THE LISTENING POST

The building of a superhighway, four lanes wide, stretching from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, is quite an ambitious undertaking--but is no more ambitious, no more improbable than many other things which are taking place in this country today.

Now plans are being made to interest the United States government in a superhighway which would come through Fulton. Highway 51 has been picked by certain Mississippi communities for this transformation, and already Senator Bilbo has introduced a bill in the United States Senate asking that this highway be so designated.

It is known that the federal government is planning to build two military highways across continental United States--one from north to south, the other from east to west. This will come under the head of national defense, and that heading gets all the money that is needed.

The local Chamber of Commerce has had the matter explained by Mississippi workers and is doing all that can be done at present. A chairman has been named to work with the Highway Association, and headquarters for this group will be set up in Memphis at once.

Newspaper readers will recall that a few days ago Senator McKellar lodged a strong protest against the centralization of defense projects in Eastern states.

It should be borne in mind that military roads are going to get all preference during the next few years. Not many other roads will be built, in all probability. This proposed military highway may be the biggest road opportunity we will have for the next decade.

SPAIN LIFTS SHIP TAXES

Johnson Says Paying Off Debt Very Important

Tells Bakers State Must Resist Pressure For Big Appropriations

Frankfort, Ky. -- Gov Keen Johnson declared today that "it's tremendously important" to pay off Kentucky's warrant debt quickly and, "when the legislature meets, to prevent a spending spree just because we're in such good financial shape."

He said further, in a brief address before the Kentucky Master Bakers Association, that at present he saw "no necessity for an increase in state taxes."

The Governor told of the reduction in the warrant debt from approximately $25,000,000 to $4,000,000 in the last five years "as a result of a continuous, conscientious application of good business in public office," and added:

"I foresee within the next two or three years a complete elimination of the Kentucky state debt."

Some persons, he said, had advised against speedy payment of "such a 'little' debt."

"But," he continued, "it's tremendously important that we pay it off so the Court of Appeals can get us back on the Constitution."

Referring to a constitutional amendment prohibiting a state debt larger than $500,000 without the vote of the people, Johnson commented:

"When we eliminate the debt and get back on the Constitution, we should guard against losing our place there."

Governor Johnson did not amplify further his remarks regarding legislative spending but he took a strong stand at the 1940 biennial session of the general assembly against appropriations greater than the state's anticipated income.

H. K. BUCK HOLDS SAFETY MEETING

Trainmaster H. K. Buck was in charge of the first quarterly safety meeting of the Cairo district last night at 7:30 in a coach at the passenger station. About 55 officers and employees of the Illinois Central attended the meeting.

Trainmaster Buck presided over the meeting and Thomas Allen acted as secretary. Statistics on personal injuries occurring on the I. C. railroad in comparison with injuries on other railroads, were presented.

Short talks were made by Trainmaster K. E. Dawson and A. U. Givens and a number of the employees.

Creditors Hear Dr. Brinkley Tell Of Rise, Fall Of Holdings

Del Rio, Texas, -- Diamond-laden Dr. John R. Brinkley, the man who created a fortune from the booming microphone of the world's most powerful radio station and a publicized rejuvenation operation, good-naturedly told a Federal bankruptcy court of his fortune's collapse.

Softly recounting the building of the Brinkley hospitals, radio stations and sundry other enterprises on the banks of the Rio Grande, the doctor told his story yesterday for attorneys of the creditors.

Tells of Bank Deposits

Rather lightly, with a gesture of the hands that made fortunes on gland operations, he insisted he didn't know what had happened to sums ranging into bulky thousands. He once brought a round of startled grins when he explained he never had much money on deposit--"just $15,000 or $20,000."

