BUS BRINGS HIGHLAND PUPILS TO SCHOOL

Pupils attending the Fulton city schools from Highlands, across the New Yards of the Illinois Central, are now coming by bus, under an arrangement made by the Board of Education. This step was necessary with the construction of new overhead bridge on State Line street now underway.

Parents of school children are urged to warn their children from crossing the tracks as it is extremely dangerous. Supt. J. O. Lewis points out, and every effort is being made to properly take care of the matter by providing a bus.

A bus will be used to convey pupils to and from school during the remainder of the school year, and construction work on the bridge is not expected to be complete until next summer. It will be routed via of the overhead bridge at Riceville, and children in that area are also riding, although the service is provided only to avoid the hazard of crossing the tracks in the south yards.

Raise In Water Rates Planned For South Fulton

The South Fulton board of aldermen met last Friday night, with Mayor J. H. Lowe, presiding. During the month of November a total of ten prisoners were confined in the city jail, with fines totaling $62.75 collected. In November $2,227.15 in 1937-38 taxes was collected; licenses collected during the same month totaled $38.89, with $6,223.71 in the general sinking fund.

The new water works system was discussed at length, and it was reported that $13,000.00 has been obtained on the federal grant, with $7,766.70 having been disbursed on construction work. It was resolved by the board of aldermen that water rate be raised in South Fulton, with the first 3,000 gallons of water costing $1.50 per month, which is the minimum charge. The next 4,000 gallons used will be at 25c per thousand gallons; the next 13,000 gallons will cost 20c per thousand gallons; the next 30,000 gallons an additional 10c per thousand will be added.

These rates are planned after the new water works system is completed in South Fulton.

McFadden Homemakers Club Meet Last Week

The McFadden Homemakers Club held a special meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wales Austin northeast of town. In the morning a lesson "Weaving" was given by Mrs. Thomas Allen. At noon lunch was served. Following lunch, Mrs. Allen gave a lesson on Play and Selection of Toys. Several toys made from boxes, corn shucks and spoons were illustrated. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in painting various toys.

The guest list included Mrs. C. C. Austin, Mrs. Hebron Butler, Mrs. Eston Daws, Mrs. Tom Hannah, Mrs. Ernest Hancock, and Mrs. Cyril Morris.

Former Fulton Man Dies At Paducah

J. L. Small, age 62, claim agent for the Illinois Central, and formerly a resident of Fulton, died last Thursday in the Illinois Central Hospital at Paducah, after being removed there from his home in Princeton, Ky. Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at the Princeton Baptist church with interment following at the cemetery there.

Mr. Small had been an employee of the Illinois Central System for some 40 years, and formerly located in this city as claim agent. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mayme Small; a daughter, Mrs. Sam Bradshaw, Jr., of Alexander City, Ala.; a son, James L. Small, Jr., of Princeton.

Wanting to help humanity and having sense enough to do so are different propositions.

STOCKHOLDERS RE-ELECT OLD BOARD

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Fulton Building and Loan Association was held Tuesday night in the Woman's Club building. A large number of stockholders were present and the old board of officers and directors was re-elected. The board is as follows: N. G. Cook, W. P. Murrell, I. H. Reed, J. D. Davis, Abe Jolley, Vodie Hardin, J. E. Fall, Joe Browder and R. H. White. Immediately following the meeting the directors met and re-elected the following officers: Joe Browder, president; I. H. Reed, vice-president; Frank Carr, attorney; J. E. Fall, secretary and treasurer; W. C. Reed, assistant secretary and treasurer.

Secretary Fall gave a detailed report of the operation of the loan association for the past year ending November 22, and the report indicated a flourishing condition with gains in every way over the preceding year. The net profit for the past twelve months was $19,339.56. About $4100 of this amount has been added to the reserve fund, with $15,244.56 being credited to the stockholders in dividends. During the past year a total of $24,100 has been matured and paid off and there is now a total of 7423 shares of stock outstanding. Loans during the year have been increased $43,105 to a total of $335,880.

A year ago the association owned real estate to the value of $5,179.30, and this has been reduced $3,500.72. In 1934 the association was carrying real estate to the value of $39,164.27. Some of this property has been transferred to the Home Owners Loan Corporation, some has been sold outright and some has been refinanced and taken over by other people. The association has been fortunate in the greater part of this trading, with but few losses recorded.

The annual report indicated that the association was making steady progress, reflecting not only excellent management but also improving business conditions. Informal talks by various stockholders at the meeting Tuesday night showed that all were proud of the progress in the past and hopeful for the future.

J. W. Wrather Gets Right Hand Severed

J. W. Wrather, switchman for the I. C. Railroad, slipped and fell between two cars of a moving train Monday morning about 1:45 and his right hand was severed just above the wrist. He was rushed to the I. C. Hospital by ambulance for an emergency operation. Reports from his bedside are that he is resting as well as can be expected.

Mr. Wrather has been an employee of the Illinois Central System for about nineteen years.

FULTON DECORATES, SHOPPING INCREASES

SEASONAL BUSINESS SHOWS UPLIFT

Sustained improvement in American business was evident during the week, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 37 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. Seasonable weather and the raising tide of Christmas shopping lifted retail trade throughout the country close to last year's volume, and in some cities it surpassed the levels of 1937. There was an undertone of more than seasonal improvement in many lines. Building construction was active in Chicago, Louisville, Kansas City and Seattle. Cold weather gave a strong stimulus to retail buying in New York, Chicago, Boston, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Jacksonville, Mobile and New Orleans. Other cities gave Christmas buying credit for the upward turn, with Christmas savings funds in several centers reported approximately equal to last year. In Rhode Island, the volume of Christmas savings was the largest in four years.

Louisville reported that initial holiday purchasing brought retail trade in most lines nearly equal in volume to year ago. Wholesale trade in dry goods and notions continued about even with last year. Manufacturing activity lagged somewhat as some plants reported operations 20 to 25% lower than year ago. Collections continued rather slow.

Kentucky reemployment service placements totaled 525, increase of 15.5% over preceding week.

Louisville's bank clearings increased 11.9% over last year, Louisville showing highest percentage of increase of 22 leading cities.

Stephenson Grocery Changes Management

Early this week a business deal was consummated by which Jimmy D. Stephenson and W. K. Cummins purchased and Stephenson's Grocery on Commercial-av. Both young men are well known here and active members of the Young Business Men's Club. Mr. Stephenson has been connected with the grocery for some time, and Mrs. Cummins is manager of Grant & Co., local department store.

