Formal Opening of New Parker's Bakery to be Hallowe'en Day and Night

Beautiful New Plant is One of the Most Modern and Complete in Kentucky

One of the most modern bakeries of West Kentucky will be open for public inspection Saturday, when Parker Brothers cordially invites the general public to pay them a visit. The purpose of the formal opening is to acquaint the public with facts concerning the care with which their baking is done.

The public is invited to make a thorough inspection of the building, machinery and the facilities for baking used in this modern plant. Since moving to their new location, the Parker Brothers have added to their former equipment giving them all of the needs for the best baking. They have a high speed dough mixer, a new moulder, and an additional oven for pastries.

Note that the plant is ideally arranged suggesting everywhere cleanliness. The machinery is principally in white. The plant is throughout well lighted and with adequate ventilation.

In their baking success they use only the best of flour. According to Prentice Parker they use the best Northwestern spring wheat which is acknowledged to be the most suitable for bakery purposes.

The spacious sales room is beautifully decorated with tinted walls and white fixtures that add to the suggestiveness of the

Last year's party was gay and colorful, but indications are that this year's party will overshadow the party of last year.

The Courier-Journal Endorses Sampson

(An Editorial in Carlisle Mercury) After shilly-shallying for weeks, the Courier-Journal is finally moved, by its hatred for Ben Harrison, to espouse the cause of Mayor Harrison. In adopting this course, the Courier-Journal has done what many other newspapers in Kentucky have refused to do.

In endorsing Mr. Harrison, who endorses by implication at least, the administration of Flem D. Sampson, which administration the Courier-Journal professes to abhor, that newspaper is placed in the amusingly anomalous position of endorsing Mr. Sampson, his cement plant deal, his undated resignations, his scandalous conduct of the Textbook Commission and his attempt—prevented by a Democratic Legislature—to build, with the State Highway Commission, a political juggernaut.

It is a pretty picture, Flem D. Sampson mounting the roaring stump at Golden Pond in Trigg county on Tuesday; the Courier-Journal taking to the hustings, so to speak, with Fim Flam Fleming on Wednesday. Politics make strange bedfellows and in this case strange stumppers.

The effect should be to make Democrats redouble their efforts in every county, in every ward and precinct, to make doubly sure the clearly indicated election of Judge Lafoon by an overwhelming majority.

This campaign has been strangely without the usual heating element so typical of Kentucky politics. The Courier-Journal and Flem D. Sampson both fling the banners of their political allegiance the breeze and level lances for the charge in the self-same cause—and lo, we have it!

If there were lacking any incentive to make the Democracy of Kentucky militant, that incentive is now furnished by this incongruous political partnership.

Many Communities Have Held Fairs

Community fairs are "red letter" days for schools of Calloway county.

High schools at Lynn Grove, Hazel, and Kirksey have sponsored a fair at their school to promote good will, interest, and cooperation between the schools and the community.

The Lynn Grove fair was held Friday, October 23. It was sponsored by T. C. Arnett, principal of Lynn Grove High School. Members of the faculty that supervised different exhibits were: Mrs. T. C. Arnett, Edna Mae Workman, Luella McDaniel, and Thelma Jones.

The purpose of the fair, according to Mr. Arnett, was to show people "what we are doing in our school and to show farmers the results of improved agricultural methods, so they may help raise the standards."

A regular session, Wednesday of next week the Faxon Junior Community Club will meet for the promotion of the Junior work.

Parker Brothers, Prentice and Clifford, Long Experienced and Are Master Bakers

The Parker Brothers, Prentice and Clifford, are recognized as the leading young business men of Murray. They have always shown a spirit of progressiveness and are to be commended on their success in the bakery business here in the last three years.

The Parker Brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Parker of Murray route five. They spent about eight years in Detroit, Mich., where they learned the bakers trade.

While in Detroit they both had about eight years experience in the baking business. They worked in a large bakery there for four years. They later owned and operated successfully a bakery there for four years just prior to their return to their home community.

Their business in Murray has a three years standing of growth and progress. When they first came here they opened their own plant and were soon able to buy the shop of their only competitor, Beale's Bakery, an old and established firm.

They have added from time to time to their equipment and have just recently rented the new Ryan building on West Main where they are now located. They are now open with a model for a modern and sanitary bakery.

As bakers they are experienced and capable, knowing how to make hundreds of delicacies. They do and supervise all of the baking.

