Bulldogs Show Big Improvement At Martin

The Fulton Bulldogs showed plenty of power in their game against Martin High in a game played on the University of Tennessee gridiron last Friday afternoon, when they won by a score of 33 to 7. After a series of line bucks, end runs, passes, Thomas plunged over from the two yard line for the first touchdown. As the quarter ended, the score was Fulton 6, Martin 0.

Fred Vowell, on the first play of the second quarter, started for Martin, when he ran 69 yards for a touchdown without a threat of checking him by a Fulton player.

Then Fulton started a power drive which built up the Bulldog score to 33 to 6. In Fulton's line-up were: Buckingham, le; Hill, rt; Armbruster, lg; Crawford, c; Moss, rg; Brady, rt; Williamson, re; Thomas, qb; Laine, hb; White, hb; Burton, fb.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day, as we know it, is a distinctively American institution, although festivals of similar importance may be traced back hundreds of years. The Hebrew Feast of the Tabernacles, the Greek Thesmophoria, the Roman Cerealia and the English Harvest Home all appear to have had something in common with our national holiday.

Immediately after the first harvest of the Pilgrims in 1621 Thanksgiving was first observed in America. Similar observances were instituted by other colonies—by Massachusetts in 1630, by Connecticut in 1639, and by New Netherlands in 1644. During the Revolution several Thanksgiving Days were appointed by Continental Congress.

President George Washington designated November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer," and in 1795 he made a similar designation. President Madison appointed a day of thanksgiving at the close of the war of 1812. Various states observed the day irregularly during succeeding years, but it was not until 1864 that the day became a fixed annual event.

In that year President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November as a day of national Thanksgiving by official proclamation, and the example thus set has been followed by all succeeding Presidents.

Washington's original Thanksgiving proclamation is observed in the Library of Congress. The precious document was lost for more than 100 years, until it was discovered among some Washington manuscripts being auctioned in New York in 1921, when it was purchased for $300 and restored it to the government archives.

Decorative Ideas For Thanksgiving

With Thanksgiving just around the corner it is not too soon to be thinking of decorations for the Thanksgiving table so that each small detail may be just right.

Planning the table can be lots of fun if one takes time to shop around for unusual favors and to work out a distinctive color scheme. This year the shops are filled with all sorts of amusing and colorful favors, bonbon cups, place markers and pieces.

There are demure and delightful little Priscillas and John Aldens for use as bonbon holders and all sorts of brilliantly colored crepe paper vegetables and fruits that make effective decorations and also serve as poppers holding caps to add to the gaiety of the Thanksgiving party. The Thanksgiving turkey is also seen in a variety of new guises for bonbon cups, place markers and candle holders.

One of the most effective ways of arranging a Thanksgiving table that will bring "oh's" and "ah's" of admiration from your friends is to make use of the plate glass mirror mats which the shops are featuring this season. These mats may be had in a variety of shapes and colors and thus provide opportunity for unusual color themes. Those in sapphire blue, emerald green and peach color plate glass are particularly lovely and blend beautifully with the rich hues of fall flowers and fruits.

A beautiful table arrangement could be worked out by using place mats of blue glass with a central arrangement of bright hued crepe paper vegetables spilling from a horn of plenty fashioned of white cellophane. The vegetables, in reality poppers containing caps, could be awarded as favors after dinner. Candle holders of white cellophane with red tapers would be effective with such a table.

PENNY-WISE—POUND FOOLISH

There is an old English saying. The pound is the unit of English money, worth about five dollars in our money. It means, of course, that we often try so hard to save the pennies that we waste the pounds.

It applies very aptly to buying at home. For the sake of a few pennies, that we think we can save, we often go outside to buy the things we want and need, only to find at the end of the year that we have actually spent more and could have saved money by buying here.

We never stop to figure the cost of buying away from home. We never stop to figure the cost to the community, which in the long run comes back on us. A careful record will show that in most cases we can get what we want here, just as good and just as cheap, if we really try to do so and actually save ourselves money.

Than part of every dollar spent at home stays at home to help pay our taxes, support our churches and organizations, give employment to local people, develop our community, all of which reacts to our own good and our own profit. But dollars spent outside only go to help other people in other communities and are forever lost to us.