Mr. Cummins does not expect to be actively engaged in the grocery business until after January 1, when he has asked for release as manager of Grant & Co. Since coming to Fulton, Mr. Cummins has made many friends, and his business initiative and integrity encouraged his progress.

Jimmy D., as he is known among his many friends, is a local boy and needs no introduction, as he never meets a stranger. These two young men are taking steps to improve the service of their store, and invite their friends to visit them.

FULTON HOSPITAL

Mrs. Martha Thompson, who is receiving treatment here, is reported improving.

Mrs. Herman Roberts was admitted this week for treatment.

D. G. Howell underwent an operation Wednesday.

Mrs. Ed Cardwell is receiving treatment.

Herman Collier was dismissed Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Don Myrick of Fulham died of pneumonia Monday night.

WILLIAMS CAR HIT BY TRAIN FRIDAY

An Illinois Central freight train hit Joe Williams' car last Friday on a crossing two miles south of Fulton. The motor of the automobile went dead as it got on the tracks, and Mr. Williams was forced to abandon it and leap to safety. The machine was badly damaged.

Local Stores Are Filled With Holiday Merchandise

Fulton has always decorated for the holidays, but this year efforts to beautify the city for Christmas, have been much more strenuous and far-reaching. In the down-town districts long streamers of lights shrouded with evergreen, with star effect and insigna "F" for Fulton properly located in the colorful array, present the most attractive appearance ever arranged here.

Merchants of Fulton report that the "Spirit of Christmas" is really in full swing, and shoppers are selecting many of their gifts early in order to avoid the last minute rush. Anything from delicious foods of all kinds, fruits, candies, cakes, toys, ready-to-wear clothing for ladies, men and children, furniture, hardware, radios, automobile accessories, jewelry, gifts from drug stores, fancy wines, liquors and hundreds of other items are here for selection.

The stores have turned out with beautiful decorations and tastefully arranged displays. Window and counter displays are even more appealing this year, showing that many hours have been spent in preparation for the gala holiday season.

The spirit of the season reached a higher pitch Thursday when the Christmas parade attracted wide interest. Civic organizations, city officials, business firms and citizens turned out to make it a real success.

Mayor DeMyer of Fulton and Mayor J. H. Lowe of South Fulton, the Fulton High School Band, K. P. Dalton, chief of police; beautiful floats by local firms and scores of colorfully decorated cars help to form a long line in the parade. This is the first time in recent years that such an event has been staged in Fulton, and it went over with marked success. Those who have worked so hard and gave such splendid cooperation deserves commendation of the community.

So, if you have not done your Christmas shopping, it will be worth your while, to visit the Fulton stores, which are ready for the holidays in a big way.

Lodgeston Homemakers Has Party Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Burnett, of Hickman Highway, entertained members of the Lodgeston Homemakers Club with a social party at half after seven o'clock Friday evening. The hours were devoted to games and contests and prizes were awarded. Mrs. Malcolm Inman and Mrs. Herbert Howell.

A sandwich course and hot chocolate was served to Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bondurant and children, Joyce and Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens Lawson and children, J. C. Patricia and David, Mrs. J. B. Inman, Mrs. H. W. Howell, Mrs. Lucy Burnett, Misses Jeanette Inman, Myrtle Burnett, and Hilda Byers and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Burnett.

LODGESTON HOME-MAKERS TO MEET

An all-day meeting of the Lodgeston Homemakers Club with pot-luck luncheon at noon will be held at their club home between the hours of ten thirty and three o'clock Wednesday, December 14th. The major project will be kitchen back savers.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

A run was made to the home of Joe Lattus of Park-av Sunday morning to extinguish a blaze that was caused by a defective flue. Only slight damage was done.

Sunday afternoon, a blaze originating from an oil stove at the home of Sam Craver on College-st called out the truck. Damage was slight.

Scandals feed upon very little fact.

PEACE BY RESOLUTION

The fact that members of several "peace" societies have gone on record in opposition to any program to strengthen American armaments leads one to admire their consistency while questioning their judgment.

Certainly, the people of the United States have demonstrated their approval of disarmament. The government of the United States has given abundant proof of its willingness.

ness and anxiety to avoid the expenditures that increasing armament entails. The record leaves no doubt of that.

So, here we are, facing 1939, with a world practically under the domination of three nations that openly boast of war, practice aggression and proclaim contempt for the peace-loving democracies. In this situation, apparent even to lovers of peace, it seems foolish to us to believe that no nation has any idea of taking advantage of weaker nations and wise to prepare to defend whatever this nation has that it wants to retain.

German militarists are in the saddle in Nazi-lad, Japanese militarists controls the land of the Mikado and Mussolini's cohorts make no secret of their worship of force. Great Britain, France and United States, by contrast, do not conceal their desire for peace and their reluctance to increase armies, navies and air corps. There may be reasons for the different attitudes but so far as we can observe, no doubt of the existence of the attitudes in the six countries named.

Now, the argument of the peace-lovers is that if we do not arm we will avoid war. We may, it is true, but only if we yield to every demand of the aggressor-nations and permit them to become the financial arbiters of world affairs, including some matters of domestic economy. This attitude will never be accepted by the people of the United States, who will insist upon their right to live their life, as individuals and as a nation, upon terms of not less than equality with other peoples and other nations.

German ideas that no other race has any rights, Japanese missions to give the world peace a la Japan and Italy's ambition to Italianize sections of the globe are forces that, in future, might easily clash with American ideals in areas where Americans claim equal rights. This, we do not say is certain and inevitable but, at least, possible and, consequently, it is part of wisdom to be able to discuss matters with these powers upon even terms so far as military and naval strength is concerned.

In the far East today Japan challenges a doctrine that has been affirmed by the United States for decades and openly asserts superior rights in China, inflicting death and destruction upon a peace-loving and relatively unarmed people. That Japan would treat this country in the same high-handed manner, if we are ever at the mercy of her militarists, goes without saying. The same observation applies to Germany and Italy.

Having given the world proof of our sincere desire to limit armaments without appreciable success in preventing the unprecedented race to arm, it is about time for the people of this country to let the

AN HOURLY NEWSPAPER

Whether its performance set a new record or not we do not know, but the printing of an edition of the paper every hour on election night by the Chicago Tribune, between 5 o'clock in the evening and 8 the next morning, was quite a newspaper feat.

