THE TRI-WEEKLY NEWERA.

—PUBLISHED BY—
New Era Printing and Publishing Co.
TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1887.

What has become of our street railway?

Foraker has been renominated for Governor of Ohio.

Col. Charles E. Sears is again doing work on the Louisville Post.

Davies county has a postoffice named Habit. We hope it is a good habit.

The Ohio man who invented the three-mile car-trumpet is a friend of the tender ear.

The people and especially the newspaper will enjoy a rest from the turmoil of politics.

The Owensboro and Henderson papers are a little too previous in their Congressional disputations.

Mr. Blaine thinks Canada ought not to be annexed to this country. We thought Mr. Blaine wanted the earth.

The Ohio Republican endorsed Sherman for President. The "buck-eye" people have a fondness for the bloody shirt that is admirable.

The New York Clipper says that only about sixty theatrical companies are on the road at this time as against nearly 400 in the height of the past fall season.

Through the Clipper does not say so, it is a fact that to the Inter-State Commerce bill does the country owe this great relief. There ought to be no further adverse criticism of that measure.

THE RAILROAD MATTER.

The communication signed "F." which appeared in this paper last Saturday on the question of the O. V. tax is a very sensible and patriotic document. We do not presume that there is a man in this district who does not recognize the extreme expediency of the Columbus road, in fact, we know that there is and has been for some time a heavy public pressure for this road.

We do not differ with "F." as to the "when" and "wherefore" but as to the "why." We are not impatient. We are eager that our people should not let a single opportunity pass them. We have exhausted the policy of waiting. Let us take the O. V. as the only real, definite offer before us, and when "F." or the Chicago syndicate, organize and are ready for active work, we may be in a condition to do with them too.

In accepting the O. V. offer we do not propose to shut out any other road that may hereafter come to us.

We have all along realized the vast importance of the Columbus route. It is a grand scheme, but the "bird in the bush" the Ohio Valley comes to us with a proposition, and the immediate duty of our people is to consider it. In endorsing so enthusiastically the Columbus route we should not forget the immense advantages of the O. V. It will give us many valuable connections, and we are informed that, if the tax is voted here, that in a few days an offer will be made to Clarksville and Nashville, and that the road will be speedily pushed through to those points.

There is no necessity of rehearsing time and again the vast benefits the O. V. will bestow on this community. They are known to all men. The point we wish to press is that we should not lose the chance to get a road by impolitic delay. Under the stimulus of the O. V. we trust our town may grow into a thriving, prosperous city which will justify the building quickly of other roads. We do not oppose "F." we merely endorse the O. V. as the only real practical offer before us, an offer which if we refuse to accept, we may be kept out of a railroad for another decade.

THE NEW SOUTH.

It is stated that during the past year about $200,000,000 has been invested in manufacturing enterprises in the South. Partisans have attempted to construe this fact into a plea for a protective tariff, but a deeper philosophy underlies this new growth. The people of the South are beginning to react from the lethargy consequent of defeat. The impulses and aspirations of a new life are thrilling them into activity. In most cases, we are informed, it is Southern men who are building the New South—men who are native to the soil and whose souls are fired with a patriotism born of blood.

From all quarters we hear the cheering notes of improvement and progress. The barren plains marked by the smoldering ruins of devastation are becoming beautiful with the flower and show of progress. Where the trail of defeat left their mark of woe are now happy homes burdened with the care of raising a new and glorious generation. The rose is planted in the cannon's mouth and the laurel wreath of peace is laid on every grave; there remains nothing but for the glory of progress to crown the South and she will stand the QUEEN OF THE WORLD. This one characteristic marks her development, the people of the South are the artificers of their own fortunes. They have entered on a sickly place for aid. They have not called on the central government to lift them into prosperity; but with a patriotism born of love for country, and a philanthropy born of necessity, they have fought the battle of poverty and stand now ready to receive the mead of honor. The climatic influences give our people a noble impulse. This impulse lifts them into the highest heaven of ambition; and leads them to the highest human achievements. The Southern people have a concern for the colored race that is remarkable. While their brethren at the North love the negro for his vote, the citizen of the South cares for him for his real worth. This is the distinction, which all colored people should learn. The climatic influences may certainly account for the wonderful revitalization of Southern zeal, but true it is that our land, the place where "nature smiles," is destined to be the beauty and perfection of civilization.