It is certainly penny wise and pound foolish to think that we can benefit ourselves by buying outside. It is the part of enlightened self interest to make every effort to buy everything possible here in Fulton. It brings us dividends in more ways than one, whether we know it or not. And over a period of time it will save us money.

STRENGTH WITH LIGHTNESS

Ever since man emerged from the stone age into the era of metals, the primary aim of the metal worker has been to achieve strength with lightness. In medieval times the artisan who could produce the lightest coat of mail or suit of armor was sought out and honored above all others. In the present day with the technique of structural metals advanced far beyond the dreams of even the last generation, the quest is still the same—strength with lightness. The airplane could not fly as high or as far or even as safely if new metals had not been developed to give these qualities.

To the engineer who must design for adequate strength with minimum weight, the new Magalloy series of magnesium alloys comes like the answer to a prayer. Weighing only two-thirds as much as aluminum and only one-third as much as steel, the new material is nevertheless amply strong for many structural parts. It is making a tremendous success in the airplane and highway transportation fields. On one recent sleeper bus the use of this type of alloy saved a weight of four tons or the equivalent of 40 passengers and their baggage. What this huge saving in dead weight means in the reduction of cost over a period of years is almost impossible to calculate.

Nevertheless it is very evident that the development of these wonder metals is a great boon to humanity because of the elimination of the wasted energy required to haul dead, useless tonnage over the highways. A saving on roads, a saving on fuels, tires and lubricants cannot help but be reflected in reduced transportation costs.

AMERICA VS. ISMS

This government doesn't like the dictator nations. And the dictator nations don't like us. That is the logical deduction from the President's recent anti-fascist speech, coupled with the State Department's blunt warning to Japan to respect American rights in China under the traditional "open door" theory. Newspapers in Rome and Berlin and Tokyo promptly branded us as war-makers, and denounced our great rearmament program.

This government is gravely concerned with recent developments. Japan, at the beginning of her Asiatic adventure, solemnly pledged maintenance of the open door policy. Apparently she had her fingers crossed. For that policy has been widely violated in fact—and so far as theory goes, a recent Nipponese announcement said, in effect, that Japan intends to dominate China, and that other interested powers can like it or lump it.

Still more important, possibly, from the long-term standpoint, is something on which this column has commented before—the Nazi-fascist ambition to extend its influence in South America. It is reported that this government plans to establish a large radio station in the Canal Zone, from which to broadcast pro-American programs in an attempt to counteract the continuous pro-Nazi programs that are broadcast from powerful short wave stations in Germany. A major strengthening of Canal Zone defenses will in all probability be started soon. If ever we are attacked, military experts are coming to believe it will be from South America—where it would be a relatively simple matter for an ambitious foreign power to establish air, army and naval bases.

EFFECTS OF TOBACCO

Almost anything can be proved by statistics and examples. This appears to be particularly true with respect to the effects of tobacco, long a subject of spirited argument.

So far as physical consequences go, its effects seem to depend largely upon the individual. Many who lived to an extreme old age were users of the weed, while others were not. Leading physicians and scientists report that little influence is exerted upon the intellectual powers by the use of tobacco. Many literary men believe that smoking is a stimulant to their creative impulses.

Among the outstanding figures of the past may be the following smokers: Washington, Bismark, Kitchener, Spurgeon, Huxley, Keats, Browning, Carlyle, Dickens, Stevenson, Howells, Grant and Mark Twain, the last two being inordinate users of tobacco.

Among the non-smokers were Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Greeley, Wellington, Tolstol, Ruskin, Haackel, Whittier and others.

An interesting trend of the tobacco habit in the last few years is shown by the increasing and almost universal popularity of the cigarette. In spite of strenuous attempts to discourage its use, more than 150 billion are manufactured in the United States annually.

While tobacco is no doubt injurious to the young, its detrimental effects, physically or otherwise, upon mature persons have been perhaps greatly exaggerated.

TVA PROGRAM OPPOSED

At a meeting of representatives of coal miners, railroad workers, coal operators, school authorities and public officials recently held in Birmingham, Ala., opposition to certain phases of the Tennessee Valley Authority's program was expressed.