County four smaller special editions for Wisconsin subscribers. 14 editions in all were issued between the hours mentioned, with a total of more than a million copies. Approximately 280 tons of paper were used, and three tons of ink. If spread flat no the ground, this amount of paper would have covered 2,220 acres.

So well were the employees organized for this extraordinary effort that only 10 extra men had to be added to the usual mechanical force of about 300 men, yet every edition went to press exactly at the time scheduled in advance, except one, which was only five minutes late.

Gathering, organizing and printing the results of a national election, accurately and speedily, puts the organization of a metropolitan daily newspaper to its severest test. The effective manner in which American newspapers meet this test is truly amazing.

SIMPLE—AND SOUND

"Simple and sound." That is the best characterization that can be given to a group of maxims recently detailed by Dr. Adam S. Bennion, assistant to the president of the Utah Power and Light Company.

- Here they are, in brief:
1. Without profit no private enterprise can prosper.
 2. Forty-eight million working people in America depend upon the maintenance of private payrolls—which can be met only by profit-making industry.
 3. Industry must have the cooperation, regulation and protection of government—but the government should be a umpire, not a competitor.
 4. The government should withdraw from the field of competitive business in which it is using one taxpayer's money to destroy another taxpayer's business.
 5. Government should not experiment beyond its means to pay, and pass the debt on to other generations.
 6. There is no magic about taxes. Business may collect them—but the people pay them.
 7. Let us be done with mutual bickering; with millennial reforms; with a financial system resting on the notion that "we can borrow ourselves out of debt." Let us set up the rules of sound business, and then let's free industry to build in the spirit of American pioneering.

You would go a long way to find a program containing more traditional common sense. We've tried one experiment after another, and spent billions—with little or no results, except to frighten and discourage industry. After ten years of depression, confusion and a long series of political panaceas, our relief rolls are at record level. Maybe it's time for a change back to fundamentals as outlined by Dr. Bennion.

Capitol
Comments

By David Porter

The National elections in November showed a trend toward Conservatism, that was a political barometer of public opinion. The results of it has changed party lines and party policies.

Governor A. B. Chandler's campaign against Senator Alben Barkley, attracted intense National interest and was much publicized in National publications. His platform for the campaign was, among other things, a balancing of the National budget, less Federal spending, and some planned payment on the National debt, although he was defeated in his campaign, candidates with similar platforms led winning tickets in other states.

In 1936, when President Roosevelt came to Kentucky, we rode with him on his train to Elizabethtown and back to Louisville. Chandler had a long conference with the President then it was rumored, all through the train. He would be "built up" nationally with a speaking campaign through thirty states, and would be nominated as Vice President in 1940.

The rest is history, his reduction of the State debt, his campaign of conservatism against New Dealer Barkley, and the trend of the elections over the station.

Last week Postmaster General Farley called Chandler to New York for a conference and rumor has it, that the Democratic party, i. e. Farley and Roosevelt, may court this conservative element with Chandler on the 1940 ticket as Vice President, and the ticket be Harry Hopkins and Chandler.

Michael Brennan died last week in Louisville, a powerful political leader of the Democrats in Louisville, he was a benevolent old time type, of Irish gentleman and politician. His loss will be mourned through out the State.

JO ANN HUTCHENS

Dear Santa:
Will you please bring me a six wheel wagon and also two big, little books, Dan Dunn and Mac of the Marines in China. And my little sister wants a doll and a doll bed, lots of candy, fruit and nuts. Your loving friend,

BILLIE ALEXANDER

Dear Santa Claus:
I am nine years old, please bring me a bicycle and some candies and nuts and firecrackers. Yours,
MAURICE COFFMAN

Dear Santa:
I am nine years old, in 3rd grade. I want a Betsy-Wetsy Doll, china dishes, story books and anything else you have for me. Remember my brother and sister, mother and daddy. Your little friend,
MARILYN LOONEY.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am little boy six years old and want you to bring me a bicycle, cowboy suit, train and tractor. Your little brown eyed boy,
BOB VOWELL.

Dear Santa:
I am ten years old. I have tried to be good. I think I would like to have a doll, diary, typewriter, manicure set, chests with stationery. And I would like a watch. Your friend,
CHARLOTTE TAYLOR

Dear Santa:
Since I will be five years old Christmas and my birthday at the same time. So I think I should have just loads of toys. Really, I haven't decided just what I do want. I suppose a train, a pair of pull on boots, tinkie toy set, cowboy suit, gun, G-man set, just anything else you see fit for me to have. Your little friend,
MAX LYNN VALENTINE.

Dear Santa:
Will you please bring me for Christmas, a dump truck, pop gun, gravel dipper, airplane, wagon and plenty of candy. I am trying awfully hard to be a good boy. Be nice to all other little boys and girls. Your little friend,
LEROY BONDURANT.

CUBA'S STRONG MAN

Among the recent visitors to Washington was Colonel Fulgencio Batista, who as chief of staff of the army is virtually dictator of the Cuban republic. He was received at the White House and shown many attentions during his stay.

Left an orphan and forced to earn his living at the age of 13, Batista worked at whatever he could find to do, being in turn a tailor's apprentice, dock worker, railroad laborer, mechanic, barber and worker in the cane fields.

Being ambitious, he later joined the regular army as a private, so as to be able to study at night or in other spare time. In 1933, when the tyrannical rule of President Machado caused the revolt, Batista was a sergeant. He quickly planned with other sergeants to seize control of the army, knowing that whoever controlled the army would control the government.

On September 5, 1933, Batista headed an uprising of enlisted men who ousted their officers and took charge. Since then he has been chief of staff of the army and the strong men of Cuba during a period of great unrest, which he finally overcame.

Batista was only 32 years old when he came to power, and having maintained his grip on the government for more than five years he seems destined to continue his rule for an indefinite period.

PRINTING IN THE U. S.

Newsweek reminds us that this is the 300th year of printing in the United States, although the art was practiced in Mexico 100 years earlier. The first printing press to be brought to Massachusetts was a second-hand one which arrived from England in 1638.

After a visit to America, the Rev. Joseph Glover, a well-to-do minister of Surrey, returned to England, resigned his pastorate and decided to found a college in the colonies. With his wife, the printing press, and a printer named Stephen Daye, he sailed again for America, but died at sea.

