Fulton's fire loss in 1938 was approximately $6,000, according to figures compiled by Lee Roberts, fire chief, which was one of the smallest in recent years.

In the city limits of Fulton, Ky., the losses were held down to only a few thousand dollars in property damage. On both sides of the twin-cities, there were 26 grass fires, 8 roof fires, 3 fires caused from oil stoves, 1 by burning paint, 3 caused from burning trash to near buildings, 2 caused from electricity.

FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN AT DUKEDOM

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Dukedom Bank building, a grocery store and restaurant operated by John Clements, and damaged other property in the business district of Dukedom, Tuesday night. Flames were reported about 8:30, and the Fulton fire department was called. The truck rushed there, but a damaged gasket in the pumping apparatus made it necessary to send back to Fulton for the other truck.

The fire was fought with a bucket brigade, but could not be stopped until every adjoining building on the south side, or Tennessee side of the business section of Dukedom was destroyed. Only a small amount of merchandise and fixtures were saved, and the damage is estimated between $8,000 and $10,000, being partially covered by insurance.

The conflagration was one of the most serious catastrophes ever to occur in the history of Dukedom. The Bank of Dukedom had been in operation for many years, with Bud Jones, president; Mace Rose, cashier, and Charles Ross, assistant cashier.

The fire had gained too great headway to be extinguished when a Fulton fire truck arrived with firemen to help fight the blaze. The bank vault containing valuable papers, safety deposit boxes, bank safe, etc., was left intact after the rest of the building had crumbled.

FULTON HIGH TO HAVE BASKETBALL QUEEN

The year nineteen-hundred and thirty nine will mark the first year in the history of Fulton High School that a Queen has been chosen to reign over the sport of the season—basketball. The scene for the ceremony surrounding this innovation will be the Science Hall and the date set will be January 20, at which time the Bulldogs will compete with the Calvert City Quintet.

Candidates for this honor have been chosen from the four high school classes. From the Freshman through the Senior class, they are respectively, Jean Jolley, Evelyn Hornbeak, Rachel Baldrige, and Margaret Clark. The campaign has been launched but the winner will not be known until Tuesday, January 17. The sponsors of the class whose representative wins will arrange a ceremony for the evening, the high point of which will be the official crowning of the basketball queen by the captain of the basketball squad.

The public is urged to join in this campaign by the casting of as many votes as desired, one penny representing one vote. The money derived from this campaign will be used to purchase new uniforms for the basketball team. Each vote means one penny more towards a worthy cause. Vote for your choice today.

People Warned To Burn Their Trash

A warning was issued this week by the Fulton police department, urging all merchants and citizens to burn their trash, papers, etc., instead of depositing it in alleys and permitting it to be blown about and scattered. At one time during the past year fines were imposed on several in order to obtain the co-operation of citizens.

More care in getting rid of refuse will keep premises, alleys and streets looking cleaner, and help in making the city more attractive, and citizens are asked to co-operate.

Merchants along Lake-st. who use Means-st. at the rear of their stores must take care of their own rubbish and attention has been directed to this by the city council.

Mr. Boyd learned the cooperage business some thirty years ago at Bardwell, Ky., and recently worked with a Memphis firm. He recalls that back before the World War, when flour was sold more extensively in barrels, that Browder Milling Company of this city, employed three to four men who made barrels for the mill.

Mr. Boyd has already obtained standing orders from several mills in West Tennessee and Kentucky, and is prepared to turn out around 200 barrels a week. He has solved the unemployment problem by turning to a trade which he learned early in manhood.

Business Continues Favorable In 1939

In line with the usual post-holiday trend, business generally was relatively quiet during the opening days of the new year, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. Retail and wholesale trade continued on encouraging levels, with inventories in much better shape than at this time last year. December building permit reports were spotty. Apparel markets were quietly active, industrial production tapered off due to holiday shutdowns, but the underlying trend continued favorable, railroads were entering the market in slightly increased volume, and prospects were bright in the building supply and industrial electrical fields. Practically all cities reported their retail trade for the week on a par or nominally ahead of last year's comparative, and decreases were shown, were small. It was generally noted that sales were better in the moderate price field than in the luxury group.

Louisville reported that retail volume continue to show a slight improvement with department store sales running about 4 to 5 per cent above last year's.

