THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day, as we know it, is a distinctly American institution, although festivals of similar importance may be traced back two centuries. The Hecovean Feast of the Tabernacles, the Greek Thesmophoria, the Roman Saturnalia and the English Harvest Home all appear to have had something in common with our national holiday.

Immediately after the first harvest of the Pilgrims in 1621 Thanksgiving was first observed in America. Similar observances were instituted by other colonies. By Massachusetts in 1630, by Connecticut in 1641, and by New Netherland in 1684. During the Revolution several Thanksgiving Days were appointed by Continental Congresses.

President George Washington designated November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer", and in 1789 he made a similar designation. President Madison appointed a day of thanksgiving at the close of the year of 1814, when the state of war had lasted for two years. Two annual thanksgivings were observed in 1815, the close of the war of 1812.

Washington’s original Thanksgiving proclamation is recorded in the Library of Congress. The precious document was lost for more than 100 years, until it was discovered among some Washington manuscripts being bought in New York in 1938, when it was purchased for $3,000 and restored to the United States government.

The following annual custom of the Maryland Church during the War of 1812 was noted by a writer. "During the thanksgiving services, while a program of patriotic music was being sung, a group of soldiers, with the officers of the church, went into the sanctuary, followed by a second group of soldiers, with the clergy. The services were then conducted by the officers."

The custom continued during succeeding years, but it was not until 1835 that the day became a formal annual event.

In that year President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November as a day of national Thanksgiving by official proclamation, and the example thus set has been followed by all succeeding Presidents.

TVA PROGRAM OFFERED

At a meeting of representatives of many reform workers, school authorities and public officials recently held in the Congress House of the Southern Valley, TVA's program was expressed.

It was stated that the furnishing of advanced previsionary transitory power is reducing the demands for home, earning establishments. For this purpose, a transitory power is employed for many years. This means that much money is being laid in the future, because in the present TVA from those private in- dustries must pay part of the TVA cost. A TVA can reduces the cost of the small industries.

Besides it was pointed out that the feeling of bad health is so large among the workers, and des- troyed their work, any efforts to make the TVA power for the present tvA cost the price of the whole

This month marks an anniversary of one of the world’s most interesting events, the opening of the Panama Canal. We are now celebrating the 100th anniversary of the opening of the Panama Canal, which was dedicated by President McKinley on November 16, 1913.

It is a time of rejoicing, and a time of thanksgiving. We give thanks for the blessings that have come to us through the Panama Canal.

THE PANAMA CANAL

The Panama Canal was built by the United States in 1913. It is a marvel of engineering and a tribute to human ingenuity.

It is a symbol of the power of human will and the determination of man to overcome obstacles.

The Panama Canal is a wonder of the world. It is a monument to courage and perseverance.

The Panama Canal is a source of pride to all Americans. It is a tribute to the spirit of progress and the determination of man to improve his lot.

The Panama Canal is a source of joy and inspiration to all who hear its story.

The Panama Canal is a symbol of the American spirit. It is a reminder that nothing is impossible.

The Panama Canal is a source of hope for the future.

THANKSGIVING!

THANKSGIVING is a truly AMERICAN HOLIDAY. No other country in the face of the globe has anything like it. No other country decides a day a year to an idea as purely moral and spiritual as our national Turkey Day. True, many countries and many religions do have a day set aside to celebrate the harvest of the crops. None, however, spend that day in a mood of national thankfulness. Rather, it is spent in an air of triumph at having completed another year’s work. We, here in the United States, have a lot to be thankful for, but nothing exceeds the gratitude we ought to have for a land which our yearly celebrate in a reverent mood, an abstract idea. Let others be exalted at military victories. We are keyed to more human, to finer things.

This Region Called Jackson Purchase

Jackson's Purchase: The Purchase and the Purchase Region are terms used to designate the area composed of both sides of what is now the state line between Tennessee and Kentucky. The term originated in the Revolutionary War when England and Spain declared war on the United States. Spain ceded the area to England in 1763 and it was purchased by the United States in 1783. The Purchase was the land that the United States acquired from the Cherokees in 1795. It was bounded on the north by the Tennessee River and the Mason-Dixon Line, on the east by the Appalachian Mountains, and on the west by the Mississippi River.

The Purchase region is a large area of land that was once part of the state of Tennessee. It is now divided between the states of Tennessee and Kentucky. The region is named for Andrew Jackson, who was a significant figure in the area's history. The Purchase was the site of several major battles during the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. It was also the site of the Battle of New Orleans, which is remembered as a significant victory for the United States.

The Purchase region is known for its rich history and cultural heritage. It is home to several national parks and monuments, including the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site and the Lincoln Boyhood National Monument. The area is also known for its beautiful scenery and outdoor recreation opportunities. It is a popular destination for tourists and is home to several cities and towns, including Nashville, Tennessee, and Paducah, Kentucky.

This region is also known for its agricultural and industrial resources. It is a major center for tobacco, cotton, and other crops, and it is home to several factories and manufacturing facilities. The region is important to the local economy and is a significant contributor to the state's overall economy.

The Purchase region is a unique and fascinating area, and it is well worth a visit for anyone interested in history, culture, or outdoor recreation. Whether you are interested in learning more about the area's rich history or simply enjoying the beautiful scenery, the Purchase region is sure to offer something for everyone.
