STOCK LAW

Interested Citizens Write, Concerning Proposed Law to Be Voted in November.

Editor Ledger: If you will give me space in your paper I will give you my views on the stock law. My text is this, "vote the law in and the stock out."

Now, my dear readers, how many thousands of dollars has been brought into this country by hogs and cattle? How many a poor renter has raised a gang of pigs out around his yard and in the wood pile, and sold them to a hog buyer to help clothe his family? The profit was almost clear to him. If we had the stock law he would have had to give some land king all them hogs brought for a place to keep them; then what would be the result? He wouldn't raise any. How much profit is there in raising a hog and paying six dollars for a place to keep it and feed it six dollars worth of corn, and then sell it for 12 or 14 dollars. Vote the law in and the stock out.

Now, Bro. Turner, I don't see why you don't start out preaching. You know the Bible so well I wish you would cite me to the chapter and verse where it said "if one won't work neither shall he eat." I know Bro. Turner is a religious man by the way he handles the scripture and a religious man will do right. Now, Bro. Turner, come out in the Ledger next week and tell the renter and the man that hasn't got but few acres of land how to vote on the stock law. Vote the law in and the stock out. I know you are a good man and want to get to heaven, but I can almost see you when that great ship lands to take you across the great chilly waters of death and lands you safely on the other side, and as Gabriel comes to let you through the pearly gates you will stop and say, "Gabriel, is there any man from that other world that had no land down there?" and as Gabriel will say "Yes, there is lots of them here," then Bro. Turner will sit down in silence, and Gabriel will say, "Won't you come in?" "No," will return on the next ship. "Oh, no, where can you go?" "Oh, I have been reading a story in the Ledger of 'no man's land' I guess I will go there, for there are men here that had no land down yonder."

Vote the law in and the stock out. I keep all my stock up and have good running water all the year round, but don't think it is best for the country.

T. A. Jones.

Editor Ledger: If you will be so kind as to give me space in your valuable paper I will give you many readers a few more thoughts in regard to the stock law. I have not studied geography much since the dark ages, therefore cannot quite locate Cedar Lane on the map, but there is one man in that vicinity I am sorry for and that is John H. Turner. He says they are 15 to 1 for the stock law (nearly free silver men) and he says there are men who are too lazy to pick up a dollar if they had to go out into the sunshine to get it (I suppose they are in his neighborhood as I do not know of any such men) would not these lazy shiftless scamps flourish and thrive under a stock law while good men sleep in the coolness of the night when there is no sunshine, they would go to your pastures, turn your stock out and make themselves some shady dollars. Now, Bro. Turner, if this stock law is voted I would advise you to leave Cedar Lane if you have to give away everything you have on earth and get out where there is sure enough folks and buy you another home, for you could soon pay for it you know if you are worth a damn, but you might find yourself greatly mistaken. There are some good hard-working men within the range of my knowledge who have bought land, paid some cash and then failed and lost what they paid. The scripture you quote in 2nd Thessalonians 3:10 are not obeyed, the laborer has to divide up the products of his labor with too many idlers. Labor has produced all the wealth of this world, but labor does not possess it. I think this stock law proposition is similar to the proposition the spider made to the fly. It is another encroachment of the master class on the rights of the working class and we are going to resist it with our ballots; just watch us in November burst asunder some of the old straps that have kept the master's saddle so securely fastened on our backs. The men who think that one class was born boot and spured and ready to ride and another class born saddled and bridled ready to be ridden must soon hit the grist. I know a man if it be proper to call him a man, who owns two homes on earth and has stipulated for one in Heaven; that is, he belongs to the church and he says any man that votes against the stock law can never live on his land here on earth, and of course he being a praying man he prays "thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven," therefore he tells the Lord "if any of these poor devils outstrip me and get to Heaven before I do, don't let them put their unhallowed feet on my portion of thy kingdom because they won't do my bidding." Rev. Dr. Henry Stiles Bradley, of Worcester, Mass., addressed the closing session of the convention of the Religious Education Association at St. Louis. He said "the United States was the kind of a nation Jesus had in mind when here on earth. He declared that every thing was operated in America just like God and the Angels do in Heaven." God save the mark, what a blessed and divine arrangement is Plutocratic ruled America. If God and the Holy Angels allow certain inhabitants of Heaven to fence up portions of His Kingdom and charge poor Holy Saints for the privilege of using it, would it not be interesting to know how business is run in the other place?

Let me say to the voters, if we vote this stock law the good old time, called hog-killing time, will soon be a thing of the past. There are little children who will never know anything about spare-ribs, back-bones, sausage, cracklin-bread and sweet milk. Now, can you look your tender child in its innocent eyes and vote all these good things away from it? In the name of God rise up and register a vow that you will vote for home right and justice. Isaac W. Jones.

Constable Will Die.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 27.—The double tragedy of Saturday, August 17, soon will claim another victim, according to reports from the bedside of Eustein C. Anderson, the deputy constable who received a load of bird-shot from the gun of Joseph Spitzer, the youthful husband, who afterwards died with his wife on the bank of Clark's river seven miles south of Paducah. Anderson is at the home of his sister Mrs. J. E. Moss, of Woodville.

Association Picnic at Taylor's Store.

The is going to be a big association speaking and picnic at Taylor's Store Thursday, Sept. 5th. The Almo band will furnish the music. Preparations are being made for a big time. Plenty of barbecued meat, cold drinks, etc. Capt. W. J. Stone, J. H. Keys and other speakers will be present. Everybody is invited. Come and spend the day and hear a question that concerns everyone discussed. There will be speaking both morning and afternoon. Come early, bring your dinner and spend the day.

Saturday night the wounded constable's condition took a change for the worse and it was not believed he could survive Monday.

Last night, though he was resting easy, physicians, among whom is his brother-in-law, entertained no hopes of his recovery. Anderson, it will be remembered, was removed from River-side hospital the Tuesday following the shooting and taken to Woodville. When he left the local institution his condition was slightly improved though pneumonia had developed in the right lung.

It is said that physicians have never entertained any hopes of his recovery since pneumonia set in.

Notice to Property Owners and Cont.

Announcement.

We have bought the grocery business of Mr. J. M. Cole, and will take charge of same as soon after September 1st, practicable. We earnestly solicit the customers of this house to continue their business with us, promising to make your relations with us as pleasant, satisfactory and profitable as they have Very Important Election.

The first Saturday in September is the date for the election of precinct chairmen for the tobacco association. All persons who have pledged their 1912 crop of tobacco are eligible to vote in the election. If you have not yet pledged your tobacco do so before the first Saturday and then go out to your voting precinct and elect a good man for chairman. There is to be elected a chairman for each voting district in the county with the exception of the Murrays and in these voting districts only one chairman is to be elected from East Murray and one from West Murray.

This election is an important one and every association member should attend and see that only the very best man in the respective districts are elected to transact our business. Don't forget the date.

Dresden last week and a verdict was given in favor of Gaskins. Miss McDaniel sued for $10,000. This couple ran away on a mule-mob and were married in Paris about two years ago. The girl was young and foolish and Gaskins was old, with more money than brains but with no alarming amount of either. The suit grew out of their sensational escapade.—Paris Parisian.

Must Close on Sunday.

Washington, Aug. 25.—All first and second-class post-offices will be closed on Sundays as a result of one provision of the new postal appropriation bill passed by Congress and signed by President Taft.

Every important city in the United States is affected. Hereafter only special delivery letters will pass through on that day and no mail will be placed in lock boxes.

Post-offices in several cities have been closed heretofore. The Postmaster General has permitted that under a regulation where it was evident that local sentiment demanded it. The closing is now compelled by law.

Re-union Set for September 28th.

At a recent meeting of H. B. Lyon Camp Confederate Veterans the date for the annual re-union was set for September 28th, fourth Saturday, and the Calloway County Fair Grounds fixed as the place. All veterans and their friends and families are invited to attend the gathering. Bring dinner and spend a pleasant day at the beautiful grounds.

Mrs. S. V. Mohundro, Mrs. Esker Smith and daughter, Louise, and Miss Claudia Stubblefield, have just returned from a pleasant visit to Mrs. J. W. Swann, of Murray, and while there had the pleasure of being present at Mrs. Swann's birthday dinner, which was served in courses from the most wholesome to the most delicate of refreshments which were too numerous to mention and which we are not often permitted to be present only in such homes as Mrs. Swann's.—Mayfield Messenger.

Oliver Stubblefield Found.

Oliver Stubblefield has been located in Paducah where he is with relatives. He mysteriously disappeared from the home of Wiley Utterback, north of the city, where he was employed some several weeks ago and at the time fears were entertained that he had met foul play.

ANOTHER

Well Known Tobacco Man of Mayfield Under Arrest Charged With Arson.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 25.—Wood Gordon, the well known tobacco man and former city councilman, was placed under arrest Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock, on a charge of arson. The arrest was made by Policeman Roy Hamlet, at the instance Assistant Fire Marshall, Peel. Judge Monroe, in the absence of Police Judge, Bunk Gardner, and his examining trial was set for September 4, before Judge Gardner. His bond was fixed at $1,000, which was immediately signed by R. J. Allen, S. R. Douthit, J. N. Harris, Hardy Houseman and Newt Jeffrey.

The arrest of Wood Gordon caused somewhat of a sensation throughout the city. While the warrant charges barn burning, it does not specifically state the building, but it is said the charge grew out of the destruction, by fire, of one of the group of four barns that burned in the tobacco district a month ago. According to information from a good source, other arrests of well known men will be made within a short time. It is also reported that one of the men alleged to have been connected with the crimes of arson, has confessed, and implicated others of his friends.

Officer Peel arrived in town Monday night, and the confession it is rumored followed Tuesday.

It is believed that some sensational developments will be had at the trials of the men accused, at the November term of circuit court.

Watkin's Remedies.