It was stated that the furnishing of subsidized government hydroelectric power is reducing the demand for coal, causing unemployment among miners and railroad men; that much money is being lost to the schools because of exemption of the TVA from taxes which private industries must pay, and that the power program of the TVA constitutes unfair competition with private business.

Besides, it was pointed out that the flooding of land has removed large areas from taxation, and destroyed their value for farming purposes. It was therefore urged that efforts be made to cause the TVA to pay taxes the same as private business enterprises must do. There may be no legal way to do this, but in the interest of fairness it ought to be done.

The TVA has proved to be a costly experiment of doubtful value, even to the states in which it operates.

A YOUNG-OLD PIANIST

This month marks an anniversary of one of the world's most interesting musicians, Moritz Rosenthal, the pianist, who made his American debut 50 years ago, and is still making regular concert tours at the age of 75.

Rosenthal is a native of Lemberg, Poland, and was famous in Europe before coming to America, having made his debut in Vienna at the age of 10. He was court pianist to the king of Rumania when only 15 years old, and later served the emperor of Austria in the same capacity. He has played before most of the rulers of Europe, and they have been his personal friends.

A short, stocky man, he is possessed prodigious physical strength, in spite of his age, and can still tear a pack of cards in two or break a horseshoe with his hands, and can lift a 500-pound weight. He is an expert boxer, an adept in the art of Jiu-jitsu, and is especially fond of chess.

Beauty and folly are often companions.

AMERICA stands firm in a world that threatens to resolve itself into the flame and explosion of war. We have much to be thankful for. Let us, on this Day of Thanksgiving, re-affirm our truly American belief in Peace and the way of Peace. Let us count our blessings, and so counting, cement them into a concrete example to the world that man can progress and live happily without strife, and suffering and war.

THANKSGIVING!

THANKSGIVING is a truly AMERICAN HOLIDAY. No other country on the face of the globe has anything like it. No other country devotes a day a year to an idea as purely ethical and spiritual as our national Turkey Day. True, many countries and many religions do have a day set aside to celebrate the harvest of the crops. None, however, spend that day in a mood of national thankfulness. Rather, it is spent in an air of triumph at having completed another year's work. We, here in the United States, have a lot to be thankful for, but nothing exceeds the gratitude we ought to have for a land which can yearly celebrate in reverent mood, an abstract idea. Let others be exalted at military victories. We are keyed to more human, to finer things.

THANKSGIVING

Again the harvest season reaches a close, and again comes America's day of Thanksgiving.

Into some hearts rain may have fallen since last this national holiday was celebrated, but despite this there also must have come some sunshine since last this national holiday was celebrated but despite this nation in general now offers up a prayer of thanks and a plea for another year fraught with such blessings as a kindly Providence has seen fit to bestow in the year now nearing its close.

Blessed by crops more bountiful than in normal years; unhampered by shattered peace or warfare with any sister nation; heartened by steady steps toward normal industrial and financial conditions America has much cause for thankfulness at this time. To those who enjoy the greatest of all blessings—good health—there is the greatest reason for returning thanks on this great national holiday. To those who have suffered, or across whose path the dark clouds of adversity have fallen during the year, there still is left the blessing of hope for brighter days ahead. In fact, in a county numbering its blessings as generously as this one, there should be no heart without cause for thankfulness.

With the past, and whatever regrets it holds behind us; with the confidence and hope growing future steadily growing brighter stronger, this community joins with the balance of the nation in offering up its prayers on this Thanksgiving Day. Each prayer will be in the same spirit of hopefulness which has made American great, and each prayer will be from a heart that is thankful for the privilege of being permitted to share in her greatness.

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER

We thank Thee, Oh Universal God, for what we love and lose.

We thank Thee for all we have that makes us free.

We thank Thee for all that is noblest and best in our lives and for the gentleness which wills the world its good.

We thank Thee, for the lights which beckon and elude us in the march of time.

We thank Thee that the ebb tide of the days has carried out of sea some things that made us less than men and left us with some things that make us more like gods.

We thank Thee for our ships that never come.

We thank Thee for the never-ending hopes that out beyond the line where the blue of the sea is mingled with the blue of the sky, our treasure craft is real.

