Winter Poultry Show For Fulton

(By J. T. Watkins)

Fulton is to be as much up-to-date as any other city in the State. In other words, we are to have a winter show. The State Agriculture department wants us to put on a good winter show during the latter part of January. They agree to furnish us a judge to place the awards, also send a corps of lecturers down here to give us a series of lectures on all phases of poultry raising. This will be a great thing for the poultry raisers in this community. They will be able to show their birds when they are at their best, and have them judged by a state judge. The lectures will be of untold worth to the breeders if they will come and hear them. We are working on a premium list now that will pay you to read carefully and then put your birds in the show. To pay the cost of the show and the premiums we will have to charge an entrance fee on all birds, and this added to what the merchants will donate to us will cover all expenses. The show will be free as far as entrance at the door and all lectures will be free to all who care to listen. The show will be limited to the five counties that comprise the way interfere with the fall show to be held during the fair, but we think it will really be a stimulus to that show.

Mr. McPherson, the county agent, will be the main guy behind the guns, and is trying to locate a suitable house up in town in which to hold the show.

Politics sometimes play thunder with things, and it has done so in Illinois recently. My friend, Pat Smith, who has been state poultry husbandman under Governor Small for the last six years, was ousted last week and a man appointed in his place who was a hard worker for Mr. Emmerson during the last campaign. Pat has always been a Democrat but he knew his chickens and when a vacancy occurred in the office under Gov. Small, he stepped outside the ranks of the Republican party and appointed a man who was accepted by all as the best posted man in the state, but Pat made the mistake of working for the man who gave him his bread and butter, and when the smoke of battle cleared up Pat was slated for the pink slip, so last week he got it. While I am a Republican, I sure hated to see Pat get fired. I wrote Gov. Emmerson a letter asking that Pat be retained, but nothing doing. So I say again, politics has played thunder in Illinois.

The windows and stores are beginning to take on a real Christmas appearance and the question will be asked hundreds of times, "What can I get for the kids, something that will do them some good and at the same time furnish them answer that question right here. Get them a pen of standard bred poultry of the breed with a lot of pleasure? I can answer that question right here. Get them a pen of standard bred poultry of the breed they are partial to, and let it be a pen they can put in the shows and bring home the ribbons. That is a present that will do them and the whole family a lot of good, and when the boy can show several blue and purple ribbons, he has won at the shows, it certainly is a lot of real honest to goodness pleasure. I have got the first ribbon I ever won on chickens, and I'm as pleased to show it as the last one.

Remember our two slogans, 100 standard bred hens on every farm, and make Fulton county the best poultry county in the State. Remember, and get busy and help put it over, we can do it, if you will do your part. I'll certainly do mine.

High School Notes

Rev. C. H. Warren, pastor of the Baptist Church, gave an interesting address in chapel Monday. Mr. Warren discussed the geography of the United States, and brought out many interesting and worthwhile features regarding this very interesting subject.

Mr. W. H. Collins, the representative of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, visited the schools Monday in the interest of the orphan children. Each pupil was asked to donate either a small sum of money, a can of fruit, or some article of food, to be used for the support of the children in the home. This is a worthy project and no doubt the students will contribute liberally.

The Rev. Bradshaw, pastor of the Mizpeth Presbyterian Church, of Paducah, was a visitor at the high school last week.

The faculty play has been postponed until March. "Intimate Strangers," by Booth Tarkington, has been selected for presentation this year.

Joseph Williams, of last year's class, who attained considerable distinction as an actor, while in high school, appeared on the Kansas City stage in "The Tailor-Made Man," with Grant Mitchell. His next appearance will be with Ian Keith in "The Command to Love."

The junior high school now has some splendid maps which add considerably to the efficiency of the geography department.

The Terry-Norman P. T. A. gave a very interesting program Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Sarah Catron Smith of the language department of the high school expects to complete her work at the University of the Sorbonne, in Paris, during the latter part of December. She will resume her work at the high school in January.

The following basket ball schedule will be played by the Fulton teams this year:

Hard to Get Started

Why Did Pugh Shoot Parks?

UNION CITY OFFICIALS WORKING ON PARKS' MURDER CASE

The shooting of Lexie Parks, retired banker and prominent citizen of Union City, Tenn., on November 30, resulting in his death several days later is taxing the minds of Tennessee officials in their attempt to clear up the case with all around satisfaction since Mr. Parks' chauffeur, Jack Pugh, confessed to the shooting of his employed while out riding in his automobile.

The following special sent from Union City by Leroy Pope to the Commercial Appeal last Saturday, was as follows:

Investigation of the murder of Lexie Parks, invalid and retired capitalist, is to be started anew, Attorney General John Draine of Newbern, said tonight at his home.

"I am not satisfied with the confession of Jack Pugh, nor with the investigation so far," he told The Commercial Appeal.

"Pugh did not say with certainty that the shooting was an accident and he gave no plausible motive."

"I don't know but I'm not satisfied that he killed Mr. Parks."

"His drinking seems to me to have been exaggerated. He wasn't too drunk to drive an automobile, he wasn't too drunk to load the pistol and he wasn't too drunk to take Mr. Parks home and attempt to bathe the wounds; he wasn't too drunk to frame a story to protect himself."