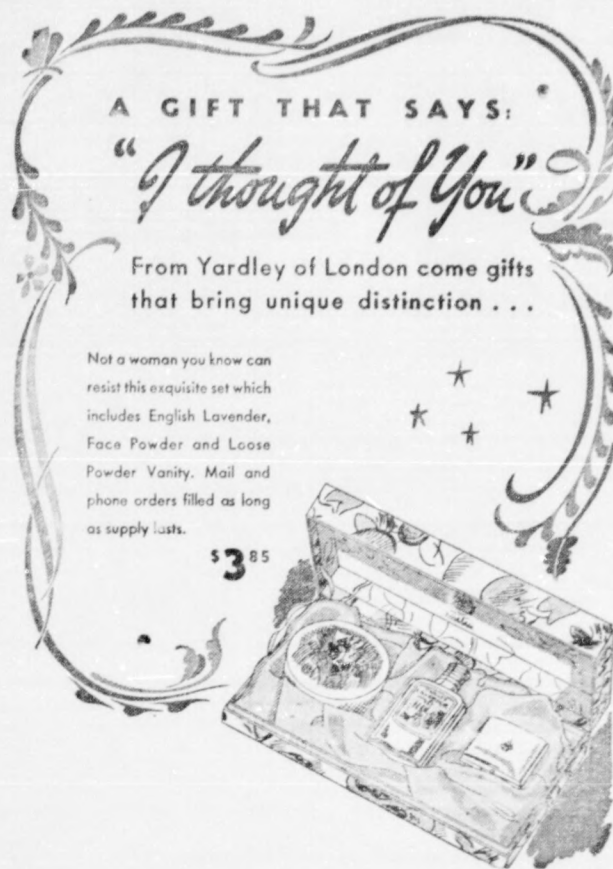

Shortly after his widow's arrival in Boston she married the Rev. Henry Dunster, the first president of Harvard, and the printing press was set up there with Daye in charge of shop, which later became known as the University Press.

Copies of four publications by Daye still exist, one of which, "The Bay Psalm Book," printed in 1640, is one of the most valuable rare books in English in the world.

What may be done at any time will be done at no time.

You possess some intelligence if to sleep. If you manage to survive 1938 fully in 1939. make up your mind to drive carefully.

REVENUE REPORT

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Kentucky Department of Revenue in its annual report for 1937-38, released today, declared that the State revenue program as it now stands is "reasonably adequate and equitable" and indicated that "no fundamental changes are at present desirable."

The undersirability of further tax repeals is particularly emphasized. General fund tax receipts for 1937-38, the report points out, were approximately $2,200,000 under those for the preceding fiscal year, and a further decline is predicted for the current year. "This decline in receipts, in view of concurrent increases in expenditures authorized by the 1938 General Assembly," the report continues, "will in large part remove the basis for the excess of receipts over expenditures which has thus far prevailed." The repeal of the excise tax imposed on soft drinks, candy, chewing gum, nuts, cosmetics and ice cream is cited as the primary reason for the 1937-38 decline. Other reasons assigned for the decline in receipts are, "The current inactivity of business, the great decline in liquor production, the reduction in liquor and beer consumption occasioned by increases in local option territory and changes in the provisions regarding licensing and closing hours, and other minor factors."

In round numbers, State tax receipts were $45,500,000 during 1937-38 as compared with $44,500,000 during 1936-37. Allocations to funds may be tabulated as follows:

General Fund—$29,000,000, 1936-37; $26,700,000, 1937-38. Road Fund—$14,500,000, 1936-37; $13,700,000, 1937-38. Other Funds—$1,000,000, 1936-37; $1,100,000, 1937-38.

For 1937-38, road taxes yielded $16,400,000; alcoholic beverages taxes, $7,200,000; excise taxes, $6,200,000; property taxes, $6,100,000; income and death taxes, $5,700,000; and license taxes, $1,900,000.

Seven general recommendations are made in the report:

(1) That the tax laws of the Commonwealth be modified.
(2) That no fundamental changes in the State's revenue program be made, except with respect to property tax classification:
(a) That the exemption of certain classes of tangible personal property from local taxation, and the limitation of local tax rates on certain other classes, be removed.
(b) That real estate and tangible personal property be taxed for State purposes at the same rate.
(3) That the office of county tax commissioner be made appointive instead of elective; that the commissioner be paid a salary instead of fees, and that he be provided with adequate facilities for doing a good job.

(4) That the duties of the county tax commissioner and the board of supervisors be clearly differentiated, to the end that duplication be eliminated.
(5) That more adequate resources for administering the tax laws of the Commonwealth and for performing supervisory and regulatory functions be made available.

In reporting on the administration of the Commonwealth's tax laws, the Department states that it has cost 1.11 cents to collect each dollar in taxes over the six-month period ending June 3, 1938, (the first period for which adequate cost accounting records have been maintained). Emphasis is placed, however, on the fact that this does not necessarily connote desirable economy. Low collection costs, the report indicates, may mean that a poor job is being done.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"GOD, THE PRESERVER OF MAN" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, December 11.

This includes Christian Science Society, Fulton, Ky., which holds regular services Sunday at 11:00 A. M. and Testimonial Meeting Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Reading Room at 211 Carr Street open Wednesday and Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and to visit the Reading Room where The Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

Among the citations is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen." (1 Timothy 4:18.)

TOMORROW'S TAXES

No longer can the American citizen look abroad at the heavy tax burden borne by the European citizen and with a sigh of relief thank providence that he is not cursed with a equally heavy burden. The shoe is on the other foot. Actual cost of government in this country now challenges that of Great Britain.

According to figures compiled by the United States Chamber of Commerce, "American taxes in 1937 were 47 per cent more than in 1923 and 22 per cent more than in 1929. "British per capita taxes, on the contrary, were 5 per cent less in 1937 than in 1928 and only 5 per cent more than in 1923."

Actual per capita taxes collected in this country about equal the per capita tax in Britain. But, Britain

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, spicy or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or else poorly—your stomach often turns out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel your risk and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bellanox for indigestion to make the above stomach trouble disappear, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Belief is as quick as it is lasting and one little tablet makes it so. Ask for Bellanox for indigestion.

1938 Papers Ready To Sign
All farmers' applications for Conservation Payments are ready for signing and land owners and croppers should go to the Woman's Club Building at Fulton, Cayce or the Office at Hickman, or Sassafras Ridge Saturday and sign. As soon as these forms are signed they will be forwarded to Washington for payment.

