SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1887.

Louisville will vote on local option in August.

The way the Republican papers in this State will die after the election will be a curious sight.

A few weeks since Bradley was hunting Buckner, now Buckner is hunting Bradley. It seems a difficult matter for these forerunners to meet.

It is reported that Mr. Gladstone will visit this country. The foot-fall of the great premier on free America would sound a ringing echo for the cause of home-rule.

Yon Phoebe, the celestial who took the highest house at Yale this year, is going to marry a Miss Jerome, of New Haven. Lee has clipped his cue and will never return to the drowsy land.

A Providence boy killed his step-father because he refused to furnish his jubbant sons the crackers on the Fourth. American youth must be attended to or something will always turn up.

Mrs. Cleveland has about been induced by the Century to contribute a short story to that periodical. Mrs. Cleveland should remember that the female Cleveland have not been lucky at literary ventures.

The suggestion that the Treasury surplus be expended in the purchase of bonds at the present high premium is a very poor business idea. The bondholders by this kind of sale would get a bonus of one third over the securities.

The National Democratic Convention of 1888 will consist of 820 delegates, divided as follows: The New England States, 79; the Middle States, 150; the Western States, 242; the Southern States, 306; the Pacific States, 8; the Territories and the District of Columbia, 18.

The most brilliant illumination on the Fourth was at Portland, Oregon. Two local explorers of some note climbed to the summit of Mt. Hood, 12,720 feet high, and burned 1,100 pounds of ordinary red fire. The light was seen for a radius of 100 miles around the mountain.

We desire to call attention to the article in another column signed "Democrat." It is an encouraging statement of the Senatorial race in this district. Our young friend Zeno Young is making a fine impression and will poll a handsome vote. The Democrats of this county to a man should remember him on the first Monday in August, and we understand he will also have a large Republican following in this county.

There is a very serious breach in the Republican ranks in this county over the manner in which their Legislative candidate was nominated. The "ring" always gets in its fine Italian hand when the offices are to be dispensed. This taken in common with the disaffection of the colored voters over their exclusion from positions of trust and honor, and other matters of a serious nature, would give any good Democrat a chance to win.

Our readers should carefully peruse the article in another column headed "Facts for the People." Our Public Printer has been maligned by enemies both in and out of the party. The latter may be excused, but the actions of the former can only be explained by the lowest type of personal spite and jealousy. Kentucky is having her public printing done well and economically, and the people are not only satisfied but are paying little attention to the slurs of the enemy.

THE MORMON'S CONDEMNED.

The constitutional convention of Utah passed the following salty resolution on the Mormon question: "Bigamy and polygamy being considered incompatible with the principles of government, each of them is hereby forbidden as a misdemeanor; any person who shall violate this section shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for a term of not less than six months or more than three years. This section shall be construed as operative without further legislation, and the offenses named shall not be barred by the statute of limitation within three years after the commission of the offense, nor the power of pardon extended to offenders under this section until such pardon is first approved by the President."

It is also provided that any amendment to the above must be submitted to Congress. The theory on which these sections rest is, that polygamy having been declared unlawful, and there being no recognition of religious bodies under our system of government, the question is purely a political one, and while the Government can not treat with a Mormon religious body, Congress may as a political measure make concessions in view of an established condition of society where local legislation recognizes it.

A TYPICAL TOWN.

A former citizen of this place on a recent visit here said: "For the first time I observed red signs of progress in Hopkinsville. The recent fires are the cause in the main of the magnificent business houses, which, probably, would never have been erected but for the catastrophe. Now I see that the people are waking up to the duties of aggressive citizenship. The erection of a town clock, the establishment of street car lines, the organization of the Driving Park, the earliest railroad and water-works talk, all give evidence that Hopkinsville is about to blossom into a typical little city which will richly merit the distinction of being the 'Capital' of Southern Kentucky."

This remark is not too highly colored. When we begin to institute a comparison with surrounding towns we find that we have nothing to be ashamed of. Where is there a town in the State which is to-day engaged in so many and so important public enterprises? This summer and fall the work of constructing some forty miles of turnpike will be in progress; within thirty days workmen will be laying the rails for street car lines on the thoroughfares of this city; during the fall it is probable our streets will be torn up for the planting of the Holly System of fire protection on a large scale; in September the Driving Park Association will hold a fair of the most modern style and will draw patronage from all parts of the country; almost any day our citizens may be greeted with the glad news that another railroad has been secured which will speedily reach the city.

There is enough in these facts to encourage within the hearts of our people a measure of local pride and to stimulate a wholesome spirit of public enterprise. There is little room in such a community for unreasonable selfishness and singleness. Our future speaks to every man's broadest and most liberal impulses. Our prospects justify the closest spirit of co-operation, in fact, we should live and act as a co-operative society, knowing that in the highest good of all is to be found the chief blessing to the individual. All of these public enterprises should be encouraged and sustained, for they mean an increase of trade, population and convenience. Taking everything into consideration our people should be proud of Hopkinsville and coast of their pride.