"I will certainly start another investigation."

Wife Gets Estate

Mr. Draine has been busy with a law suit in Ripley most fair association and will in no of this week and said he had not yet had time to give the Parks case all the attention it deserves, he added. It became known today that the latest will of Mr. Parks leaves practically the entire estate to his wife. Several wills are said to have been made by the former banker, but if information from seemingly reliable sources is correct, the son and three daughters will not inherit anything directly.

The accident version of the case has not satisfied City Attorney E. H. Lannon, either, but he does not believe that whisky is at the bottom of the matter. Union City has been a bedlam of gossip and accusations since Mr. Parks was first shot last Saturday.

Pugh confessed killing Parks his invalid employer, retired capitalist, to "stop accusations being directed at innocent persons," he said today.

"Your confession hasn't satisfied the public, Jack," he was told this afternoon. The chauffeur attendant has declared that he had a mania "for shooting a pistol from the car window" when he was drunk. He also said he shot Mr. Parks accidentally last Saturday while he cannot remember all that so befuddled with liquor that happened.

"I had a good story and I you fellows began questioning meant to stick to it, but when me about relatives Wednesday night I thought you were going going out and arrest someone of them," he said. "I know what they think of me here now, but I'm man enough to take my own medicine. I did and there didn't another soul this thing because I was drunk in the world have a thing to do with it any way at all but me."

Pugh cleared up the question of why Mr. Parks didn't have on an overcoat when the tragedy took place. He said he had taken him home for just a few moments a short time before and they had decided to leave the overcoat there.

Pugh is back in Union City jail charged with first degree murder. Sheriff Jack Hibbs decided upon a first degree charge rather than second degree this morning. He also arrested Wallace Tipton, negro bootlegger, who sold Pugh and his brother three half pints of whisky last Saturday. Tipton will be held as a material witness.

"If he hadn't sold the boy that liquor, Lexie Parks would be alive today," the sheriff said. Sheriff Hibbs is satisfied with the work of Detective Jere R. Caldwell, whom he paid himself to solve the mystery. The formality of a second preliminary hearing for Pugh probably will be held Monday.

Parks' Counsel Talks

The persistent story that Mr. Parks himself said Pugh did not shoot him is responsible for most of the talk. It was learned today for the first time just what the invalid capitalist said. He answered questions mostly in monosyllables, and when racked by pain indicated that three different men shot him.

At times when he appeared more at ease he denied the names of the other two, but always answered "yes," when asked if Jack did it. When told that Pugh was in jail he mumbled, "damn the prosecution," and when detectives used the word "murder" they say he mumbled again, "It wasn't like that." At no time was he able to tell a story of what happened, the officers declared.

Mrs. Birdie Edwards Parks has not been told he was slain, knows her husband is dead, but she has been confined to her home across the street from where Mr. Parks died without knowing anything of the commotion in Union City. She suffered a paralytic stroke two months ago.

The daughter of the late Dr. T. D. Edwards, of Union City, who was one of the first southern physicians to gain national fame as an eye specialist, Mrs. Parks was a noted beauty as a girl and was devoted to her husband through his quarter century of suffering from a palsy that weakened him so that at times he appeared paralyzed. Mrs. Parks lost her brother, Harry Edwards, a year ago. One daughter, Mrs. Claude Botts, was admitted to the bar, an attainment unusual for a woman in this part of Tennessee.

Sam Holt Killed When Hit By Car

Mr. Sam Holt, 65, was killed Wednesday afternoon when run down by an automobile driven by James Watson, negro, of Chicago.

It is said that Mr. Holt was carrying a sack of coal and was walking across Union City-Fulton highway near the overhead bridge when hit by the Chrysler car driven by the negro. His arm and right leg was broken and his skull fractured besides being bruised over the body, causing almost instant death.

The car driven by Watson was the property of Will J. Davis of Chicago. The negro was en route to Florida driving the car for Mr. Davis who was making the trip via the Illinois Central System.

After the killing Watson reported the accident to officials and was placed in jail to await his preliminary hearing. We understand his wife and Mr. Davis' cook was in the car making the trip with him.

Mr. Holt came to Fulton 3 or 4 years ago from near Duketown and for awhile lived in the Cammender building on Plain Street but at the time of his death was living on State street in Tennessee near the overhead bridge.

We understand his daughter, Mrs. Ed Cotton, resides near Duketown, Tenn.

Basketball practice for both boys and girls is now on at the new gymnasium. Plans are being made for a big season. With one of the finest gymnasiums in the state at our disposal, the period from now until the middle of March should be full of interest for those who love the hoop sport.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway visited the Fulton schools last week. Mr. Holloway is connected with the state department of education and had just finished the residential requirements for the degree doctor of philosophy, from Chicago University.

Prof. William Craig, of the Bowling Green State Teachers College, gave an address at chapel, Monday morning. Prof. Craig is an excellent speaker and his address was enjoyed very much.

The majority of our faculty were present at the meeting of the First District Educational Association at Murray, November 29 and 30. An interesting program is reported.

