JOYNER CAR FOUND NEAR W. FRANKFORT

Walter Joyner, Fulton taxi operator, came out of the Maynard Standard Service Station Thursday night of last week, and found two men waiting in his parked taxi cab. They told him that they wanted to go to 400 Jackson-st. in the city, but as he crossed the tracks at Walnut-st. enroute to east Fulton, he was informed that it was a stick-up.

One of the men was in the front seat, and the other was in the back seat, and Mr. Joyner said that he did not know either of them. The man in the back seat did the talking, and told Mr. Joyner to turn up Norman-st., come under the viaduct into Fourth-st. and out the Clinton Highway. The taxi man was warned to keep his hands on the steering wheel and not look back for try to attract the attention of friends. Joyner was told to turn off on a side road near Crutchfield, and near there he was told to get out, after being robbed of about $14.

It is believed that Joyner's life was spared because he knew neither of the men, and made no attempt to resist them. He said that he told them there was no need to shoot him to obtain his car and money, and the leader was careful that he made no false move.

The Joyner car was found stuck in the mud of a country road eleven miles east of West Frankfort, Ill., where it was abandoned by two men about 6:30 o'clock Friday morning, according to a farmer's child who witnessed the flight of the criminals. State police of Illinois were notified and they in turn notified the local police department. Chief Dalton, Mr. Joyner and Billy Atkins went after the car Friday afternoon and returned with it on Friday night. The machine was not damaged.

Two roebuck negroes, riding in the same car with three white boys, Jim Billicker, 18, Willie McDermitt, 17, and "Chuck" Battersby, 18, arrived in Fulton early Monday night aboard a freight train. As the train stopped in the New Yards, the negroes attacked the boys with a knife and gun.

Negroes Being Held For Malicious Shooting

Manley made bond, but Johnson was carried to the county jail at Hickman.

The shooting scrape followed an argument over an indebtedness. Johnson claimed Manley owed him $125, but the latter contended he did not owe that much. FRED SHULTZ SPEAKS AT C. C. MEETING

Fred Shultz, prominent speaker and instructor from Murray State Teachers College, provided an inspirational and enjoyable talk before the regular monthly meeting of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce Monday night at the Rainbow Room. About 50 people were present, and the speaker held their close interest by his rapid-fire address on "The Justification of Chambers of Commerce."

Mr. Shultz's talk dealt with the present-day problems that every community must face, and praised those who meet the challenge of keeping their communities on an even keel in the face of most trying circumstances. He pointed out that it is these people who never say quit but keep battling on for personal and civic improvement are the real backbone of the country. He discussed the progress that has already been made in this community toward future stability, and pointed out challenges that must be met in the program ahead.

Previous to the address, a short business session was held at which time the organization endorsed the plan to control doubtful so-called advertising schemes by out-of-town promoters and solicitors. Eighty-five business firms have signed the agreement, that this sort of advertising will not be taken until the solicitor has a written endorsement from the control board of the Chamber of Commerce.

R. S. Williams made a fine talk on the advances that have been made in poultry raising in this territory, giving much credit to B. A. Ross and field men of the local hatcheries.

The summer rural meetings of the Chamber of Commerce will begin in May, with perhaps the first to be held at Pilot Oak. The president named the following committees:

The most difficult and hazardous the job, the safer it will be done. When roads are slippery, when fog hangs over the windshield, when the weather is rainy and vision poor, America's drivers are not of for their caution and safe driving. Why? It is because the need for safety—not so much for others but for themselves—is so apparent that everyone exercises the utmost care. Self-preservation!

Why can't we exercise the same caution when the weather is good and the roads are good?

It brings to mind the oft repeated statement: when driving an automobile, only you are responsible. The safety of others depends upon your actions. It is a definite personal responsibility.

It's Smart to Drive Carefully.

What and Where Is Hell?

