THE LISTENING POST

Now, how would YOU feel if you opened your postoffice box and picked up a letter from Norma Shearer, Hollywood, California? Well, I felt the same way, except that I had an uneasy feeling somebody was gently, or perhaps not so gently, spoofing me. There was something phony about the way the letter looked—just as sometimes you get a check and have a sudden feeling that it is as cold as the weather was here a couple of winters ago. That was the feeling I had the other night when I picked up a letter with the beautiful Norma's name written on the upper left hand corner of the envelope. The fact that the postmark read "Fulton" added nothing to my feelings, for I was certain that some anonymous critic was getting ready to blast me.

Well, pride always goes before a fall. For several days I had received a lot of praise for on thing or another, and I guess I was getting all puffed up with pride. No working newspaper man has any business ever feeling proud. It never pays, for when a man sends out newspapers every day to hundreds of homes, he can rest assured that somewhere he will run into criticism and sometime that criticism will make itself felt.

This Norma Shearer letter deflated me completely. By the time I was through reading it I was sagging at all points and all thoughts of pride were thoroughly evaporated. I wondered why I had spent so much time publishing newspapers, anyhow, and I was gazing back along forty mispent years and feeling decidedly humble and hopeless. For Norma, whoever she may be, deflated me quite completely and thoroughly. I wish I might print the letter as I read it, but this is not possible because it would only result in deflating a lot of other folks. These latter folks would at once become irritated at me for printing the letter, and so no good purpose would be served. The only net result would be that I would make some other folks feel as I do, and heaven knows I do not want to do that. I am big enough to bear my own burden without trying to make others help me bear it.

Specifically the unknown Norma does not like the way this newspaper is put together. She does not like the sort of news I print, nor the way it is written. (Frankly, Norma, there are many times when I feel the same way, but publishing a daily newspaper is rather a hard job in a small town, and we merely try to do the best we can.)

I have carefully framed the letter from Miss Shearer. It is probably the only letter that I will ever receive from this good looking dame—unless the same Norma means to start a regular campaign of anonymous letters—and I can use this letter for a good purpose. At any time I begin to feel any sense of pride in whatever I may do in future years, I will merely take a look at this letter and at once all the pressure will go down from my feeling of pride and I will be an humble and penitent person. Never again will I allow any person to praise me without thinking of Norma and her letter, and so the praise which may come will be thoroughly salted and diluted with the full knowledge that wise eyes are watching from somewhere, and a salty letter may come again from the beautiful Norma to put me right back in my place.

Norma, I am a changed man since receiving your letter.

Fulton Board Of Education States List Of Teachers

Several Changes Announced In List Of Teachers For Coming Year

The Board of Education of the Fulton City schools, in regular meeting last night, selected the teaching force for next year and a list announced this morning by Supt. Lewis shows several changes in the teachers for the coming year. Principals of the various schools were elected a month ago.

Edwin Gunter, who has served as teacher of mathematics in junior high for the past four years, was not reelected and the Board instructed the superintendent to secure someone to take his place as teacher and assistant coach of football.

Helen Tyler was not reelected due to the fact that there has been such a great decrease in the first grade that there are not enough children to necessitate two teachers. In the event that a place develops for which she is qualified she will be elected.

Ruby Boyd Alexander, who was elected for one year only to fill the place of Mary Katherine Bondurant who had a year's leave of absence, was not reelected since Miss Bondurant has indicated that she will return. She has been attending the University of Michigan for the past year.

Ruth W. Jones of Milton school was not reelected due to the discontinuance of high school grades at Milton school by instruction of L. N. Taylor, state supervisor of colored schools. The board also approved the proposition submitted by the Fulton county board of taking the colored students to Hickman where they will attend high school. A rate of 8c per mile will be charged.

Supt. Lewis was granted a leave of absence to attend K. E. A., which convenes in Louisville April 16-19. Milton School will be dismissed in order that the teachers may attend K. N. E. A.

The board also reemployed Yewell Harrison as band director for 2 months during the summer. The board granted permission to the high school to graduate Patricia Dawson, who recently came here from Chicago. This was necessary in as much as Miss Dawson had not attended this school for one year.

The report of the basketball season showed that receipts for the season were $630.44 and expenditures were $580.83 with a cash balance of $49.61 and outstanding bills amounting to $62. At the present time the high school athletic association is in the best condition financially that it has been in for the past three years.