'NEWS' BACKS TRADE DAY MOVEMENT HERE

Fulton as an enterprising commercial center, announces the opening of a community clearing house, and weekly auction sales every Saturday.

The old Paschall building on Plain-st. in this city has been improved and repaired and will be opened as Barter Center, where people of this trade area may bring various items for sale or to swap for something else that they need. Spacious storage rooms are available, and those having any kind of commodity they wish to dispose of may leave for sale, with a small fee for handling.

So if you have anything you don't need, anything you would like to swap, or anything you would like to buy—visit Fulton's Buy, Swap and Sell Mart!

For years Fulton has been visited each second Monday which has become recognized as a monthly trade day event. Traders have gathered at the Old Jockey Yard to barter, trade or buy—farm items, livestock, etc. Fulton is a shipping point for grain, livestock, cream, poultry, and farm produce.

Now comes Barter Center, which will act as a clearing house for varied commodities. Citizens and farmers of this vicinity are urged to take advantage of this new service—for the more people participating, the greater will be the interest and value of this trading center.

Plans are being made for a weekly auction sale to be held at Barter Center with John Smith as auctioneer. Those having something to swap or sell, or desire to purchase some particular item, should attend.

This novel, new swap, buy or sell mart, is being sponsored under the auspices of the Fulton County News, the farm and home paper.

NEW SAFETY LEGION

A new nation-wide movement to stop the needless killing and injury of thousands of young American children by automobile accidents is now under way by the Safety Legion of America, with national headquarters in Chicago.

The aim of the organization, founded by Carl T. Habegger, president of the Winner House of Berne, Indiana, is to teach all young boys in America the ten rules of safety, in a new and practical way so that each boy will always follow them.

Eddie Cantor, Lowell Thomas, Eleanor Roosevelt, Paul Hoffman, Harvey Firestone, Jr., Katherine Lenroot, Paul King, Edsel Ford, Dr. James E. West, and other nationally known persons have been invited to be on the honorary board.

The Safety Legion is a club for all boys from 2 to 14 years old. Every boy who joins can wear the special Legion suit for school and play, with the safety emblem on the arm and cap. The emblem is symbolic of the ten rules of safety which each boy learns and must follow. Rewards will be given to boys who live up to the legion goals and help prevent accidents. Boys in any school or neighborhood form their own squad elect cadet officers, and plan their own safety activities. A handsome plaque is given to the boy who organizes a safety squad of 8 boys.

In this way, safety and prevention of automobile accidents really mean something to a youngster. With children conscious of safety, the horrible toll of 240,000 injured and 7,400 killed in 1937 between 2 and 14 years old is bound to decrease. Boys may enlist in the Safety Legion by writing to headquarters in Chicago.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

January 1, marking the beginning of the year, has been observed as a public holiday for many centuries certainly in Rome since the reformation of the calendar by Julius Caesar in the century before Christ.

Owing to the confusion in dates which has resulted from the imperfections of various calendars, which caused skipping of dates at various times, New Year's Day may be said to be merely an arbitrary designation. As late as 1752 the adoption of the Gregorian calendar by England and the American colonies caused a skip of 11 days.

DeMYER DRUG CO.

However, regardless of the day designated as New Year's at various countries, it has been generally observed as a holiday.

The Romans celebrated it with processions, abandonment of litigation and strife, exchanging of visits and of gifts, feasting and merry-making. Early fathers of the Christian church did not approve of these festivities, but recommended that the day be devoted to meditation, scripture reading and works of charity.

But about the fourth century, when December 25 had been agreed upon for the observance of Christ's nativity, New Year's Day, falling one week later, began to assume a sacred character as the anniversary of the circumcision, and as such it still figures in the calendars of certain branches of the church.

Other religious faiths, such as the Mohammedan and Jewish, have their own calendars, with distinctive holidays and festivals, in which their New Year's Day has a corresponding significance to that of Christendom.

Among all it is considered an appropriate day for reviewing the events of the previous year, the making of new resolves and the adoption of plans for the future. It is also the occasion for the expression of good wishes. We join in the spirit of the day in wishing all a Happy New Year.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

An interesting document was brought to light during the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the founding of a department store in Chicago. Someone in that organization had preserved the rules for employees of their first store which read as follows:

"Store must be opened from 6 A. M. to 9 P. M. the year around.

"Store must be swept; counters, base shelves and show cases dusted. Lamps trimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; pens made; doors and windows opened; a pail of water, also a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast (if there is time to do so) and attend to customers who call.