To the Citizens of Calloway county:—By request of my people I am going to sell you for cash at a price that will pay you to buy. Watkin's Liniment 85c per bottle or 3 for $2.25, all dollar bottles at same price. Strictly cash. No goods on time. Have your cash at hand, I am on my way to see you. I wish to sell my house and lot and territory, horse and wagon at a reasonable price. Call on me on Depot street for prices, all goods cheaper. I hope this will please all. J. W. Boswell, Murray, Ky. Call at my house and get your goods.

May Not Be Settled.

There is some talk going the political rounds that although the appointment of Dr. Joe Goodson, of Webster county, as superintendent of the Eastern State Hospital for the Insane, at Lexington, was supposed to clear the track for reappointment of Judge A. J. G. Wells, of Calloway county, as one of the Democratic members of the State Board of Control of Charitable Institutions, the matter is not settled by any means. Judge W. P. Lee, of Mayfield is an applicant for Judge Wells place, when his term expires early next year, and as he is very close to Gov. McCreary he may make it very interesting some politicians say for the incumbent.—Louisville Times.

CITY COUSIN—MUD BOTTOM

FAVORABLE WEEK
FOR COTTON CROP

MUCH LESS THAN THE USUAL AUGUST DETERIORATION.

THE COMPLAINTS MULTIPLY

Boll Weevils Much More Numerous in Mississippi—Full Yield Promised in the Mississippi Valley States.

The weather of the week was generally favorable to the cotton crop, but complaints are somewhat more numerous than during the preceding week and as the crop approaches maturity irregularities appear in condition.

Southern and Central Texas is suffering from drought and deterioration is noted in all districts south and west of Waco. Boll weevils are much more numerous in Mississippi.

Speaking broadly, there was advancement east of the Mississippi river, however, and also in states west with the exception of Texas.

The plant is coming slowly to maturity and there is much less than the usual August deterioration. In the Mississippi valley states the fruit set is unusually heavy and the plant though not large will make a very full yield if the autumn is favorable and frost is sufficiently delayed.

Cultivation is practically complete now in all sections, having been prolonged much beyond the usual time because of the lateness of the spring rains.

From time to time will best promote the development of the crop for the next two or three weeks, after which time rather dry open weather is to be desired.

Cotton is opening very fast in Texas, but slowly in other states. The movement will be delayed about ten days or two weeks beyond the usual time before it gains any volume.

WOULD MARRY HIS WIFE

Erring Husband Answered Advertisement and Was Trapped.

Chicago—Deserted by her husband, whom she had met through a matrimonial paper, Mrs. G. H. Moore advertised in a newspaper for an assumed name and received an answer from her unsuspecting spouse, who expressed an earnest desire to "marry the beautiful Mrs. Henrietta Butler with an income of $10,000."

Finally "Mrs. Butler" informed Moore that if he would come to her home, she would talk to her.

Mrs. Moore took a train for her home, but, wearing a heavy veil, was awaiting him at the station. With her were three detectives.

"I love you," exclaimed Moore, as he jumped from the train and saw "Mrs. Butler."

"That's funny," the woman said, and removed her veil.

Moore, gazing was hurried to a police station. Mrs. Moore accused him of having recently deserted her.

Taft Signs Army Bill.

Washington—President Taft signed the army appropriation bill carrying approximately $99,000,000 in providing reforms in the organization of the war department.

25 Hurt in Stand Collapse.

New York—Twenty-five persons were injured when a section of the grand stand at the East New York ball park collapsed during the game. More than a hundred persons were hurled 20 to 30 feet to the ground, among them a number of women.

Congress Cost Bill.

Washington—Official figures on the total appropriations of this session of congress will not be available for several days, but it is likely the aggregate will approximate one billion dollars.

Claims Cancer Cure.

Boston—Fresh from medical centers of Europe, Dr. Frank D. Donoghue has brought back with him a small quantity of a preparation called "Selenin and dim," which has been successfully tried by German scientists for the cure of cancer.

Chicago, disappointed because his five-year-old daughter had not been born, Frank Novak killed himself. He said he wanted a boy.

ROOSEVELT SAYS
STORY IS FALSE

COLONEL CHARGES ATTEMPT TO SLANDER HIM

SAYS ARCHBOLD A COWARD

"They Have Made It Clear That I Am the Man Whom the Penroses and Archbolds Most Dread in Public Life."

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—Col. Roosevelt sat on the porch at Sagamore Hill for an hour and a half and dictated a statement in reply to the testimony of John D. Archbold before the senate investigating committee.

He reiterated his declaration that he knew nothing of a contribution by Mr. Archbold or the Standard Oil Company to the Republican campaign of 1904, declared that he did not for one moment believe that Mr. Archbold's testimony is truthful, charged Mr. Archbold with a "wicked assault on a dead man," added that during many calls which Mr. Archbold made upon him while he was president, to urge him not to prosecute the Standard Oil Company, Mr. Archbold never referred to any contributions to his campaign fund, and concluded with the suggestion that the senate committee should make both Mr. Archbold and Senator Penrose testify at once concerning their relations while Mr. Penrose was a member of the industrial commission.

In his last word Col. Roosevelt thanked both Messrs. Archbold and Penrose for asking it clear beyond possibility of doubt that I am the man the Penroses and Archbolds of the country most dread in public life.

HARAHAN TO THE SEABOARD

Committee Will Recommend His Election to Directors.

New York—That the Seaboard Air Line is to have a new president and that he will be elected within two weeks was learned definitely. A committee appointed by the executive committee to recommend to the directors a president has made its selection.

The new head of the road will be William J. Harahan, son of the late J. T. Harahan, vice president of the Erie, and his name will be presented to the directors for formal election early in September.

FOUND DEAD AT HIS POST

Operator's Sudden Demise, However, Did Not Cause Wreck.

Oroville, Cal.—E. R. Sinclair, Western Pacific railroad operator at Belden, 35 miles west here, set his key dead of heart failure, while the Oroville dispatcher tried frantically to "raise" Belden to transmit dispatches that would prevent a train collision.

Persistent calling over the wire brought no response, nor was the telephone answered. Then the Oroville dispatcher telephoned to citizens of Belden and they hurried to the station and found the operator dead. Incoming trains were delayed until another operator could be sent to the town.

Navy to the Rescue.

Washington—A reign of terror, extending all along the west coast of Mexico and Lower California forced the United States government to call on the navy to aid in the suppression of the Mexican revolution. The Denver, which was sent to the west coast to show the "flag," was called elsewhere, and the Vicksburg was ordered to take her place. She will call at La Paz, Guaymas, Mazatlan and probably Altata for the reassurance of Americans still remaining in the trouble zone, which is constantly increasing in extent.

Lectures From Own Coffin.

Lawrenceville, Ga.—Standing on his coffin, Mack Strickland talked for several minutes to a crowd of a thousand people which had gathered to see him hanged. After he had finished warning his hearers to live upright lives, he walked calmly to the gallows and a few seconds later was dead.

Dissolve Telephone Trust.

Washington—It was learned at the department of justice that the department has made out its case against the telephone trust and that the concern must dissolve or be taken into court.

CONGRESS CLOSES
PROLONGED SESSION

FILIBUSTERS ARE SATISFIED—DISAGREEMENTS SETTLED.

LA FOLLETTE WON HIS FIGHT

Few Senators Present When Adjournment Was Declared—Session Was One of Longest and Most Laborious on Record.

Washington—Sundered by the embarrasments of Saturday's all-night session of filibusters and disagreements, congress adjourned its differences, invited President Taft up to the capitol once more, and at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon wrote "Purs" after the proceedings of the session of the Sixty-second congress.

The end was marked with a return of harmony. Senator La Follette, demanding action on the Penrose campaign fund resolution, found all opposition smoothed away in front of him, and the resolution passed almost without discussion.

Senators Chamberlain, Martin, Swan and Culberson, after fighting bitterly for the payment of the "state claims," embodied in the general deficiency bill, yielded to the urgings of their colleagues and permitted the senate to yield to the demands of the house and strike those claims from the bill. In return for this concession, however, they received the promise of support next winter, at which time the claims again will be pressed for payment.

With these old claims, amounting in all to $600,000, went to the "extra month" pay for congressional employees, which the senate demanded and the house refused to give.

The president signed the general deficiency bill at 4:10 o'clock, making certain the payment of the $1,500,000 deficiency in army pay, the $150,000 for the Gettysburg memorial celebration next year, the $250,000 for extension of customs work and scores of other important payments that hinged on the passage of the bill.

The session "just fired out" in the senate, to use the words of one observer. A comparative handful of members occupied their seats, and a call for a quorum in either the house or senate would have forced a return of the embarrassing situation of last week.

A wild outburst of applause greeted Speaker Clark's announcement of adjournment as his gavel fell in the house. The four immediately became an animated scene, members bidding each other good-bye and shaking hands. Old-time political foes buried all differences and all feuds appeared to be forgotten in the general leave-taking.

MADE FORTUNE IN JAIL

Banker Robin Speculated From Behind Prison Bars.

New York—Joseph G. Robin, who is in the Tombs awaiting sentence on his conviction for grand larceny in connection with the wrecking of the Northern Bank, is said to have made another fortune through speculation which he carried on while a prisoner. Robin, it was thought, could furnish valuable information in the case pending against former City Chamberlain Hyde, so the former president of the Northern Bank was not sentenced after his conviction; but was kept in the Tombs and during the day-time it is reported, he occupied a room in the criminal courts building, which is equipped with a telephone and typewriter. Here, it is said, he has rebuilt his wrecked fortune.

Negro "Elks" Sued.

Dayton, O.—Suit to enjoin "The Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World, an organization of negroes, from using the name 'Elks' as well as the badge insignia of the order, was filed in common pleas court here.

Hogs Bring $9.05.