Dark Days Ahead

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and pain and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment.

"In France the political caldron seethes, and bubbles with uncertainty. Russia hanks as usual like a cloud dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe, while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with dis-heights of prosperity than ever before. And if this is a prophecy, make the most of it.

What this country needs more than anything else right now is courage. The courage to keep on striving with the knowledge that though we may fare ill today the one who keeps bucking the line will finally plunge through.

There are many persons in suffering and want. Many who are willing to help themselves if given the opportunity. The most helpful charity is giving this opportunity, offering someone who needs it the chance to do something for himself.

When Noah Built The Ark

It wasn't raining when Noah built the ark. In fact, it hadn't rained for several weeks.

They poked quite a bit of fun at the old gentleman with the flowing beard who could possibly be credited with the origination of the Boy Scout slogan, "Be Prepared."

There was no indication that the people resident upon the earth were "in for" quite a "wet spell." Presently, the rain descended and waters covered the globe. But Noah floated.

Just now things are at pretty low ebb. Everything is cheap but nobody wants to buy. After while, when it begins to soak in just how ridiculous it is to have any depression at all, when folks begin to buy and things begin to boom we're going to have some more prosperity.

Those who are getting ready now, those who are buying and building things that will come in mighty useful for making money in the coming better times, are the Noahs who are preparing.

Seriously, do you think things are going to be as they are forever afterward? Of course you don't. Well, the quicker we start preparing the way for something better the sooner we are going to bring it about.

The Newspaper Begs a Little of Its Own Space To Tell Some of Its Problems

Elizabethtown News

A newspaper, through its editorial and news columns, gives a vast amount of space to the discussion of questions that affect other folk. It writes on farm relief, taxation, political, social and financial matters, but seldom does it dangle before the public its own problems and difficulties.

An article of this kind, written by the publisher of a newspaper in Frederick, Md., the home of Barbara Fritchie, and adjoining county to the birthplace of the editor of The News, is both interesting and timely. It follows:

"There is a vast difference between such local papers as ours and a newspaper of extensive circulation. Because of the intimate character of most of our news, the interest on the part of the reader is naturally greater. This, we feel, develops greater advertising value for the circulation. A smaller newspaper must necessarily be more careful to report news correctly. So much of the news is readily checked for accuracy. Inaccuracy in our news presentation would be disastrous for our newspapers. We are obliged to be careful, whether we are inclined to be that way or not.

"We want the news of local persons and local events. We crave it as long as it does not smack of advertising. As an illustration, we will report a happening in Baltimore in which local people are interested or participate and give more space to it than the Baltimore newspapers, in some cases. But sometimes what is printed so much local news brings a very close distinction. We with churches and other organizations, lose sight of the fact that the principal thing we sell is space for advertising and we cannot afford to give away what is 'goods on our shelves.' A certain amount of free publicity in certain cases is given, but how much, if any, to grant at times does bring up some rather trying situations.

"Too many forget that a newspaper is not a philanthropic enterprise, that it has a payroll to meet each week and expenses that are beyond the realization of the readers. It is a common thing for us to hear such a statement as this: 'Won't you put this in the paper for us?' We have been taking the paper in our family for the past 50 years. (The News is not that old yet.) You certainly can do that for us."

"It is sometimes hard to explain why particular items like in Memorial notices do not classify as news. So many readers do not understand that these notices must be charged for. Because they are beyond the realization of the readers. It is a common thing for us to hear such a statement as this: 'Won't you put this in the paper for us?' We have been taking the paper in our family for the past 50 years. (The News is not that old yet.) You certainly can do that for us."

"The worst cases to handle are those where the person wants to keep something out of the paper rather than get it in. Some very erick man of good family came in with tears in her eyes, requesting that nothing be used about her husband who was caught driving his car while drunk. Then, if you are told that publication may mean the loss of the bread winner's job, it makes you stop and think. We have found that we must be sure or less hard-boiled in the publication of news of this kind. It causes heartache, sometimes loss of friends, but in the end there is a duty to the general public that is paramount. A local newspaper in some respects is a safe-guard of society against wrong-doing and violation of the law the judges, the courts. Many a person feels the publication of his misdeeds more severely than the sentence meted out to him by the magistrate or judge. We tell them that such a time to think about the ones he wants to protect is beforehand, not after something happens.

