For Fulton First and Always

ESTABLISHED 1898.

THE LISTENING POST

● A few days ago, in telling of three Main Street business firms which had reached the half-century mark, I remarked that a later story would tell of the oldest business in Fulton which is still operating under the same name, and by a son of the man who founded the store. Lacking any knowledge to the contrary, I have thought that the jewelry firm of M. F. DeMyer was the oldest business in Fulton which has continued under the same name, and in reality under the direction of its founder until 1936.

● This firm was established in 1881, and Fulton was indeed a young town then. I have never known definitely just when Fulton became a town, but it was not a great deal earlier than 1870. The late M. F. DeMyer, founder of this sixty year old business, began traveling over the country repairing watches, clocks and sewing machines when he was fifteen years of age. He moved to Fulton in 1881, and worked for a planing mill which was located where the Pierce-Corquin mill now stands. He kept up his repair work at night, and finally built a shop at the spot where the South Fulton city hall now stands. He continued in this location for several years, and in 1894 entered into a partnership with R. N. Phipps, their store being located where Bert's Shoe Store now stands. This business continued until 1901, and in that year Mr. DeMyer again entered business alone in the rear of the building where the present store is now located. Later he moved into the building now occupied by the Fry Shoe Store, and then after the City National Bank moved from the corner building, he moved into that place.

● In 1906 the building was destroyed by fire and it was rebuilt the following year. From 1907 until his death four years ago he remained at the location where the store is located now, and after his death the business was carried on by Poyner and Sam DeMyer. Two years ago Poyner became sole owner, and the business is still carried under the name of M. F. DeMyer.

● Mr. DeMyer was of the old fashioned type, and once he gave his word on anything he kept that promise. I remember a few years ago how determined he was in this respect. There was a safe in the office which had given some trouble. We wished to have the lock repaired and the combination changed, and usually this is a trifling job to a man who knows the business. We asked Mr. DeMyer to do the job and he said it would be worth about a dollar. That seemed reasonable enough and he started to do the job.

● After starting the job he ran into complications which he had not figured on and the job stretched into many hours. I think he worked at least two days, but he finally got through and it was a good job. I asked him about his charges, thinking that since he had been mistaken in his diagnosis of the trouble he would expect more pay for his time. But he was not of that sort. He laughed when I asked him about it.

● "I told you it was worth a dollar," he said. "A dollar is all I want and all I will take. I should have looked at the job longer before taking it on. But that is not your fault. It is mine, and I have always made it a practice to pay for my mistakes." And that was all he would take for a job that lasted the better part of two full days.

● Mr. DeMyer was a man who saw this town really develop from a village of mud and dust and lawlessness into a town of real size and culture. I talked with him many times during the latter years of

Scope Of Aid To Allies Is GOP Problem

Platform Is Expected To Conform Closely To Frank's Program

Philadelphia. —The slogan "peace and preparedness" dominated Republican platform writers today, with a controversy obviously arising as to how far the party declaration should go in endorsing material assistance to the Allies.

Subcommittees, appointed to deal with the various platform subjects met throughout the day, including the group under the chairmanship of Alf M. Landon which is studying the problem of foreign affairs. From the other subcommittees came word that the platform otherwise would closely conform to the program submitted last winter by the Republican program committee under the chairmanship of Glenn Frank.

Urging Two Platforms. Meanwhile, it was learned that some party leaders were urging that the convention adopt two platforms, one brief, concise and pointed, and the other elaborating at some length on the points made in the shorter document. The long platform, it was suggested, would be based upon the Frank report with few changes made.

Landon made it plain that because of the uncertainty of the situation abroad, he and the subcommittee were in no hurry to put their views into writing. "This is a changing world," he said, "and events are moving very fast."

May Alter Program. The events, he added, "might have some influence on the subcommittee's conclusions, particularly the nature of the French peace terms laid down by Adolf Hitler."

New Etiquette Reveals Escorts Called Dates

Corvallis, Ore. —A revised etiquette book for coeds at Oregon State College, issued by the Oregon State Co-ed Etiquette Committee, brings the co-eds up to date on what is used on the campus as a substitute for English.

One chapter deals with the technique of managing a man in a "buggy-bumper," the designation for an automobile.