National Stock Yards, Ill.—Hogs exceeded the nine-dollar mark at the St. Louis National Stock Yards Monday, for the first time in two years at any Western market. They sold for $9.05 per hundredweight. This price was paid for porkers from both Illinois and Missouri, while Iowa hogs brought $9 and Arkansas hogs $8.85. Hefers attained highest point in twenty-five years at the St. Louis stock yards when they sold at $9.50 per hundred.

Col. Wilson Dies in Pen.

Atlanta, Ga.—Col. C. C. Wilson, 67, former president of the United Wireless Company, died at the United States penitentiary here, where he was serving a three-year sentence for using the mails in attempt to defraud. Urmie poisoning was given as the cause of the colonel's death.

$3,000 for Flood Relief.

Washington—The American Red Cross telegraphed $3,000 to the flood relief committee at Natchez, Miss., to aid such sufferers in Louisiana and Mississippi.

To Recall Gov. Johnson.

San Francisco, Cal.—A petition for the recall of Gov. Hiram Johnson has been put in circulation here by Alex. Udell, an attorney. One of the charges made in the petition is that Gov. Johnson approved legislation intended to foster land grabbing by wealthy individuals.

Must Aid Sinking Ships.

London—Failure to go to the relief of vessels in distress is a misdemeanor punishable by two years' imprisonment, according to a notice sent to steamship captains by the British board of trade.

Many a man can't even do his duty without feeling that he is doing more than his share.

Regular practicing physicians recommend and prescribe OXIDINE for Malaria, because it is a proven remedy by years of experience. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest and administer at first sign of Chills and Fever.

There isn't much doing in the soft love line when a man loves himself as he does his neighbors.

A woman seldom hits anything she aims at, especially if she throws herself at a man's head.

And many a girl who starts out with the intention of making a name for herself winds up by turning the job over to some man.

The Natural Inference. While out motoring the other day, I ran across an old friend of mine. "Was he much hurt?"

Sounds So. "How oddly that man cleaning the machine talks." "How do you mean?" "I heard him telling his helper to 'save the waste'."

Cause of the Delay. "Strange! These two nations do not declare war." "They are haggling about what percentage each is to get of the moving picture receipts."

Remarkable Financiering. "Figures don't lie." "Don't they? Here's an item from New York that says a policeman there saved $50,000 in a month from his salary of $2,500—Those figures must lie for they won't stand."

Diplomacy. "Mrs. Jinks always has such a good time when she goes anywhere. How does she manage to convey the impression she is a widow?" "She always makes an allusion to her 'tardy husband' as 'my late husband'."

No Concern. "Mr. Mipe must be a singularly pure and upright man." "Why do you think he is unusually so?" "Somebody told him there were well-defined reports that a Burns detective had been operating secretly in the neighborhood—he frequents, and he said it was nothing to him."

Couldn't Happen to Them. Mike got a job moving some kegs of powder, and, to the alarm of his foreman, was discovered smoking at his work.

"Jerusalem!" exclaimed the foreman. "Do you know what happened when a man smoked at this job some years ago? There was an explosion that blew up a dozen men."

"That couldn't happen here," returned Mike calmly. "Why not?" "Cause there's only you and me," was the reply. "Everybody's Mag's size."

Barber Sheps in China. Since the Chinese revolution a great many Chinese have had their cues cut off, and this has led to the opening of a large number of barber shops throughout the far east wherever Chinese are located, says an exchange.

Several progressive business men of Singapore, anticipating this, imported a large number of American barber chairs, and they are now unable to get supplies quickly enough. It has also been learned that the Chinese insist on having American hair clippers, and refuse all other make-up offered.

It would seem that American manufacturers of barbers' supplies should experience a large increase in their Oriental trade.

THE WAY OUT

Change of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

An ambitious but delicate girl, after failing to go through school on account of nervousness and hysteria, found in Grape-Nuts the only thing that seemed to build her up and furnish her the peace of health.

"From infancy," she says, "I have not been strong. Being ambitious to learn at any cost I finally got to the High School, but soon had to abandon my studies on account of nervous prostration and hysteria.

"My food did not agree with me, I grew thin and despondent. I could not enjoy the simplest social affair for I suffered constantly from nervousness in spite of all sorts of medicines.

"This wretched condition continued until I was twenty-two, when I became interested in the letters of those who had cases like mine and who were getting well by eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had little faith but procured a box and after the first dish I experienced a peculiar satisfied feeling that I had never gained from any ordinary food. I slept and rested better that night and in a few days began to grow stronger.

"I had a new feeling and peace and restfulness. In a few weeks, to my great joy, the headaches and nervousness left me and life became bright and hopeful. I resumed my studies and later taught ten months with ease—of course using Grape-Nuts every day. It is now four years since I began to use Grape-Nuts, I am the mistress of a happy home, and the old weakness has never returned." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in place. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are accurate, true, and full of human interest.

SYNOPSIS.

Garrett Coast, a young man of New York City, meets Douglas Blackstock, who invites him to a card party. He accepts, although he dislikes Blackstock, the reason being that both are in love with Katherine Thaxter. Coast fails to convince her that Blackstock is unworthy of her friendship. At the party Coast meets two named Dundas and Van Tassel. There is a quarrel, and Blackstock shoots Van Tassel dead. Coast struggles to wrest the weapon from him, thus the police discover them. Coast is arrested for murder. He is convicted, but as he begins his term, Dundas names Blackstock as the murderer and kills himself. Coast purchases a yacht and while sailing sees Katherine Thaxter and dead. Coast purchases a yacht and while sailing sees Katherine Thaxter and dead. CHAPTER XIII.—(Continued.)

Blackstock spoke abruptly the instant Coast succeeded in forcing the door to—apologetically and harshly, but with a certain jerky intonation that betrayed jangled nerves; an involuntary confession most welcome to its hearer; this was, after all, with all its viciousness, a human being—no such nerveless monster of blood and iron as Appleyard had pictured in his narrative of the hour of the assassination, or even as Coast had come to figure the man in his long days of hopeless brooding.

"Who's that?" he cried. "Who's there? What the devil—"

He paused to control his agitation. But Coast withheld his reply in an appreciable moment. Then, "Mr. Black, I believe," he said quietly.

"Black!" The man started at sound of an unfamiliar voice, and Coast saw his great frame quiver—slightly, indeed, but perceptibly. "That's my name," he continued hoarsely. "But who are you?"

"What do you mean by coming in here without knocking?" he added with a show of bluster.

"I knocked—several times," Coast lied steadily. "The wind, doubtless. Sorry, I startled you; thought you'd be expecting me."

"Expecting you!" Blackstock moved impatiently. "But, damn it, who are you? Can't you give yourself a name?"

"Why, Handside, of course."

Coast's tone was a perfection of polite surprise. "Surely," it seemed to say, "you must've been looking for me!" Distrusting deliberately artificial inflections, he was at pains to speak crisply, as was not his habit; such being the only way he could think of to disguise his voice. He was watching Blackstock closely, alert for a sign of recognition in the man's expression. "Somehow to his surprise, he detected none. 'I got orders to come here and see Mr. Power last night,' he continued. 'Came down this morning to New Bedford and—'

The words froze upon his lips. A door to his left had opened; Katherine stood there, watching, listening. Apparently she had started to enter without any suspicion that her husband was not talking to one of the servants, and in her astonishment had stopped. The figure of the man by the door could not but be strange to her, masked as its every line and contour was by clumsy and flimsy oilskins and the deep shadow cast by the broad turned-down brim of a sou'wester. Yet Coast thought to discern a deathless apprehension in her pose, a mute but infinitely pitiful question in her eyes. And his heart stood still for the crucial instant was imminent; in another minute, two at most, she would know him. And then—

"Well!" Blackstock roused him. "What you stopping for? I'm listening."

"I beg pardon," Coast tugged at the button on the chin-strap of his sou'wester. "The lady there—"

He didn't know—

Blackstock turned his head impatiently, moving his sightless eyes in the direction of Katherine. "Oh," he said, "my wife—"

The woman moved quickly into the room. "Yes," she said, still with her eyes to the stranger. "It is I, Doug. I didn't know—"

"This is Mr. Handside," Blackstock told her sharply, as if irritated by the interruption; "he's to take Power's place—"

Coast removed his sou'wester and came forward a pace, so that the light was strong upon his face. "Yes, ma'am," he said. "I'm the new operator. 'How'd you do?'" He contrived to keep his tone coolly respectful and impersonal, but his eyes were pleading with her, and he hung upon the issue of her response as a condemned man lives in the hope of a reprieve.

She knew him now; his action in discovering his features had but hastened slightly the confirmation of her most dread premonition. And of a sudden her face was a mask of chalk with eyes that blazed with cold fires of terror. Coast saw her away, but though he feared she was about to faint, dared not move to her assistance. Indeed, there was no need; she was fashioed of sterner stuff; though every atom of her being shuddered, she remained mistress of herself. An instant's delay would have been damning; she knew that, and her answer fell pat as he ceased to speak.

"Good evening," she said so admirably that there was even a hint of languid indifference in her voice. "You have surprised us, Mr. Handside."

"Lord, yes!" Blackstock broke in. "It's hard to believe. D'you mean to tell me you made the run through this storm?"

The blood flowed back into Coast's heart. He flashed the woman a look of thanks, but her gaze was blank as it met his, and he knew that as yet she existed and guided her actions automatically. The real awakening to the situation was yet to come—now with her would it be long delayed. The crisis was not yet past.

"Well," he said, with a careless half-laugh, "I'm here, you see. It is a blow, that's a fact—Had me frightened; I've seen some storms, but they were from the decks of steamships." He began to unfasten the oilskin coat. "Lucky to get here at all, I guess."

"That's true, or I'm no judge of weather. I wonder you managed to get Finn and Hecksher to take the chance."