Teachers reelected by the school board last night are as follows:

Defense "Blackout Factories" Will Be Invisible To Aircraft

Washington, — "Blackout" factories—without a single window or door through which a gleam of light can pass—are the latest development in the protection of American's vital defense production plants against the potential ravages of enemy aircraft.

Through the use of cellular, prefabricated steel, plants are being built which are practically invisible by day or night, according to Gordon Turnbull, noted engineer, who is designing most of them.

Biggest One At Dallas

The biggest of these plants—that work-with-their-eyes-shut now under construction is the $6,000,000, twenty-acre factory of North American Aviation at Dallas, Texas—reportedly the largest in the world under a single roof.

Although the Dallas plant will have an eighteen-hole golf course built atop of it, as additional camouflage, it was explained that this precaution is not entirely necessary since there will not be a window or door in the entire twenty-acre building through which a ray of light might escape. Cellular steel units, rolled out of Pennsylvania mills and shipped daily to Dallas, permit construction of the plant without windows, completely air conditioned and illuminated with fluorescent lighting.

Mrs. Annie Butler Killed In Crash At Cayce, Ky.

Mrs. Annie Butler, 48, of near Wingo, was instantly killed and her nephew, John Logan Vaughn, 25, of near Wingo, seriously injured at 10:30 yesterday morning when their automobile was struck by a southbound Mobile & Ohio passenger train at a crossing at Cayce.

Vaughn was brought to the Fulton hospital and his condition is serious. He sustained a fractured skull, fractured pelvis, a crushed right leg, lacerations of the face and upper body and internal injuries.

The car was demolished and Mrs. Butler's body was thrown 40 feet by the collision. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death "by reason of the driver failing to observe a railroad signal."

Pat Henry, brother of Sheriff Henry of Hickman, who witnessed the auto-train crash, suffered a heart attack and was brought to the Fulton hospital. He is better today and will be dismissed this afternoon.

Mrs. Butler is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alice Vaughn, with whom she lived; and Mrs. Lillian Mullen, Hickman; two half-sisters, Mrs. Eva Gardner and Mrs. Jersey Davis of Fulton.

Attorneys Object To Electric Device Which Will Record Testimony

Lexington, Ky. — Defense attorneys Tuesday objected to use of an electrical recording device for transcribing testimony in the tobacco anti-trust trial opening here May 5.

Tobacco company attorneys, headed by Cimon Hyde, New York, said the microphones of the device often picked up "hushed" conversation, and that they did not want confidential comment at the defense table recorded and reproduced.

The objection was entered at a hearing on the subject called by Federal Judge H. Church Ford. The device was demonstrated at a recent Federal Court trial here.

Edward H. Miller, special assistant attorney general, and Ben

Kessinger, assistant district attorney, said the prosecution favored the machine's use, and Judge Ford said he was not opposed to it.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge Ford said it was up to counsel to decide on use of either a stenographer or the machine or both. He added that the defense was free to employ a shorthand reporter to take down testimony in the traditional way.

Eight major tobacco companies, twenty-six of their subsidiaries and thirty-three of their officials are to stand trial on criminal charges of price-fixing and creation of a monopoly in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Drouth Menace Reported Growing In This Region

Washington, — The Geological Survey reported today that a serious drouth threatened to hit the East-Central States unless dwindling surface and underground water supplies were replenished soon by rains.

The survey said stream flow in this area and in Southern New England was materially below normal, and that there also was a prospective water shortage for irrigation needs in parts of the northern intermountain region.

The report showed the water shortage to be less severe in the southern part of the East-Central States but more aggravated in the Central Mississippi Valley States. It said flow of five representative streams in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky ranged from 10 to 22 per cent of normal for March. The west fork of the White River at Nashville, Ind., was said to have receded, to the lowest March flow on record.

Bulldogs Play McKenzie High

The Fulton High Bulldogs will go to McKenzie tomorrow afternoon for a practice game with McKenzie High. This is the second game this spring for the Bulldogs, having been defeated by Greenfield two weeks ago, 12-6.

Coach Giles stated this morning that there would be two more weeks of practice and probably one more game. McKenzie will play here next Friday. The past two weeks the boys have been missing quite a bit of practice and this has disrupted the practice of plays and it has been necessary to work on fundamentals only.

It is thought that most of the boys will be out this week and they will try to perfect the timing of their plays, in order that spring practice can be ended with the McKenzie game.

The lineup at McKenzie will be: Spence and Nels or Robert Hart, center; McAllister, R. Whitesell, Sug Willingham, and Johnny Sharpe, backs.