"There are some cases where, for the public good, news must be handled with the greatest care. I suppose practically every newspaper in the country had to face the same problem that we did a few months ago in regard to publishing the news of bank failures. There were so many items of this nature coming in that people were becoming disturbed. We saw the necessity of soft-pedaling these stories. A run on a bank can start from the slightest cause and when the public mind is uneasy there is no telling what disastrous effects could come from the injudicious handling of such items. Subordinate to more constructive stories. It could be said that the most striking thing about newspaper efforts is that one seldom hears much from readers unless it is in the way of complaint, or say something that displeases and you will be sure to hear about it one way or another."

a stock market since 1929.

The only person we can think of that the depression hasn't hit financially is Blimie Gump.

The Louisville Courier-Journal does the expected and comes out for Harrison for Governor. Birmingham claims to be an "Independent Democrat" and is not nor ever has been any more of a Democrat than Edd Morrow or Flein Sampson.

Headline: "Stockmarket Wins". But you notice it was on the sports page instead of the financial page.

Kentucky refuses to play Centre a football game. Reminiscing on those 1919, 1920 and 1921 games we can't blame 'em much.

The consistent inconsistency of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times is admirably exemplified in its support of Harrison because he advocates bi-partisan boards after having led the fight on bi-partisanism for the past several years.

It wouldn't be anything but fair for the Democrats to pay Governor Sampson's campaign expenses.

Joe's wandering what had become of Edd Morrow and his blazing trail of oratory through the state.

One more issue of this great, indispensable newspaper and we will not bother you any more about politics—until next year.

The Cynthia Democrat wants to know if Governor Sampson may be considered a "concrete" example of Republican rule.

Governor Harrison favors bi-partisan division of the spoils of office and to prove it he gives one of the more than 800 city jobs in Louisville to an "Independent" and nairn to a Democrat.

It is said and not denied, that Mr. Harrison never set foot on plowed ground in his life and he is so ignorant of state history that he thought the state capital was built with an old debt that

Kentucky collected from the government when, as a matter of fact, it was built by a Democratic administration out of current revenues.

And we'll bet a bottom dollar that Harrison doesn't know whether Calloway county is in Kentucky or Missouri.

The late August rains helped to produce a record crop of burley tobacco in Warren county.

Proud of the Hazel Road

The Hazel road is now completed. Final work on the surface was accomplished last Thursday morning when several hundred yards of gravel were spread within the city limits of Hazel to finish the project.

We have been a long time in making a modern highway to connect the two largest towns in Calloway county. Now that the link is forged we only regret that it was not the first road finished in the county instead of the latest.

There has always been a great deal of traffic between Murray and Hazel. Murray people like to go to Hazel and Hazel citizens like to come here. Now that one can traverse this short distance without breaking his car springs and losing the major part of his tempo over the countless bumps in the road, it is confidently expected that traffic between Murray and Hazel will be materially increased.

We are proud of the Hazel road.

The Lynn Grove High school band, Calloway county, appeared in a concert at the athletic exhibition staged in the Legion Memorial building last night. The band of sixty-two pieces was directed by Prof. S. W. Floyd, of Mayfield.

The Lynn Grove band is one of the best that has appeared in this city. Although the group of musicians has been organized for only eight months, the performance last night rivaled that of bands with years experience. —Mayfield Messenger.

FOR FIRST AID ... Yes! IN MOTOR OIL ... No!

Because Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil contains no petroleum jelly Sinclair dealers can apply it to your car according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. Petroleum jelly is valuable in many ointments but, unless removed, makes motor oil too thick when cold—too thin when hot. Petroleum jelly is removed from Opaline at as low as 60°F. below zero—a much lower temperature than required for just removing wax. Ask the Sinclair dealer.

You are too wise to buy Coal by the Bushel when it is cheaper by the Ton ...

Then why not Purchase Electricity the Cheapest Way

OUR rates for electricity give you the same advantage in quantity buying which you have in purchasing coal. The more current you buy in a month, the less each unit costs.

Of course you need more electricity than you now use. You need more lamps, including floor lamps, or a new refrigerator, or a dozen other work savers and time savers that run by electricity.

Our prices are such that you can afford to use more of these aids to better living. In most homes the usual bill is sufficiently large so that additional electricity is available at only 3 cents per unit (KWH) for substantial quantities. Won't you inquire about it? We know you will be astonished at how much electricity can be made to do for you for so little outlay.

Electricity is now so cheap that abundant use of it is true economy.