"They didn't want to," Coast offered up a fervent prayer of gratitude for the fortuitous turn of the conversation that had supplied him with the names of Mr. Handside's traveling companions. "But I was told to hustle because Power was leaving you practically without notice, so I insisted. Of course the fog held us up all morning; and then we had to have an accident!"

"How's that?" Blackstock sat down heavily, still with his staring eyes turned toward Coast, his face clouded with thoughtfulness. "Where are they, anyway?" he continued without pause, as one reminded of an oversight. "Finn—Hecksher—why aren't they with you?"

"Oh, they're all right," Coast parried, making time for Katherine, whose struggle to retain her poise and comprehend just what it all meant was engaging his attention to such a degree that he had to force himself to give heed to Blackstock. "They don't need to worry about them."

Blackstock leaned forward, scowling intently. "What do you mean by that? Didn't they bring you here?"

"Only part way; you see, this accident I mentioned—"

"What sort of an accident? Hang it, if they didn't bring you—Where'd you leave them?"

"Safe enough—high and dry—grounded in Quick's Hole."

"The devil you say! How'd Finn come to run the Corsair aground? Why, he knows more about this coast—"

"Not his fault. It came about kindred of some amateur asses—beardon, Mrs. Black; I'm quoting Mr. Finn—in a cabotage. They almost ran us down when we were about midway through the Hole—" terhand side of the channel—forced the name of the island it makes of from."

"This is Mr. Handside," Blackstock told her sharply, as if irritated by the interruption; "he's to take Power's place—"

Coast hesitated in assumed perplexity, in actual trepidation more acute than he cared to acknowledge even to himself.

"Pasque, you mean?"

"That's it." But though his story seemed to be credited, the tension held unrelaxed; Katherine was recovering from her shock and—

What would she do when she had time to take second thought? Would her primal impulse shield him, to further his deception, prevail? Or would some mad concept of duty force her to expose him and bring ruin down upon them both?

He could not keep his eyes from her. Not a detail of her attitude escaped him, not a convulsive movement of her hand (in whose rosy hollow lay his life and hers). She stood unmoving by the table, one hand touching it for support.

Meanwhile he heard himself talking, responding glibly to Blackstock's testy catechism.

"But how the devil'd you get here, then?"

"Pure luck. We'd been stuck about half an hour when a fisherman—fellow named Wise, from Vineyard Haven—came along, trying to beat the storm home. We hailed him and he luffed up to us—he could do that with his boat, a light-draught Cape Cod cat; and I offered him a ten-spot to bring me on. You see, I understood he was an emergency case. He held back a bit, but the sight of the money fettered him; and he earned it. I wouldn't take that trip again for a hundred dollars."

"Well, then . . . But what's become of him?"

"Oh, he went back to his boat—said he didn't dare to leave her for himself."

"But what's become of him?"

"Oh, he went back to his boat—said he didn't dare to leave her for himself."

"Lucky to get 'ere at all, I guess."

"That's true, or I'm no judge of weather. I wonder you managed to get Finn and Hecksher to take the chance."

"They didn't want to," Coast offered up a fervent prayer of gratitude for the fortuitous turn of the conversation that had supplied him with the names of Mr. Handside's traveling companions. MORE U. S. MARINES GO TO NICARAGUA

GOVERNMENT NEEDS CRY OF AMERICANS FOR PROTECTION.

LITTLE TROUBLE EXPECTED

Senator Bacon Says Real Reason Is Protection of American Interests in Collection of Customs.

Washington.—Arrangements to place a force of 2,000 bluejackets and marines in Nicaragua within ten days to protect foreign lives and property and keep railroad communication open from the American legation in Managua to the Pacific coast were made Wednesday by the navy department.

Secretary Myer issued rush orders for the big armored cruiser California at San Diego, Cal., to proceed to Panama. Meanwhile the transport Prairie, N. H. navy yard to Philadelphia to take aboard 750 marines and sail on to Colon. This force will be sent over the Panama railroad to Panama and be taken on board the cruiser California, and be rushed northward to San Juan del Sur and Corinto.

These plans will bring United States forces on ships close by and already ashore in the disturbed republic to a little more than 2,000 men.

If the rebels took possession of the railroad all Americans in the capital would be cut off from principal seaports on the Pacific.

Senator Bacon asked the senate to authorize the committee investigating recent revolutions in Cuba and Mexico to report upon what authority United States forces had been landed in Nicaragua.

Senator Bacon scored the department for its attitude toward Nicaragua, declaring that "the executive departments of this government are now, in my judgment, violating the law by using the army and navy of the United States in Nicaragua." The senator read newspaper dispatches referring to an "American collector of customs in Nicaragua."

REFUSE TO OVERRIDE VETO

House Votes to Continue Commerce Court Until March 4.

Washington.—For the third time the house passed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill over the veto of President Taft by a vote of 154 to 53, but in the senate the efforts to pass it failed, 34 to 27. As a result the house amended the measure by continuing appropriation for the commerce court until March 4, 1913, passed it and it lies with the senate appropriation committee, with good prospects that it will pass the senate.

Solution of the deadlock between congress and the White House is believed to have been found and as a result adjournment now looms appreciably nearer.

MURDEROUS MEXICANS

Telegraph Poles Decorated With Dead Men.

Waco, Tex.—"All around Torreon the telephone poles are decorated with dead men, murdered by the soldiers, and at Rialta last week twenty-three bodies were hanging at one time," Dr. Walter Lee Austin, now of Waco, is told in a letter from a friend in Zacatecas, Mexico. Dr. Austin, for nearly four years, was a surgeon for the Mexican national army, with headquarters at Torreon.

The intention of the gruesome views to be seen. In these pictures men are seen hanging from the poles. Their bodies are suspended from ropes around their necks. He writes:

"The soldiers in bad shape and getting worse. The government soldiers are murdering all the rebels they can catch, and the rebels are doing the same thing."

Cotton Belt and L. & N. Merge.

Austin, Tex.—Allison Mayfield, chairman of the state railroad commission, said he had advised from Cotton Belt railway officials confirming the report that the Louisville and Nashville is completing arrangements to buy the Cotton Belt, and that when the directors of the former road meet in New York they will close the deal and authorize a bond issue of from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 to carry out the deal. The Cotton Belt and Louisville and Nashville meet each other at Memphis and St. Louis.

Hang Seven in California.

Sacramento, Cal.—Seven condemned murderers must die in San Quentin and Folsom penitentiaries because a petition to initiate new legislation affecting capital punishment failed to get the necessary 31,000 signatures. Only 12,000 names were obtained.

Opium in Mail Bags.

Honolulu.—Smugglers of opium, in their efforts to circumvent the customs authorities at American ports, have been using mail bags as carriers of the contraband drug.

Grasshoppers at Tulsa.

Tulsa, Okla.—An immense army of grasshoppers descended on Tulsa, making a noise like hail as they came crashing against buildings. Many people had their doors and windows open and the grasshoppers swarmed into the houses, driving the occupants into the streets for a time.

Wilson Sees the Babies.

Seagirt, N. Y.—Six hundred babies in gowns, doll coaches, miniature wagons and floats, passed in review before Gov. Woodrow Wilson in the annual baby parade at Asbury Park.

NIGHT RIDERS ARE AGAIN IN THE SADDLE

INDEPENDENT GROWERS OF BLACK PATCH THREATENED.

Anonymous Letters Signed "N. R." Trouble Most Pronounced in Caldwell, Lyon and Trigg.

Hopkinsville.—Althwart the Black Patch, whose chief farming product, tobacco, is annually worth about $10,000,000, the sinister shadow of the masked mob with its switches, guns and torch is again cast. After many months of peace and prosperity, night riding, with its attendant horrors, once more threatens the region. Already the outlaws are in the saddle and tactics similar to those which immediately preceded the former reign of terror are being practiced. Activities thus far have been confined to portions of the counties of Trigg, Caldwell and Lyon, where, independent tobacco growers are receiving warning letters with the ominous and familiar "N. R." signature attached, and being called at night to their doors by lawless bands with the menacing command to join with the Planters' Association. Officials of the growers' organization who are in the midst of a vigorous campaign for membership, emphatically declare their abhorrence of any but lawful methods to gain recruits and express the hope that the guilty ones will be speedily ferreted out and severely dealt with by the courts.

Several bands of the outlaws are operating in the region where the lines of Trigg, Caldwell and Lyon meet, and Cedar Grove is the rallying point. Up to the present time no violent deeds by night riders have come to light. They have been contenting themselves with threatening the independents.

BIG DRAINAGE SCHEME.

To Redeem 21,000 Acres of Land in Western Kentucky.

Paducah.—One of the largest drainage problems ever attempted in the State is planned by land owners in McCracken, Graves, Ballard and Carlisle counties. More than 21,000 acres will be redeemed and located by the draining of Mayfield creek, it is claimed, in a petition filed in the McCracken County Court. Similar petitions were filed in the county courts of Graves, Ballard and Carlisle counties. The petition seeks to have the county courts order the draining of the creek. The creek, according to the plan outlined, will be straightened, widened and deepened, from Boaz Station, in Graves county, to its mouth, near Fort Jefferson, where it empties into the Mississippi river. The creek flows through Graves, McCracken, Ballard and Carlisle counties.

BOY FARMERS AND GIRL COOKS.

Win Many Prizes at Bullitt County Fair.

First Corn and Best Bread.

Shepherdsville.—That the teaching of agriculture and domestic science in the public schools and the offering of prizes for excellence in products of the farm and home have borne fruit in Bullitt county were shown when it was announced that some of the finest corn grown in this section was raised by members of the Boys' Corn Club and that an 11-year-old girl had won the first prize for the best loaf of bread and the best cake. Another girl under 12 years old was awarded a prize for the best biscuits, the best plate of small cakes, the best collection of jellies, the best specimen of darning, and the best plate of tomatoes.

Henry County Fair.