We then separated into our own patrols to discuss the huge we are planning to take Saturday morning. We plan to leave the school at 10:30 to hike out to Atkins. Each girl is to bring a permit from her mother, saying that they have permission to go. We then sang taps and were dismissed.

Four Steel Firms Grant Wage Boosts

According to CIO demands, the nation's two biggest steel producers—United States Steel and Bethlehem steel—boosted wages 10 cents an hour yesterday and Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube quickly fell into line.

Directly, the action meant the addition of $4 to the weekly pay envelopes of more than 400,000 workers. Indirectly, it may mean similar increases for 600,000 or more other workers in manufacturing and fabricating concerns which, in the past, have matched the pace set by "big steel."

There was no immediate word as to whether the wage increase would be followed by a boost in the price of steel—and a consequent increase in the cost of the defense program. The general view in Pittsburgh steel circles, however, was that a price increase was inevitable if higher coal costs were heaped on top of the wage increase.

Coal Increase Expected
Some increase in coal costs is expected to follow current negotiations by the United Mine workers (CIO) for a new soft coal mining contract since both northern and southern operators have agreed to wage increases although split on the question of a differential between wages in their sections.

The 10-cent-an-hour steel wage increase affected 240,000 employees of United States Steel, 90,000 of Bethlehem, 50,000 of Republic, and 26,000 of Youngstown.

The National Steel Corporation and some other smaller producers previously had made a similar wage increase.

With the increase, the basic minimum wage in the major steel concerns became 72 1-2 cents an hour. In terms of weekly wages, employees getting the basic pay and working 40 hours a week were boosted from $25 to $29.

"Easy" Divorces Will Ruin Nation, Teacher Says

Philadelphia, — Widespread and "easy" divorce is laying the basis for collapse of America just as surely as could war, famine and pestilence, according to the Rev. John B. Fee, Philadelphia high school history teacher.

"Plague and death may ravage a country more quickly, but equally certain, if slower, will be the collapse of that nation whose legal machinery encourages divorce, birth control and conjugal infidelity," declared Father Fee.

"While simultaneous polygamy is forbidden, consecutive polygamy is a vast scale has been made possible by more than fifty causes for divorce, with their unlimited interpretation," the clergyman asserted.

Hull Rallies Latin American Nations For Defense Of Liberty

Washington, — Secretary of State Cordell Hull, denouncing the dictators for their "brutal disregard of international morality," Sunday night urgently called upon the 21 American Republics to "rededicate their energies" to the defense of their common frontiers and the preservation of their endangered freedom.

In a formal message to this country's sister nations, Mr. Hull proclaimed as still the keystone of inter-American relations the "sanctity of the pledged word" by which they have bound themselves together in defense against the hazards of daily-widening European aggression.

The secretary addressed himself to the republics of the new world on the eve of their joint observance tomorrow of Pan-American Day, as every capital from Washington on the north to the tip of Patagonia on the south, scheduled a hemispheric celebration of the anniversary.

While the large Latin diplomatic corps here greeted Hull's words with prompt endorsements, Pan-American Airways announced a spectacular extension of United States influence.

The airline disclosed it was Sunday instituting an eight-day round trip circuit flight to Buenos Aires and announced it will operate 24 high-speed stratosphere air schedules between North and South America and 24 nonstop flights between this country and the vital Panama Canal Zone.

Revealing it has captured a large air territory in South America from the German "Lufthansa" lines, Pan-American said its new express scheduled linking all American republics on a 15,000-mile air circuit were offered to "tighten transport and communication ties" between the 21 capitals.

U. S. Policy Unchanged By New Pact

Russo-Jap Agreement Reportedly Heralds Era Of Cooperation

Washington, — American policy in both Europe and Asia today was declared "unchanged" by the new Russian-Japanese "neutrality" pact, which was viewed, officially as merely formalizing a relationship long existing between the two Eastern powers.

Secretary of State Hull expressed the government's attitude towards the pact in a formal statement which declared its significance "could be overestimated" and that it came as no surprise.

"The agreement," he said, "would seem to be descriptive of a situation which has in effect existed between the two countries for some time past."

Pact No Surprise
"It therefore comes" as no surprise, although there has existed doubt whether the two governments would or would not agree to say it in writing."

As to its effect on the United States, Secretary Hull declared bluntly:

"The policy of this government, of course, remains unchanged." This meant that the pact would have no effect on the government's aid to Britain program or on the attitude it has taken in recent months toward the Far East.