REA Meeting
Meetings were held at Cecil Burdette's and R. B. Mobley's for the purpose of discussing the wiring of home and out buildings.

J. L. McKittrick, Agricultural Engineer from Lexington, discussed and assisted in planning the wiring of these two homes in order to show those present what an adequate wiring job is that will take of future electric appliances and make switches and service outlets available to all parts of the buildings.

R. T. Hosmon, local Project Superintendent, will discuss when wiring should start and progress that is being made with the line.

Cotton Referendum
Saturday, December 10, has been set as the day that cotton farmers will vote to determine whether or not cotton marketing quotas are to be in force for 1939.

Conservation Committeemen will be at Fulton Woman's Club Building to assist voters in District I. The farmers in District II should vote at Cayce School house, District III hills and District III bottoms should vote at the office at Hickman, while all farmers in District IV can vote at Sassafras Ridge School.

When the supply of cotton is 7% above consumption and normal carry-over; the farmers vote to determine whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect for the next year. At the present time, there is about 25 million bales carry-over in the United States and 50 million bales for the world; thus making it necessary to hold a referendum.

If marketing quotas are in effect next year, farms will again be offered a cotton loan and party payment in addition to the conservation payment. If marketing quotas are not in effect no loans will be available, party payments will not be paid and only the Conservation payment is promised.

UNCLE JIM SAYS

The cheapest and most satisfactory way to supply the table with pork is to grow your own hogs.

The corn-hog ratio is in a favorable position for feeders at the present. Supplement grain with tankage, meat scrap, or skim milk.

Seed service—the perennial deep-rooted lespedeza—in late fall or early winter if the unhulled seed are used.

You can't get garden soil too rich. Just as soon as the ground freezes cover it thoroughly with an application of well-rooted manure.

Livestock need protection from rough weather. Even breeder cattle and yearlings should have shelter from cold rains and hard winter winds.

Corn should be harvested and put shelter as rapidly as weather will permit. Not only does rain rot the grain, but hauling is easier before the land gets wet and soggy.

Now that summer pastures are playin' out, some succulent feed for dairy cows is needed to stimulate milk flow. Silage, root crops, beet pulp, and winter pasture are all good.

Only God can make a tree, but men can help by planting them where they are badly needed. Tennessee farmers have planted more than 10,000,000 trees as an aid in soil erosion control.

All cotton at J. Burley tobacco growers should take advantage of the opportunity to express themselves on whether or not they favor marketing quotas in 1939 in referendum to be held December.

Consideration for other people is the cornerstone of all good manners. It is a pleasure to humor people who only think they are sick. They are so grateful.

Nobody ever found out who won the World War, but everybody knows who won the Munich peace.

Sheep Pay Better On Good Pastures

The importance of good pastures and the control of footrot were stressed at the fall meeting of sheep raisers at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Farmers discussed their experiences in the use of various grasses and legumes in providing better pastures. In some instances they have been able to produce high quality lambs without gain, or have materially reduced the amount of grain required.

The growing of rye, wheat, barley or other winter crops was said to be needed both as feed for sheep and to prevent erosion. A demonstration in the control of footrot was given by Jack Dennis of Woodford county. He pointed out that treatment may not be effective unless the feet are properly trimmed so as to expose the diseased parts.

A study made by the Agricultural Experiment Station, and reported in bulletin No. 385, indicates that sheep might be the means of increasing the income on many Kentucky farms. Through sheep it is possible to get an income from such non-marketable feeds as pasture, stover and straw. The fact that sheep eat mainly roughages and pasture gives them an advantage over other kinds of stock in areas of a large percentage of the land is in grass.

It also is pointed out that sheep require the most labor in winter, when other farm work is slack, and that they help to increase the value of buildings such as tobacco barns, which are not needed at the time when sheep require shelter.

John Stockoff recently returned to Fort Ross, Calif., to pay back, with interest a $5 loan made to him by Frank Thomas 48 years ago.

A thief broke into Herbert Clark's locked automobile at Des Moines, Ia., and took nothing but a Bible.

Aunt Sarah Guder, 122-year-old former colored slave, died recently in Asheville, N. C., as she had predicted she would—"popped up in bed takin' life fair and easy 'til Ole Marster calls me away."

ing in fruit trees this winter.

Clip the flanks, tails, and udders of cows in winter to keep dirt and bacteria out of the milk pail.

When silage is fed with good quality legume hay to cows, it provides a roughage that closely approaches June pasture.

It looks like a fat year for livestock. Feed supplies are expected to continue large in relation to livestock numbers for 1938-39.

Paint large fire-blight cankers on fruit trees with a ding chloride solution and break out small diseased twigs to prevent its spread.

Cotton growers should take advantage of the large quantity of good planting seed available this fall to store up a two or three year's supply.

Metal drums make satisfactory storage containers for cotton seed. Such containers prevent the seed from re-absorbing moisture and protect it from rodents.

Growers should vote their sentiments on marketing quotas in referendum on cotton December 10, and on Burley, dark-fired, and dark-ripped tobacco December 17.

The farmer who crops poor land gets low rates of pay per day for his labor.

A lot of poor land now being used for crops would pay better in trees, grass or legumes.

Keep hogs quiet in a pen without feed but with plenty of water for at least 24 hours before butchering.

Scald hogs in water at a temperature of between 150 and 160 degrees Fahrenheit to which a little lye or wood ashes has been added.

To sugar cure meat, use the following mixture per 100 pounds of trimmed pork: 6-8 pounds salt, 1½-2 pounds sugar, and 2 ounces salt-peter.

Without tobacco and cotton marketing quotas in effect it would be possible for noncooperators in AAA to offset the adjustment efforts of their neighbors.

Records obtained at U-T show that one day's work on corn which yields 40 bushels or more per acre returns more than 18 days on a 14 bushel yield.

A farmer's time is worth 90 cents a day growing 10 cent cotton when yields are less than 200 pounds per acre and $3.50 a day when yields are 400 pounds or better.

Few Tennessee farmers should be content with per acre yields of less than 35 bushels for corn, 300 pounds for cotton, 1200 pounds for Burley tobacco, 100 pounds for dark tobacco, 150 bushels for potatoes, 2 tons for clover hay.