The Junior high school classes in gymnasium work are moving along nicely under the direction of the student coaches.

Grade cards, for the second term, will be given out on Friday of this week.

The Fulton-Union City football game of Thanksgiving closed what may well be called an interesting and worthwhile season. Eight games were played with following teams: Dresden, Paducah, Murray Training School, Murray High School, Madisonville, Martin, Mayfield and Union City.

Demand these 2 features in the Parlor Furnace You Buy!

Here is one style Charter Oak Parlor Furnace. It will fill the whole house with warm, moist air, burning any grade of hard or soft coal or wood. Comes in beautiful Walnut Finish, the steel parts grained to imitate wood, and the cast parts built. Equipped with night check latch.

1. Coal Saver

2. Heat Deflectors

Here are the latest improvements that now give you more heat with less coal. An actual saving of half a ton or more every year is made with the new Charter Oak Parlor Furnaces.

Automatic Heat Control

The Coal Saver, included as standard equipment on every Charter Oak, not only makes a remarkable saving in coal but it gives automatic, uniform, heat control. It opens a check draft when the flue gases pass rapidly and closes it when the stove cools down. This checking and quickening is continuous and so well regulated that you cannot feel changes in the temperature of the room. Nothing to wind, nothing to get out of order. The Coal Saver will work automatically for years without attention.

Keep Your Floors Warm

The floor around the ordinary heater is cold and drafty, but the Charter Oak heats the floor with heat that the ordinary furnace wastes. The patented heat deflectors send out an abundance of excess heat to keep the floor warm and prevent drafts which are the cause of so much sickness.

For the health and comfort of your family, insist on getting a Charter Oak. These features don't cost you any more. They are on every Charter Oak, no matter what the size or how little the cost.

MEDAL TO OPERATOR 11,000 MILES AWAY

Malcolm P. Hanson, With Byrd
Near South Pole, Hears
Tribute.

One of the most striking methods of making an award of merit ever devised was the recent presentation of the Veteran Wireless Operators Association medal in a speech by David Sarnoff in New York to Malcolm P. Hanson, radio operator with Byrd, listening by radio in the Antarctic wastes near the South Pole.

Mr. Sarnoff, Executive Vice-President of the Radio Corporation, praising Hanson, mentioned also the part of the wife of the operator, who had consented that her husband go on the hazardous expedition for the sake of science. After she had received the medal for safe keeping, Mrs. Hanson, deeply touched, spoke to her husband across the vast distance. Within a few minutes Hanson's reply came by radio telegraph through the receiving station of R. C. A. Communications, Inc., at Riverhead, Long Island. In addition to thousands at the Radio World's Fair, where the presentation was made, an uncounted throng heard the tribute over the network of the National Broadcasting Company.

"It is my privilege," Mr. Sarnoff said, "to pay tribute tonight to a man who has made an unusual contribution to science and civilization. Although he is 11,000 miles distant from this glass-enclosed room in Madison Square Garden, where I now stand, he is nevertheless able, through the instrumentality of Radio, to listen to the sound of my voice. That fact alone is worthy of commemoration, even in this day of extraordinary progress in science."

Malcolm P. Hanson, as Chief Radio Operator of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, you have been awarded the annual medal of the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association, for the most distinguished contribution, by a radio operator, in 1928, to wireless communication. As a member of that association, with some knowledge of its romantic traditions and standards of service, I feel that the award is well earned and well deserved."

Mr. Sarnoff related how Hanson planted his slender steel towers on the edge of the great ice barrier, cheered his comrades with news from home and gave the world for the first time a thrilling daily account of a polar expedition. Those things alone would have been a contribution to history, he said, but Hanson added to radio knowledge by testing signals against the polar sky, observed the phenomena of the Aurora Australis and made a record of radio behavior under conditions hitherto unknown. To Mrs. Hanson, Mr. Sarnoff said:

"Your sacrifice was all the greater because soon after your husband sailed for the Antarctic, you bore him a child. No medal can ever reward or repay you for your own courage and heroism."

RADIO TELEGRAPH EXPANDS SERVICE

Recent additions to the radio telegraph service from the United States are of special interest now as indications that America is striving to hold her own in a radio telegraph leadership, which is made more difficult to maintain by the British merger of radio telegraph and cables. The announcement that R. C. A. Communications, Inc., will begin work at once to establish an inland telegraph network in fourteen strategic cities in the United States, with plans for 29 inland stations, as wave lengths are granted, also has added to the country-wide attention to this modern means of communication.

Within the last few weeks three new direct international circuits have been announced by W. A. Winterbottom, Vice-President in charge of Communications of R. C. A. Communications, Inc., to Spain, Syria and Costa Rica.

Several reductions of rates for radio telegraph service also have been announced recently by Mr. Winterbottom. It was the composition of radio telegraph which forced a reduction of cable rates by which users have saved $60,000,000 in the last eight years.