THE NATION'S PRESS.

WELL, WHAT'S THE MORAL?
San Francisco Chronicle.

The only nation in the world which has no national debt is Persia. The distinction, however, does not seem to benefit her much, for she is by all odds the most poverty-stricken nation on the face of the earth.

HARDENED CASES.
Birmingham Ala. Age.

San Jones indicates that a sermon that would convert a man like Small ought to fetch down the hardest of sinners. It is said that he preached four days to the people of Henry county, without making a single convert.

At the close of his last sermon he remarked: "The sermon which I have just preached to you was the one which converted Sam Small."

THURMAN'S DAY NOT GONE.
New York Sun.

But Judge Thurman is mistaken. His day is not gone, though he may decline to accept of it hereafter. Older than he are to-day serving with conspicuous zeal as public servants.

Judge Thurman is five years younger than Gladstone, and his intellectual vigor is fully as great. He is four years younger than the junior Senator from Wisconsin, and he means to remain as vigorous as Gladstone.

He is a little older than the President, but he is a little younger than John Quincy Adams was when he died upon the floor of Congress.

But, whether he remains in private life or not, Judge Thurman's day is not gone. He is guided and controlled by it to-day. To him is largely due its splendid vigor.

STATE RIGHTS.
Justice Samuel F. Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, delivered an able address before the law alumni of Michigan University, on the "Supremacy of the Constitution."

In reviewing its more important decisions since the war he declared that the question of "state rights" is settled, not in favor of the old school which believed in the right of secession, not in favor of another school believing in destroying the self-government of the States, but in Justice Miller's own words: "It may be considered now as settled that, with the exception of the specific provisions made for them by the constitution, the personal rights of the citizens and people of the United States, and the necessary restrictions upon the power of the states, for that purpose, with the additions to the powers of the general government to enforce those provisions, no substantial change has been made by the constitution of the great powers conceded by the constitution originally to the federal government, and the equal necessity of the autonomy of the states and their power to regulate their domestic affairs, remain as the great features of our complex form of government."

Justice Miller's address was a masterpiece of logic and eloquence. He was warmly applauded by the audience.

NEWS.

Chattanooga has invited the President to visit her a visit.

A dispatch from Chicago says:—Warden McFarlane has reached Canada.

Mr. Jay Gould has started on a yacht cruise along the New England coast.

The surplus in the treasury is accumulating at the rate of $5,500,000 per month.

The Memphis grand jury has indicted President Hadden and other officers of the taxing district.

The official report from Key West gives 173 cases of yellow fever and forty-four deaths to date.

It is regarded as settled that the President will visit St. Paul and Minneapolis during his western trip.

Half of the town of David City, Neb., was destroyed by a tornado Friday. One man was killed and many others injured.

St. Louis has a poisoning sensation involving a preacher and his pretty servant girl. The woman is dead and the minister is a fugitive.

The Navy Department has closed a contract which will result in the establishment of a foundry for the manufacture of the Hotchkiss guns.

The Georgia Central Railroad asks the Interstate Commerce Commission to afford it relief from well-disposed persons who call its coaches "Jim Crow" cars.

Mr. R. S. Veatch, for many years the intimate friend of the late Dr. Starnfield, has been appointed administrator of his large estate, by and with the consent of his widow and heirs.

It is stated that Joseph Smith, Jr., President of the Mormon church at Salt Lake, will go to Salt Lake and present his claims to the Presidency of the Mormon Church in Utah.

Charles B. Fenn, who sold his wife to a blind man for $300, the purchaser, giving him the note, the ex-husband had the blind man arrested. All this in Vincennes, Ind.