"HARD TO GET", STARTS DEC. 16

Olivia de Havilland is "Hard To Get" showing Friday and Saturday, Dec. 16-17 at Fulton Theatre, but Dick Powell turns the trick.

Rural Electrification System In County

The Rural Electrification Administration of Washington, D. C., has approved the construction of the Hickman-Fulton Counties Rural project, it was announced today by R. T. Hosmon, Project Superintendent. Negotiations are being proceeded with R. H. Boughlany of Charlotte, N. C., for the construction of the project. The construction contract is expected to be closed in the very near future. The construction plans have been completed by the Thos. H. Allen Engineering Firm of Memphis and the location of the sub-station and the location of the lines will start immediately. The project will include approximately 105 miles of lines with a total cost of approximately one hundred thousand dollars. Power will be furnished to the project by TVA. A power contract for the same is now in proceedings and is expected to be completed very shortly.

The project will bring electricity to the homes of approximately three hundred and sixty rural families, in both Hickman and Fulton Counties, and will make electricity available to approximately one hundred and forty additional rural families. Of the total one hundred five miles of line to be constructed, Fulton County will receive approximately seventy miles and Hickman County will receive approximately thirty-five miles.

The customers of both Hickman and Fulton Counties are being instructed to give serious attention to the wiring of their homes. They are being encouraged to hire competent electricians, as each home must undergo an inspection before it will be hooked on to the line. Much delay and expense can be avoided by doing a good job at first. The customers are being instructed that under no circumstances should they allow an electrical contractor begin the wiring of their home without having first cleared through the Co-operative's office in Hickman.

"Everything That Wears Feathers" Will Be at World's Poultry Congress

Housed in the Hall of Live Poultry at the Seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exposition in Cleveland, Ohio, July 28 to August 7, 1939, will be probably the most comprehensive display of all breeds and varieties of poultry ever gathered under one roof. It is the purpose of Congress officials to gather and display here representative specimens of every known breed and variety. Asked what the word "poultry" denoted as applied to this exposition, one official has replied—"Everything that wears feathers." Here the visitor will see every breed of chicken from the familiar breeds of our neighboring farm yards to rare and exotic varieties from out of the way corners of the world. There will be ducks and geese and turkeys, pigeons, water fowl and other types of common and rare feather bearing specimens. Here before the eye will range a vision of color and graceful line that would surpass any "beauty parade" for interest. Even the most experienced poultryman will find himself confronted by surprise after surprise as he encounters many of our lesser known breeds, colorful fowl from the tropics, rare breeds from far off Asia and little known varieties from the out-of-the-way corners of the world. To Congress visitors the Hall of Live Poultry will be a source of new-found interest and pleasure—and a most worthwhile educational feature.

THE COUNTRY POSTOFFICE

With the last twenty years thousands of country postoffices have been discontinued, and rural mail routes now reach nearly everywhere. Many people old enough to vote have never known the strange thrill of going after the mail; all that is necessary is to walk to the main road and open the mail box. In the days when the mail came only twice or three times a week, one really got up a lot of enthusiasm for what might come. Letters were fairly rare, but they were treasured highly, regardless of their contents. Rarely was one destroyed, they were kept and read over and over from time to time. Once a month came a small story magazine, printed away up in Maine, where paper is cheap. We got two such, which would be readily recognizable, if I were to name them. I sought the opportunity to go after the mail when one of these was expected, for I would thus get the first chance at the continued Wilson's St. Elma, tearful and melodramatic, ran for twenty-one months in one of these small magazines and always left off each installment at the moment of greatest suspense. We had to wait a whole month before we could sleep well, and then we were left in an equally tearful place in the novel. Thomas Dixon's "The Leopard's Spots", that rather moving novel of Reconstruction, is always associated in my mind with a certain gravelly hillside where I was thrown by the old family nag while I was burying my head in the twice-a-week newspaper in which this was appearing. I do not know what the phrenologists would say about it, but a certain place above my right ear is still sensitive to tales of the unpleasant days following the Civil War.

There used to be more importance attached to mailing letters and cards as well as to receiving them. How into the general store where the postoffice was housed and bought some stamps or some postal cards! A certain amount of Scotchness often made us use postal cards, even though we knew the postmaster would read them and also the postmaster at the other end of the line. Thus one always would count on three readers: the person addressed and the two postmasters. That was taken for granted, just as listening in on a conversation on a party line, then and now. When some of us were just about grown, the picture postcard came into style. Then we were really important, for those first cards were of many kinds. Some were in the form of old-fashioned slates, with messages printed poorly, the S's and N's turned around the wrong way. One such card has supplied me with many an illustration for my classes in grammar. The message read: "The more I see some people, the better I like my dog." Picture postcards got to be a means of decoration for the front room, since they were exhibited on racks made for the purpose. This postcard rack vied for years with the stereoscope and its pictures in popularity. When the beau on Sunday afternoon was hard to entertain, he could be shown the cards on the rack, with the privilege of reading their messages. Rarely these days could one be sure that his written words would be read as long after they were written as were these messages on postcards.

To many of us, who get the mail once or oftener a day, the importance of the institution seems much less impressive than it used to. We take it as a matter of course, forgetting how we used to wait breathlessly until the postmaster could sort out the few letters and newspapers.

Thieves Hit Crutchfield

There are robbers here, there are robbers there. There are plenty of robbers everywhere. They came upon the mid-nite clear. Tried not to disturb the human ear. They entered several different homes. And through them they prowled and roamed. They entered the home of Van O'Neil. They provided for the dog so he would squeal. They put the dog outside on the ground. And then they finished their prowlin' around— Such a dog that guards a home, That allows thieves to pilfer and roam. When the thieves were gone like a lark, Mr. O'Neil was awakened by the dog's bark. They entered the home of Ben Moore. And gathered treasures they had in store. They get some money and different things. Then escaped as if they had wings. They entered Mr. Pulley's mansion bright. And stole their cake that very nite; They stole his money and pants, too— Of all things thieves will do. I guess the thieves got in a rush, Mrs. Pulley's cake was abandoned in some bush. They also entered Dr. Henry's house, And crept around quite as a mouse, They stole his money and pocket-book; But he wasn't awake to see how he looked. In a few more days, while looking around, Dr. Henry's pocket book was found.