The co-eds are warned against "bumming" too many cigarettes off their dates—the word date having replaced the Victorian escort.

Another chapter is devoted to the proper care of "light blinkers," although it is not suggested that the chaperones would recognize themselves by that designation.

Naval Authorities Study Use Of Bases In Latin America

Washington. —Establishment of Latin-American bases for the United States Navy, a usually well-informed source said today, may be one of the subjects raised at the projected pan-American conference on hemisphere problems of military and economic defense.

Both aircraft and fleet bases would be involved in any such discussion, this official said.

Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles has announced the Government has communicated with all twenty-one American republics, suggesting that an extraordinary conference be held immediately to consider all problems confronting the hemisphere as a result of the turn of events abroad.

The conference proposal was made known after Secretary Hull disclosed that notes had been sent Monday to Germany and Italy saying that the United States would not countenance any transfer of the British, French or Dutch possessions in the new world to a non-

All-Stars To Have Two Players Of Each Team

The all star team, which will play the league leaders on July 9, will be composed of two players from each of the remaining seven teams in the league. Ballots are now being cast in each of the eight towns with the deadline set for midnight, July 5.

Fans are allowed to vote for 4 players from each club, making 32 players on their list, and in addition an all-star manager, and for the persons selecting the fourteen players composing the team, picked from the ballots by President Howard, the league is offering prizes. From the lists received by the president, there will be two players from each team receiving the most votes and the manager will have the problem of deciding in case of a tie.

In voting on the players it is not necessary for a person to vote for anybody else except the men on the local club unless they want to. The matter of selecting a player for a certain position will be handled by the manager and not the fans. It may be necessary to play some star player out of position and if the fans vote for this player he certainly is entitled to participate in the game.

Make your choice now and hand or mail your list to your official scorer.

Peace Plank Is Demanded

Philadelphia. —An emphatic demand that the Republican resolutions committee declare itself against any measures that might lead America into war went into the bulging portfolios of the platform framers today.

It came from a delegation of twenty-six Republican House members, led by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, who denounced President Roosevelt's foreign policies and asserted: "Republicans should stand for keeping America out of war."

Earlier John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. chieftain, declared the President's proposal for compulsory national service "a fantastic suggestion from a mind in full intellectual retreat."

Attack Policies. The House group appeared before the committee late last night in what Representative Corbett of Pennsylvania said was a "spontaneous" movement.

One after another they assailed Administration policies and urged the committee to pull no punches in the forthcoming campaign.

Proclaiming a policy of America for Americans and Europe for Europeans, Fish declared "if we weaken we might as well endorse the Democratic platform. Aid to the Allies of war is not a peace measure."

Home Building In Nation Is Going Ahead Despite Handicaps

New York. —The building of new homes in America is picking up speed again after a slow start, trade sources reported today.

In the first three months this year residential building awards in thirty-seven States east of the Rocky Mountains, compiled by F. W. Dodge Corporation, lagged behind last year, but increased again.

True, this did not reflect the start of our own rearmament effort on a large scale. This may be expected in the near future and the period of greatest pressure for an increase in material and labor costs appears to be ahead of us.

Productive Capacity Also Checked. Observers note, however, three checks to any severe rise in prices such as would seriously affect new home building. First is the reservoir of unemployed labor which can be called upon to increase the production of commodities. This would help to postpone the day, they say, when shortages may force quotations upward.

Check No. 2 on prices is our greatly increased capacity to produce commodities of all sorts. In almost all departments our productive capacity is far beyond that of World War days.

However, such a situation is hardly in sight in the near future, in the opinion of seasoned observers. Building costs have so far shown little tendency to rise.

The American Appraisal Company announced today that its construction cost index for May stood at 202, a point lower than April and only two points higher than a year ago.

True, this did not reflect the start of our own rearmament effort on a large scale. This may be expected in the near future and the period of greatest pressure for an increase in material and labor costs appears to be ahead of us.

Lakeview To Play Local Linksmen

Golfers from Lakeview county club of Paducah will come to Fulton for a tournament tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Country Club. About 30 players are expected.