Chas. W. Reed, who defended Galtman, and who attempted to rob the cash-drawer of a hotel in New York a day or two ago, jumped from a ferry-boat into the North river, narrowly escaping drowning.

Geo. W. Evans, disbursing officer of the Interior Department, has handled nearly $2,000,000 in the past three years. The contractor who gave him a bribe of $100,000 to get the contract, has been arrested.

Hanover, the phenomenal three-year-old colt, owned by Dwyer Brothers, was sent to the Fair at Lexington, Va., where he was defeated by a colt named "Whisper."

Miss Van Lew, who gained some notoriety as a spy in Richmond during the war, and who in consequence of her real or supposed services has been kept in official position ever since, has resigned from the Post-office Department.

In the Recorder's court at Lexington, Va., a colored man of eight years, named "Fido," confessed to having set fire to the stable of the Kentucky county grand jury.

The President is spending the hot days at his own home, Oakview, near Washington. It is reported that he will not leave the city until the middle of September.

Dr. W. R. Tompkins, of Galatin, Tenn., jumped from the second story of his residence, falling upon and crushing his limbs. He is now in a hospital at Nashville, Tenn.

General Black, Commissioner of Pensions, has received the following unique letter: "Drop my name on the pension list, for I am cure, by faith in the Lord. Blessed be the name of the Lord. There was not much to do with the cure, so the good Lord did it for me."

C. M. Caldwell, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., has discovered the lost art of manufacturing malleable glass, after many years of experiments.

The system followed is not made public, but the experiments so far witnessed appear to justify the claims made by Mr. Caldwell.

Mrs. Cleveland receives daily a most voluminous mail. Strange as it may seem, many of her letters relate to public business. Such communications are at once taken up by the stenographer, and she is informed for, influence, for office, and is even asked to obtain pensions for mutilated heroes.

A Chinaman is stated to have discovered that out of his ironing board, he could make a pair of trousers, and he has been making them for some time.

The moonlight here Saturday night was not very largely attended. I learn the swing proved the most remunerative success of anything in the way of amusement. One gentleman, I understand, accomplished a daring feat with remarkable success. He was no more successful in his endeavor to knock the juggler from the stand and sweeping set no. 2 from the stand dust floor.

Mrs. Malinda Crabtree and Misses Charlie Gilliland and Love Franklin, from Dawson, are visiting relatives here this week.

So far the late arrivals number a majority of disunited women's rights advocates. Mr. B. Brown, girl, R. L. Melton, boy, J. Scates, girl, all last week. All good, well, and with proper attention it is thought the three happy family will pull through safely.

With the appearance of these catches the happy voyagers will be congratulated around the mouth of that classic stream known as having sailing properties ready to start on an exploring expedition for its fountain head.

Miss Fannie Bowden left Monday for her home in Frankfort, after a month's visit to her sister Mrs. H. M. Caldwell.
Hon. James Breathitt returned Saturday night from a week's stay at Dawson, which report he returns in a sum of festivity.
Mrs. M. H. Nelson and children left Monday morning for Beaver Dam Springs, Tenn., to spend several weeks with her brother's family.
A blind woman with fiddle and songs, some dozen African citizens and small boys with red ribbons "all yer kin drink for er nicker!" and numerous countrymen with loads of water-melons kept things lively on the court-house square yesterday.

Word-Templeton.

Mr. Davis Word and Miss Leona Templeton, both of this city, were married this morning at 6 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, on east 7th street, Rev. J. W. Lewis, officiating. The happy couple left on the 6:25 train for a short bridal tour. The New Era extends its heartiest congratulations.

A MIDNIGHT KILLING.

A Negro Deaf-Mute Employs a Revolver into Another of His Race with Fatal Effect.

