THE LISTENING POST

● Last week I expressed my general disapproval of the past month of March because it failed to bring the first blossoms of spring. I expressed the hope that April would bring these things, and April has not disappointed me. Within the past few days the earth has become a new place, filled with the glory of life after death, of new born spring, of deathless and breathless beauty. I can forget the disappointment of March. I ran across something about March in New England, a thing written by Gamaliel Bradford, well known as a historian, which appeared many years ago in a Boston newspaper. It is called "March Light, and draws, rather a pretty picture of March in the far northern latitudes. It is worth reading, even after March has passed. Here it is:

● "March has a bad reputation, at any rate in New England. It is a boisterous, riotous, turbulent, windy month. The winter, reluctant to lose its grip, flings the frost and snow and bitterness of February far into its successor, as if unwilling that we should forget the harsh treatment that we have just escaped. Yet we once knew a lover of nature who, to be sure, was also somewhat of a lover of paradox, who maintained that March was the most beautiful month of the year.

● "The beauty of March is rather less obvious to the dweller in cities. You have to get away from brick walls to wander out into the open country and see the wide sweep of the hillsides, the brown earth peeping and creeping out from under the fading snowdrifts. You have to hear the tinkle and gurgle of the little rivulets, few by those same snowdrifts, and sweeping into the larger streams with the promise of the dissolution of the frozen world. You have to hear the robins and the bluebirds and the song sparrows, timid at first and scattering, then as the days flow on, swelling into a more joyous and confident chorus.

● "But the supreme beauty of March is the growing light. We have to remember that the spring equinox gives us the sun of the same height as in the later days of September. But what a difference in the aspect of nature. In September we are glad to be still protected from the heat. Everywhere the faded foliage is thick and heavy and the sunshine is lost and dissipated in the depths of it. But in March there is not a leaf anywhere. The bare, naked forms of the trees stand out black and sharp against the crystal blue. And all about there are the growing floods of light. It sweeps in great waves over the distant hills. It penetrates unbroken into every crevice and corner. It seems to permeate and clarify and purify the living world. Yes, the glory of March, its enduring and surprising magnificence, is in its unparalleled light.

● "Then, as the month creeps on, there come the real spring days. The harsh, steady north wind shifts into the warm south, and a damp, delicate haze steals over the azure world. Even in the city parks and gardens, the buds swell, the crocuses burst, the bluebirds find their way, and before we know it, the dubious glory of March has slipped into the showery loveliness of April.

Steel Strike Order By CIO Is Recalled

Biggers Urges Labor, Management To Forget Their Selfishness

The CIO recalled yesterday its order for a work stoppage at midnight tonight in the great plants of the United States Steel Corporation, engaged currently on millions of dollars worth of defense production.

The action followed by a few hours an announcement from the White House that Philip Murray, head of the CIO, was expected to confer with President Roosevelt today on the general labor situation.

There was no elaboration, but it was presumed this would include the CIO's contract negotiations with U. S. Steel and strikes by its unions in various industrial plants.

From Detroit, meantime, there were reports of progress toward settlement of the Ford Motor Company strike, and in Milwaukee the CIO United Automobile Workers local ratified an agreement ending the prolonged strike at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, holder of $45,000,000 in defense contracts, mainly for naval machinery.

Declaring that both industry and labor had acted "selfishly" in some cases, John D. Biggers, OPM production chief, urged a general awakening to the "serious urgency of our nation's task."

Appearing as one of the first witnesses in the House military committee's investigation of the national defense program, Biggers said the next 100 days are "precious" and "no one knows how much they may mean in the history of the world."

To many questions of strike-conscious committees regarding recent stoppages of defense production, Biggers urged full exploitation of the powers of persuasion before any resort to force.

Warning To Labor
"I don't believe, in a democracy, in forcing anybody to do anything until we have exhausted all means of persuasion," Biggers said in reply to an inquiry by Representative Shafer (R-Mich.) as to the possibility that labor might be forced to assume financial responsibility for damages resulting from defense strikes.

Farm Prices Rated Higher In State For The Past Five Year Period

Lexington, Ky.—A report by the Agriculture Experiment Station said Sunday that Kentucky farmers, as a group, received higher prices during the last five years than "farmers throughout the United States as a whole."

"From 1936 to 1940 prices of farm products in Kentucky averaged 85 per cent of the prices that prevailed in 1921-1929, while prices of farm products in the United States averaged only 73 per cent of prices in the '20s," the report said.

2 Years 20 Per. Higher
"It was in 1936 and 1937 that the largest difference occurred, for in these two years prices of farm products in Kentucky averaged 20 per cent higher than prices of farm products in the United States."