By Evangelist Esquilla

There is real hell fire ahead for every soul that will not obey God. There are nine places in the four Gospels where Jesus warns the disobedient against punishment in Hell-fire. But there is no text that speaks of the soul of any wicked person going out of his body into hell-fire at death, declared Evangelist Esquilla at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Jesus Christ plainly tells us that when the wicked are punished, they will go into Hell-fire with two feet, two hands and two eyes. Mark 9:43-48. In Matt. 5:30 He declares that their whole bodies will be cast into Hell. They will be cast into hell-fire alive in bodily forms with all their members, hands, feet, etc., at the day of Judgment.

"The fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable and murderers and whoremongers and sorcerers and idolaters and all liars, shall have their part in the Lake which burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the Second death." Rev. 21:8.

The casting of the wicked into the Lake of fire is the second death. The wicked cannot suffer the second death in the lake of fire until they get a second life in the second resurrection—the resurrection of damnation—at the close of the thousand years of Rev. 20. There is not a single wicked person burning in Hell today. Nobody will be cast into Hell-fire till after this second resurrection. Hell as a lake of fire or a place of punishment for the impenitent, will not appear till the wicked are raised in the second resurrection.

"The Heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of Judgment and perdition of ungodly men." II Pet. 3:7. This text shows that this earth is the place and the day of Judgment the time. The earth has beheld their transgressions against God, and it will also behold their punishment at the day of Judgment.

Prov. 11:31 tells us that the sinner will be recompensed in this earth. Peter further explains in Verse 10 that, at the day of Judgment when the wicked are punished in this earth, the earth itself will by the first of God, be turned into a lake of fire. II Pet. 3:10. In Verse 13, he shows that, after all sin and sinners have been burned up by this devouring fire, God will make this earth over again into a perfect new earth free from sin, in which the righteous alone shall live in eternal peace and happiness.

Nevertheless, we according to His promise, look for new heavens and a new earth wherein dwell eth righteousness. II Pet. 3:13. Malachi 4: 1-3; Ekk. 28: 18.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE

Business is built on three C's—confidence, credit and cooperation. All three are important. Our modern industrial age would collapse without them. When any of them are lost or get out of adjustment, we run into trouble.

What is true of business as a whole is true right here in Fulton. The doctor, the lawyer, the minister, the plant official, the worker, the clerk, the head of the civic organization or church society, may not fully realize it, but their success is also more or less bound up in the success of the business life of the community as a whole.

So every person, whether he or she is actively engaged in business or not, has a vital stake in maintaining the confidence, credit and cooperation of the business interests of Fulton, as well as that of the State and Nation. Each of us can do our part by having confidence ourselves, by keeping our own credit good and by working together for the good of the community.

To forge ahead we must have confidence in each other, we must cooperate with each other. The bright sunshine of success will come to Fulton if we will only work together for the benefit of all. For each of us are a part of the community and have a stake in it.

YOU AND YOUR BANKER

"The semi-public character of banking, and its historic vulnerability to popular sentiment and political attack, makes it imperative that understanding of the attention to public attitudes and reactions play a larger part in bank management in the future than they have in the past," says The American Bankers Association.

Few borrowers ever like the man or the institution that lends them money. In addition, a sort of grim legend has grown up about bankers and banking, picturing the former as a crew of financial pirates, and the latter as an ice cold institution which controls the nation's purse-strings. As a result, it has always been easy for the unscrupulous politician in need of a vote getting issue, to make public capital out of the exaggerated and fallacious attacks on our financial structure.

The fact that banking has awakened to this and is taking steps to inform the public as to the fundamentals of its business, marks a move in the right direction. It will, in the long run, serve to improve banking's service to the people. It will clear away misunderstanding that exists in millions of minds. Banking lies at the heart of our economic system and it's time we learned a great deal more about it than we have in the past.

NO GOLD IN RAINBOWS

The editor of the Newhall, California, Signal recently made this significant statement: "A business man told us yesterday that he gave himself just two more years and then he was going to invite the state and government in to run his business and to make their own levies out of their own deficits!"