Players for the local club will include the following: Weeks, Fritts, Howard, Spivey, Rogers, Carr, Bushart, White, Fall, Davis, Bugg, Lattimer, Hales, Williams, Bridges, Craddock, Carter, Beadles, Jones, Cohn, Hall, Johnson.

Negro Woman Badly Injured Last Night

Rosetta Blythe, colored, who resides on McComb, street, was seriously burned about the back and shoulders last night when she tried to aid in extinguishing a fire at the home of her sister.

The fire department was called to the fire about 12:35 a. m., but the fire had already been put out when the firemen arrived. The house was only slightly damaged. The house belonged to R. M. Belew.

WANTED

Every railroad man, his family and friends to hear the sermon on "Life's Railroad" at the First Baptist Church, 7:45, June 23rd. Reserved Seats for—ILLINOIS CENTRAL FAMILIES.

Major General Butler—Fighter Who Called For Peace—Dies

Philadelphia. —Major General Semedley D. Butler, 58, who retired from the U. S. Marine Corps after fighting half-way round the world and spent much of his later years urging that the nation keep its fighting men home, died today in Naval hospital.

"Old Glimet Eye"—the name he got in the Mexican campaign because he learned so much of the enemy—succumbed at 4 p. m. (EST) to a gall bladder and liver ailment that had put him to bed a month ago.

Sharp Of Tongue. Since he retired in 1931, with 30 years service in the Marines, Butler took to the lecture platform with the same sharp tongue that had often brought him into the public eye during his military and public service. He was the proponent of armed force only for home defense—he who had been a fighting man from the Orient to France.

He is one of the few men who twice was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor—in 1914 for heroism in Vera Cruz and a year later for storming—with 23 men—Fort Revere in Haiti.

In 1918 he got the distinguished service medal for his work commanding the great American embarkation port at Brest, France. Three years later—when he was 40—he became a brigadier general, the youngest general officer in the corps.

U.S. To Help Mexico Bolster Armed Forces

Mexico City. —A program to strengthen Mexico's armed forces four times over, with close United States co-operation including technical and financial aid, was reported in preparation today.

Informed quarters said that within a few weeks a credit of at least $10,000,000—to be supplemented by Mexican funds—and sixty experts from the United States Army and Navy would be made available.

Cardenas Plan Praised. The promise of generous help from the United States was understood to have been made along with United States expressions of determination that this country should not be used as the avenue of any invasion.

President Lazaro Cardenas' plan for compulsory military service was praised by the newspapers. El Nacional commented editorially that it "assures national defense against whatever outside danger will affirm even more the national unity."

Radio Station To Give "Escape" From War News

New York. —Further effort to swing listener attention from war broadcasting comes in a full-page advertisement just published by WNEW, New York local channel station on 1250 kilocycles, which operates twenty-four hours a day.

Prefacing its plea in huge letters: "Escape With WNEW," the advertisement said it was the newspaper's duty to "give you the news, however terrible its import," but the radio station should "provide escape—good entertainment—rest and recreation for your mind."

While the station said it radio-cast news from press associations, "you will not hear it endlessly repeated . . . speculated upon . . . dinned over and over into your ears."

Queen Elizabeth Crew Expected On Armed Liner

New York. —Port authorities today were informed the armed British liner Britannic would arrive today with 800 persons on board, possibly seamen from the British Isles to serve in the crew of the Queen Elizabeth.

The Queen, which came here from England early in March before she was even finished, has been quietly loading more than 7,000 tons of fuel oil in the last few days.

The ship already has a skeleton crew of 120. Once each week she has taken on a seven days' supply of food, so she has been constantly provisioned for a transatlantic voyage.

No Profits Have Yet Been Made By United States On War Orders

New York. —Many observers expected that the outbreak of the European war last fall would end the period of deficit operations which American business had been experiencing since the latter part of 1937. The return of business to profitable operations last September, the first month of the war, indicated the realization of these expectations and the beginning of a period of profitable operations.

This profitable period, however, failed to materialize, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Since September, business as a whole has been experiencing deficit operations. Consequently, the war so far has not provided business with the expected profits.