This city was the scene of another bloody murder late Saturday night. The facts of the killing as near as we can get them are as follows: Parker McCombs, the deaf mute that drives the water sprinkler, went into Nathan Caldwell's tent on 7th street at about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning with a revolver in his hand, and striking a match held it near the face of Bob Cary who was lying down, either asleep or trying to sleep. Cary, on seeing the pistol, said "Don't shoot me." The match went out and McCombs lighted another and held it near Cary as before, still pointing his pistol at his victim. Cary at this juncture jumped to his feet and ran up Seventh street, yelling at his pursuer not to shoot him. McCombs followed his man for about three hundred yards, or near the residence of Maj. S. R. Crumbaugh on Seventh street, when he commenced firing. He fired five times, all the shots taking effect, three in the back, one in the left leg and one in the arm. Cary ran around the corner of the Crescent Milling Co.'s office and fell on the railroad, where he was soon found by the residents of that portion of the city. McCombs was found just after daylight by the police at the house of a negro woman near the old mill pond. The arrest was made without trouble. McCombs was taken to the residence of Judge Brasher, who released him on a bond of $200. Cary was carried home and lived until noon Sunday. After the death of Cary the police re-arrested McCombs and committed him to jail. What motive prompted the crime we have been unable to find out. There are several rumors but they are not of an authentic nature. One is that about two hours before the killing, McCombs was fired at by an unknown party near the rock spring. Another is that a certain negro in town was going out Seventh street about an hour before the killing and when just opposite Maj. Crumbaugh's residence he was called across the street by a white man who after some conversation said to the negro that he was waiting for "Dummy," by which name McCombs is generally known. The white man had a pistol in his hand and was apparently watching for somebody. The name of neither the negro nor the white man could be learned.

The dead man made no statement, merely saying to Col. C. M. Brown and others who were trying to get him to make a dying statement, "It is a long story." The examining trial will be held Friday morning.

The True Method

Of curing habitual constipation, and liver and kidney ills is to avoid the use of the bitter drastic liver medicines and cathartics, and to take only the pleasant liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. It cleanses as well as strengthens the system, and does not leave the bowels constipated, so that regular habits may be formed and the invalid permanently restored to health. It acts promptly and effectively. It is easily taken, and perfectly harmless. For sale in 50 cents and $1.50 bottles by H. B. Garner, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Special sale for ladies at Reichert's auction Wednesday morning, 9 o'clock.
The past week has been one of the most brilliant of the season in social circles, and the gayeties promise to continue indefinitely.

The colored Teacher's Institute will be held August 24th and 27th inclusive. Supt. Renshaw says there is a prospect for a most interesting session.

Parties who are going on the excursion to Old Point should leave their names with Mr. W. A. Wilgus, who has charge of the affairs for this point.

LADIES—Remember the special auction sale for your benefit to-morrow at 9 o'clock, at Reichert's jewelry store. Be sure to attend and secure bargains.

There are now no cases of measles at the Asylum, nor have there been for twenty-one days and it is therefore pretty certain that the disease has been exterminated.

The excursion Sunday to the Chalybeate Springs, just north of the city was a success one hundred and fifty-one persons made the trip. The train will be run again next Sunday.

The directors of the Driving Park have added to their already attractive programme, a ring for Holstein cattle. The premium and conditions are the same as the rings for Jersey and Short-horn cattle.

Reichert's auction sale for ladies only Wednesday morning, 9 o'clock.

Hopkinsville wants a convenient, well arranged market house, where sellers and buyers of country marketing and produce can find each other without difficulty or delay, and where a reasonable scale of prices may be fixed.

Can you not afford to give $1.00 for the WEEKLY NEW ERA for twelve months and in addition get a chance to draw a valuable premium, say a four-horse wagon worth $75.00? Come in before the first Monday in Sept.

Mr. Luneford was busy all day yesterday paying out the "dirty lucre" for the transmission of "conjectures" to Maj. Breathitt. The following received about noon is a sample: "Hopkins is all right. Keep things rolling down there."

For first-class turn-outs see Williamson & Pool, 7th Street Livery Stable—special inducements to drummers.