There's as much truth as cynical humor in that. We have had ten years of depression, broken by spasmodic intervals of a little recovery. We have been told over and over by men high in the government that a balanced budget without further increases in taxes would shortly be attained. And we have witnessed government expenses constantly grow, not lessen—and the national debt soar to undreamed of levels.

It is argued that the United States could, if necessary, carry and eventually amortize an eighty or hundred billion dollar debt. Perhaps it could—if the people are willing to lower their standard of living, in order to pay more and more of their earnings and wages to government. Perhaps it could—if business and industry are simply to stagger along on a hand to mouth basis, buying only what is absolutely needed to keep plants running.

We have heard so much of taxation in recent years that many of us have become bored with it. But that's the worst mistake we can make. Your job, your home, your savings—taxation and fiscal policy vitally affect them all. We've been criminally careless in permitting taxes and debt to rise without question—and we're going to pay the bill.

Government can retrench the cut costs and start toward a balanced budget—if public opinion forces the issue. It's up to us all.

THE POULTRY CROP

The little red hen has been extolled down the ages for her contributions to the welfare of mankind. It is only necessary to glance at the reports of the Department of Agriculture on the value of the poultry crop to appreciate its importance to producers and consumers alike.

In recent years new profits have been drawn from the poultry industry through more scientific feeding. Research work by state and Federal agencies, as well as by feed manufacturers, has developed improved rations which have definitely added to money returns.

As is pointed out by J. E. Hunter, a research authority, in a recent article, with the steady rise in the production of soybeans as a new and profitable cash crop for farmers, there has been an increased use of soybean oil meal in the poultry ration. While soybeans contain more oil than poultry can effectively use, the oil meal is of high nutritive value and contains a full complement of the essential amino acids so necessary for optimum growth, production and reproduction.

It usually sells for less than do proteins from animal sources, which makes it advantageous for the poultryman to use feeds in which a portion of the animal protein of the ration has been replaced by soybean oil meal. It also has the advantage of not influencing egg yolk color, as do some plant concentrates, and is an extreme standard product, showing little variation.

Waterfield for Representative
Harry Waterfield, Representative of Fulton and Hickman counties to the State Legislature, and editor of the Hickman County Gazette at Clinton, tells me that he will definitely announce again for that office in the near future.

Just to keep some from being confused by reports and rumors that have been circulated that he would not run, and would be a candidate for another office, we wish to state that he will run for State Representative from this district.

Outstanding Attractions

People of this vicinity are fortunate in having one of the finest theatres in this entire territory. Not only is the building modern, spacious and comfortably arranged, but theatre-goers are always sure of seeing the screen's outstanding attractions soon after they are released.

FULTON has long been recognized as a place of fine screen entertainment, with many of the best productions being shown here before they are seen elsewhere in this territory. Malco Theatres, under the able management of Hiram M. Meeks, is striving to keep this standard of entertainment, and as a result hundreds of screen followers from neighboring communities patronize the Fulton theatre each week.

April will be an outstanding month for movie-goers at the Fulton Theatre, according to Mr. Meeks, who announces that many of the screen's outstanding attractions have been booked, with many of them playing within a few days of their national release date.

Some of the outstanding hits will be Shirley Temple in "The Little Princess," Jeffrey Lynn and Priscilla Lane in "Yes, My Darling Daughter," Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "The Castles," Martha Raye and Bob Hope in "Never Say Die," Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche in "Midnight," Bob Burns in "I'm From Missouri," and dozens of others are scheduled for the local screen.

Since Malco took over the Fulton theatres many worthy improvements have been made in providing the highest type screen entertainment, and the management deserves commendation of the movie-going public.

