SECOND WEEK OF CARNIVAL BRINGS ON A VERY WARM FRONT.

It seems that a good light is on regarding the carnival continuing through the week. The weather seemed to indicate that this might be the case. The carnival is scheduled to begin next week, so the enthusiasm of the participants is not in doubt. The weather is expected to remain warm and sunny throughout the week, providing ideal conditions for the festivities.

The carnival is known for its vibrant atmosphere and colorful parades, and the warm weather will no doubt add to the enjoyment of the attendees. The organizers are planning a variety of activities, including music, food, and games, to keep the crowd entertained.

The carnival is an important event for the community, bringing together families and friends for a day of fun and celebration. The warm weather will make it an even more enjoyable experience, with people able to spend more time outside.

The second week of the carnival is particularly exciting, as the festivities build up to the grand finale. The organizers are sure to have a range of events planned, including a grand parade and a fireworks display, to bring the carnival to a spectacular conclusion.

In conclusion, the second week of the carnival promises to be a joyful and memorable event for everyone involved. The warm weather will only add to the atmosphere, making it an unforgettable experience. The organizers are working hard to ensure that the carnival is a success, and we can all look forward to a fantastic day of fun and celebration.

Superintendent Beck

Senator Beck was in attendance at the meeting in London where he attended the international association, which was in session. The meetings were held in the auditorium of that city, and the superintendents reports were attended by several thousand people every day. President R. C. Copen of the association, brought the long sessions down from New York, with many speeches from the floor.

One of the most important parts of the meeting was the discussion of the proposition that the Brower building, were necessary for the city.

KENTUCKY COUPLE MARRIED AFTER MUCH HARDSHIP

Cleaverston, Ky., May 9.—Having figured in one of the most exciting love stories you ever heard about, the marriage of Miss Martha Leitha Marshall, of Fordsville, and Mr. Herbert J. Martin, of Menominee, W. Mich., was measured at midnight at the Board of Education's parlor.

It was arranged that the couple should meet at Irvington and there be married. That morning Mr. Martin came to the train at Menominee and the couple had only just begun to chat when they were interrupted by the death of a man lying in the road.

The train had left only a few minutes before the two and Mr. Martin and another had therefore to proceed. They had rain coats and rain gear but they assumed they had best return and catch the train. They did not believe the man was dead, and so the three entered the next morning for Menominee but thing is now dead, and the distressed Mr. Martin told Miss Marshall to be ready to go back at the right time.