An Adventure by Night

By DUFORD JENNE

SUMNER let his car slide swiftly through the summer night homeward. It had been a tame day and even tamer evening, and it promised to be a tame night. He watched his headlights sweep the darkness aside in front of him. He was wondering if—

Suddenly his foot shot to the brake pedal, and he sat up with the night anything but tame in front of him. He had seen a girl stagger from the darkness into the bright field of his headlights' glow. She stood there, swaying in front of him. Thoroughly alert, he swung from his seat to the road, noting as he did so that she was in evening dress.

"Please take me away—take me away!" she cried in gasps.

He felt her round arm trembling as he led her to the car. He tucked her in, then turned to her. Her oval, girlish face was white.

"And now where to?" he asked quietly.

"Anywhere—just away," she answered breathlessly. Her old fear evidently sweeping her.

The big roadster hummed and was off.

A car came up. He felt her slid against him, making herself, as a child might wish, as small as possible. The car passed, but she remained close to him. Her nearness brought him a new sensation. He suddenly realized that it would not be so bad after all to have some one like her riding many a mile with him.

They swept around a curve. Ahead of them two lights went on, making a clear spot in the road, and in the light coming from the side of the road, where motorcycles were parked, stood two state troopers—plain enough in their uniforms; and one raised his hand.

"Oh! don't let them take me!" she cried, and began to tremble again.

He put one hand over her small cold one. "Just leave it to me, little stranger," he said softly.

He rolled into the glow of the lights. The tall officer stepped up, and looked at them.

"Who is this young lady with you, sir?" came the sudden question.

It caught Sumner off guard. He caught at the first thought that went across his mind.

"My wife, of course," he answered promptly.

The officer glanced at his hand, still covering the small hand that was trembling under his. "Pardon me, but we're stopping everybody. Now if you will give me your name and address," he added.

Sumner did not quite like the idea—compliments might follow. But he gave his name, "Milton Sumner," and his address without hesitation.

"Your father, Mr. Sumner, the lawyer?" the officer asked.

"He is—and the same address?" Sumner answered.

The officer nodded and motioned them by.

Sumner let the car roll along at reasonable speed, then farther down the valley he fled away for miles. He came to the crossroads, hesitated, then saving the car northward along the river.

"But you're not going to the city," a small voice said at his shoulder.

"No," he answered. "You are safe. The night is lovely; and I am wondering what it is all about," he suggested.

"Besides, you have a wife on your hands," the meek voice said.

He caught a faint glimmer of amusement in the tone.

"It was a bit sudden, I admit. It's all been sudden, but if you prefer to go straight home, I'll take you."

"No. You have been good to me. I'll explain truly, but it—it's awful. You see, I am secretary in the Hill and Lambert office, and I'm now to the city—and I was a bit homesome. So when one of the men there asked me to go to the Wilton Inn—"

Sumner whistled. "A wild place," he said briefly.

"It was! I wanted to leave the moment I got there—but he had the car—so I stayed—and then, suddenly, the police came—a raid—I was so afraid! Then he said they would just take our names—that was the last—I thought of my name in the papers caught at such a place—and my mother and friends at home—Oh! it was terrible—then—the worst—a short dark man who had been arguing with a big officer near me shot him—I saw the officer's face!" She shrank back, and her voice was a whisper.

"Then everything went wild—and somehow I got out—and I saw your lights!"

"Don't worry any more. My father happens to be one of the well-known men of the city. Even if your friend is caught and gives your name, dad'll see that everything is taken care of. And now, I have a scheme! If you go to your boarding place in that torn dress, there will be questions perhaps. Let me take you home, and Mother Powell, dad's and my housekeeper, will fix you up; and then I'll take you home. How's that for a plot?" he asked, smiling.

"It sounds very nice to me," she said quietly.

"Then, besides, I can see you a little while longer unless you're—"

He was sure he saw a little color creep into her cheek. "I'm in no very—very great hurry," she said softly.

MAIL EARLY!

The approaching holiday season is heralded by the usual request of the postoffice department that the public do what it can to aid in the prompt handling of mail matter which will be increasing in volume each day from now until Christmas.

In sending gift packages, two things are important if disappointment is not to be invited—careful wrapping, and mailing as soon as possible. Holiday package mail may be marked to indicate it is not to be opened until Christmas, and this permission should result in an increase in early mailing.

It is a mistake for any person to feel that the small amount of mail which he sends does not delay the transmission of mails, but the aggregate of mail matter in a community like Fulton severely tests the facilities of the postoffice force at each holiday season.

Even if an individual does not take the broader view of making his contribution toward the handling of mail, he should think of the personal advantages in obtaining the best results in his own shipments by turning them over to the postal force early enough to avoid the inevitable rush of the holiday season, thereby having reasonable assurance of prompt delivery.

Work never hurts a man unless he keeps away from it.

The most serious mistake on earth is being too serious.

The height of ignorance is thinking you know everything.

IRENE MILLER WAS IN LOVE WITH MCCLAIN

In Friday's Memphis Commercial Appeal appeared a picture of Irene Miller, pretty 19-year-old girl, who said she was engaged to marry the late Herman McClain, formerly of near Fulton, who was shot and hacked to death with an ax by Mrs. Blanche Irene Hall.