Dear Paul:
I was very much interested in reading your current issue (March 17, 1939) of The News. However, in your column "The Forum" I noticed a statement that might be misinterpreted by some of your readers. In the eighth line of the third paragraph you state that the new town at the Gilbertsville Dam will have its own light plant.

I know that you want to maintain the high standard of accuracy in your editorship, so I am writing to remind you that our company, the Kentucky Utilities Company, has Fall entered into a contract to supply all the electrical requirements for the T. V. A. construction at Gilbertsville.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Bushart:
Please accept my belated but nonetheless sincere thanks for your editorial in the Fulton News March 3 headed "Up From the Ranks."

It looked like old times the first part of the week, when old Chicken Watkins walked into the office.

Everybody remembers Chicken for the good work he did here in the fairs for several years, building the poultry show from a small concern to the largest show in this section with the exception of the Tri-States Fair Show.

The last show he conducted here had 873 chickens entered. This was over 300 more than the West Tennessee show at Jackson the same year.

Chicken says he has only another year to work when he will be pensioned, and he will then move near Fulton, and go into the chicken game strong.

He is still raising standard-bred poultry and will send some of his Buff Wyandottes to the World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland.

He will also go to the show and has promised the Fulton County News a good story about the show.

THE Ford V-8 "One-Tonner" fills an important place between light commercial cars and big trucks—and fills it to perfection!

Here's the Express—one of 3 standard types available in this popular Ford unit. Others are Stake and Panel.

Jobs that are too big for Ford V-8 Commercial Cars, too small for Ford 134-inch and 157-inch wheelbase trucks are a cinch for this modern unit. Its 122-inch wheelbase chassis is available with standard body types of large load capacity... and you have a choice of either the improved V-8 85 H.P. engine or the famous 60 H.P. engine, to fit your specific requirements.

Built into the "One-Tonner" are many of the rugged qualities found in the big Ford trucks. Here, also, you find such Ford features as full-floating rear axle, centriforce clutch, torque-tube drive and radius rods, and big hydraulic brakes.

If you could see your front wheels at 50 m. p. h.

BELIEVE it or not—but those wheels are spinning when you touch 50 miles per hour.

Then if you could step out in front and watch those wheels perhaps you'd learn a thing or two. You might get a scare if you saw them wobbling from side to side. Yet that's just exactly what unbalanced, shimmying wheels do at high speeds (and low speeds too.) Not only that but—out of line wheels cause wander, weave and excessive tire wear.

COUNTY AGENT

A prime requirement in growing good potatoes is to have a deep fertile, mellow soil filled with humus.

The seed bed should be deep, for the deeper the seed bed, the more moisture can be stored. When horse plowing is the means of preparing the seed bed, a 10 inch plowing depth is considered the limit, but potato growers with tractor or equipment have found benefit from breaking 14 inches.

The humus material may be stable manure, however it has objectionable features. Fresh horse manure tends to increase scab and cow manure tends to increase white grub infection. Partly rotted manure will correct these to a certain extent.

A green manure crop from summer and winter legumes is better, than stable manure. When the land is needed for a crop each year, crimson clover makes a good winter cover crop. Whether manure is used for humus or a green manure crop is turned under, there is distinct merit in cutting it in with a disk, before breaking. Thus, when the seed bed is finished with a disk the soil is fine all the way to the bottom.

Another important item in successful potato growing is good seed that meets the requirements of variety, vitality and general condition. The best variety for this county is Irish Cobbler. In quality, it is fair; it endures Kentucky's uncertain season well, being fairly resistant to drought and hot weather, showing remarkably little "second-growth" and few hollow tubers. It has the failing of deep eyes, especially of deep eyes, especially when the tubers are over-large, and it is somewhat sensitive to scab. Irish Cobbler is only moderately susceptible to blight, and if two or three spraying with Bordeaux are given, can be depended upon to mature heavy crops in almost any season. It is a "white" potato.