At Hadensville, Todd county, last Friday, three negroes, Sol Snowden, Moses Watkins and Alice Cross, working in a tobacco field, took refuge from a storm under a large tree. Lightning struck the tree and instantly killed them all.

SPECIAL LADIES' SALE—By request of many ladies, Reichert's auction sale of jewelry will be devoted exclusively to them Wednesday—morning at 9 o'clock. Nobody but ladies will be admitted. Let all the ladies come and get bargains.

The "Guild" will give a Lawn party at the residence of Mrs. Virginia Latham for the benefit of the Episcopal church, Thursday evening August 4th. They ask the generous patronage of the public, believing that the refreshments and pleasure offered, will be in excess of the small price of admission which is fixed at 25 cts.

A survey is being made from Graceville, in Christian county, where the L. A. & T. Railroad is crossed by the Hopkinsville and Cadiz road, to Cadiz, Ky., a distance of about eleven miles.

We are reliably informed that the L. A. & T. Railroad intend to submit a proposition to Cadiz and the Trigg county people to build a branch of this road to Cadiz.—Clarksville Chronicle.

MONUMENTS AT COST—Having sold my marble works building to the Blumenfeld Carriage Co., and being compelled thereby to change location, I will for the next 30 days offer my entire stock of finished monuments at first cost.

ANDREW HALL.
There has been for a week passed, a rumor or the streets, that Chief of Police, Felix Biggerstaff, was working hard among the colored voters in the city against the O. V. railroad proposition, and in the interest of the L. & N. R. R. The New Era interviewed the Chief yesterday upon the subject and he emphatically denies it, and says furthermore, that he is for the new railroad.

M. Wolfowitz, an itinerant peddler from the "Rock City," was arrested yesterday afternoon for peddling wares without State and county licenses. He had obtained a City license and thought that was all that was necessary and when he was pulled, he was very much surprised and quite indignant. His ignorance of the law finally availed him, however, and he was released. Not being able to stand the additional tax, he shut up shop.

Everybody interested will please take notice that after our drawing (1st Monday in September), every subscriber who is in arrears will be dropped from the list without further notice and papers will thereafter be promptly stopped when the time is out.

Mr. J. S. McCauley has been making some further investigations into the old rock at his quarry near town. Last week he drilled a hole through about one foot of hard limestone and a foot deeper into the oil stone. The hole is an inch and a 3/4 in diameter and is about forty feet from the original opening of the quarry, it fills up with oil regularly every night and is mopped out during the day. Mr. M. has strong belief in the existence of natural gas comparatively close to the surface and is making arrangements to bore for it.

Missiary Meeting.

The 7th Missionary Circle of Bethel Association met at New Barren Springs church on Saturday and Sunday, July 30th and 31st. Notwithstanding the oppressive heat, six churches of the 7th Circle and two of the 8th Circle were represented. On Sunday the congregation was too large to be accommodated in the house, but a comparatively pleasant place was found in a grove near by. The time was faithfully spent in hearing reports from the churches, discussing some denominational peculiarities, church decorum, duties to the poor, benefits of circle meetings and the importance of greater efforts for the evangelization of the blacks.

A committee was appointed to confer with the board of the Bethel Association in reference to the establishment of a mission at old Rock Bridge Church in this county.

Death of Chas. A. Deane.
Capt. A. V. Townes, we learn, has received a letter from Chicago announcing the death of Mr. Charles A. Deane of that city, which occurred on Sunday the 24th ult. of typhoid fever. Mr. Deane has visited Hopkinsville several times during the present year in the interest of a new railroad enterprise, known among our citizens as "the Chicago route," and at the time of his death had about completed the organization of a syndicate in the interest of the road. It is not probable the scheme will be abandoned, however, now that Mr. Deane the prime mover, is dead but we may hear from it in the future.

Mr. Deane was a gentleman of culture and ability and impressed all who met him with a sense of his genuine worth.