We thank Thee for the will to do our work in life because it is right to do it, and for the strength to give the world our best no matter what the world may give or fail to give us in return.

We thank Thee for our belief that judgment by results is wrong, and for the faith which leads us to a higher judgment that is right.

We thank Thee that love alone can stand against the storm and we pray that we may come to know the priceless worth of life, and the little worth of other things.

We pray that every day may come to be a day of Thanksgiving, not for grain garnered or for jewels we have wrestled from Thy earth, but for the longings we have had to be better than our best, and for our will to do no wrong.

We thank Thee for the noble time when man is to be more precious to man than gold, or nations or flags, and when the tragedy of war has ceased to rob Earth's mothers of the children they love so dearly and so well.

We pray that we may know the real from the unreal and may learn how few are the things needed in the pilgrimage of life on this, Thy earth, where man has come to measure worth by gold and what is best is lost in struggling for results, according to the judgment of the world, in which we ever seek and lose the gem called Life.

We thank Thee for the gift of song and the spirit of prayer, and for our faith which makes us feel that somewhere Thou dost hear our call.

HUNTING DONT'S

Here are some timely and sensible don'ts for Fulton hunters who may be inclined to grow careless with firearms along about this time of year—learn them by heart or paste them in your hat:

Don't pull a gun carelessly through a fence or from an auto. Remove the shells before crawling through a fence. Don't use your gun to club game from the brush. Don't carry it cocked—it's always closer to you than it is to the game. Never point a weapon at anyone in fun. Don't walk ahead of an inexperienced hunter—let him go first. Don't leave a gun where children can reach it; all weapons are popguns to them. Don't leave a loaded gun in the house; bears are not coming into the living room this year. Never allow your gun muzzle to jog with mud or snow.

Hunting accidents caused 2,099 deaths in 1936. If everyone obeys the above rules closely there won't be any around here in 1938.

LINDBERGH TO MOVE TO GERMANY

We have always admired Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. We sympathized with him when his little son was kidnapped and after anxious days found dead. We could not blame him much for moving to England after that bitter experience. But now that he is planning to move to Germany, as is indicated by a dispatch from Berlin, we can but question his judgment.

TURKISH RULER DEAD

Mustapha Kemal Atatürk, father of the new Turkish republic founded after the World War, died a few days ago at the age of 58, after a life of strenuous activity. While his title was that of president, he was really a dictator, and under his rule Turkey was transformed from an oriental empire into a modern state.

Under President Kemal, old customs which prevailed under the sultans have been almost entirely discarded, the emancipation of women being one of the features of his regime. Mohammedanism is no longer recognized as the state religion, and freedom of religion is guaranteed.

Polyamy and slavery have been abolished, and civil marriages made obligatory, with the power of divorce in the hands of the President. Incidentally, Kemal divorced himself by decree several years ago.

All Turks were ordered to take family names as an aid to keeping police registers, army registers and tax rolls. Kemal's last name, Atatürk, conferred by the national assembly, means simply "chief Turk".

Kemal was an indefatigable worker, and also a prodigious consumer of liquor and cigarettes. But whatever his faults, he accomplished much for the advancement of his people. One evidence of his statesmanship is seen in the fact that for 12 years Turkey has had a balanced budget.

GOING THE LIMIT

(Hickory, N. C., Record)

That Herr Hitler is "going the limit" in his expulsion of Jews from Germany and the confiscation of all property owned by the Hebrew race throughout the Nazi-ruled domain, is becoming more evident.

It seems clear that the slaying in Paris last week of a German diplomat by a crazed Jewish youth, has been seized upon as an excuse for stirring the Nazi zealots into a frenzy thus providing opportunity for confiscation of the Jewish-owned property. This needs a desperate need for more public funds.

In addition to the four hundred dollar fine to be exacted from all German Jews, a special bill of up to sixty thousand dollars each has been levied on a hundred of Berlin's wealthiest Jews. All Jewish boys and girls have been expelled from schools and colleges, Jews have been barred from places of amusement, and no person of the race may engage in business.