The following story was published beneath the girl's picture:

"The state found its star witness in the Herman A. McClain murder case yesterday in the vivacious blond person of Irene Miller, 19, 319 North Claybrook, and in finding Miss Miller it believes that it has found the motive for Mrs. Blanche Irene Hall's terrible display of temper Thanksgiving night.

Since the discovery of McClain's mutilated body early Friday morning, jealousy had presented itself time and again to investigators but there appeared to be no one upon whom Mrs. Hall could fix as her alleged rival. Then, yesterday, Miss Miller was found serving up coffee and short orders in Wortham's Cafe on Union Avenue.

Admits She Loved Him.

"Sure," she said flippantly, "I was in love with Mac, and he was in love with me. Nobody knew it, I don't think, but we were secretly engaged to be married."

If anybody knew it, prosecutors believe, Mrs. Hall knew it and McClain told her all about his love affair sometime around midnight Thanksgiving night—a few hours before he was killed in his own bed in Mrs. Hall's home at 525 East Mallory Avenue, where he boarded. It was this intelligence, the state will argue to a jury, that goaded Mrs.

Hall to murder, and then prompted her to turn the pistol on herself.

"If Mrs. Hall says she wasn't just to friendly with Mac," declared Miss Miller, when interviewed in the office of Attorney General W. Tyler McLain, "she lied. He told me she loved him but that he was through with her and that he was going to move away immediately. And that was the night she killed him."

"That very night," Miss Miller continued, "he came by an address on Indiana Street, where I was visiting a friend, and we went riding all over the county. He got around in his car about 9 o'clock and took me back about 11 p. m."

Dovetails Husband's Story.

This "jibed" perfectly with the testimony of Marvin Hall, husband of the slayer, who said that it was shortly after 11 o'clock when he saw McClain drive up to the Hall house as he, Hall, was preparing to start to work.

"That woman threatened him, too," Miss Miller declared. "He told me that lots of times she had threatened to kill him, and he told me Thanksgiving night that she 'was as mad as a hornet' and that he had to leave me and go back to her."

"I got mad at that," said Miss Miller, archly, "and he put his arm around me. I took his arm down and moved away from him in the car. Then he told me that he didn't love Mrs. Hall and was going to leave her."

"I was mad and I didn't say anything, so he started driving fast down a country road. He looked around at me and I said: 'Is that the fastest you can go?' He didn't say anything but speeded up the car to about 50 miles per hour. And then I looked at him and said again: 'Is that as fast as she'll go?'"

"Well," observed Miss Miller, pausing for breath, "he grinned and said that that was all the car would do right then, and turned around and drove back to my friends house."

"What do you think ought to be done with Mrs. Hall?" she was asked.

"I think," said Miss Miller, "that she ought to be cut into pieces with a knife! She ought to be made to suffer horrible for what she did to Mac!"

Says McClain Was Drinking.

Miss Miller told General McLain that she had met Mrs. Hall and that Mrs. Hall's brother, "Beau" Hardin, had taken her there with McClain.

"Mac called Mrs. Hall 'sis,'" the witness said, "but if 'sis' knew he loved me, I don't know it. However, he might have told her that night as he had been drinking—a little. That night have made her mad enough to do what she did."

Asked why she had kept so quiet since the tragedy, she said: "I didn't want it in the papers, but we were seen all over town, anyway."

The girl is living on North Claybrook with her mother and sisters. She came originally from Fort Smith, Ark. She went to work for the Wortham Cafe in August this year.

"I came to Memphis in February, and I met Mac at a dance in the county a week after I was here. Did I cry when I heard he was dead? Oh, boy! You should have seen me."

Begged Him to Leave.

Miss Miller said that she had begged McClain to leave the Hall residence after he "got sweet" on her. All his friends, she said, had conspired with his family to try to make him leave.

"I met Mac's mother, Mrs. Jean Smoot of Fulton, Ky. Wednesday," she said, "No, I didn't tell her we were engaged. I just told her I knew him."

Attorney General McLain has little doubt but what Mrs. Hall will survive her self-inflicted wound, and he plans to try her as soon as she fully recovers.

Sheriff Knight says he will have her in the county jail before Christmas. Mrs. Hall still refuses to talk with deputies, and continues to quarrel with nurses. She has steadfastly denied that she had improper relations with McClain.

Among the County Agents

Vivian and George Muster won first and second places with their pigs at the Large County Fair and similar honors at the recent fat pig show at Bardstown. Their pigs weighed 270 pounds and 260 pounds when 184 days old.

Five of the leading farmers in Trigg county have joined the Christian-Todd Dairy Improvement Association.

The fact that Perry county's soybean crop average a ton and a half of hay to the acre has resulted in many farmers in that county planning to grow beans next year.

Jack Thorpe, a Graves county farmer, cut 40 tons of hay from 12 acres of Korean lespedeza sowed last spring. A big acreage of legumes and other hay and pasture crops will be sowed in the county next year.

53 Jessamine county 4-H club boys and girls who grew tobacco this year will apply their profits to the purchase of well-bred calves and pigs.

Six pure bred bulls were placed on Wayne county farms last month. A pure-bred sire survey is being made in the county.