They had emptied the pocket book very clean. No trace of money was there to be seen. They entered the Stinnett home, too; But little damage did they do. They entered the Yates home so gay And took treasures from them away. Before he left, he took their meat Which hadn't yet been prepared to eat. Next day their sausage meat was found Upon the I. C. Railroad bound. They also found an iron rod, Tossed upon the earthen sod. To the thief the rod, was a very great aid, It helped in several entrances he made. Mr. Ethel Moore was fast asleep, When some one in his door did c-e-p. But by a chance he happened to awake, And thought maybe it was a mistake; He thought he saw a thief there— But when he does, its best to beware. After all was said and done, And sleepy hours had begun, Mr. Moore went back to his bed. No loss of treasures, he had to dread. The robbers never shot or fought, But we hope some day, they may be caught.

Commenting on the statement in a magazine that "the new internationalism must establish a symbiosis among nations, and not a phacytosis," the St. Louis Times Star snorts: "Sure it must. You took the words right out of our unabridged."

Efforts of 40 plain clothes policemen to thwart pickpockets at a recent football game in New York was nearly 100 per cent effective. Only one pocket was picked—that of Sergeant Frank Dombecky, chief of the police squad, who was relieved of his billfold containing $8.

Replying to a youngster who wrote to ask how old a boy is supposed to be before he can do as he pleases, a Boston editor said, "We don't know; nobody ever lived that long." Even old Methuselah probably had someone around who told him where to head in occasionally.

My can drive typewriter with good last joy had reason that the large man has dead. So, honorable sir, if I can be as big use to you I will arrive on same date that you should guess."

Fireman John Brixie slid down the brass pole at the Sapula, Okla., fire house. Then firemen extinguished a blaze caused when the friction of the slide ignited matches in Brixie's pockets.

Rev. Ernest Risley, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Savannah, Ga., announced to his astonished congregation that he was

The following advertisement appeared recently in a newspaper in Kansas City, Mo.: "Lady who ran over pigs, Highway 40, wishes to communicate with owner."

Winter Building No Hazard Now

Old man winter no longer puts a damper on residential construction. It is now possible to build the year without fear that construction throughout the coldest months of the year will be delayed by the weather, or endangered by extreme exposure.

The prospective home builder, as a result, may plan to build this winter taking advantage of reduced material and labor costs, instead of waiting until the warmer Spring months.

Three factors are largely responsible for this extension of the building season, which formerly remained inactive during freezing weather.

One of the improvements in transportation. Most roads are now passable throughout the winter; materials can flow in an uninterrupted stream from factory to dealer to homestead, assuring reliable delivery of the three thousand odd items that enter into the construction of the average small house.

A second is faster construction, made possible by the development of new materials and new construction methods. A house today, may be "covered over," or enclosed, in half the time formerly required.

A third factor is the use of winter-proof materials. Anti-freezing agents, for example, enable concrete to be poured in freezing temperatures. Power shovels permit quick excavation of frozen ground, and the use of insulation of a continuous blanket in walls and roof prevents uneven drying out, or freezing, of plaster, or freezing, of water and heating lines.

The insulation used should preferably be one of the thicker, more efficient types, such as four inch thick mineral wool batts, because they the more efficient types of insulation will equalize the temperatures on both sides of the plaster, which is essential to its perfect drying and setting.

The value of the mineral wool is not lost with completion of the buildings, for it will permanently protect the house against temperature extremes, both winter and summer.

A further advantage of the twelve month building season, is that it will probably lead to lower building costs. It is believed that widespread adoption of a twelve month building year will also permit replacing the conventional "work day" with the "work year" as proposed by President Roosevelt.

BARNUM VS. BAILEY

Some 60 years ago, when Barnum's circus held undisputed sway as the biggest amusement enterprise in the world, the great showman had little cause to pay attention to several small rival circuses which sprang up, for they usually kept their distance.

The time came, however, when one of them, headed by a young Irish-American, named James A. Bailey, threatened Barnum's prestige. For one spring day in the Bailey menagerie a baby elephant was born.

This baby elephant immediately became a greater attraction than all of Barnum's colossal aggregation, and Bailey began packing the crowds in, while the big show's attendance fell off. Chagrined beyond words, Barnum wired Bailey an offer of $100,000 for the baby elephant.

Instead of selling Bailey had prepared and displayed enormous posters bearing a facsimile of Barnum's telegram, to which he added to box car letters. "This is what Barnum thinks of Bailey's baby elephant."

In desperation Barnum then offered to take Bailey in as his partner, and Bailey accepted. Thus Barnum and Bailey's "greatest show on earth" came into being.

SOYBEANS OVER THE TOP

Now comes the government with its crop report of 54,021,000 bushels of soybeans grown in the United States this year—an all-time high. Farmers cashed in on this heavy output, for soybean prices this year have been high compared with the return from grains and other products. Private estimates say total production may top 60,000,000.

This definitely makes soybeans a permanent major farm crop, experts declare. It has been possible only because of the tremendous popularity and demand for soybean oilmeal which constitutes 98 per cent of the soybeans crushed. It has been found, for example, that the central west states where production is heaviest alone can consume more soybean oilmeal than yet produced. It is used for dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, beef cattle and poultry.

The soybean has been the agricultural miracle of this generation. The amount of soybean oilmeal consumed this year by American livestock and poultry from our domestic crop is placed at fifty times the total of only ten years ago. Of the oil from this new crop more than 80 per cent goes into edible products.

Meanwhile a staff of able scientists at the federal soybean laboratory at Urbana, Ill., is making important progress in determining new industrial uses for soybeans.

University experts and experiment station workers have contributed largely to the expansion of the crop through development of types of soybeans adaptable to particular soils and climates in various sections.

How To Go Broke Raising Chickens

The season is at hand when chicken raisers can check up on their success in the poultry business. Poultry that are not laying heavily now probably won't pay well. Reports received at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture indicate the following 10 ways persons lose money with chickens:

poor quality chicks; brood in filthy, poorly ventilated quarters; quit feeding mash after first few weeks; raise pullets on disease and parasite infested ground; pullets infested with worms; house birds in uncomfortable quarters; fail to control lice and mites; feed a ration of white corn and ice water in winter; fail to cull more than once a year.

The reward of unlawful pleasure is lawful pain.

"Store of Distinctive Gifts"

Fulton Ky.

I AM a happy little tree. I stand beside the front entrance of a white cottage on a quiet street. Each Christmas time I bloom out in beautiful colored lights, and all who pass share my beauty and catch something of the joy of Christmas.