To show how the controlled press of Berlin is cooperating with the Nazi leaders in fomenting of this racial hatred and so; the same time building up prejudices against the United States, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's newspaper Volkischer Beobachter Sunday pictured Uncle Sam as weeping over the plight of Jews in Germany.

A cartoon showed a smiling brown-shirt Nazi storm trooper patting weeping Uncle Sam and saying, "Don't cry, Uncle Sam, you can have them, all of them!"

The cartoon was captioned: "Solace for a Jew Friend."

America has no other alternative than to prepare herself against what may happen if such a spirit of hatred and aggression should spread.

"He enjoys much who is thankful for little; a grateful mind is both a great and a happy mind."—Seeker

"He who receives a benefit should never forget it; he who bestows should never remember it."—Charron.

"Patience is power, with time and patience the mulberry leaf becomes silk."—Chinese Proverb.

Many families would be in for better financial condition if it were not for the extravagant habits of their neighbors.

England and U. S. Trade Pact Hits Germany

man products, or if you can find a buyer for your credit, well and good. But otherwise you can't get real money.

Today Germany, as this column has pointed out before, is looking more and more to South America. Conquest of the Sudetenland has greatly increased German industrial production, and she must find markets. Furthermore, she is often able and willing to make far better barter deals than we can make in cash deals. In central Europe Germany has already taken a large part of the great market which once was largely monopolized by the English. She is threatening to do the same thing to us in the Western hemisphere.

What will come of this growing conflict—and make no mistake about its seriousness—cannot yet be forecast. Perhaps we will change our foreign policies somewhat in order to successfully meet German competition. And perhaps still more possible, is the chance that Hitler will take the initiative in resuming trade relations with this country—the last trade agreement we had with Germany was canceled by Hitler in 1934, and we have done relatively little business with her since. As Business Week also says, there are three big reasons why Hitler might desire this: (1) Germany needs American buyers to absorb some of the products of the Sudeten; (2) Germany also needs us to absorb some of the produce of her own internal industries; (3) When the Anglo-U. S. trade agreement does go into effect, this will destroy a valuable export market for Germany, unless adjustments can be made.

This drama is well worth watching—it is the sort of thing that determines world property or world depression, as well as peace and war. Whatever happens, it is a colorful and novel chapter in the long history of international commerce.

He is rich that is satisfied.
Truth individualizes, love unites.

ITCHING

If there are any fastidious readers of this column, they had better not read today's column. As I am a man, I was once a boy. The natural state of a boy is itching. Just as Huckleberry Finn found himself itching in eleven places when he was trying to lie still and make no noise.
Mothers or other polite people have long ago thrown the weight of their influence against itching and its corollary, scratching; but they have have not stopped the source of the trouble. Until they do, the very repulsive habit of scratching will continue, under cover most of the time but publicly if necessary.

Every season has its own particular itching. In winter we once had a tough time of it with our jeans pants and home-knit yarn stockings.
At night when we pulled off our stockings, it was necessary to claw a bit for relief that was not always possible in the day. In the spring and summer nature helps out this itching. Ticks, chiggers, gnats, mosquitoes, and such like vermin seem to have been created just to add zest to scratching. Rather oddly, one is not ashamed to scratch his itchy places when he is on a fashionable camp or picnic; in fact, it is a mark of having a good time to collect enough bumps to warrant some scratching and some mercuriolate or mercurochrome. Blackberry-picking time seems to have been foreordained as the time to collect chiggers and seed ticks. Had it not been for fried-meat grease, some of us might have been devoured bodily by vermin when we used to pick berries. Driving home the cows was a good occupation to follow if one wished to get his share of chiggers. I did not know it then, but these same chig-gers had probably multiplied on the cows and had been rubbed off on the weeds. My bare legs and feet formed a fine landing place for them.

Somehow nothing itches so much or warrants so much scratching as nettles, either the ordinary horse nettles of sour soils or others that grow in deep woods. As a boy I often ran into a patch of the latter ones and had welts as big as nickels all over my bare legs. One time I feared that my running into nettles was a species of special punishment: some of the bad boys after Sunday School decided to go in a-washing in the creek; I knew that I might get crosswise with parental authority if I did; I tagged along to watch the other boys and ran into some stinging nettles. I cannot recall now whether my legs or my conscience hurt most.