"The reason for this price advantage is that Kentucky produces a large proportion of the products that have been relatively high in price, than does the United States

Tomorrow at their workroom in the Post-office the volunteer workers of the local chapter of the Red Cross will hold a display of their work. This work which will go toward relief of the war victims of Europe and the Orient, has been done under the supervision of Mrs. J. C. Scruggs. Each day for the past few months, one unit of these volunteer workers has met at the post-office and aided in the sewing projects. Hours for the display will be from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 6. This exhibition will consist of 35 ladies and misses dresses, 21 hospital shirts, 20 layettes (each is composed of 22 made garments, besides hose, shirts and safety pins), and about 50 sweaters. THESE EVIL MILLIONAIRES

For many years it has been quite a general custom in the United States to hate the millionaires. These men of wealth have been accused of practically every crime in the book, and perhaps many of them have been guilty of some of the crimes with which they have been charged. Assuredly many of them have not given much thought to the criticisms which have been made against them, for they are busy men, occupied with the great task of adding to and taking care of great wealth. Say what you will, this is a hard task, and among the wealthy men of this nation will be found many men who work much harder than do poorer men.

In recent years particularly there has been a great outcry directed against the wealthy class. Legislation has been passed aimed directly at breaking up great wealth for the benefit of the poor, and much propaganda has been used in inflaming the public mind against the men of great wealth. Not many virtues have been given this class, and perhaps they not all have the virtues of the poor. That will always be a debatable question, and probably will never be settled in a satisfactory manner. There has also grown up in this nation in recent years a strong philosophy of "making the wealthy pay." There is also a prevalent belief along many that the wealthy do not pay their proportionate share of taxes. An item which appeared in the newspapers a few days ago shows how far wrong this general belief is.

The treasury department is making public some studies of the recent payment of the income tax, revealed the startling fact that 41 millionaires in this country paid a total of $50,000,000 in income taxes. Get that statement right and mull over the figures. 41 men, a mere handful, paid that staggering sum of fifty million dollars during the past month. Of course, a lot of folks are always ready to say that if they could make a million dollars in a year they would be tickled to death to pay about three-fourths of it to the federal government in taxes. That is the usual thing to say and it seems true on the face of it. Out of a million dollars the man who earned it would get, say $250,000, and would gladly pay the balance to the government. Roughly, that is about what happens to the large incomes, and this is certain to be higher within the next few years.

This writer, however, has never yet seen any person who was glad and willing to pay the income tax. No matter whether it be large or small it is difficult to pay and those who pay large sums have about as much difficulty in paying as those who pay smaller sums. No doubt many of those millionaires who pay more than one million dollars each had difficulty in making the payments. Probably a few had to borrow to make the payments, and without doubt some of them availed themselves of the installment plan.

However, the fact that they reported taxes to fifty million dollars clearly proves that the wealthy do pay a pretty good share of the national income, and really are worth something to the common good, after all. For in making the money which produced a

THE LAY UPHOLDS A DOCTOR'S RIGHTS

Future developments will unfold the ultimate consequences of the anti-trust proceedings against medical associations and several Washington physicians; but the salient fact is that the organizations were convicted, the individuals acquitted. There may be an element of discriminating justice in the verdict; for, if the system alleged does prevail as the jury believed, doctors could be subjected to an organized form of urbaned dress as irresistible as that of any medical guild.

While the controversy arose over a mutual medical insurance group which employs its doctors by the year, the real issue in the case was the right of a licensed physician to retain his membership in the professional organization, have access to hospitals for the treatment of his patients and to enjoy the co-operation of specialists. It was charged that the conduct doctors were refused the privilege of practicing in District of Columbia hospitals and ostracized so far as consultations were concerned.

To appreciate the injustice of such a conspiracy as the Government alleged, it must be understood that the medical profession is absolutely self-governing. It sets standards for medical education and internships; it decides what schools and hospitals are acceptable. It nominates boards to enforce regulations and to license physicians. The licensing body also has the authority to suspend or revoke licenses unprofessional conduct, and these contract doctors in Washington are licensed; their professional qualifications and rectitude stand unimpeached.

The effect on a doctor's reputation of being expelled from the recognized professional organization is self-evident; but it is even worse when his patients are told at a hospital that he is not permitted to treat them there. Where the arbitrary power exists to deny a physician the facilities for practicing his profession, it is easy to perceive how the power might be abused.