Many Making Profits. This does mean, however, that all companies are losing money at the present time. A large number of the

Nye Demands Roosevelt's Resignation

Believes Woodring Ousted For Refusal To Free Bomb Sight

Washington. —A demand that President Roosevelt resign lest his foreign policies bring "disaster" upon the country was made in the Senate today by Senator Nye (R., N. D.), while at Hyde Park the chief executive accused his critics of partisanship.

Nye, an advocate of aloofness from European affairs, also urged that Harry Woodring, resigned Secretary of War, be called before the Senate military committee for questioning.

He said he would be "very much surprised" if the committee did not learn that Woodring had been asked to transfer "national defense secret number 1"—a bomber sight—to the Allies, and that he had been ousted because he refused.

This brought from Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), the reply that Major General Henry H. Arnold has assured him that "at no time or under any conditions has any consideration been given to revelation of any secret bomb sight."

FDR Strikes Back. At Hyde Park the President took cognizance of charges that he was creating a "war cabinet" in appointing Henry L. Stimson to succeed Woodring and Col. Frank Knox, like Stimson a Republican, to the post of Secretary of the Navy. The chief executive told reporters that there are some people who think in terms of patriotic motives and some who think with partisan motives.

Knox asserted at Chicago that the country was in danger "because we are inadequately prepared" and that his only aim was to help "get ready for any emergency" in a wholly non-political way.

The Senate military committee will hold a hearing on Stimson's nomination in a few days, with Stimson as a witness, while the naval committee will start considering Knox's nomination tomorrow.

Duke Denies Plan To Sail For America

Barcelona. —The Duke of Windsor said today his plans for the future were "unsettled" and that he and his American-born Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, were not "at present" considering a trip to the United States.

"I won't know for sure what I am going to do until I get to Madrid," the Duke said through a spokesman. "We have for there in the next day or so."

It was reported the party would go to England by way of Lisbon after the Duke communicated with the British Government.

major corporations are not only reporting profits, but larger profits than in the prewar period. The fact, however, that general business, as a whole, is losing money means that these corporations are making much less money than it was expected they would make as the result of the war.

Statistics are not available which show whether business as a whole is currently operating at a profit or a loss. Consequently, an indirect method has to be used in order to obtain information on the situation. General business income tends to follow closely the trend of the price of farm products. An eight-months' moving average of raw material prices provides an indicator of business expenses. These two indicators thus provide a means of determining whether business is working at a profit or at a loss.

LET'S NOT PRETEND

At the present time there is a great deal of discussion regarding the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere. Many plans are being made to organize all South and Central American republics into one group for a unified defense against any aggression which is likely to come from a German victory in the present war. Only yesterday it was reported that a large sum of money would be loaned Mexico in order to permit that troubled country to reorganize its military forces along modern lines, and the statement was also made that American army officers would take part in this military preparation, these being assigned as teachers for the Mexican army. Shortly a great conference of Pan-American nations is to be held in Havana to discuss these problems.

Probably it is sound strategy to do these things. In any event, this country must endeavor to strengthen these weaker nations to the south of us if we are to defend this hemisphere against the challenge of the Axis powers. There can be little doubt, if the Axis power win, that the United States will face a challenge on the Monroe Doctrine very soon, for the South American nations offer a rich territory for totalitarian penetration. Large penetration there brings a serious, if not a fatal threat, to our national security.

However, there is no use in deluding ourselves that real help can be had from those nations. They are weak, usually torn by internal strife, with frequent forcible changes in government. Today several of the nations are operating under virtual dictators, and the totalitarian idea is not vague to many of those nations, by any means. Mexico, for example, has been torn apart by civil strife many times during the past two or three decades, and not long ago this country was at odds with the present regime there over the seizure of oil properties. That quarrel has never been really settled, but is being dropped for the time being in favor of more pressing matters.

The United States is not greatly loved in any of the nations south of the Rio Grande. By several it is cordially hated, and a week or so ago the dictator president of Brazil, a man much on the order of Hitler and Mussolini, made the headlines with an endorsement of Fascist ideas. He denied later that he meant this, but his denial meant little. The totalitarian idea is already firmly planted in Brazil and probably in some other South American states, and it will not be easy to get rid of it.