Kennett.—Fine horses, pretty women and unlimited hospitality—all peculiarly Kentuckian—marked "Louisville Day," the second day of the first annual Henry County Fair here. The local business men and the fair officials greeted them and lost in doing honor to the guests of the day. More than 200 members of the Louisville Board of Trade and Commercial Club were in attendance.

Planters' Protective Association.

Hopkinsville.—The rally held at Howell for the purpose of arousing interest in the Planters' Protective Association and securing the pledges of the farmers to the end that the bulk of the present growing crop may be controlled by that organization when the selling season opens, drew a crowd estimated at 2,000. Speeches were made by several association workers.

Judge Toney's Career Ended.

Louisville.—Judge Sterling B. Toney, noted Kentucky jurist, died at the Norton Memorial Hospital. For twenty years Judge Toney served on the Circuit bench in Louisville. During this time many notable cases were tried and some of the jurist's decisions won praise the country over.

Pardoned Pistol Toter.

Gov. McCreary pardoned Jesse Alexander, of Elizabethtown, who was sentenced to twenty days in jail for carrying concealed a deadly weapon. Alexander paid a fine of $50, and the governor was informed that his wife is ill and needs his support.

Confederate Memorial.

Hopkinsville.—The Twenty-Fifth Circuit Court refused to appropriate $250 to the Confederate monument fund, the vote standing 4 for the appropriation and 4 against it. The monument is to be erected by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Worm Attacks Melons.

Hickman.—Growers in this section report that cantaloupes have been attacked by a new species of worm which enters from the ground side. One grower is reported to be in danger of losing several thousand melons.

Some people spend their lives in trying to acquire money to spend.

As a summer tonic there is no medicine that quite compares with OXIDINE. It not only builds up the system, but takes regularly, prevents malaria. Regular or Tasteless formula at Druggists.

The average man can make a fool of himself almost as easily as a woman can make a fool of him.

Paradoxical Effect.

"There was so much fire in his eyes."

"There always is when she is put out."

Its Class.

"I don't like this chicken-raising for a man to go into."

"Why not?"

"It's such a hen-pecking kind of business."

Envious, Perhaps.

"I'm afraid our friend Scrapeley is a Socialist."

"No. You misjudge Scrapeley. What makes him sore is the fact that in spite of the high cost of living, some men manage to lead double lives."

Where He Balked.

"She has a terrible time with her husband."

"Yes, she is driving him to drink."

"Nonsense! If she was driving him to drink things would be different; she's trying to drive him the other way."

Orphanages in Turkey.

There are 22 orphanages in the Turkish empire, conducted by American, enrolling 3,000 inmates. In connection with these orphanages an industrial work has sprung up which gives employment to over 10,000 people in addition to the orphans. The work is largely done by the widows and orphans and includes rug and lace-making, various forms of embroidery, and other domestic work. The product of these institutions find a market abroad.

The Cannibals Need Food.

An officer of the French colonial army brought a letter from the chief of a group of missionaries in the southern islands of the Pacific, not long ago, which winds up as follows: "I regret to tell you that our little company can do little against the fanaticism of these poor wretches. Moreover, famine is ravaging the country; for the harvest has been destroyed. Therefore the dispatch of more missionaries has become urgent."—La Petite Republique.

Sparrow Sets House Ablaze.

An English sparrow was the cause of three houses catching fire at Lawrenceburg, Ind., recently, and had it not been for the prompt work of the neighbors and friends all would have been destroyed. The sparrow was building a nest under the eaves of the home of Mrs. Mary Webster, and it picked up a long cotton string from a pile of rubbish that had just been burned. With the burning string in its beak, the sparrow flew to the roof of Mrs. Sophia Shaffer's house, then to Otto McCright's house and then to the roof of Emanuel Wuest's home, where it dropped the burning string. A fire started in the shingles of each building. Each was extinguished by neighbors before much damage was done.

A Word to the Wise.

The proverbial advice, "Cobbler, stick to your last," had an opposite exemplification in the following anecdote, for which Zion's Advocate is responsible.

A colored man was brought before a police judge, charged with stealing chickens. He pleaded guilty, and received sentence, when the judge asked how it was he managed to lift those chickens right under the window of their owner's house when there was a dog in the yard.

"Hit wouldn't be of no use, judge," said the culprit, "to try to 'splain dis thing to you all. Ef you was to try it, like as not you would git yer hide full of shot, an' git no chickens, neither. Ef you want to engage in any race, judge, yo' bettah stick to de bench, whar yo' am familar."

INDEPENDENT TOBACCO.

Undue alarm is felt by some of the tobacco association members of this county regarding a report that has gone out over the district to the effect that the association officials were contemplating the taking over of all the unsold tobacco and that it would be disposed of through the channels of the organization. The Ledger is in a position to state that there is no truth whatever in this report. In the first place the independent purchased and prized tobacco has not been prepared for market under the same supervision as the association tobacco and could not be accepted, and further the association does not need the tobacco nor care to help a few fellows "out of the hole" who have always been antagonistic to the association.

The Ledger feels very confident that the independent purchaser would be very glad to have the assistance of the association in selling the remainder of his purchase but that is not its purpose or object and under no condition could such a thing be done. Only tobacco pledged to the organization and prized by a bonded prizer can be sold through an association warehouse.

County High School.

The Hazel Graded School, and Calloway County High School of Hazel Ky., will enter upon the fourth term work next Monday, September 2nd. Everything bids favorable for the greatest school year in the history of the little city. During the summer there has been about $1,000 worth of concrete walks built on the campus and from the buildings to town. Many of the citizens are also building concrete walks in front of their property.

Mrs. J. R. Miller has charge of the first, second and third grades, Miss Alta Oliver the fourth, fifth and sixth, L. A. Langston, the seventh and eighth grades and also principal of the school, and B. O. Eangston, of the high school work.

The patrons of the district and of the county are requested to be present at 9 a. m. Monday morning, compulsory attendance and individual drinking cup laws will be explained.

ORDINANCE

The City Council of the City of Murray, Ky., do ordain as follows, viz:

Section 1. That sidewalks be altered, changed and constructed, maintained and kept in repair abutting on the following named streets, viz:

On the south side of Price street from Curd street east to R. R., all of said walks to be made five feet wide.

Section 2. That said sidewalks be constructed according to the following specifications, to-wit: All of said sidewalks shall be built on a grade to be made by the street committee and under the direction and supervision of the Street Committee and there shall first be spread a layer of clean creek gravel entirely free from refuse, or layer of crushed foundry coke five inches in depth and to be well tamped after same has been vet, and while the cinders or gravel are still wet there shall be put there on a layer of concrete four inches thick. This concrete shall be composed of one part Portland Cement and six parts of clean gravel, and sufficient sand to make a homogeneous mass, and stones not over one inch in diameter, the mixture of concrete shall first be mixed twice dry, and then made into concrete with very little water, and then thoroughly mixed until every piece of gravel is coated with mortar, it shall then be put into place and cut off with a straight edge so that the top will be almost perfectly level on the concrete and compressed by hard ramming sufficiently to give space of from five-eighths to seven-eighths of an inch for the finishing coat. The mortar and concrete must be mixed on a tight floor and each batch of concrete, after being mixed as west side of Main street from above described, shall be used immediately. The concrete course must be separated into blocks five feet in length. The foundation must be kept wet while the concrete is being laid on same. Upon the concrete as above described must be laid a finishing coat of two parts Portland Cement and three parts of clean sharp sand, from dirt, clay or any extraneous matter. The sand and cement must be mixed dry in a clean mortar bed, and then made into mortar by thoroughly mixing with the necessary amount of water so as to obtain as homogeneous a mass as possible, and be used immediately after mixing and spread in a stiff mortar and struck off to an even surface with a trowel edge and finished with a wooden float. This top must never be placed upon concrete which has become dry. The entire walk must as soon as it is finished be protected by suitable covering until it has hardened. The concrete used shall stand a tensile strain of 300 pounds to the square inch, in briquettes one week old, and the same brand and quality of cement must be used, in both the concrete and finishing coat. Cement must be thoroughly protected from the weather while on the ground waiting to be used, and all work must be done in a first class workman-like manner. The work on sidewalks shall be commenced by September 1 1912 and completed by November 1, 1912.

Section 3. That immediately upon this ordinance becoming a law the Marshall shall proceed to advertise said work by written or printed notice to the owners of said property or to the agents thereon, and by publication in the Ledger at least ten days just before the contract for same shall be let. After having advertised same as above specified the Marshall shall publicly let the contract for construction of same to the lowest and best bidder per square foot, and shall enter into a written contract with the accepted bidder for the construction of the said work in the manner and within the time fixed in this ordinance. Provided, however, in letting said work the Marshall give the preference to the owner of the lot along which the sidewalk is to be made, and in addition to entering into a written contract the name of the city with the accepted bidder or owner of the property, he shall require bond with good security in the name of the city for the faithful performance of the contract. He shall have the right to reject any and all bids, and, again let the work under the same conditions and requirements, and report his action to the City Council. Provided, further, that no contracts shall be let for the construction of the said sidewalks where similar walks or stones are already laid or commenced to be laid.

Section 4. The costs of the construction of the said sidewalks shall constitute a charge against the owner of the said property and shall be a lien thereon from the commencement or the sidewalk under said contract and said charges may be recovered in an action against the owner of said property by said city in the court having jurisdiction for the enforcement of liens against real property for the payment of the costs of construction with interest and cost of said suit.

Approved the 16th day of August 1912. E. A. Hughes, Mayor City of Murray, Calloway County, Kentucky.

Obituary.

William Herchel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Shoemaker, was born Jan. 17, 1908, and departed this life July 10, 1912. It was after a very short and unexpected illness that the little soul passed down the path that knows no returning. He was such a sweet child and was loved by all who knew him. Grieve not father, mother and sisters, as he has gone before. Live and hope to meet him in heaven. Religious services were conducted by Rev. Mc Pool at Temple Hill in the presence of a host of sympathizing friends and neighbors.