"Store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary, and then only for a few minutes.

"The employee who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to dances, and other places of amusement, will surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty.

"Each employee must pay not less than $3 per year to the church and must attend Sunday School regularly.

"Man employees are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to prayer meeting.

"After 14 hours of work in the store, the leisure hours should be spent most in reading."

Who was it we heard sighing for "the good old days?"

When officers of Greensboro, N. C., answered a hysterical woman's plea for help, they found that a rat in her room had caused the excitement.

HERE IS A QUESTION

The 130,000,000 people in the United States have been told that enjoy the highest standard of living to be found on the globe today.

This well illustrated by the fact that we have one out of every two radios in the world and three out of every four automobiles.

Of course, someone may yet ask the question whether this material property means anything in the development of the spiritual life of the average American.

BOWLING GREEN, KY.

DOODADS AND THINGUMBOBS

I hardly know who to classify the things I want to talk about today; hence the rather general title. Every boy knew and knows how to make things with his knife. Some of these have definite names; others are nameless. Every season brings something worth while in whittling or carving.

In the spring whistles are very much in vogue. As simple a thing as a whistle requires a bit of art. There are two main kinds; those made from papaw and those from hickory. It takes some woodlore for one to know just when the bark will come loose easiest from the wood. I have seen awkward boys and men try to make a whistle and split the bark in trying to peel it off the big end of the limb.

Flutter mills or water mills are distinctly a thing of fall in my life, but they can be made at any time. It requires a point of cornstalk with the hard outside peeled off. These same stiff peelings are then converted into paddles and inserted into the soft pith or pulp of the cornstalk. Two small forked limbs stuck in the mud on opposite sides of the small stream are all that will be needed to make a real water mill. Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, in her recent popular novel THE YEARLING, has rightly made much of a water mill, a sure badge of inventive, playful, boyhood.

In summer try your skill at making a pumpkin pipe or whistle. Cut a pumpkin leaf, with its hollow stalk. Cut away the leaf proper and split a long place in the stem near the top. This, when it becomes slightly wilted, makes a good vibrator. The music can be regulated by cutting off the stem. Skillful boys can make three stems that will sound a chord of music. By catching the catching the sound in the hands, one can imitate, more or less accurately, all sorts of owls, wildcats, crows, and such like. Incidentally he can run some of the neighbors crazy.

The cornstalk fiddle, though not listed by the great makers of musical instruments, is a time-honored device in our state for producing sound. Cut a joint of cornstalk that has a deep fluting on one side. A thin slice through each side of the fluting will form the strings, which are held up by a small stick inserted beneath them. A similar stalk can be called a bow; then the sounds start when the two are rubbed together.

Watermelon rinds are fine things to carve, particularly when one has eaten down as far as the red goes. It takes real skill to carve a watermelon-rind chain, with links that will hold. Try it some time.

Incidentally it is a form of skill to peel an apple in one peeling, and of course, it is good luck to keep it intact while you whirl it around your head three times and cast it behind you, where it makes the first letter of your true-love's name.

Long before manual training had a name, whittlers and carvers were making these time-honored little things. That some of this seeming waste of time had good results is evident in many of our ordinary homes, where there are evidences of genuine woodwork that would do credit to any of the artistic nations of Europe and would command the attention of scholars if they were only located across the ocean in another country.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR FOOD

Men and women have been eating for thousands of years but not until comparatively recent times has there been any real scientific study of foods.

The discovery of the vitamins and the information secured as to the processes of digestion has, in recent years, revolutionized the scientific conception of food. So much so that it is no longer possible to distinguish between food and drugs, for the financial products of protein digestion are very closely related chemically to certain active drugs.

Inasmuch as the function of food is to provide energy for the individual and to assist in rebuilding the constituent parts of the body, a deficiency in any needed element is reflected in ill effects upon the body itself. Along this line, certain vitamins have been recognized as of peculiar value in preventing the common cold, which is one of the scourges of the day. In fact, the diet containing the proper production of these vitamins has been noticeably effective in group test in protecting individuals against colds.

Laughing Around the World

With IRVIN S. COBB

Lion Lyings

By IRVIN S. COBB

THIS story is built around the personality of Popcorn George, a famous circus manager. On tour one season, he was approached by a young man seeking a job. The boy was undersized, rather weak-looking and not in the least aggressive, and Popcorn George turned him down.