It will be quite all right to hold this Pan-American conference. It will be quite all right to help Mexico in a rearming program. Probably the United States should do these things. But we must never forget that we cannot place any dependence in these nations. If we place too much trust in them we will find some of them stabbing us in the back some day when we need them badly. All plans which are made should contemplate that whatever is done in the way of defense must be done in the final analysis, by the United States. We may find perfect willingness for totalitarian invasion in some of the southern

TOO MUCH CODDLING

Among all the other things wrong with this country and the rest of the world, maybe one trouble is that we've gone in for too much coddling, too much protecting, too much mixing in other people's business.

That applies to the experimenting field. We have hesitated to try new fields of endeavor or to let other people do it because of the fear that someone would get hurt.

Take the case of the landlubber who started off on a trip up the west coast to Alaska in a home-made "ark." He built it himself, put his family and belongings aboard, and started off to "build a new life" in Alaska.

All along the way people laughed at him. They said he would never make it. Authorities in one town arrested him in an attempt to stop him from proceeding on what they declared would be certain suicide for himself and his family.

But he was stubborn. Handicaps rolled off him, and on his "ark" chugged. He braved the stormy ocean—and won through.

There was great surprise when the "ark" turned up in Alaska. He had done what they said he couldn't do, and what too many people tried to keep him from doing.

That's the way most progress is made. They laughed at the steamboat, the electric light, the automobile, the radio, the printing press. Scientists have been booed down through the centuries.

And much time and money has been spent "protecting" people from themselves. It may be for the best, of course, but incidents such as the Alaska "ark" one make us wonder.—Sun-Democrat.

countries, and we should always bear this in mind.

In planning our defense we should ever bear in mind that we may find enemies already in those countries which we must defend if we are to defend ourselves. That is something which we must not forget.

Miss Dorothy Reeds, who underwent an appendectomy yesterday, is getting along very well.

Mrs. Raymond Adams and baby were dismissed yesterday.

HERE'S THE MASCOT

The Leader has discovered the cause of the recent rise of the Tigers. Ira Little, who attends games only now and then, has never seen the home team lose this season. Evidently he is the good luck mascot of the baseball team, and something should be done to encourage his regular attendance. Last night, for example, he came a bit late and Hopkinsville was leading 4 to 0 at the time. He was not discouraged, telling his neighbors that he had never seen the Tigers this season and felt certain that he would see another victory last night. His confidence was justified, for in later innings the Tigers hammered out a 17 to 6 victory.

Yes, Ira should keep on coming. Perhaps is the four leaf clover for the Tigers.

Aid Attacks

Lewis' Stand On Third Term

Washington.—John L. Lewis, who has declared opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt, was confronted today with disaffection within Labor's Non-Partisan League. C. I. O. political wing, over his stand.

Ell L. Oliver resigned from the post of executive secretary of the league, which Lewis heads, and declared that the "overwhelming majority" of the members "prefer the renomination and re-election of President Roosevelt to the choice of any other person available in either major party."

Says Outside Unit Protests. In a letter of resignation, Oliver also asserted that the opposition to Mr. Roosevelt in the league came from an "infinitesimal minority" predominantly composed of persons associated with organizations "controlled from outside the United States."

public utilities. The House endorsed the Norris-Sparkman bill by a 205 to 178 vote despite the insistence of the Chairman May (D, Ky.), of the House Military Affairs Committee that the beneficiaries of T. V. A. electric rates should make up tax losses.

The bill, which May's committee voted to table, came before the House for the first time today as a "rider" on the relief appropriation bill. House conferees on the relief measure agreed to other Senate amendments, but did not agree on the T. V. A. amendment. A separate vote on it was required.

Youth Called Fit For War

Cleveland.—Are American young men as physically fit for war as were the youth of 1918?

"I don't believe the modern American youth is 'soft' no matter what a lot of people say," a medical officer of the earlier war declared today. "The corner baseball game, the appearance of men and women on the street, reflecting the food they get and the lives they lead, tell an encouraging story."

This view came from Dr. Victor D. Washburn, of Wilmington, Del., a Medical Corps officer from 1917 to 1919 and a major in the Delaware National Guard Medical Corps since 1921.

American's bigger preparedness job should be creation of a "pool of manpower" from which physically fit men can be drawn if necessary. Dr. Washburn said.