The Consolidated Stone Company will give two tons of limestone to each Hardin county agricultural member growing an acre of alfalfa.

Billie McGeehee, 13 years old, grew the best acre of cotton in Fulton, his profit being $130.

The county agent has induced seven farmers in Brush Grove community in Washington county to apply limestone to alfalfa and small grain, the first limestone to be used in that community.

Home-made bread is the most satisfying, the best tasting, the most fragrant, the most nourishing and the most economical food in the world.

Every mother should make bread at home not only to please her family's palate and to save money but to give her youngsters a nutritious, wholesome food.

In addition to making yeast breads and rolls there are so many delicious quick breads that the housewife can quickly make. To make these quick breads, time, money and ingredients can be saved by using self-rising flour.

Gifts that bring Years of Joy

ELECTRIC appliances make most satisfactory Christmas gifts. Whatever article you buy—whether the price be $3 or $300—it will give years of practical service, constantly reminding the user of the thoughtfulness of the giver.

Our stores carry a wide variety of electric appliances, so that you will have no trouble choosing articles to suit your taste and your purse. Be assured that what you purchase will be fairly priced, of guaranteed quality, simple and economical in operation.

Electric cooking utensils make ideal gifts. We suggest toasters, percolators, waffle irons and table-stoves, in the low price range.

In winter nothing gives greater satisfaction in the home—especially where there are children, old folks or invalids—than an electric warming pad and a portable electric radiator.

The pad is ideal for heating a cold bed and warming cold feet, or for relieving rheumatic and neuralgic pains by direct application.

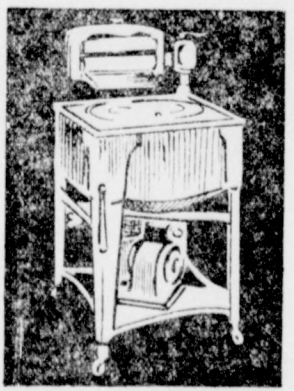

The radiator throws a hot ray, three to six feet in diameter, a distance of eight to twelve feet. It is not meant to heat a room, but will make a chilly bathroom cozy and is mighty nice to dress by in a cold bedroom these mornings.

Pad and radiator cost only a few dollars each, depending on size. A floor lamp or table lamp, with shade, makes a pleasing gift. We are showing a number of handsome designs, all moderately priced.

Have you considered an electrical gift for "the home"? In the higher price field, we suggest an electric range, or refrigerator, or washer, or ironing machine, or vacuum sweeper, or water-heater.

An electric iron or a carton containing a dozen or half-dozen lamp bulbs will be appreciated, too.

Prepare your gift list today. Buy now, while our line of merchandise is complete. Our store people will gladly help to make your holiday shopping pleasant.

Sunday School 'Lesson'

THE REV. J. H. FISHBURN, D.D., Minister of "Apostle, Moody Bible Institute" (C) 1923 Western Newspaper Union

Lesson for December 15
THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT IN INDUSTRY

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 24:14, 15; Matt. 20:1-16; Mark 12:1-9; Luke 2:14; Eph. 6:5-8, 1 Tim. 5:17-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—As ye would men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Kindness to Those Who Work for Us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Kindness to Those Who Work for Us.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Fair Play in the Day's Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Golden Rule in the Work of the World.

While some of these instructions were given to Israel, showing what God required of them, we should remember that He requires no less at our hand.

I. Treatment of Hired Servants (Deut. 24:14, 15).

Political and industrial power have been used through the centuries in the oppression of the poor and weak.

1. Oppression forbidden (v. 14).

The man who hires out is usually poor and needy. The employer should not take advantage of his poverty.

2. Foreigners to have the same treatment as fellow countrymen.

3. Wages to be promptly paid (v. 15).

The laborer was to be paid at the end of the day. The credit system in industry is greatly to be deplored. It places the purchaser at a disadvantage, and causes a bad psychological reaction upon his personality.

II. Fidelity to Contracts (Matt. 20:1-16).

In this parable it is clearly made known that there was agreement between employer and employee as to wages and time. Though those employed at a later hour received the same wage, there was no occasion for complaint by those first employed, for they received their wage according to agreement. Fidelity to agreement is essential in industry.

III. Unfaithful Tenancy (Mark 12:1-9).

In this parable a valuable vineyard was rented out to husbandmen. They not only refused to turn over the just returns to its owner, but shamefully treated his servants who were sent to collect rental. Those entrusted with possessions and power are under solemn obligation to make proper returns therefor.

IV. Contentment With Wages (Luke 3:14).

One of the chief difficulties in the industrial world today is discontent with wages. Oftentimes workers fail to take account of the conditions of business even to the extent of going on strike and make demands as to wages which the proprietor cannot meet. Contentment with wages does not mean that one should not be ambitious to prepare himself for a more efficient service and higher wages.