Thos. H. Moore Dies Of Injuries In Helena Hospital

Thomas H. Moore, brother of Hoyt Moore of this city, died yesterday afternoon in a Helena, Arkansas, hospital, from injuries sustained in an automobile crash near that city last Friday morning. He had never regained consciousness since the accident. His three months' old granddaughter was killed in the wreck, and his wife is still in the Helena hospital with severe injuries. His daughter, Mrs. B. H. Woodard, also suffered minor injuries. Funeral services were held in Memphis this afternoon, with burial following in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Moore was the son of the late Eld. and Mrs. Thomas F. Moore, and would have been 56 years of age April 6. He was born in Bradford, Tenn., and since 1904 has been a postal clerk, making his home in Memphis. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Birdie Barton Moore, two sons, Charles of Memphis, and Thomas of Miami, Fla., and a daughter, Mrs. W. B. Woodard of Helena, Ark. A sister, Mrs. Minnie Wheeler of Memphis also survives.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Moore left this morning for Memphis to attend the funeral.

Brass Hat Can Take It Even From Selectee

Fort Bliss, Texas, -- A train was whisking officers of the 206th Coast Artillery and 400 selectees from Arkansas to El Paso. One of the novices was standing guard at a car door when Maj. Stanley M. Gates, approached.

"Say, bud," called the draftee, "you guard this door awhile, I want to get something to eat."

And the major, unwilling to nip an Army anecdote in the bud, stood guard.

Wanted--Five Million Bibles For Two Service Branches Of U. S.

Chicago, -- In all their 40 or more years of experience in giving away Bibles, the Gideons never before got so large an "order" as the one they now have on their hands.

Five million Bibles! That's the number requested by the War and Navy Departments of the United States.

"Always the world's best seller, the Bible is now regarded as essential equipment for every soldier, sailor, and marine, in our national defense," says Miss Nellie F. Dewar, secretary of this organization which for many years has supplied hotels with copies of the Bible for each guest room.

To meet this new demand, the Gideons are ordering a special edition consisting of the Psalms and the New Testament, together with some hymns and Bible excerpts. The book is being made small and light enough for a soldier or sailor to keep in his pocket, while the binding is designed to match the uniform--khaki for the Army, blue for the Navy. The usual Gideon Bible, a complete Old and New Testament edition, was regarded as too large for pocket use.

The little books will be distributed to all men in service who request them through chaplains, without cost. The expense of the books--25 cents a copy--is being met by the Gideons.

This will be followed by an open discussion and the election of needed committees.

All interested are urged and invited to be present.

Development Of "Enriched Bread" A Boon To Local Families Here In Fulton

The development of "Enriched Bread" by Hornbeak's Bakery of Fulton is considered one of the most important advancements in baking in many years. Hornbeak's Enriched Bread has been raised to average whole wheat levels in two important B vitamins, including precious vitamin B-1 and iron through the use of a new Enriched High-Vitamin B-1 yeast, which has the acceptance of the Council on Foods of The American Medical Association. This loaf also meets the requirements proposed by the Committee on Food and Nutrition of the National Research Council for "Enriched Bread."

Hornbeak's Enriched Bread is a rich source of two important vitamins of the B group and iron. Vitamin B-1 is needed in the diet for good appetite, proper digestion and efficient utilization of starches and sugars. The other B vitamin and iron are both needed for the maintenance of health. Many common foods today are lacking in these essential nutritive factors. For example, very few foods supply vitamin B-1 in abundance because of modern processing methods, or due to loss of this vitamin when food is cooked and the cooking water thrown away. The body does not store vitamin B-1 in large amounts, and therefore authorities state it is a wise precaution to get a good supply daily. Hornbeak's Enriched Bread supplies extra vitamin B-1, as well as extra amounts of a second B vitamin and more iron. In addition, it has all the wholesome, nourishing qualities of white bread itself.

Local families can increase their daily intake of these necessary vitamins and of iron, by eating Hornbeak's Enriched Bread.

His was merely another uniform to Londoners accustomed to the varied garb of British Dominion, Colonial, Dutch, Czech, Norwegian, Free French and other Allied forces.

