For Your Vote of Preference

Your vote for a renewal of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections will help to guarantee the continuance of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections.

Our present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections is the only one which has been in use in this state for many years, and it is generally accepted as the best method of registering voters.

The system is simple and easy to understand, and it is designed to prevent the possibility of errors in the vote. It is also much cheaper than any other method of registering voters.

We urge you to vote for a renewal of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections.

The enthusiasm of the people for the ballot gives a large margin for the renewal of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections.

The results of this poll, by county and by district, will be published in the next issue of the Kentucky Press News Alliance, in conjunction with the results of the other polls in the state.

By vote of the counties and by district, the following results will be available:

- The county and district in which the highest percentage of votes is cast for the ballot will be announced.
- The county and district in which the lowest percentage of votes is cast for the ballot will be announced.

We encourage you to vote for a renewal of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections.

The enthusiasm of the people for the ballot gives a large margin for the renewal of the present system of printing a ballot in the primary and general elections.

The Kentucky Press News Alliance will publish the results of this poll in the next issue of the Kentucky Press News Alliance.
Electrical prospects in the future, electric utility associations in the general low cost area of industry, and in some cases, the demand for electricity, may encourage growth in the field. The development in this period of about 4,000 miles on the homes of the country, increasing capacity was secured by a million kilowatts, and more than 1,800,000 homes were served with power. At the same time the use of household electricity was further extended to the lowest figures on record.

Debt will reach more than 44 billion dollars in the United States in 1933. This unprecedented demand for new construction and expansion of public facilities will be met by so-called "subsidized" government competition, and government receivership. While these attacks by political demagogues may be inevitable, the present political economy is not likely to remain unchanged. The situation of national depression is more complex than that which existed in 1929. Subsidized government receivership is destined to be used to the fullest extent possible to achieve a new distribution of wealth and income for the benefit of the public. These attacks and the force will continue to threaten the stability of the national government, and the economic welfare of the American people. In order to get off the public's back, the nation must be given a chance to recoup. Otherwise, the only alternative is a national receivership. The problem is not one of dollars and cents, but one of social and economic welfare. The national government must be put back on its feet before it can help the American people.

It's time for us to get out of the way, regarding farm beauty management. Every old stump and tree woodlot that's ever been sold or given away is back in good shape.

The farm woodlot is just as any other crop if it's expected to yield its best results. It must be turned the stock every year or two. Turn the stock in your woodlot—turn the stock in your woodlot—turn the stock in your woodlot. The farm woodland must receive liberal attention during the winter so as to have them in prime condition when the business begins.

Breeding turkeys should be fed generously during the winter so as to have them in prime condition when the business begins.

DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI!
The popular song of recent years that has become a "must" for every Mississippi River boat. It relates a story of the dangers that lie ahead for a boat that's going down the Mississippi. It describes the mud banks, the swift currents, the sudden storms, the treacherous rocks and the many other hazards that a river traveler must face. It's a song that's sure to bring a smile to the face of anyone who's ever traveled on the Mississippi.

just remember that the year 1939 didn't bring much that you didn't go out and get yourself!

If my effort is made to get business there will not be any business--this is true no matter what year it is.