V. Reciprocal Duties of Servants and Masters (Eph. 6:5-9).

1. Servants are to be obedient to their masters (vv. 5-8).

This obedience should be (1) "with fear and trembling"; that is, the servant should have a proper regard for his master and an earnest desire to please him. (2) With singleness of heart. Servants should perform their tasks as though doing them for Christ's sake. (3) Not with eye service. Acceptable service should be honest, not merely to please the eye of the one who looks on, but as unto Christ. (4) With good will. This expresses the spirit of service. It should not primarily be for approval or pay. Christian servants will perform their duties with the same fidelity as they would unto Christ. (5) Rewarded by the Lord (v. 8). The Lord takes account of our service in the common rounds of life and will one day reward us accordingly.

2. Masters to be considerate (v. 9).

Just as servants are to give wholehearted consideration to their masters, so masters are to look out for the best interests of their servants.

(1) Masters should desist from threatenings. (2) They should be impartial in dealings with their servants.

VI. Responsibility of the Rich (1 Tim. 6:17-19).

Riches are possible to Christians but most perilous. God charges such:

1. Not to be high-minded; that is, to have a sense of superiority.

2. Not to trust in the uncertainty of riches.

3. Riches to be properly used.

(1) To do good. Not for selfish gratification, but for the welfare of others. (2) To be minister to good works. (3) The rich are under obligation to minister to the poor and the needy.

Intolerable Pride

I think half the troubles for which men go slouching in prayer to God are caused by their intolerable pride. Many of our curses are but a morbid way of looking at our privilege. We let our blessings get moldy and then call them curses.—Beecher.

Preparedness

He is to be pitied, indeed, who has seen better days ahead of him, yet has made no preparation for living them hence.

THE STORY OF GIFTS

The three Magi bore gifts to the manger where lay the infant, Jesus, and hence, more than for any of the other seasons that enter the Christmas season is a season of giving. Although gifts are never out of season, Christmas in the Christian world brings their particular season. Do many of us therefore ask what of gifts and giving? What story lies here?

Not even the legends, much less history, go back to the time when gifts had not entered into the life of this world. Evidently, at once after the idea of personal property dawned in the human mind, at once after men wrought the agreement among themselves enabling them to say, "This thing is mine," came the exercise of the privilege to give it away. So the legends are threaded with gifts and, as history carries on the human tale, the story of mankind is fairly saturated with accounts of things given and things received.

Princes and kings bore or sent gifts to one another. The munificence of ancient gifts is as fairy tale upon fairy tale. The Old Testament shows that interchange of gifts was customary among the early Israelites in all their walks of life. "Every man is a friend to him that giveth gifts," says Proverbs. A Rabbinical authority writes: "One did not come before God or a prophet or a king with empty hands." There were gifts as tribute, gifts at marriages, gifts between friends and gifts of subordinates to superiors "to smooth their faces." Yes, tainted gifts form a hateful and a long chapter in the story. Deuteronomy reports that gifts to judges were forbidden since they "blind the eyes of the wise."

The record is that giving is bound up with human origin and that the gift may be an evil thing or a sanctified and beautiful thing. Time, a lot of it, produced the Christmas ideal and its celebration, merging into the latter the practice of giving gifts. When expressing Christian charity and rejoicing, Christmas giving surely exemplifies giving at its best. If, as seems agreed, the gift is the measure of the giver, perhaps all the millions upon millions of gifts at this season are the measure of the whole people. Is not this, making us in this country a people large of heart, properly in the story also?

THE CARDS OF CHRISTMAS

Despite the absence of real cold weather and that most appropriate blanket of snow, the Christmas spirit has settled down upon the country. There are abundant evidences of it, notably the card of Christmas greetings. The mails are heavy with them.

In its more material form, the Christmas card business is tremendous. In its spiritual dimensions it is even greater. Perhaps in some instances the exchange of these cards has become mechanical, a quid quo sort of thing, but with all that, it reflects the better side of human nature.

As a result of "mail early slogans" these cards are received often two weeks or more before Christmas day. This is quite a contrast to the fashion these messages of good will a few years ago of receiving perhaps not more than a day ahead of Christmas but usually Christmas morning.

These are those who think early mailing, at least early receipt of the Christmas card takes away its tang, that it is essentially a greeting to be received near or very close to Christmas day and to have it arrive a week or more earlier destroys its full effect.

But why should this be so? If all such cards arrived a week ahead and none later, the purpose might be thwarted, but usually the cards keep trickling in unceasingly up until Christmas morn and after, thus extending that mellow period of the year when none seem too contemptible or unworthy to be forgotten by somebody. What happens is a prolongation of that pleasurable experience that is associated or ought to be with this unique custom. How can one quarrel with such a condition?

GOOD WILL

The season is auspicious to charity and good will. Our thoughts and affections are pledged for a while to a common interest, in preparation for a festival whose sacred meaning and joyful observance are wide enough to include all mankind. We find once again, and perhaps with some surprise, that we are brothers and sisters under the skin and are willing and eager to forget for a season the small jealousies and antagonisms that divide us through the year.

The grand name of charity deserves to be freed of its disfavor of sentimentality or carelessness and casual generosity. True charity is good will toward the good in others, and it serves best in the partnership of intelligent knowledge. We cannot love the thing we do not know, and to understand our neighbor in his hopes and purposes is first essential to helping him in his need.