THE SCIENTIFIC FUTURE.

In this good day of scientific wonder-workers, and star-reaching theosophists, and planet-visioning dreamers, and phenomenal mechanics the world hardly dares to place a limit to human achievements. When a Chicago man announces to the Navy Department that he will start from Washington, the first day of next June, in a great steel airship with 200 passengers aboard for the North Pole, everyone discredits his success but no one doubts his honesty. There have been so many wonderful things done of late years that there remains now but a very narrow margin for doubt. When a man is known to stand in Louisville and hear a concert in Cincinnati, or converse with a friend in St. Louis and see the features of his face; or that Buckner or Bradley can cork up their speeches in a small box and leave them to be ground out, with correct details of inflection and intonation, sometime during the millenium when they can rustle their wings to the music of their own eloquence; or that the nimble lightning is suspended at the point of a small wire to do service in our cities; or that the Glasgow speech is made in type in New York before hardly he has uttered them—when we remember these things, we recognize the fact that man has a pretty strong hold on the unseen universe. Who can doubt or conceive of the wonders of the scientific future?

In another hundred years people may be eating chemical beefsteaks with knives and forks made of gases that now float unseen and unrecognized over the earth. We may by that time be dipping our feet out of rivers and using artificial islands of air as a means of travel through the empyrean like birds of trade, and New York millionaires may return every night to their residences in Hopkinsville, having been but thirty minutes on the way. Submarine vessels driven by cold vapor engines may crawl along the floor of the ocean through pearl-strewn valleys and coral mountains. Young ladies may go calling in the family air-carriage, and children may be chastised with a patent magnetic rebuker. The lightning may be made to fight our battles and the smallest wire to fell our forests. Powerful compound telescopes will reveal to us the doings of people of other worlds, and we will see the great, blue Alpha Lyrae shining on his world system as we now see the moon.

TROUBLE IN MULLENBURG.

We very much fear that our Mullenburg brethren are in danger of serious trouble over their tax question. A special from Greenville, Wednesday says: "The presence of two or three of our Marshal Gross' deputies in the county has renewed the excitement over the tax question, which is again all talked. Judge Coleman on Saturday announced his intention to disobey the mandate of the United States Circuit Court which ordered him to make a levy to pay the Merriweather judgment against the county, and said he would go to jail first. Then came the deputy marshals with papers to serve on Coleman, but he had mysteriously disappeared, and if anybody knows his whereabouts it is safe to wager they won't tell. This will force the United States Court to send some one here to levy and collect the tax, and all are now anxiously watching for the next move of that tribunal."

"Facts for the People."

The campaign document under the title of "Facts for the People," just issued by the Democratic State Central Committee, should be read by every Democrat in the State. It was prepared by the ablest men in the party, and is based wholly upon trustworthy facts, accessible alike to all. It is an essentially able and undeniable presentation of facts, and a most complete answer in detail to every charge brought against Democratic policy and administration in State affairs. Touching the public printing, which has been willfully and grossly misrepresented, the document furnishes answer that will not fail to satisfy all who seek after truth and are not gulled by partisan prejudice or motives wholly unworthy of the State. Under the laws by which the public printing and binding are executed no State in the Union can show more economy, excellence and fidelity in their printing than Kentucky. The comparisons furnished by the compilers of the facts embraced in "Facts for the People," show the relative cost of printing and binding in Kentucky with other States, operating both under the contract and elective systems, placing Kentucky in the most advantageous light, and as compared with the previous cost under Republican rule the contrast is most striking. Under the present system all accounts for paper, lithographing, electrotyping, photography, map-making, etc., furnished the State, are charged to the printer. All such accounts are paid directly to the parties furnishing paper or the work, when bearing the approval of the heads of departments ordering the same.

The present Public Printer entered upon the duties of his office on the 4th day of August, 1884. The Auditor will show an intelligible statement of every dollar paid to him on account of printing and binding. The total amounts paid for printing and binding, for three years ending August 1, 1887, will not exceed $80,000, or an average per year of $26,666.66. Of this the State receives the benefit of the sales of the Reports of the Court of Appeals, published by the Public Printer, and which will not exceed $10,000, thus reducing the actual cost to the State of the amounts paid the Public Printer and Binder to a yearly average of not exceeding $70,000.