If this judgment emancipates doctors to contract with groups for the care of their health, it may put new life into the professed effort of medical organizations to find a preferable substitute in which all the local members of the profession can participate. —Courier-Journal.

Fifty million dollar tax these men must have provided many hundreds and thousands of other men with lucrative jobs at good wages. Those profits did not come without a lot of industry somewhere, and where industry is jobs exist for many men.

It is quite apparent that the nation still needs its millionaires. At any rate, we still need their tax contributions.

BAPTIST W. M. U. IN GROUP MEETINGS

The various circles of the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church held group meetings yesterday afternoon and last night as follows:

The Annie Armstrong circle held its meeting last night with Mrs. Clifford Hall at her home on Edgings street. The opening prayer was led by Miss Myra Searce and the meeting turned over to Mrs. John Reeks, the program leader. The topic of her program was "An Urgent Gospel: Challenge to True Discipleship." The usual routine of business was carried on by the chairman, Mrs. Boyce Dumas, assisted by the secretary, Miss Adelle Rhodes. There were sixteen members, two visitors, Mrs. Alvin Rogers and Mrs. Estes Collier; and one new member, Mrs. Covella Arnold, present. Following the business session the meeting was closed with prayer, led by Mrs. Hugh Rushton, and adjourned.

Circle number four met in the afternoon with Mrs. C. E. Cochran at her home on Jefferson street with nine regular members attending. The meeting was opened with prayer, led by Mrs. George Hall and the regular routine of business was transacted. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll was called by Mrs. E. H. Knighton, in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. N. T. Morse. Mrs. J. W. Elledge read the scripture, her subject being "Hope." A very interesting program was then presented, the topic of that also being "Hope." The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. J. S. Mills.

Circle five met with Mrs. Guy Duley on Pearl street yesterday afternoon with eleven members, and one new member, Mrs. R. C. Joyner; two visitors, Mrs. Earl Taylor, president of the W. M. U. and Mrs. Charles Gregory, attending. The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mrs. F. J. Goodman who presented Mrs. Fred Patton in a devotional taken from the twentieth chapter of Matthew, "Salome" being her topic. This was followed with prayer, led by Mrs. Foster Edwards. Following the usual business session Mrs. C. C. McCollum presented a very interesting program. She was assisted by Mrs. Edwards whose topic was "A Rabilouses About Jesus." Mrs. Tom Hart's subject was "Churches Must Minister to Service Men," and Mrs. McCollum presented "Missionary Illustrations." Mrs. Taylor dismissed the meeting with prayer and a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Duley served delicious sandwiches and cold drinks, assisted by her daughter, Miss Carolyn Duley, and Mrs. Charles Gregory.

Circle number six held its meeting at the church yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. E. Crawford, the chairman, presiding. Following the opening of the meeting the minutes were read and approved and other reports given. A report from the personal service chairman, Mrs. J. C. Sugg, Jr., was interesting. Mrs. M. L. Rhodes presented a very good devotional, and she also had charge of the program. The subject was "Proclaiming the Gospel of Christ." Attending this meeting were nine regular members.

The Lottie Moon circle met last night with Mrs. Paul Boyd at her home on Norman street, and assistant hostess was Miss Willette Cook. Sixteen regular members were in attendance with one new member, Mrs. Lucille Hogg, and one visitor, Mrs. Adams, mother of Mrs. Charles Arnn. After the business session, the program was turned over to the leader, Mrs. Donald Perry, who gave the entire program on "An Urgent Gospel—The World's Dire Need." Her discussion was very interesting to all present. The meeting was closed with prayer and during the social hour the hostesses served delicious refreshments.

Circle number three met with Mrs. W. O. Locke at her home on Norman street. Mrs. Tom Boaz, the chairman, presided over the meeting which was opened with prayer by Mrs. Luke Mooneyham, Sr. The secretary, Miss Catherine Humphreys, called the roll and read the minutes and the personal service report was taken by Mrs. Mooneyham. After the business was dispensed of, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. D. D. Legg who presented the program of the afternoon on "Home Missions." Humphreys also assisted, giving "The Lamps Are Going Out," and Mrs. Legg's subject was "The First Call To Home Missions." The meeting was closed with prayer, led by Mrs. Locke, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. George Pritchard of Paducah, and Mrs. Mable Egan served a lovely salad plate, carrying out the Easter motif to fourteen regular members and two new members, Mrs. W. Moscow Pact With Yugoslavia Regarded as Feather In The Wind

Moscow.—The Soviet Russian press declared Sunday that the people of Yugoslavia did not want war and hailed the Soviet's new pact of nonaggression and friendship with Yugoslavia as an "outstanding milestone" in efforts of the two countries to preserve peace.