But I was not always happy like this. Once I lived in a great forest, surrounded by trees so tall I could only catch a glimpse of the blue sky above me, and I felt very small and lonely. I, too, wanted to be tall; to look out on the big world like the others and feel the sun shining through my branches. I would stretch out my limbs as far as I could, and send my roots deeper into the earth, but my progress was so slow I grew discouraged.

One day I saw a man and a boy coming through the forest. The man carried something over his shoulder and they seemed to be looking for something. Then the boy saw me and cried: "Look, father, there is just the tree we want." He ran over to me and fairly hugged me in his eagerness. The man looked me over. "Fine," he said. But when he began digging with the thing he had carried on his shoulder I began to tremble. I felt my roots snap one by one and soon I lay a tumbled heap on the ground. Life seemed over for me.

Next I was tied to a funny looking thing on wheels, that sputtered and growled when the man and boy climbed in and we started off down a twisty little road that wound through the forest, then out on a big shining highway until we came to a wide driveway that led through a sloping lawn to a white cottage. Here I was untied and put into a large earthen jar filled with sand and carried into the house, and set in a corner of a big room beside a sunny window. Oh, the joy of having the sun on my branches. I began to feel less scared and to look about me.

In a big mirror opposite I could watch the man as he fastened me upright. Then he put a string of Two Little Faces Pressed Against the Window Pane.

Lights from my top to my toe, twinkling softly as he worked. Then I heard a door open and a rush of feet—a little boy and a girl dashed into the room crying: "Mamma, come quick, and see our Christmas tree." They clapped their hands and danced about me. Soon the mother came with a box filled with shining lovely things and my plain green dress was covered with sparkling jewels. I hardly dared look in the mirror for I remembered I was only a humble tree after all, and what I saw could not be me at all; but the great silver star on my topmost branch made me feel very happy. I seemed to draw courage from just looking at it.

After a time I was left to myself. I was glad, as I needed to rest up a bit and get used to my strange surroundings. It grew dark outside and snow was falling; but inside my star shone and a quiet peace came over me.

Then once more the doors opened and a merry group of people came in. This time there were Father and Grandfather and Grandmother, too; and Mother leading the little boy and girl. Everyone was saying how lovely I was; but I did not want them to look at me. I wanted them to see two little faces outside pressed against the window pane. The boy saw them first. "Look, Daddy, Mamma!" he shouted and pointed to the window. "There are two children out there. Bring them in, Daddy; give them some of our Christmas." And the little girl clapped her hands and cried: "Oh, do, Daddy, it's cold out there!"

When they were brought in looking rather scared, but glad, I was so happy I almost shook my baubles off. Then Mother made music on a big box with shining keys and everyone sang Christmas carols. Then Father told the old story of the Shepherds and the Star that led to the Christ Child. Then a jolly man with a red coat and a pack on his back gave everyone presents, including the little strangers. There were candies and nuts, plenty for all, and such a babble of happy voices. I felt the thrill of it myself and the big star glowed in sympathy.

Deplores Movement Of Youth To Cities

"Hundreds of our rural youth leave the farm every year to take up other occupations, unconscious of the opportunity which they are turning their back upon." So declared Howard F. Sharp of Illinois, president of the Youth Section of the American County Life Association, at the annual meeting of that organization at the University of Kentucky.

"The simple privations of farming defeat the feeble enthusiasm many capable young rural people have for that way of life. The task of building a farm into something more than a house, a barnyard and a system of crop rotations is the challenge we face. There are still unlimited possibilities for making a rural home quite as attractive, if not a great deal more so, than the average urban dwelling."

Mr. Sharp believed that there is needed, in addition to a mastery of production, a genuine rural philosophy which would help free agriculture from the domination of the cities.

L. KASNOW'S

FULTON, KENTUCKY

"LUELLA" said her mother with a warning look, "take your hand out of those raisins and finish piling the apples for my pie."

"But, I've done most a bushel already," glared the guilty youngster.

"Spose you have! How many pies do you figure you children eat? Besides, Christmas time we have to have extras for folks coming in."

"Mercy me," she continued, "it's time for Joel to be home from the church bazaar! Look at that snow!"

Mrs. Dodge opened the cold closet and peered with secret delight at the fast filling shelves. Coffee cans filled with steamed plum moldings, a fine baked ham, frosted chocolate cakes, a whole row of pies—pumpkin and mince; and a big bowl of cranberry sauce, skins and all.

"Sally, you better help Luella with the apples, we're almost finished with the baking; and now if your father would bring the turkey, I could stuff it tonight."

She glanced toward the kitchen window—

"My stars! Here comes old Emil Cooper! I'll just give him a jag of that new cider and a mince pie, when he's going home."

Mrs. Dodge had a beautiful nature. She anticipated Emil Cooper and the many other hangers-on, who always showed up around Christmas; while the supply of pies and puddings grew less and less as the visitors departed.

"Father's coming!" cried the children and they ran to the door excitedly to meet him, followed by Mrs. Dodge. But a look of perplexity, almost distress, spread over her face.

"Where's the turkey?" she gasped.

"Fact is—" hesitated Mr. Dodge, "I gave it to Ned Blake on the way home—for his poor family. Mother—I couldn't, couldn't help it."

"Well," sighed Mrs. Dodge, with a crest-fallen face, "I guess they need it all right—and we still have the ham."

A light quick step sounded on the snowy porch.

"Mother! Mother!" shouted Joel, bounding into the house with a bundle larger than himself. "See! See what I have! I won the big 25-pound turkey at the bazaar!"

"Why won't?" exclaimed Mr. Dodge, "that turkey is twice the size of the one we gave away!"

BY ALL MEANS VISIT BOTH COASTS

When the King and Queen of England visit the United States, it is to be hoped that they may be induced to extend their trip to include the Pacific Coast and the great International Exposition to be held in San Francisco, as well as the New York World's Fair.

Traveling from Atlantic to Pacific would show King George and Queen Elizabeth, as nothing else could, the tremendous sweep of the county, the resources and the friendliness of the people of the United States.

Commenting on their proposed visit, the New York Times says editorially: "Their visit would symbolize in an unprecedented manner the friendship of the great English-speaking people and a century and a quarter of peace between them. To increase still further the goodwill between this nation and the British Commonwealth would imply no sort of an alliance, but merely greater cooperation on the part of both countries in striving to build a world that may be dedicated to the ways of peace rather than the ways of war."