Statement made by the able authors of "Facts for the People" is here appended, and is commended to the judgment of the reader, and is a complete answer to Mr. Bradley's and his reckless statements:

From "Facts for the People":

Mr. Bradley, in his speech at Lieberkrantz Hall, in Louisville, made the following remarkable statement:

"We have a system of public printing in Kentucky that costs the State $41,000, exclusive of paper, and yet makes a firm in this city of Louisville which offered to do that work three times as cheap as the Public Printer was willing to do it."

If he had taken the pains to ascertain the exact facts as they appear on the Auditor's books, he would have known that the total cost of the public printing, binding, lithographing, etc., for the year 1886, including the paper, was $41,000, as represented by him; instead of $41,000, as he claims it could have been done by some other printer.

But in order to show the economy practiced by the Democratic party in the matter of public printing, let us compare the cost of printing for that purpose for three years ending June 30, 1886, under the Democratic administration, with the amount expended for the same purpose under the Republican administration. The three years immediately preceding the time at which the Democratic party got control of the State Government, the cost of printing and binding, for the State of Kentucky, was $41,000, in 1883, $41,000, in 1884, and $41,000, in 1885. The latter sum includes the cost of printing the report of the General Assembly, which was printed in the year 1887, but not paid for until the following year, by reason of the litigation connected with the settlement and payment of his claim.

It will thus be seen that the total amount paid for printing in the three years last above named amounts in the aggregate to $123,000, or an average of $41,000 per year for the three last years of the administration which preceded the Democratic party. The cost of printing and binding, for the State of Kentucky, was $41,000, in 1883, $41,000, in 1884, and $41,000, in 1885. The latter sum includes the cost of printing the report of the General Assembly, which was printed in the year 1887, but not paid for until the following year, by reason of the litigation connected with the settlement and payment of his claim.

THE STATE SENATOR'S RACE.

A Lively Letter from Hopki. & Zeno Young a Sure Winner.

MAIDENSVILLE, KY., July 6, 1887.

Editor New Era:

The counties of Christian and Hopkins have many points of contact. Along the invisible and imaginary line of division, for more than twenty miles, your hills and valleys, your hills and valleys are intertwined and locked in a perpetual embrace.

In the halls of the national Legislature you and we are represented by our own and Hopkins men, as one. Along the invisible and imaginary line of division, for more than twenty miles, your hills and valleys, your hills and valleys are intertwined and locked in a perpetual embrace.

These political ties are sufficient to induce amiable relations between the counties of Christian and Hopkins. But I am glad to know that there is a tie that binds the people of these counties closer than political relations could be. It is nothing more or less than neighborly love. It is the result of obedience to the divine injunction, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." My hills are your hills, and my people are your people, and my people linked together with bonds of steel.

And now Mr. Editor, a matter that concerns the welfare of our county comes upon us. In a few days a State Senator must be chosen. Many matters of interest and importance will necessarily be entrusted to him.

There are two candidates. Both are from Hopkins. Zeno F. Young, the Democratic nominee, is well known by reputation, to you and to most of our readers. He has been the editor of a newspaper for many years, and is a man of high character and ability. He was a Federal soldier and served until the close of the war. But after the war he was a Federal soldier and served until the close of the war.

Train Wreckers.

Thursday night the incoming Nashville accommodation train narrowly escaped a bad wreck about a half mile beyond Trenton. Some country had placed two cross-ties on the track, with the evident intention of wrecking the train. The obstructions were not discovered until struck and the engine jumped the track and ran for fully 300 yards, bumping along on the ties. Strange to say, none of the coaches fell, only the rails, which can be accounted for only by the fact that the engineer had begun to slow up for the station and immediately reversed his engine and called for brakes when the engine went off. For a few minutes consternation reigned among the passengers and all were astonished at the lucky escape. Nobody was hurt and only slight damage done. The train was delayed about two hours.

Dr. A. G. Castleman thinks he attended a sporadic case of cholera two miles east of Charlotte last week. He attributes the case to unsanitary condition of the premises, derangement of the liver and heat of the sun. There are few places in the city that do not call for more careful oversight in this respect. Clean up and scatter lime and other disinfectants.—Clarksville Tobacco Leaf.

Republican Club.

Madisonville Times.
The Republicans are raising a terrible howl over State affairs—yellow fever and extravagance. Yet not in a single instance have they pointed out either a mistake, blunder or fraud. Their charges have consisted in general innuendoes, not one of which has been specific. If they are successful, what do they intend to do to reduce taxes? Do they intend to abolish the penitentiaries and turn the convicts loose on us? Are they going to burn down the asylums and send the lunatics home? Are they going to abolish the courts and let criminals go untied? Are they going to tear down the school houses and let the children grow up in ignorance? These are what cost money. If that party is in favor of the above, then the sooner it is forever and eternally snowed under the better. The idea that the Republican party can run the affairs of the State of Kentucky without money is one entertained only by the most glib.