Hull's statement was carefully prepared after consultation among the highest State Department officials. Some significance was seen in the fact that his language had a close resemblance to the statement he issued when Japan joined Germany and Italy in the tripartite pact last September.

Relationship Clarified
That agreement, Hull said, did not "substantially alter a situation which has existed for several years," and the announcement of the alliance "merely makes clear to all a relationship which has long existed in effect and to which this government has repeatedly called attention."

Small Boy Dies Rather Than Tell Of Disobedience

Camden, N. J. — Four-year-old Ralph Reagan, was soundly spanked last week when his mother found him playing with matches. Friday night the child crawled onto the back porch, whimpering in agony, but determined not to cry because again he had been playing with matches—and his cowboy suit had been burned from his body.

Ralph died Saturday in a hospital.

Editorial

NEWSPAPER EDITORIALS

The writer was talking with a Fulton man the other night and he mentioned the fact that he had seen an article in a Louisville newspaper which purported to prove that few people read newspaper editorials any more. Being curious about the matter, he began a sort of campaign among his friends to ascertain if any of them read editorials. "I have asked about 25 men," he said, "and as yet have not found one who does. They read some of the news, some of them read the columns, many of them read the sports, and practically all read the comics. But I have not found one who reads the editorials and so I surmise the article must have been more or less true."

These friends went on to say that he regularly read two metropolitan newspapers every day. "I read them completely, too," he added. As it happens this man is quite well informed, keeps abreast of current events and can carry on an intelligent discussion on almost any subject. We do not mean to say that this is true because he reads editorials; for after all, these are a matter of taste, and many editorials are probably not worth the time required to read them. In any event, newspaper editorials can represent only the belief and the opinion of the man who writes them and no undue weight should be accorded them. However, in many instances, these editorial writers are quite well informed men and can really express opinions that are worth considering, and it will do no man any harm to read their opinions on any subjects which may be discussed. Personally we happen to believe that any editorial, no matter how poor, will probably be more valuable to any man than any comic strip, but this is merely a personal prejudice.

A newspaper man out in Kansas recently commented on this subject in quite an interesting fashion. Kansas has produced, in all probability, more individual newspaper editors than any state in the Union, and this personal style of journalism still persists in Kansas more than any other section. There appears to be something in Kansas which makes newspaper editors develop a personal style, and in William Allen White Kansas has developed the most brilliant newspaper editor since the days of Henry Watterson. Jack Harris of the Hutchinson, Kansas, News-Herald, recently discussed newspaper editorial writing in the strictly Kansas manner. Said Mr. Harris:

"William Allen White once said he had written so many of them he could compose editorials while falling from an airplane.

"Today the job isn't so easy.

"The News-Herald doesn't hesitate to take its readers into confidence and explain why.

"The criticism one invokes is the least distressing aspect of the chore. A seasoned writer isn't surprised when the same paragraph causes one reader to damn him as a dangerous radical and another to blast him as a moss-backed reactionary. The most patriotic sentiments are sometimes interpreted as treason; complimentary words sometimes bring anger from those they were designed to please. You get used to that.

"The worry today is the writer's own inadequacy.

FAMOUS FABLES

John Barrymore as a young man was not very fussy about his personal appearance, and was unbearably lazy.

He was in San Francisco the day of the earthquake. He was tossed violently from his bed by the first shock, thrown heavily against the wall and remained gasping in that condition. Finally, gathering his wits, he rushed for the bathroom, jumped into the tub and stayed there the rest of the day.

Next morning he ventured out to observe the damage. A soldier stopped him at the point of a bayonet and forced him to pile bricks with the other citizens. He performed this duty for two whole days.

When he returned to New York, Barrymore recounted this terrible experience in the Lambs' Club.

"Extraordinary," observed Augustus Thomas, the dramatist. "It took a convulsion of nature to make John take a bath, and the United States Army to make him go to work."

"Once it was the fashion for editors to pontificate, to write as if they were omniscient, ubiquitous prophets operating under divine guidance for the direction of the multitude and the good of their particular political party. These editors were stuffed shirts. Their works were tripe, often venial. Fortunately, most of them are now retired.

"If any survive, this war is enough to prick their bloot.

"The honest editor knows he is only a half educated club whose livelihood demands he express so many opinions each issue. Habit has given him some facility, although his ease of style is often spawned by his lack of thought.