The old proverb insisted that charity begins at home, but this is no sign that it should stop there. Wider knowledge has made the whole world kin and teaches us daily that our common humanity knows no boundaries. The season of good will, established twenty centuries ago in a village in Palestine, encompasses now the world and its nations and does more for the peace and unity of mankind than any institutions of our own fashioning. For knowledge that leads to understanding, which is the backbone of charity and the sure foundation of good will.

BINFORD F. WEST VICTIM OF DEATH

Binford F. West, aged 48 died late Friday, at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Robertson, on Vine street. Death was caused by a sudden attack of pneumonia which struck him only a few days ago, and there was little hope for him from the very beginning. All that could be done by loving hands and trained physicians was done without avail and Friday afternoon his spirit took its flight.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 2:30 from the First Methodist Church, with the Pastor, R. A. Wood, in charge. Burial followed at Fairview with Winstead-Jones in charge.

Mr. West is survived by his mother, Mrs. S. A. West, a sister, Mrs. J. H. Robertson, and by the following brothers: Enloe, Claud, Clement, LaCled and Grover. The last two are living in this city at present.

Binford was born in Calloway county, Ky., in 1881, but has lived in Fulton for the greater part of his life. His entire life was one devoted to the care of his widowed mother and the fatherless children. At the age of 16, Binford took on his shoulders the care of the entire family, his father having died.

Mr. West was well known by all the people of the city, and it is doubtful if he had a single enemy. A leading business man of the city remarked that "Binford never harmed a person on earth." This is indeed a fitting memorial for his life of service to his widowed mother and fatherless brothers and sister.

HICKMAN LAD TRIES TO TAKE OWN LIFE

Hickman, Ky., Dec. 9—Belmont Campbell, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Campbell, attempted to take his own life here today by drinking carbolic acid after a row with his parents over going to school.

Dr. C. W. Curin was called in time to save the boy's life but he is said to be in a serious condition. The boy had wanted to quit school and go to work and his parents had objected, telling him that he had to finish high school at least. This morning the debate started again and rather than go to school today the boy went to the bathroom at the Campbell home here and drank the carbolic acid. Young Campbell is a sophomore at the Hickman high school and well liked.

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED

Mr. Fred Sawyer and Miss Ruby Alexander both of Fulton, were united in marriage Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, at the home of Rev. L. E. McCoy, who officiated. For the occasion the bride was gowning in a lovely brown flat crepe with accessories to match.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sawyer, and is a large circle of friends here, who will wish him all the happiness possible in his married life. The bride is the daughter of C. R. Alexander, and is quite popular with a large circle of friends and all will wish her a happy life with the man she has chosen. Both bride and groom are graduates of the 1928 class of Fulton High school.

They were entertained at dinner Sunday, at the home of the groom's parents and left in the afternoon for Cleveland, O., where they will make their home.

WINTER CAR CARE ROUTINE OUTLINED

Autos in Storage and in Service Need Attention.

To assure automobile owners of maximum automobile comfort and efficiency during the coming cold months service experts have prepared a list of suggestions which cover the essential points of pre-winter car preparation.

Where a motor car is not to be used during the winter, the experts advise storing it in a dry, evenly heated and not too light place. The car should be washed and dried, all oil and water drained off, wheels jacked up to lift weight from tires, the tires partly deflated, and unpainted metal parts coated with heavy oil or vasoline to prevent rust or corrosion.

Oil Should be Added.
To prevent rusting of rings and cylinder walls the spark plugs should be removed and one gill of engine oil poured into each cylinder. Then distribute the oil by turning the engine over a number of times and replace the plugs.

Where it is intended to keep the car in commission changes in operating conditions call for attention to certain important details. It is important that cars be in good operating condition to overcome the rigors imposed by cold weather. Whenever possible owners are urged to use the facilities of service stations. For those who prefer to condition their own cars these suggestions should be followed:

Remove all accumulated sludge from the oil pan and refill with oil of good quality. Frequent oil changes during the winter, with proper adjustment of the crankcase ventilator, will safeguard oil circulation. Lubricate the chassis completely. Change oil in the transmission and differential. Inspect and clean the generator and replace any worn parts. Check the battery and recharge the electrical system if necessary.

Clean Starting Motor.
Remove and clean the starting motor and replace worn parts. Clean connecting cable terminals of electrical system and grease those at the battery, generator, starting motor and starting switch. Clean and adjust distributor and spark plug points. Inspect cables and replace if necessary. Re-set timing.

Clean gasoline and vacuum tanks, gas lines and carburetor. Adjust carburetor to proper winter mixture. Tighten water hose connections or replace worn hose if necessary. Pour in anti-freeze mixture. If alcohol is used check specific gravity weekly to prevent freezing of the mixture.

Align wheels to prevent tire wear. Tighten body bolts and spring clips. Adjust clutch, brake pedals and brakes for cold weather driving.

AUTO FACTS

More than 97 per cent of the farmers in Garfield county, Okla., own passenger automobiles.

Many Paris policemen are linguists, but the American traffic cop can say enough in one language.

"Here," said the Vain Optimist, "is a traffic regulation scheme that will not gain a great many people."