United States Outlay Of Cash For Year Will Be 35 Millions

Washington, -- The tremendous expenses of an all-out defense program pushed congressional appropriations today rapidly toward an all-time record total of more than $25,000,000,000 for one year's governmental activities.

The prospective total would be almost double the $13,542,000,000 spent last year, and well above the $18,514,880,000 expended in the peak World War year.

17 Billion Okehed

The House already has approved outlays of $17,810,994,862, including the $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation, and it has still to act on some $7,351,313,159 in other budget estimates from President Roosevelt.

But that may not be the end. Fiscal experts are of the opinion that supplemental requests for still more millions of dollars will be sent to the Capitol as new defense needs develop.

Moreover, Congress has added to almost every one of the appropriation bills authority for the Army and Navy Departments and other

Police Watch Picket's At Bethlehem

U. S. Virtually Orders Allis-Chalmers Plant To Resume Operations

Bethlehem, Pa., -- CIO pickets, watched grimly by state police who smashed their lines last night and warned by their own leaders to be "orderly," returned tonight to the gates of Bethlehem Steel--and both company and union got set for a possible prolonged strike.

Directed Cazimir Miller, of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, as placard-bearing pickets trooped out of strike headquarters to the nine plant entrance-ways: "What we do we must do in orderly fashion!"

After a day in which more than 200 Pennsylvania state police stood guard, with groups of strikes remaining away from the immediate vicinity of the gates, the organized picketing was resumed in late afternoon--50 men beginning a march in front of the main gate and 400 more scattering to the eight other gates.

The pickets, ordered equipped with identification cards, made their reappearance at 3:30 p. m. (CST), half an hour after scores of non-striking workers entered and left the plant without incident on the regular change of shifts.

Police Direct Crowd

Some state police stood near the pickets. Other troopers kept sympathizers moving, and the crowd of nearly 3,000 persons outside the plant a distance from the pickets.

A company official announced that "almost 80 per cent" of the normal day force of 8,500 was on duty and that steel making departments, busy on part of the company's billion dollars in defense contracts, were operating "at full capacity."

The CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee, which called the walkout Monday, told its members not to "be fooled by tarpaper smoke from the company stacks." The union had claimed earlier the strike was 90 per cent effective, but made no new estimate today.

PERSONAL JOURNALISM

There is always more or less discussion as to the relative merits of what used to be called personal journalism, such as floyrished some years ago, and the present era of journalism, where the editor has become an anonymous person and the columnist appears to have stolen the show.

As a natural consequence so it seems to this writer, a great number of columnists now try to do the things which newspaper editors once attempted. As the editors have grown more and more unknown to the public, the columnists have become more and more blatant, and every columnist must carry a by-line.

An interesting sidelight on this subject appeared a few days ago.

SIXTEEN YEARS AGO

(March 27, 1925)

On the heels of spring comes the baseball season. A local high school team has been under preparation for several weeks and coach Wade has been putting the boys through a grilling training getting them ready for the opening game.

The physics class of Fulton High school visited the Illinois Central Shops at the New Yards yesterday to complete a more thorough study of steam engines.

Miss Magdaline Stallins, who has been in Memphis for the past year has returned and accepted a position with the Franklin Dry Goods store.

Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Burgess, is reported ill of the chickenpox at their home on West street.

Mrs. Harold Owen has returned from a two weeks' visit to friends in Louisville.

Walter Winchell, one of the better known columnists, was arguing with Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Winchell, saying that Watterson was an exponent of personal journalism, claimed that the famous Kentuckian would have upheld today's publication of columnists' opinions.

It appears to be quite a shrewd argument, but the Louisville Times make a devastating answer to it.

Says the Times: "One of the few books in which Mr. Watterson's doctrine as a personal journalist is reflected—The Profession of Journalism—The Atlantic Monthly Press, 1918—contains words which might inform Mr. Winchell.