Bliss Triumph, a red variety popular in the deep south, is coming to the fore again in Kentucky, now that high-yielding strainings have been developed through certification. It is from 10 days to two weeks earlier than Irish Cobbler, but inasmuch as it is highly subject to blight, its vines may be killed by this disease before a satisfactory crop is made. Bordeaux spraying is a deterrent. Bliss tubers have exceedingly tender skins; scab is quite troublesome. The eyes are shallow and few, making this variety a favorite, in spite of its waxy flesh and poor flavor.

It is not safe to use home grown seed. The only safe way, is to use new seed, and of this, by far the best to use disease free certified seed. Certified seed may seem to cost more, but actually it is the more economical to use, for by its use the hazard of crop failure is materially reduced.

Peas

Peas are a seed crop; therefore their fertilizing must be balanced. Stable manure is desirable to use for it is a soil conditioner but stable manure used alone causes peas to grow to vine with sometimes an extremely light set of pods. Phosphorus is needed to make blossoms stick and set pods, and because stable manure lacks phosphorus, this element should be added, in the form of superphosphate. It may be applied broadcast over the entire garden, for all the vegetables benefit from its use, or it may be applied where the row is to be and chopped into the soil a few inches. Broadcast rate is 100 pounds to a space 100 feet square. Row applications are made at the rate of one pound to 30 feet. Peas are distinctly a "cool" crop. They go out of bearing soon after the weather has become definitely warm, or after the soil has to warm. They can be kept quite a bit longer, even though the atmosphere has warmed up if pains have been taken to get them rooted deeply. Good practice, always is to make the seed furrows deep say 4 inches, but to cover the seed only an inch, then to fill the furrow after the peas have grown above it. The earlier varieties are Alaska and Radio, however the latter is much the superior variety. About April 1, the ground having warmed to some extent, it becomes safe to plant the sweeter, wrinkled-seeded varieties, Thomas Laxton, Laxtonian or Gradus (Prosperity). Intermediate both in quality and in hardiness are American Wonder and British Wonder. These are part wrinkled and are thus better able to cope with sodden soil and low temperatures than the really good wrinkled-seeded "sugar" sorts. The season may be wound up with Telephone, the reliable, tall prolific sort but whose quality is only mediocre, unless harvested promptly, the pods have filled.

There is a definitely summer sort of peas whose popularity deserves to spread, namely the edible-podded varieties, of which Mammoth Melting Sugar is the best known variety. They are the tallest of all. A support 6 feet high is not too much. They should be used just as the seedlings begin to show. Their planting time is during early April, and deep furrowing helps.

SPRING IS TIME FOR BIRD BOXES

Spring is the time for house cleaning. It is the time for cleaning out old bird boxes and putting up new ones. Bluebirds and robins have returned and ere long other familiar bird neighbors will have arrived to brighten our landscape and bring cheer and sunshine into our hearts. Let us not be found lacking in our duty to these useful dooryard friends, for they mean much to us both esthetically and economically.

The time also has come for farmers to begin their spring house cleaning of the countryside, and many are the fields which are wastefully burned over in order to remove brush and weeds. This practice, according to some farmers, is desirable, at least in some cases. However, there is always danger of such fires not being properly controlled.

While the preservation of top soil is the farmer's only salvation on the one hand, on the other the preservation of some cover plots in a field fires, if uncontrolled, very often destroy all food and cover along fence-rows, and even spread into surrounding woodlands, laying their floors entirely bare. Instead of burning brush piles it would be far better to remove them to some unused or inconspicuous corner of a field, to some eroded gulley, where they will not interfere with agriculture and will serve as retreats for rabbits, quail, and other wildlife.

Every sportsman owes it to himself and to his future sport to spend a day or two now and then in familiar covers. He owes it to himself to see that the wildlife which lives there is given a chance, and is protected from its enemies.