French Meet Jap Demand

Tokio.—France has acceded entirely to Japan's demands for the halting of transportation of war permit Japanese inspectors to enter supplies through French Indo-China to China and has agreed to Indo-China to make sure that the traffic ends, the Foreign Office announced today.

Earlier, the Japanese press had warned that if the munitions traffic were not stopped "it may be inevitable that certain important points in Indo-China should be placed in control of Japanese forces until the overthrow of Chiang Kai-Shek."

It was reported that Vice Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani, who had an interview yesterday with French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry, had demanded strict supervision of munitions, including the stationing of Japanese patrols at Hanoi, Iahai and Hangan to inspect shipments.

Ford's Stand Draws Fire

Washington.—William S. Knudsen of the National Defense Commission, and Henry Ford, his one-time employer, took opposite positions today on the question of whether the Allies will get airplane motors manufactured in Ford plants.

Ford, who has been getting his factories ready to start mass production of the engines, reiterated at Detroit yesterday that the output would be for "defensive purposes only" and for no other Government but the United States.

Says Edsel Ford Agreed. Knudsen replied that "it was made plain" to the Ford company during negotiations that 60 per cent of a contemplated order for Rolls-Royce Merlin engines would be for the Allies and the balance for the United States Government.

He said he had been assured by Edsel Ford, now president of the company, "that this agreement was satisfactory." Knudsen was a production manager for Ford early in his career.

Rampaging Tigers Take Hoppers Into Camp For 5th Straight Win

For a couple of innings last night it seemed that the Tigers had gone into a tailspin, as the Hoppers piled up a 6 to 3 lead in the first three innings. Sprute was driven off the hill in a five hit attack during the first inning when four runs scampered across. Black relieved him and fell victim to a vicious assault in the third when three hits produced another pair of runs. In the meantime the Tigers had forced Nickolia off the slab for the Hoppers, but Sandretto seemed destined to hold them. However, it was not to be, for the Tigers fell on the Italian or Greek or whatever he is, for five lousy runs in the sixth and the big parade was on, with eight runs being added in the seventh and eighth. Final score was 17 to 6, and it gave the Tigers the longest winning streak of the year. Starting last Sunday in Paducah the Tigers have won five straight games, three being from the league leading Jackson Generals.

Frank Filchok again led the hitters last night with four out of five. He drove out a pair of doubles and two singles to blast in five runs. Poole, Reist and Quackenbush had three blows.

Yeager, who relieved Black, went five innings without giving a hit. He was wild, issuing six free passes, but was unhittable.

Hopkinsville is here again tonight and tomorrow afternoon and then the Tigers will be away for six days. If the victory streak can be kept up they will be knocking at the door of the first division before many days.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Ray Claycomb, Adair county farmer, raised a litter of 10 pigs to weigh 200 pounds each when a little over five months old. They had constant access to grain and milk or tankage, and grazed continually on crimson clover or small grain. Thirteen Carter county farmers who kept accurate records on poultry flocks from October 1 to April 1 had an average of 80 hens, gathered an average of 13 eggs per hen per month, and made an average profit per flock per month of $15.35.

A profit of $26 in one month from a flock of 153 hens is reported by Mrs. Owen Cassidy in Metcalfe county. The hens laid 2,486 eggs. A laying mash was fed, and the hens had free access to a field of rye.

M. P. Brown, Caldwell county, believes applications of muriate of potash makes sweeter pasture. He observed that his stock refused to leave grass and wheat on treated land so long as they could find a bite, although they had access to other grazing.

Strawberry plants growing in rich soil and mulched with a ton and half to two tons of straw to acre came through the winter in good condition in McCracken county. Drought last fall plus severe winter injured many other beds.

C. T. Herndon, Madison county says the use of limestone and superphosphate has doubled the grazing capacity of his pastures. Orders for phosphate in Madison county to date more than doubled the total amount used last year.

Oscar Carrier of Grayson county made a net profit of $96.78 from the production of 352 early broilers. Grayson county hatcheries report an increase of 10 percent in number of chicks hatched, over last year. Red clover is being re-established in Owsley county through the use of lime and phosphate. To build land rapidly, some farmers cut a hay crop, turn under the second crop and follow with a heavy cover crop.
