfather of Jess Jordan, well-known mechanic of this city, was one of the early settlers of this section. He was born April 19, 1830, in Hickman county, and his father, William S. Jordan, was born in Anderson county, Ky., in 1799; removed in 1826 to Hickman county where at different times for many years he served as constable, magistrate, sheriff and county judge, and died in 1876. He was the son of George Jordan of Culpeper county, Va., who was seven years a soldier in the Revolution.

Thomas G. Jordan was married January 3, 1856, to Miss Mary Byars, daughter of Rev. John and Melinda Byars of Hickman county and to them were born John S. Jordan, father of Jess Jordan of Fulton; Lena M., Annie A., Virgil N., Mary T., Frank X., and William P. Jordan.

Thomas Jordan was a farmer, owning 220 acres of productive land in Hickman county. He was a Mason a Methodist and a Democrat.

SCHOOL NEWS

FULTON HIGH

By JANE ALLEY
Friday, October 21, marks the end of the first six week term of this school year. During this period of time interest along many lines has been shown. Scholastically, the student body has shown interest in its local chapter of the National Honorary Beta Club. This body held its first official meeting October 14. Only Junior and Seniors are eligible to this club. Several new members are expected to attend the next meeting.

The Glee Club and the regular Thursday morning singing continue to stimulate interest in music. The Fulton School Band presented a program to the students last Thursday. This is one organization to be commended for its splendid improvement over last year.

The Bulldog's last two encounters have given the students renewed interest in sports. They fought the Metropolis Trojans to a 6-5 tie. This week's game will find them in Evansville, Ind., where they will play the mighty team of Reitz Memorial. These Bulldogs need the moral support of every sports fan in Fulton.

The Freshmen girls are introducing a sport of their own. They are preparing the High School basement so that they might play volleyball. The Junior High School girls have already made arrangements for playing this game.

The interest in dramatics is being revived early this year. Plans for producing a play during the month of November are progressing. This play will be given for the benefit of the fund for the cyclorama which is now in use at the Science Hall.

Social interest will be supplied by members of the P. T. A. who are sponsoring a tea on October 25. A splendid program is being prepared for this occasion.