PUBLIC WARNED THAT ANY COUGH MAY PROVE DANGEROUS

Effective Treatment For Cold Coughs Is Cited

If you or any member of your family is suffering from a lingering cough, and do not know its cause, call your doctor at once. You might have the start of a serious ailment and need immediate attention. Homemade remedies and mild cough preparations are seldom effective. Even coughs or bronchial irritations due to colds or exposure need a real medicine.

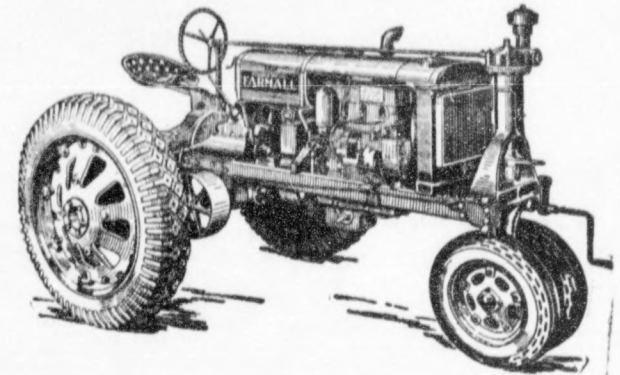

Mentho-Mulsion, like a doctor's prescription, contains those different medical ingredients which bring cough relief, and is fortified with both Vitamins "A" and "D."

Buy a bottle of Mentho-Mulsion from your druggist. The very first dose must start you on the road to cough relief or your druggist will return your money.

STYLE IN TOWELS

Those society people who think that style is applicable only to what they do or say or wear should have had a few years' valuable training in Fidelity. There was plenty of style in this quaint old place, even though there was no finery in the ordinary sense of the term. This style extended to such common things as towels.

Let us begin at the bottom of the social scale. Very plain people, with little or no impression to make,
used dirty towels made from grass sacks, cut in two and hemmed. For very dirty hands these towels are not so bad; they save a great deal of washing, too, for boys. But it would be hard to find anybody now who would admit having used such a towel.

The standard every-day towel for the farm hands was made from meal sacks, large two-bushel sacks at that. The cloth is heavy cotton stuff, nearly as thick as the hickory shirting that we once used and possessing just such lasting qualities. Less rough than grass sacks, these meal sacks also help scrub off the dirt after you have soaped your hands with home-made lye soap and started the dirt to coming off anyway. I might add that you must wash your face with water scooped up in both hands and must make a blowing noise with your mouth, whether any of the soapy water has got into your mouth or not. This is merely a part of the process of washing the hands and face.

When company comes, unless it is some boy who has followed us home from church, finer towels are brought out, linen or near-linen, and smaller by half than the meal sack towel. These towels, unlike the standard ones, are white, rather than gray in color, and show dirt. Besides, it is best to use tinted toilet soap instead of Big Deal or lye soap. But the old washpan is still the container of the water, even with these fine towels.

In every style there is a best, and towels were no exception to this rule. Exclusive company used only the washbowl and pitcher in the front room. The towel supplied here was the best in the house and sometimes even had some embroidered flowers on it. The soap, too, was in a dish, not a broken cup or saucer, a dish that often had been present from the best boy friend of Big Sister, a sort of companion to the water pitcher and six-glass set that often graced the front room. Holding up the train of royalty has never and will never fall to my lot,
but I have walked with swelling chest into the front room with a pitcher of water and a nice towel, all for the distinguished guest who had honored us with his company.
Even better, I have been the guest who used the washbowl and pitcher; the scented, tinted soap; the embroidered towel. Style? You bet!

will be no gain or loss in soil productivity through the production of these crops.

Final reports on the 1937 AAA program show participation by 3,743,904 farmers and landowners who operate 65 percent of the crop land in the United States. The cooperators planted 29,000,000 acres of legumes and grasses and 12-287,000 acres of cover and green manure crops. They applied 5,000-000 tons of limestone and 400,000 tons of commercial fertilizer.

Cattle Club; Lou Morley, Secretary,
American Jersey Cattle Club;