A Friend.

Editor Ledger—Perhaps a few lines from this place will not be out of order.

We are having some nice weather and refreshing showers that look good to our growing crop.

The corn crop in this neighborhood is sorry, but the tobacco crop is very good considering the heavy rains in the early spring.

Walter Cross has cut one barn of tobacco and several others are thinking of cutting this week.

The association is growing slowly, but there will be 50 or 75 per cent of the crop in it around here, they realize that if the association goes down the price will go with it.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church is going on with a good interest, several professions and several additions to the church. Rev. Cunningham, of Clinton, Ky., is doing the preaching, he is an able divine and he holds the attention of the crowd while preaching. The meeting will go on all this week.

The meeting closed at the Methodist church a few days ago with a good interest, 18 professions and several additions to the church. Rev. Mc Pool and Rev. Jones, of Murray did the preaching.

Prof. Chunn and Miss Atlanta Bynum opened their school at the C. N. C. last Monday morning with about 75 or 80 pupils in attendance, several of the patrons were out and made some good speeches after which Prof. Chunn spoke and Miss Bynum also. They all adjourned and seemed to be well pleased with the outlook for this year's work.

George Bomen and family of the east side of the county visited Mrs. Charlie Beach and relatives the past week.

Clifton Swift and wife are all smiles, its a brand new boy at their home.

Osie Beach and wife visited A. D. Beach and family last week.

John Keys made a talk on the tobacco association and the good it was doing for the farmers a few days ago and about 85 acres of tobacco was pledged that day.

Well, for fear I tire your patience and your many readers I will close for this time. T. B.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is a result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to the normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

Protest Against Putting Burdens on Girls

If my daughter is bitten by the matrimony bug at the age of 17 I shall sigh for the days, the good old days, when the parents of refractory maidens were wont to shut them into their rooms to think over their foolishness on bread and water. That is the course I should like to pursue, but, living as I do in these days, when the new commandment, "Parents, obey your children," has been given unto us, I shall probably not be allowed any "say" in the matter at all. Still, like little Mary, "I can't help finkin'," and here are some of my "foughts."

Is a girl of seventeen old enough to marry? Well, just think of the seventeen-year-olds of your acquaintance—little giggly, gushy high-school girls, immature in body, mind and soul. Think of marrying one of them! Think of being married to one of them!

A girl of seventeen hasn't a thought of any one but herself. Her pompadour, her complexion, her figure, her character (with a capital C, if you please), constitute her sole interests in life. This is all very natural. Youth is inevitably selfish and self-centered. I am not criticizing Miss Seventeen; I am only protesting against piling the burdens of wifehood and motherhood upon her slender young shoulders.

Don't, don't force the child into premature womanhood as a careless hand presses open a rosebud. Such a blossom is always blighted and withers much sooner than the bud which blooms naturally. Let the girl grow into womanhood before she assumes its obligations.

The wife at seventeen is usually a middle-aged woman at twenty-five, while her sister who has remained single until that age is still in her lovely girlhood, and at thirty-five will be no older than the early married woman at twenty-five.

The girl at twenty-five hard and cynical! The cynical ones at that age are the married women who have outlived their illusions and seen their idols decay. If by sheer luck the young wife has chosen a good husband, the wifely duties so early assumed will have aged her far more than if she had been prepared for them.

But she is much less apt to get a good husband than her twenty-five-year-old sister. Usually he will be only a boy, with no more capacity to bear and forbear than she. Friction between them will be more frequent and neither will understand how either to meet or avoid it. A pitifully large number of early marriages end in the divorce courts, while those who defer marriage until twenty-five or over are usually married for life.

At twenty-five a woman doesn't accept her suitor because he has "lovely eyes" or a Grecian nose, but because he is a man of honor, of high principles and ideas, who will be a good husband and father. For corresponding reasons he loves her, and their love founded upon such a rock endures.

OLD RELICS FOUND

Glimpses of Early Life in Egypt Are Unearthed.

Remarkable Discoveries Made by Prof. Edouard Naville at Abydos and Its Neighborhood—One of Richest Sites in Old World.

Cairo, Egypt.—Puzzling glimpses of early Egyptian life were revealed at an exhibition recently held in London. The exhibits, which were the result of the season's work of the Egypt Exploration Fund, under the direction of the great Egyptologist, Prof. Edouard Naville, at Abydos and its neighborhood, included some excellently preserved mummies, early implements and carvings, and some grotesque vases not unlike English Toby jugs. In the great Temple of Osiris, a carving was found depicting the Pharaoh of the Exodus playing draughts.

Abydos is one of the richest sites in Egypt, and many explorers have reaped a rich harvest from its temples and tombs, but the work of this expedition seemed to prove that much remains to be done before the whole story of Osiris is revealed. On one table were displayed objects obtained from a prehistoric village, the remains of which were found a little to the west of the great Temple of Osiris. Hitherto the archaeologist has been dependent on objects obtained from the graves of the prehistoric age, but in this case the relics of this ancient life were found on the site of a hut village. They include the long, flat stones and corn rubbers which were used to grind the wheat or durrah for bread, sword spinners, short-handled knives, axes, and hairpins, and some slate palettes for rubbing eye paint. Fruit knives, saws, and scrapers showed signs of use, and gave all the appearance of being in the same condition in which they had been left by their original owners.

These primitive men were no mean artists, as the impression of a cylinder seal on clay, representing a procession of animals, notably an elephant and birds and a small clay figure of a dog, eloquently testified.

The settlement belonged to the late Neolithic age, but some objects of pure copper, not bronze, were found—a ring-shaped and some fish hooks. An important find in this ancient village was a furnace or kiln used for baking the bread. This was a great subterranean temple consisting of a passage some three hundred feet long, leading to halls and chambers. The temple was the work of Set II, or Meropthal, the Pharaoh of the Exodus.

The walls of the passage are covered with sepulchral stones and inscriptions describing the passage of the dead king through the gates of the underworld. In one scene the king is represented playing draughts with pieces in the form of animals. The construction of this subterranean shrine is very fine. The walls of the chamber are of the finest limestone, covered with beautifully cut inscriptions. The great hall has a bath of sandstone, faced inside with red granite. No royal body was found in the tomb, but there is little doubt that it rested there for a time until removed to the tombs of the kings at Thebes, where it was found a few years ago.

More Women Use Alcohol.

London.—According to a report made to the Economic Congress by Dr. Macnam, chief of the Berlin sanitary bureau, alcoholism among women is increasing yearly.

CARE AND USE OF CASSEROLE

Excellent Servant of the Cook Must Have Proper Treatment, and This Advice Is Good.

Before using a casserole for the first time, it is well to temper it; this is best done by covering it with cold water. Then letting the water come to the boiling point, remove from the fire, and let the casserole remain in the water until it is cold. Under no circumstances let the casserole be put on the stove without water or fat in it; if this is done the dish will crack. Avoid sudden changes of temperature with the casserole; that is, do not take it from the hot stove or oven and place it in cold water or in a wet sink; this will prove disastrous to the dish.

Casserole cooking requires only moderate heat; if something is being cooked in the casserole at the same time that intense heat is required for something else, take the precaution of setting the casserole in a pan of water. In cooking anything in a casserole, it is well to allow twice the time for cooking that would be required were the stew or vegetable or fruit cooked in the ordinary way.

WORTH TIME AND TROUBLE

Said Relics Call for Care in the Making, but the Result Repays All the Outlay.

Scald one cup milk, add three tablespoons butter, one and a half tablespoons sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt. When lukewarm add one yeastcake, dissolved in one-quarter cupful lukewarm water and one and a half cups flour. Cover and let rise, then add white of one egg beaten stiff, and flour to measure. Again knead in small biscuits, place in rows on floured board, cover with cloth and let rise until light and well puffed. Flour handle of wooden spoon, and make a deep crease in middle of each biscuit, take up and press edges together. Place closely in buttered pan, cover, let rise, brush over with one egg slightly beaten and diluted with one tablespoonful milk, and bake 12 or 15 minutes in a hot oven. This makes a delicious process to go through, but when done and ready to be eaten one feels really repaid. They are the best I ever ate.

Premium Fruit Cake.

Sugar, three cups; butter, one and one-half cups; six eggs; sour cream, one and one-half cups; saleratus or soda, two teaspoonfuls; currants, one-half pound; raisins, three-fourths pound; citron, one-fourth pound; one nutmeg, one-fourth pound. Directions: Beat the eggs thoroughly, then add sugar and butter and beat till smooth; dissolve the saleratus in a little warm water and put in the cream and make the cake quite thin with flour to prevent the fruit from sinking to the bottom. Do not chop the raisins, but cut them in halves and remove the seeds; else use seedless raisins. Then scald a few moments to soften, drain and flour (dredge), then before putting into the cake cut the citron in thin slices, and as you fill in a layer of cake put the citron over evenly, then more of the cake mixture and another layer of the citron and so on until the citron is evenly divided through the whole.

Banana Pie.

Line a deep plate with rich crust and bake a delicate brown. Filling: Take a cupful of boiling water, ginger ale, fresh mint, cold water, one-half heaping teaspoonful of gelatin. Wash the lemons and slice them; then sprinkle over the sugar. Let stand for 10 minutes, and then add one quart of cold water. Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water and add it to the lemon juice. Pour the whole into a punch bowl and add the ginger ale, allowing one quart of ginger ale for each quart of the other liquid. Half an hour before serving add a few stems of fresh mint.

Preserved Cherries.

Stone the cherries, preserving every drop of juice. Weigh the fruit, allowing pound for pound for sugar. Put a layer of fruit for one of sugar until all is used up; pour over the juice and boil gently until the syrup begins to thicken. The short-stemmed cherries or the Morellas are the best for preserves. Sweet cherries will not do.