"The sad realization is accentuated by today's events. Old standards and values crumble as disastrously as did the fortifications of the Maginot line. There seems no whole and practical wisdom anywhere. Some men can be blindly loyal to a rigid creed but not the writer whose job it is to investigate all sides. The editor, for instance, who swears by every plank of the Republican platform and sees no good in the New Deal is of no value to the intelligent reader and has missed his calling. He should be a stump speaker with a sound truck.

"What is a man to say now? We want peace for our country and yet we want to keep it worth having. Try and find a perfect formula for that with Hitler loose in the world and because of him men are crazed with fear and greed strangely complicated by messianic ambition.

"The editor has been kicked out of his sanctum. He can serve only with humility and be preversely cheered by knowing what he says may not be important, possibly won't even be read. It must suffice he is honest with himself and knows his limitations."

"When I Buy Feeds . . . I Want Results"

You take the progressive young farmer who makes farming his ambition . . . he thinks his problems through before making a decision. Take the matter of FEEDS for instance. He wants a feed that's priced in proportion to the actual benefits he receives from using it. That's why a majority of farmers in this section specify Browder Feeds.

Browder Feeds are manufactured fresh daily; they are mixed right and priced right. If you're not already a customer, try Browder Feeds for poultry, horses, hogs and herd. You'll be pleased with the results. Ask for these Feeds by name—

WARNER SAYS SOME CIO LEADERS HAVE USED 'LAWLESS' TACTICS

New York.—Milo J. Warner, national commander of the American Legion, tonight accused some of the leaders of the CIO of promoting "lawless, headsmashing tactics" in the defense emergency and of condoning Communist elements in the organization.

The legion, he said in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Ohio Society of New York, seeks "no part in labor disputes as such," but opposes lawlessness on the part of employers and unions alike.

Warner said "the majority of labor and industrial leaders" had recognized the fact that "without the leadership could prevent outbreaks of violence and were making sincere efforts 'to meet and solve' the problem.

Signing of Poyee Walker to play first base for the Tigers this year gives assurance that the local squad will be well fortified on the flanks of the infield. With Walker at first, an adequate man in fielding and who hit .370 last year, local fans can expect the best there; and Manager Moon Mullen, who will probably hold the third base slot, will hit better than .300 and furnish the best fielding job for the entire league—if he plays up the form which has exhibited in past years. Personally this column is glad to see Walker under the local banner, for he was a thorn in the flesh of all local fans last year. Playing with Hopkinsville, he seemed to be rounding second on a clean triple every time local fans looked at him, and here is hoping that he will continue to do the same and more of it as a Tiger player. He seems the answer to prayer for a first baseman who can field and hit.

It is an axiom among baseball experts that the real strength of a club is based on the strength right down through the middle—that is, from the catcher to the pitcher, through second base and into center field. There is quite a bit of common sense in the theory, for all fans know the importance of a good catcher and a good pitcher. A crack second baseman can make or break an infield, for he is the man on whom double plays depend, and if a second baseman fails in this respect, it means extra work for the pitcher, for those runners who are usually snuffed out on fast double plays have a habit of scoring if the double play combination fails in its duty. Continuing into the outfield, it is well known that a good center fielder can make a team look good, for he goes far to either side after chances, and cuts off many drives that might go for hits. It is a more difficult job to get a crack center fielder than to fill the flank positions, although the others are important also.

Little can be known as yet what strength the Tigers will develop down through the middle, for that all depends on what comes out of spring training. If it happened to be possible to get a second baseman and a shortstop on a par with Walker and Mullen—well, in that event we could start planning where we would put the pennant. With Walker and Mullen we have as good players as will be found in the league and all efforts will now be devoted to getting good players for the middle slots.

The rookies who arrived yesterday are a good looking lot of boys and out of their ranks may come some players who will make new records here this summer. That is the fascinating gamble of baseball, particularly in the Kitty League. Every year there is a new crop of boys, and it is the manager's job to watch them work and, if possible, pick out the boys who really have the stuff and who will deliver after the regular season gets under way. Plenty of times a boy will look like a couple of million dollars in spring practice. He will field like Hal Chase and hit like Honus Wagner in the games which mean a great deal. On the strength of this the manager may sign him up and start him in the regular season—and from then on he may get about one hit per week and make three errors in every game. Or, on the other hand, a boy may not look like much in the early practice, but may be kept on, and will start playing in the regular season like a veteran and a star.

It is problems like these which make a manager's hair turn gray at thirty or less, and it is the wrong solution to such problems that causes managers to change jobs rather rapidly at times.

Anyhow, beginning this week and until May 12, Fulton fans will be seeing the boys from among whom the team will finally be selected.