But at the next stand the lad showed up again, and again was refused. This kept up town after town until one day the manager decided that the only way to get rid of the boy's importunities was to give him a job and to make the job so impossible that he would not dream for a moment of attempting to handle it.

"What do you want to do, son?" he asked.

"Anything at all, sir," replied the lad quivering with eagerness.

The show was just unloading and the sight of the lion's cage being put in the menagerie tent gave the circus man an idea.

"All right," he said, "you just go over and sweep out the lions' cage. But be careful, because they're all four man eaters."

The boy disappeared and in the hurry putting up the main top George forgot all about the youngster. An hour later the lad confronted him again and said:

"What shall I do now, Mister?"

"What have you been doing?" asked the circus man, trying to remember.

"I swept out the lions' cage, sir."

"What!" shouted Popcorn George, with visions of his big cats running around loose through the countryside. "What did you do with the lions?"

"Oh," replied the boy, with his puny arms akimbo and a matter-of-fact look in his watery blue eyes, "I just took 'em out of the cage and tied 'em up to a tree."

EARLY HISTORY OF HICKMAN COUNTY

Hickman county, which embraces a geographical area of 226 square miles, was the 71st county in the state to be formed. Being an agricultural region, there is scarcely a portion of land that cannot be rendered capable of almost unlimited production. The county was named in honor of Capt. Paschal Hickman, native of Virginia, who emigrated to Kentucky when very young with his father, Rev. William Hickman.

and settled in Franklin county, he served in most of the campaigns against the Indians and was distinguished for his activity, efficiency and bravery. In 1812 he was commissioned captain, raised a company and joined Col John Allen, who commanded the First Regiment of Kentucky Riflemen. He was in the memorable battle of River Raisin, where he was severely wounded.

It is impossible to determine the exact year in which white men first visited the present territory of Hickman county, but from the most reliable information available, it appears to have been as early as the summer of 1780, the same year that witnessed the construction of Fort Jefferson on the Mississippi, just below Wickliffe. The soldiers stationed at the fort made several incursions throughout the surrounding country, and one time a small detachment penetrated as far south as the present site of Columbus. It will be remembered that before the admission of Kentucky as a State, its territory formed a part of Virginia, although the country at that time was the undisputed possession of Indian tribes, who used it for a hunting ground. As early as 1783-84, the Legislature of Virginia authorized the "laying of land warrants" along the Mississippi, Ohio and other rivers for the benefit of the soldiers of that State who served in the Revolutionary war, and immediately thereafter surveyors visited the country for the purpose of "locating" said warrants, but owing to the hostility of the Indians they carried their operations no further than "establishing corners" at various points along the river. The first of these warrants was laid on

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and Veg. Food
Everything from Soup to Kats
The stomach should digest two meals of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, corned or dried meats, you are overloading it. It cannot digest them. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, bloated and upset all day. There's no more taking in food. It's time to stop. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes time to make the wrong stomach digest food. Indigestion is a time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and easy to get. the Mississippi river, in what is now Hickman county and embraced 4,000 acres, which served as a basis for all warrants subsequently located in this part of the state.

A subsequent act provided for the division of this tract into town lots and the appointing of trustees to control and sell the same, and it was the cherished dream of the projectors of the enterprise, to found here a large city, which should not only become the commercial center of the United States, but eventually the seat of national government as well. At the suggestion of the governor of Virginia, the new city was named Columbus, but not attempts were made to settle it for many years, on account of its remote location and the hostility of the Indians, who looked upon the encroachments of the whites in anything but a friendly spirit.

The first building on the town site was a block house, erected in 1804, and used as fort by United States troops during Aaron Burr's conspiracy against the government. In the same house eighteen years later were held the first county and circuit courts in Kentucky west of the Tennessee river.

A few hunters and other daring spirits, impelled by a love of adventure and a desire to secure some of the rich lands bordering on the Mississippi river, visited this remote outpost early in the 1800s and "laid their land warrants," but the idea of permanent settlement was never entertained until after the purchase of the country from the Indians in 1818.

About that time or perhaps a little earlier, William Tipton came to Columbus and purchased the old block-house, which he fitted up for a residence, and in which he lived until 1828. He was a true type of the pioneer, and took an active part in the organization of Hickman county.