Nice Fruit Cookies.

Two cups of brown sugar; one cup butter; three eggs; one level teaspoonful of soda dissolved in five tablespoonfuls of sweet milk; one teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg. Three cups flour; one cup chopped raisins. Drop from a spoon in a pan and bake.

To Save Matting.

To save your matting, make a cover cutting handkerchief to slip over your broom when sweeping. This will be found to take up the dust easily and save the matting much wear.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

MR. WHITNEY says in one of his stories the two dearest things in housekeeping are butter and experience. Today we may add meat to enlarge the list.

A CHAPTER ON MEATS.

A most delicious way of serving hamburger steak is to put the round steak through the chopper (don't buy it chopped, for you take all kinds of mixtures); add seasoning of pepper, salt and onion, if liked. Grease the broiler and put the meat in the form of a steak and broil. When cooked, pour over a quarter of a cup of cream to each pound of the meat; have the cream hot and well seasoned.

Breakfast Chicken.—Chop the pieces of chicken fine; have a little butter in a sauce pan. When melted, add a cup of cream, when hot stir in the chicken, season and serve on well buttered rounds of toast.

Beef Mireton.—Mince cold corned beef, season with pepper, chopped pickles, two minced hard cooked eggs; moisten with any gravy or white sauce at hand, cover with seasoned mashed potatoes and bake until brown.

Here are some suitable combinations to use with meats of various kinds, when left over, and it is desired to have a made-over dish: Seasoned Cold Veal, rice stuffing, tomato sauce.

Lamb, mint sauce, or in stew with peas.

Mutton, macaroni, white or brown sauce.

Beef, onions, potatoes, celery, tomato sauce.

Chicken, rice, celery and white sauce.

Turkey, stuffing and giblet gravy for an scalloped dish.

Duck, minced olives, brown gravy and currant jelly.

Boiled ham, mustard, hard cooked eggs and white sauce.

Broiled liver, bacon, lemon juice and tomato sauce.

Veal, ham, horseradish and brown sauce.

Fish, stuffing and Hollandaise sauce.

A very attractive breakfast dish is old-fashioned hash, well seasoned, made in cakes and cooked, then serve with a poached egg on each. Garnish the platter with parsley.

ALWAYS thought cold victuals were a far better heat and welcome frost.

ECONOMY IN THE KITCHEN.

To most of us, when speaking of economy, we think of our pocket book; though there are ways of practicing economy fully as important as spending money.

The economy of strength, of health, and of time are all worthy of our consideration.

When arranging a kitchen, if we are privileged to do so, let us provide for the doing of our work with the least possible waste of energy and time.

Have the kitchen arranged so that utensils and food materials are close at hand.

A cabinet for the dishes and materials used in cooking; hooks for the small utensils, salt, pepper, soda, sugar and spices near at hand.

Clean up as you go along, putting things away immediately after use.

Put dishes to soak as soon as they are empty, and the washing will be much easier.

It is desirable for every housekeeper to know how to use the small portions of food that may be left over from the daily meals. The amount of food needed can seldom be estimated with such exactness that all will be used.

No matter how carefully the meals are planned, our appetites vary, tastes differ, and unexpected things change our calculations.

Unless we use up the left-overs each day, we will in a few days be faced with too large a problem to solve.

The common practice of turning everything left over into the garbage pail is too frequent. It is wiser often to feed to pets or poultry the small bits of food than to make them over and buy food for them.

The wise housekeeper looks over the larder on planning for the day, and sees what can be wisely used before buying new material.

A leftover served in a haphazard manner, even though it may be of good material, is often refused; but if served daintily with a sauce or some

For Afternoon Tea.

A loaf of cube sugar rubbed over the surface of an orange will retain the orange flavor by absorbing the oil. Sugar thus prepared and used in tea imparts to the latter a most delicious flavor, suggesting orange pickles.

ding and shelter; for tools, a hand ax and a moderately heavy jack-knife. Weapons, a shotgun, with shells adapted to various kinds of game, and a small caliber rifle for "sportsmanlike" hunting of squirrels, and such "small deer." Our larder contained salt pork, corn meal, sugar, beans and occasionally dried apricots. Two pipes and plenty of tobacco completed our outfit.

For the delicacies of the table we depended upon what we could catch for kill and it was an unwritten law that we should not kill more than we could use from day to day, leaving the "big game" until we were about ready to return to town, when we could take that with us for gifts. To live well and comfortably we had to hunt close and work hard. Sometimes we built a shack that would house us against the roughest weather.

These expeditions were achievements in that they brought our facilities in triumphant conflict with elemental conditions and with few of the tools of civilization to aid.

The indictment that college graduates do not make desirable farm help because of their indolence and indifference to their work, brought by the New York State department of agriculture, is not a fair one.

College men who are lazy and indifferent about work on a farm would be lazy and indifferent about their work in any other vocation. If the New York department of agriculture has found lazy and incompetent men among university graduates, it should be charged against them as individuals—not against the fact that they are college graduates.

The employe on the farm who would play the mandolin or rest in the shade during the hours he should be at work, would watch the clock and soldier on the job wherever he might be—even though it might be in mahogany-furnished offices. Undoubtedly such men "cut" classes when students and use a "pony" to assist them in their translations. They are simply 50-cent boys into which hopeful parents are trying to cram a $5,000 education. It isn't the fault of the education if it can't be done.

The number of college men who are making a success of farming is much larger than the layman thinks. In fact, the agricultural districts of the richest portions of our country are filled with college men.

Hood River, Oregon, distinctly a fruit-growing community, has more college men in proportion to the total number of inhabitants than any other community in this country.

It was a university man who discovered that Texas could grow the famous Bermuda onion—a fact that the state has celebrated within the past week or two.

der seal on clay, representing a procession of animals, notably an elephant and birds and a small clay figure of a dog, eloquently testified. The settlement belonged to the late Neolithic age, but some objects of pure copper, not bronze, were found—a ring-shaped and some fish hooks. An important find in this ancient village was a furnace or kiln used for baking the bread. This was a great subterranean temple consisting of a passage some three hundred feet long, leading to halls and chambers. The temple was the work of Set II, or Meropthal, the Pharaoh of the Exodus.

The walls of the passage are covered with sepulchral stones and inscriptions describing the passage of the dead king through the gates of the underworld. In one scene the king is represented playing draughts with pieces in the form of animals. The construction of this subterranean shrine is very fine. The walls of the chamber are of the finest limestone, covered with beautifully cut inscriptions. The great hall has a bath of sandstone, faced inside with red granite. No royal body was found in the tomb, but there is little doubt that it rested there for a time until removed to the tombs of the kings at Thebes, where it was found a few years ago.

PRETTY SUMMER SILKS

About the most practical of summer gowns are those simple affairs made of light-weight silks in colors neither very dark nor very light. Foulards, mouselines, chiffons, taffetas and the less expensive crepes are mainly chosen for these, and their success (beside the beauty of the fabrics) lies in good color combinations and in design. The changeable taffetas of the present season have inspired designers to many pretty and very effective new ideas. These designers have had in mind all types of figures; designing for the slim ones gowns calculated to make them look not too straight, and for the plump ones lines tended to lengthen curves and lend grace. Either style or any style will look well on a figure possessed of the right proportions. That is, one that is neither too thin or too fat.

Another advantage of these unpretentious silk gowns is that two silks are so often combined in making them that short lengths may be used. And for the clever and economical lady who would evolve a new gown out of two old ones any number of good designs are offered in combinations of two fabrics, which she may model after.

Two examples are shown here of models that are easy to make and pleasing to look at. A changeable chiffon taffeta (as brown, blue or green, shot with black) has an applique of heavy ecru lace and pipings of black satin. Little buttons of black satin and a narrow girde of the same add a telling finish. For the touches of black are most effective.

This model is designed for a slender figure and is made so that it may be worn with a chemise and collar of lace. There is a small applique of silk passementerie of gold, black and the color of the gown.

The second model which has been developed in blue and white or black and white. The little coat of a plain foulard in the color of the body of the gown, with cuffs to match. Little oblong covered buttons in the plain fabric and pipings of the figured material make a pretty finish. The tie is a vivid green, but black might be used instead. Lace underleaves and a chemise are worn with this model and its straight lines and plain skirt recommend it to the stout figure.

SOME HOME-MADE PRESENTS

Pretty Gifts That Are Far Superior to Those That May Be Purchased Anywhere.

Cretone lamp shades with net laid over them. Cake covers made of flax lace on a wire frame. Some one of the numerous delectable little towels. A collar and cuff set of fine linen well made and embroidered. A pair of new gathered ribbon garters with a posy of satin roses. A set of cretone or linen cases and cloth to match for her traveling cases. Linen pillow covers of handkerchief linen, Cluny lace and a touch of embroidery. A table cover in Monk's cloth with cross-stitch design all around the square. Tea cloths and tea napkins with embroidered monograms and any individual touch. A set of sachets of different size, not clumsy or overworked, but dainty and well filled.

For the Pongee Costume. The "natural-colored" girl is again with us, meaning the girl who goes in for a costume wholly in the shade of natural-colored linen or pongee. With her tailored suit or frock of either heavy linen or wash, she wears leather pumps and little shoes of a matching hue, a linen petticoat bordered and banded with coarse unbleached linen lace, a suede belt with self-colored buckle and an outfit hat of raffia or Panama draped with a natural-colored Shantung scarf. Finally, in the other a handbag of raffia. For country wear this sort of costume is exceedingly knowing-looking and it is a decided relief in a neighborhood where all white or white and color get-ups prevail.

Boudoir Fancies. Delightfully dainty and cool looking are the new tamboired Swiss shams and scarfs for the boudoir. The plaid Swiss is shown for pillow shams, bureau dress and table scarfs, all with heavy scalloped edge and with stitched braid design. These suggest simple curtains of plaid muslin or Swiss and cushion box and couch covers of gayly colored cretone, with perhaps a colonial rag rug or one of matting in summery lightness. The plaid Swiss for the cushions and covers are decorated with scallops similar to the plaid effect, but solid dots and figures are strewn over the surface of the broad work.