Says Henry: "The editor must never lose his head. It is his business to think for everybody. Each subordinate must be so drilled and fitted to his place as to become in a sense a replica of his chief. I am assuming that the newspaper is an autocracy; the product of one man, the offspring of a policy. In the famous seafight the ruff-raff of sailors from all nations whom Paul Jones picked up wherever he could find them, responded like the parts of a machine to the will of their commander. So is a well ordered newspaper office."

As the Times cogently points out, had Mr. Winchell served under Marse Henry, he would have been a sailor-before-the-mast. In irons today should be disobey orders to the extent of expressing any opinions as variance with the master of the craft.

Yes, Mr. Watterson believed in personal journalism—but he also held that the men who worked for him should do and believe as he did.

BRITAIN NOW READY FOR AIR OFFENSIVE

Coincident with the announcement by Lord Beaverbrook of the arrival of the first giant bombers from the United States and of vast hidden stores of bombing and fighter planes that have been built up, Berlin was given a foretaste of Britain's re-invigorated air-strength. While the Minister of Aircraft Production was revealing a "record surpassing... anything in the history of aviation," 10,000 incendiary and explosive bombs were falling on the German capital.

Britain's weakness in the early months of the conflict—its air force—has suddenly become a powerful striking arm.

In seven months the nation has doubled its output of war planes. According to the Sunday Chronicle, the factories are turning out 3,200 a month, virtually, the production of German airplane factories. This amount is increasingly augmented by American ships as our own production is speeded up and at least 100 bombers, not of the giant type, have crossed the Atlantic under their own power.

Numbers, of course, cannot be published, but for the first time Britain has a sufficient reserve to take the offensive on a large scale and that many have begun with the bombardment of Berlin on Sunday.

This achievement is largely due to the driving force of Lord Beaverbrook, who was placed in control of aircraft production last August. A month after he entered the Cabinet Germany launched its series of mass daylight raids—the largest and most destructive of the war—and though the Germans could not take the punishment given them by the R. A. F., the R. A. F. losses were heavy. That, however, was an impetus to speed production and the tempo has never diminished.

From last September to the present British and American factories have wrought a transformation.—Courier-Journal.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

N. M. (SOOK) CULLUM, SOCIETY EDITOR—OFFICE 28

Madames Martin, Boyd, Gregory And Hill Hostesses At Beautiful Party

Outstanding in social events of the spring season was the lovely contract party given yesterday afternoon at the Woman's Club building on Walnut street by Mrs. Mansfield Martin, Mrs. Wilmon Boyd, Mrs. Charles Gregory and Mrs. Don Hill. The affair was beautifully and cleverly planned in every detail.

Twenty-six tables were arranged in the room for more than one hundred bridge players. Predominant in the decorative scheme of yellow and white were bouquets of beautiful jonquils which were arranged on the mantle and in the windows. A very attractive arrangement of stocks, tulips and Japanese iris in a low blue bowl, a gift to the hostesses, was at the door. Yellow and white was also used on the plates and favors were pastel colored candy rabbits, suggestive of Easter.

Mrs. Joe Bennett, Jr., was the winner of the high score prize, a pair of wall plaques and Mrs. Leon Browder won the second high score prize, costume jewelry. Third high was made by Mrs. Harry Bushart and she was given a make-up bag while Mrs. Horton Baird, with low score, was presented a snowflake paper weight.

The hostesses served a salad plate to the following: Mesdames Bennett, Browder, Bushart, Baird, Guy, Gies, A. G. Baldrige, Arch Hudson, Jr., Clanton Meacham, Nora Alexander, Jess Jordan, W. J. Willingham, Leslie Weaks, Ward McClellan, Maxwell McDade, Enoch Mfner, Bertie Pigue, Clint E. Reeds, Mozelle Terry Smith, J. C. Seruggs, J. E. Fall, Robert H.