In February, 1822, Hickman county was established by an act of the Legislature with jurisdiction over the entire Purchase. The town of Columbus on the Mississippi river was selected as the seat of justice and it was there, on February 25, 1822, that the magistrates met and set up the organization for the county.

ADVANCING FARM WORK

Spring and sprouts may seem a long time ahead, yet all farmers know how quickly the days pass by and bring the busy Spring season around again. Also they know how little time there will be to do anything then except strictly routine work.

Consequently, whatever can be done now that will help insure materially increased income for the 1939 harvest it is a good thing for the farmer and a good thing for the community, for it to be done without delay. One of these opportunities is treating the fields to a liberal application of high grade, finely ground rock phosphate.

Recently it has come to be realized that winter and early spring are really two of the best times for this essential farm improvement operation to be carried out. In the first place, by applying during winter, it will be easier to find time and equipment available to do the job, it will be easier for the truck or team drawn spreaders to get over the fields the ground is frozen, and most important of all, by spreading now the farmer has the aid of Mother Nature working the phosphate into the soil by means of freezes and thaws so it is down there waiting to stimulate the young plant roots when growth begins.

Naturally, the earlier the young plants are able to get their nourishment, the sturdier their growth, the earlier their maturity, the greater improvement in yield and quality, with the net result that the farmer is able to take in a lot more cash income from the same amount of land and same amount of work—which spells prosperity both for the farmer and the community where he trades.

In a very real sense, the cotton farmer, the wheat farmer, and the other farmers are still paying for the last war—paying for lost foreign markets and for dislocations which after two decades still remain unadjusted. We are still paying, even while the world tries to count the possible costs of another conflict.

It is usually cheaper to increase the volume of farm production by building up the fertility of the soil than by buying additional land. Results of experiment shows that by the use of limestone and phosphate, soil improving crops and livestock, considerable cash crops farming can be practiced and soil productivity increased at the same man must adjust his ways to suit the soil.

The people of the United States with their resources of soil, water forests and minerals, have all the necessary requirements for life on the highest level known to any civilization.

United action gave farmers the only national farm program they have ever had. If that spirit is maintained, if each one does his part, the farm program will go on.

The time has come for farmers the country over to make up their minds where they stand. Without their farm program, surpluses will pile up, prices will be ruined, and income will fall.

When you waste your soil fertility you are squandering your capital. Can you afford to send your soil and labor abroad for practically nothing? Can you afford to plow up your hillside and sell your labor for five cents an hour when the ultimate end is destruction?

Farmers may feed and clothe the world, but they don't get all the profit of the job.

Rural Electrification

R. T. Hosman, Project Superintendent reports that the outlook for lights in more rural homes is looking good. The setting of stakes has been started and the contract for construction of the line has been signed and as soon as enough of the line has been staked the setting of poles will begin.

The source of power is near Fulton, and therefore the construction work will begin near Fulton and work toward the West end of the county. Mr. Hosman also stated that as soon as the stakes were set by an individual's home, it was time for the house to be wired. When certain sections of lines have been built, this section can be energized, before the entire construction is completed, if three fourth of the houses along this line have been wired.

Measuring of Wheat Acreage

The checking of compliance on the commercial wheat farms was started Tuesday of this week. The supervisors will visit all commercial wheat farms and locate on the aerial photos the fields that are now being used for the production of wheat and also the fields that were sown to mixtures of wheat and other small grains.

It is very important that the farmer be with the supervisor when the supervisor checks the farm and go over the field with the supervisor, in order that any waste land or other portion of the field, that might not be sowed to wheat be located. This is important and it is also necessary that the farmer have at least 80 per cent of his wheat allotment sowed, in order to receive full payment. Therefore it is hoped that the wheat growers will carefully help the supervisor to get a complete check on the wheat land.

Joe L. Payne was re-elected president of the Graves County Farm Bureau in the annual election of officers Monday. C. M. Schmidt was named vice president and H. C. Spillman was re-elected treasurer. Directors were also chosen.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, January 15.

The Golden Text is: In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death. (Proverbs 12:38).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men" (John 1:9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "This is life eternal," says Jesus, — is, not shall be; and then he defines everlasting life as a present knowledge of his Father and of himself, — the knowledge of Love, Truth, and Life. "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou has sent." (p. 419)

In the bedroom the extra telephone instrument is not only desirable for convenience, but is also an added protection in case of fire, burglary or illness.