To Protect the Blouse. The hardest wear on a waist comes at the sides under the arms. Protect this part of the blouse with a strip of elled silk and there will be less likelihood of the unsightly holes, which often make an otherwise good waist unwearable. This is a trick of the trade practiced by the most fashionable of New York dressmakers.—Good House-keeping Magazine.

FROCKS FOR LITTLE GIRL

Simple Styles That Are Always in Favor and That Would Be Unwise to Change.

In children's frocks nowadays style is quite as important as it is in regard to grown-up garments. For a long time there has been comparative little difference in the outline of clothes for young girls, grown girls and their still girlish mothers, but perhaps this is to no small extent due to the fact that grown-up lines have been simple enough for children to adopt. No doubt if our dressmakers succeed in forcing upon us panniers and draperies, general good taste will prevent our defying little girls' frocks to match, and we shall leave them still straight, slim and simple. Meantime the coat and skirt of simple make, with a plain front panel, large revers and collar and the inevitable sprinkling of buttons or a long Cosack frock or a pleated skirt and Magyar blouse are each regarded as in their proper place becoming to the school girl or even to the smaller child.

NEW STOCK COLLARS.

The new grandfather's stock is just another variation on the Robespierre neckwear which is now at the height of fashion. This collar of sheer hem-stitched white linen turns over on a high stock of plaited black silk, and is trim and smart with tailored silk blouses for morning wear.

Renovate Crepe. Skimmed milk and water, with a bit of glue in it, made scalding hot, is excellent to restore old rusty black crepe; if well squeezed and pulled dry like muslin, it will look as well as, or better, than new.

French Motor Car is Driven in the Same Manner as an Aeroplane.

A successful trial run was made recently from Paris to London, about 220 miles, by a motor car driven by a revolving wing, the Paris Figaro states.

The vehicle, which was designed by M. Bertrand de Lesseps, and is called the "winged car," has the appearance of an ordinary motor car, save that in front it is shaped like the prow of a ship. From the extremity of the wing extends a shaft to which is attached the propeller—or revolving wing—invented by M. Filippi.

The wing is small, strong and thick and revolves within a protecting cage. The engine is of 40 horse power and rotates the wing by shaft and chain transmission.

There is no other mechanism, the wheels of the car being free, except for footbrakes. By the side of the driver is a single lever which controls the clutch and the forward and reverse movement of the wing. The wing can be reversed at a moment's notice, thereby forming an additional brake. In the trial runs a speed of 42 miles an hour was obtained with 2,100 revolutions of the wing a minute. One curious feature was that the car made no dust.

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

Warrenton, Va.—"My little girl was troubled with eczema for three years. Her hands burned and itched and looked as if they were scalded. She could not sleep at night; I had to be up all night to keep her hands in warm water. She rubbed her hands and large white blisters came full of yellow water. Then sores came and yellow corruption formed. She could not take hold of anything with her hands. I tried an ointment and tried a treatment, but nothing did her any good, so I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After bathing her hands with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Ointment I was astonished to see the great relief, and Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment cured her hands in three weeks." (Signed) Mrs. John W. Wines, Mar. 8, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 25¢ Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

A Diagnosis. "What's the matter with your husband, Mrs. Mizzy?" "The doctor says he's got a bad attack of ammonia." "Then I guess it's apt to be fatal, for it's bound to take his breath."

After Dark. "Honest as the day is long, eh?" "Absolutely. But you'd better keep your chicken coop locked."

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fitch. In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria.

MAST TREES FOR THE CROWN

Mark of the Broad Arrow Was Placed on Pines in the Plymouth Colony.

In the provincial charter of 1691, under which the Plymouth colony and the province of Maine were united with Massachusetts, it was provided that all trees of the diameter of 24 inches and upward of 12 inches from the ground, growing upon land not heretofore granted to any private person, should be reserved to the crown for the furnishing of masts for the royal navy. Harper's Weekly observes:

A surveyor general of woods was appointed to see that this provision of the charter was carried into effect. Near the coast all white pines of suitable dimensions were marked with the "broad arrow"—three cuts through the bark with an ax, like the track of a crow. This was the King's mark.

Long after the revolution had obliterated the royal authority men who had been taught in boyhood to respect the King's mark hesitated to cut such trees.

In felling a tree it was necessary to "bed it" to prevent its breaking. This was done by cutting the small growth and placing small trees across the hollow, so that there should be no strain upon one section more than upon another when the monster pine struck ground.

The mast was hauled out of the woods on one strong sled, whether in winter or summer, and so many oxen were required that the hind pair were often choked in crossing a hollow, being hung up in their yoke by the pulling of those ahead of them.

A mast hauling was a great event, and everybody within walking distance came to see it.

Too Much of a Good Thing. "I was very happy," said the professor, "when, after years of wooing, she finally said 'Yes.'"

"But why did you break the engagement so soon after?" asked his friend. "Man, it was she that dissolved it."

"Really?" said his friend. "How did that happen?"

"It was due to my accused absent-mindedness. When, a few days later, I called at her home, I again asked her to marry me."

Polar Exploration. North polar exploration had attracted the attention of adventurous and ambitious men for nearly 400 years before Peary reached the top of the world. Search for the south pole has always proved less attractive, and only during the last 140 years have explorers turned their attention toward the goal recently reached by Amundsen.

"Of course not," snapped Mrs. Nagg. "Men couldn't give up the pleasure of worshipping their wives."

Cold Blooded and Death Dealing CHILLS. Cheatham's Chill Tonic is the only medicine which has entirely cured me of chills. After spending a great deal of money for several years to get cured, I bought and used your Cheatham's Chill Tonic which cured me and also two of my children. I recommend it to all as the best Chill Tonic I ever saw, says Mr. T. J. House of Bulcher, Texas. Guaranteed to cure malaria or price promptly refunded. All dealers sell it in 50¢ bottles. Mfd. by A. No. 666. This is a prescription prepared especially for Chills and Fever. Five or six doses will break any case of Chills and Fever, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25¢.

BLUEJAY LIVES IN WOODS

Hawks, Owls and Other Birds Are Teased and Tormented by These Noisy Birds.

The bluejay likes best to live in thick woods, but it often comes into open fields, orchards and near dwellings in search of food. When it discovers you it assumes a proud and angry air of conceit and defiance.

The bluejay's upper parts are purplish-blue. The lower parts are purplish-gray. The wings and tail are bright blue with black bars. The tail feathers are tipped with white. It has a crested head.

The bluejay builds its nest about twenty feet above ground. It is made of twigs and fine roots. From four to six eggs are laid. They are of a greenish drab color flecked with brown.

Doubtless the bluejay helped to name itself, as its common utterance is a long drawn, "jay, jay, jay." This cry, with the bright blue color, has given it its name.

While the jay sings no song it is able to imitate the calls of other birds, by which means it often attracts them. It likes to tease and torment the owl and especially the little sparrow hawk. This is done by imitating the cry of a wounded bird, which draws the hawk near. Then several jays will dart at the hawk squealing and frolicking about in great glee. Sometimes the play ends in a tragedy, for the hawk pounces upon one of them to the dismay of the others. Jays may be caged and tamed like crows and some writers say they can be taught to utter words.

UNKIND COMMENT.

Opening Up Lhasa. Lhasa, which is the capital of Tibet, for generations was known as the Forbidden City, because of its political and religious exclusiveness. In 1904 a British armed expedition opened the mysterious old city. Previous to that time practically every European traveler had been stopped in his efforts to reach the place. The population in Lhasa is about 35,000.

As a summer tonic there is no medicine that quite compares with OXIDINE. It not only builds up the system, but taken regularly, prevents malaria. Regular use lessens formulae at drug stores.

The Marvel of It. "There is one thing in life which always struck me as queer."

"What is that?"

"While so few are successful in looking for an opening, almost every one can find himself in a hole."

Men and women who are odd might get even by marrying.

TO DRIVE OUT MALARIA. (AND BUILD UP THE SYSTEM.) Use CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking. It is a simple, effective and powerful medicine showing it is simple, effective and powerful. Not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25¢.

The Long and Short of It. "Struggling young lawyers mix things up, don't they?"

"In what way?"

"They seldom have a brief career when they run short."

To prevent Malaria is far better than to cure it. In malarial countries take a dose of OXIDINE regularly once each week and save yourself from Chills and Fever and other malarial troubles.

Patriotism. Marks—So your Italian barber refused to shave you. Why was that? Parks—I told him I'd just had a Turkish bath.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years."

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Murray People.

One kidney remedy has known merit.

Murray people rely upon it: That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Murray testimony proves it reliable.

Mrs. S. J. Pool, Pool St., Murray, Ky., says: "I used to suffer very much from kidney trouble. For years I was unable to rest at night and in the morning I would be all tired out. This would make me nervous and caused headaches. My sight was blurred and I would often become dizzy. When I stooped I had sharp twinges in the small of my back. In 1908 I heard of the excellent results obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a box and used them as directed with good results. Since then I have used Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I have feared a slight return of kidney trouble coming on me and they have kept the pains away. It gives me great pleasure to recommend such an excellent remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agent for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Almo, Ky.

Will send a few lines to let you know we are progressing nicely.

The first thing is to extend a general invitation to all who have not been invited, to attend our union croquet game at Almo Park Sunday afternoon, beginning at one o'clock every Sunday afternoon. It is sure a union game. Christian and sinners combined, can't tell one from the other. All claim to have good time and guess we would entertain visitors royally if any should happen to come.

Mr. Tip Holland, one of our hustling men, has sold out and will go to Texas soon.

Will close with best wishes
News Boy.