And here is the most unfastidious part of my subject, the disease called itch, or, in the vernacular, "eetch".
Plenty of fine people, with the proper amount of illustrious ancestry, have been through a seige of itch. In the very hard winter of 1917-18, when water pipes were frozen in many houses of the town and cities, itch broke out in some of the best circles. It very forcibly reminded us that it is only a step backwards to the time when sanitary conditions were so primitive that such diseases were common.

Talking about such a subject has psychological effects. If you have read thus far, you can stop while I look in all directions to see whether the coast is clear and use my finger nails for purposes that they have never forgotten.

Capitol Comments

By David Porter

When the Governor discharged Commissioner of Welfare, Frederick A. Wallis, it was no surprise to the readers of this column. We had intimated this as far back as last April. It had its beginning four years ago when Chandler, Wallis and Rhea were running for governor. Mr. Wallis then called Chandler a singing, dancing boy and attacked Da Talbot. In the run off primary, Wallis was the balance of power, and by throwing his voting strength to Chandler, brought about his election.

Chandler was elected Governor and appointed Wallis Commissioner of Welfare. Dan Talbot, Chandler's political advisor, who handles the patronage, wanted to name the appointments in Wallis' department. Mr. Wallis objected and there was much bitterness between them. On one occasion Wallis claimed an insolent employee was discharged from a state institution for marked inefficiency. He told the Superintendent who discharged him he was going to Frankfort and see Mr. Talbot and would be back to work the next day. He reported the next day and told the Superintendent he was still on the payroll.

Many incidents of similar nature occurred to widen the breach between Wallis and Talbot. The situation came to a head when Chandler intimated he would oppose Barkley for the Senate Seat. Mr.
Wallis is one of the best campaign money raisers in the country. Both sides sought his services as finance chairman for the race. Wallis, in the meantime, had worked out a plan for rehabilitation and reform in the state institutions and wanted a special session of the legislature to enact laws permitting these reforms.
The Chandler-Wallis legislation is now history, but it might not have been if Wallis, at a breakfast at the Governor's mansion, had he not told the Governor if he did not announce to the press and issue a call for the special session to enact this legislation, that he, Wallis, was going to call Louisville and accept the place as finance chairman for the Barkeley's primary campaign. The Governor issued the call for the special session and a short time later Wallis fed the multitude in Louisville at a luncheon honoring Governor Chandler. The race was run and Chandler was defeated, but the Chandler-Wallis Welfare bill had been passed and was effective. Wallis started letting politicians go and replacing them with men who were not as qualified politically but much better professionally.

Then came the Vallandigham incident, fired by Wallis, reinstated by the Governor, but not by Wallis, who would not certify his reinsta-tatement. The Governor then requested Wallis' resignation on Saturday and when it was not forthcoming, discharged him.

This has an immediate bearing on the next governor's race. Wallis, who has a loyal following, and can swing a great many votes in any race he runs, is sure to run for governor. He can take enough votes away from the Chandler faction to allow a united Barkley, Logan, Brennan party candidate to win.
This may happen.

TIMELY TOPICS

Utah girls may be different but classic features and athletic prowess do not particularly appeal to co-eds of Weber College, who listed the ten qualities they consider most desirable in men in the following order: Sincerity, intelligence, good manners, sense of humor, ambition, tact, generosity, ability to dance, athletic ability, and last of all, good looks. Believe it or not.

This gem appeared in a leading New York daily: "One night Davy took the wildest to bed with him. Quite unintentionally he smothered it to death. Even then the little animal did not scratch his master." The point being, we assume, to show that a wildcat is not necessarily wild, even after death.

Henry Lorenz, 25, of Lisle, Ill., is a volunteer fireman and likes it. Caught placing old newspapers suspiciously in a garage, he confessed setting four recent fires, because, he said, "I like to hear our new electric siren go off."

After his pockets had been picked three times, Robert Glennon of Chicago fastened fish-hooks in his pocket and caught the thief.

in a pie, believing that this would cure the measles.

Melcher Roob of Cleveland still weaves rugs on a loom purchased 48 years ago for $7.