There was no mention in Sunday's Soviet Press of the outbreak of hostilities in the Balkans, but Pravda spoke approvingly of the Yugoslav army as "one of the best in Southeastern Europe." Soldiers are well-trained and which disclosed its courage in World War battles.

The army organ, Red Star, declared at the same time that Italian capitulation in East Africa was only a question of time, and said the British loss of Benghazi "does not mean the British as easily as that will give away all Cyrenaica."

"The British Command may now start to move its main forces from Ethiopia to North Africa and the Mediterranean basin which will be very rich in events in April," the paper said.

The German Radio, heard by C. B. S. in New York, reported signature of the pact without comment man troops were on the march into man troops were on the march into Yugoslavia and Greece.

SPORTS

Interest in Fulton is turning strongly to golf and the fine weather last Sunday brought quite a crowd of shotmakers to the local course. Players were seen from Union City, Clinton, Martin and Dresden, as well as some who were not recognized by the writer. It is quite evident that many people in other towns are interested in golf, and will help the local course this year. In this connection, it is interesting to learn that the course at Humboldt, not far from the Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant, is being practically filled by men and women who have gone there to work on that project. While Fulton is too far away to benefit from that work to any extent, it is apparent that a lot of out-of-town support will be received this year—perhaps more than in former years.

Another encouraging sign is the interest on the part of many youngsters who have not been playing golf before. It is quite likely that many of these boys will maintain their interest in the sport, and naturally boys who start early are the ones who make good golfers within a short time. It is easily possible for a fourteen or fifteen year old boy or girl to become quite a good player in one season, and it is likely that before this summer is over we will see some good players developing from the younger ranks. Sunday the writer noticed three boys playing who have never taken any great interest in the game. These were Don Sensing, Sam Steele and Wallace McCollum, more generally known as "Brick." All three have been playing for some little time this spring, and already they are shooting in the middle fifties or lower. Given a month's steady play, with better greens, and it is likely that will dip under fifty, and before the season is over may be shooting in the low forties. For such is the magic of youth.

Considerable work, it seems, must be done at the Country Club this spring. It is understood that the water question has again become acute and some arrangements must be made for this. The writer is not officially informed on the matter, but has been told that a new well may have to be dug. The water question has always been a serious one for the local course, and it has cost the club many a dollar. If city water could be secured it would make a far better course, for good greens require plenty of water, and the local greens have never had this. But getting city water is quite a question and for years the club has rocked along with wells and pumps, and this has been a constant financial drain.

It is understood that the annual campaign to secure members and funds for the Country Club will be staged quite soon, and some other affairs are being arranged for the financial angle. Buck Bushart, the new president who succeeded Ernest Fall the Second this year, will no doubt do a good job in managing the affairs of the club, but all who know anything about the matter at all realize that it is largely a cooperative job, and every member must be willing to work for the success of the enterprise. The club has been worth a lot to the community in past years and will continue to be a great asset in future years, but its financing is always a hard and difficult task. Perhaps this year may see more members, and consequently more money paid in dues. This would make things far easier for the club has suffered from insufficient revenues for years—in fact, even since the depression marched across the land a dozen years ago. Recent years, have showed improvement is badly needed.

Yugoslav Captains Say They're Ready To Ferry Supplies

He said, also, that thousands of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes here and in Canada had volunteered to fight for their homeland, at war

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE, MR. TAXPAYER

... between an unregulated traffic contributing nothing in state, county or local taxes, and Kentucky's $30,000,000 legalized beer industry which has paid more than $8,000,000 in taxes to the state alone during the past six years!

But occasionally some people, losing sight of this difference, would unwittingly deprive state and county treasuries of this revenue, thereby increasing their own tax burdens as well as inviting a return of the anti-social conditions resulting from unlicensed, unregulated outlets.

Through our Committee's self-regulation program, the Kentucky beer industry is cooperating with law-enforcement officials to preserve these benefits by helping maintain wholesome conditions in the retailing of beer. YOU can help by patronizing the law-abiding beer outlets in your community!

HITCH-HIKES INTO DRAFT

Asheville, N. C. — There's no place like home, even if you're entering the Army.

Roy Jesse Kuykendall registered here last Fall for the draft. Then he joined the CCC and was sent to Oregon.

When his draft number was drawn, he could have transferred to Oregon for induction, but he preferred to come home.

He lacked funds to make the trip back home. So he caught rides, made the trip in a week.

Monday he goes to Fort Jackson, S. C., for a year in the Army.
