Pleasant Grove and Penny News

Our school has had another pleasant week's work. Although we have taken exams most of us are making good grades.

Mr. Wrathe had our coal sent out last Friday. We were glad to receive it as the weather was getting cool and we needed a fire.

The boys have been entertaining themselves by playing baseball. I think they enjoy the game very much.

The characters in our Christmas play have been staying after school and practicing. Some are having to work and can't practice. We are very sorry as they need the practice.

We had an all day guest, Friday, Miss Larue Russell. Miss Della Cook came in the afternoon. Guests are always welcome.

The students making the necessary grades to appear on the honor roll are as follows:

Third Grade: Mary Elizabeth Jones, Dorothy Workman, Nell Culver, Edna Lee Thompson.

Fourth Grade: Margaret Nell Cole, Treva Nell Tidwell.

Sixth Grade: Maurine Rogers.

Eighth Grade: Myrtle Mae Ray, A. J. Marshall, Nitaree Brewer, Lucille Jones.

Miss Myrtle Mae Ray was Friday night guest of Miss Della Cook.

Mr. Oakland Cunningham and family were all day guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cunningham. Messrs Edwin Cain and J. D. Robinson visited in the afternoon.

Miss Clara Nell Cunningham was last Sunday afternoon guest of Miss Nitaree Brewer.

An airplane circled around over this vicinity Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Herman Tidwell's house caught fire from the flue Friday morning. No serious damage was done.

Staff assistants: Mr. Powell is a graduate of Cayce High School and a member of the Wilsonian Society and World Affairs Club of Murray State College.

ITCH IS REPORTED IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Treatment Suggestions Given By Dr. J. A. Outland, County Health Officer.

There appears to be a general spreading of the itch in many of the rural schools, according to County Health Officer Dr. J. A. Outland. Dr. Outland has visited many of the schools of the county recently and has found the itch present among the students of a great many schools including some of the high schools.

In the treatment and prevention of the disease Dr. Outland stresses cleanliness. Such precaution as can be taken by the aid of parents, teachers, and the children can prevent further spread.

The students of the rural schools should be careful in personal contact with other students, with any skin irregularities. The teacher should send any student home for medical treatment who shows signs of any skin disorder. The parents can do much in having the children follow the closest habits of cleanliness.

For the treatment and prevention of the itch: Take a tub bath at night with soap and hot water. Dry thoroughly and apply sulphur ointment. Repeat three nights. Take another bath. Change the bed linen and all underclothing and bed clothing and bed clothing before using again. Keep out of school for three days.

Hazel Route News

Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Hurt and little son, Billie Gray, of Tobacco, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hurt, of Hazel, last week.

Conservatism in Banking Means Safety For Depositors

Banking is essentially the field of the conservative, because conservatism in banking means safety, and safety is the prime consideration of every bank depositor. Beside it everything else is incidental.

A conservative in banking, as in every other avenue of life, is not inclined to take risks. He encourages and promotes legitimate business, but does not chase rainbows, and loan depositors' money on doubtful ventures.

The Bank of Murray is essentially a conservative institution, because its officers and directors are that type of business men. For over forty years this sound policy has carried it through panics and periods of severe deflation, and it has always emerged unscathed.

Every dollar deposited in the Bank of Murray is amply protected by capital, surplus and profits, in addition to our long record of successful banking.

Conservatism in us means safety and security to you as a depositor, and it is upon this basis that we solicit your funds.

CAMELS are FRESH

in nature's own mild way!

EVERYONE knows now that Camels are the fresh cigarette.

If inquiry went deeper, it would reveal that Camels are the natural moisture cigarette.

That's important, because in handling fine tobaccos, when you process out natural moisture, you sacrifice freshness and flavor too.

Camel smokers needn't worry about that, because Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that are never subjected to violent processing. They need no parching or toasting to make them smooth, palatable, cool.

That's why the Camel Humidor Pack is such a boon to Camel smokers—it preserves the freshness, flavor, natural moisture, fragrance that are in this fine cigarette to start with.

Camels are fresh in nature's own mild way, and if you want to see what that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

Now That the Election Is Over, Let's All Go to Work

The state election is over with a decisive victory for the Democratic party. For which we are very thankful.

There is no doubt whatever that a measure of the victory is due to the desire of people for a "change" in government. When everything is not going well it is human to become dissatisfied with the instruments we have and to desire something else, something different. Which ever party happens to be in power gets a large share of the blame for unsatisfactory conditions and is usually overthrown at such a time.

Democratic leaders of Kentucky will make a fatal mistake if they assume, by virtue of last week's victory, that Kentucky is finally and completely Democratic. The oncoming Democratic administration will be tested and judged by its work during the coming four years. There is always a day of reckoning, a day of balancing of accounts and it will come irrevocably.

While we firmly believe that the Hoover-Grundy tariff is, in a large measure, responsible for the present slump and the Republicans should have been thrown for their support and endorsement of it, we would like to remind our readers that prosperity is not brought back by stamping a ballot for the Democratic ticket or any other ticket.

Only work, intelligence and efficiency can create wealth, conserve and preserve it for the benefit of ourselves and our posterity. Faith and hope and effort, with emphasis on the latter, can bring back the measure of public welfare that America wants and should have.

The same homes that we lived in two years ago are just as comfortable and convenient now as they were at that time. They are still composed of the same lumber, the same brick, the same fixtures. Intrinsically a home for which $2,000 is offered now is worth just as much as it was two years ago when it would have brought perhaps $5,000. You didn't want to sell it then and you don't want to sell it now.

The right kind of government may assist the people toward finding prosperity again but only they themselves can do it. Government is a powerful influence.

Speaking of high prices, that the Murray Magazine Club in bringing to successful completion the receiving vault in the Murray city cemetery. It was a project conceived in love for community and carried out with a persistence and energy that compliments these good women have more than words can ever do.

For many years the ladies of the Magazine Club have struggled against and overcome almost unmountable odds. They refused to be discouraged by odds and handicaps that would have defeated any with less stoutness of heart and singleness of purpose.

It has not been either a short or an easy fight. For years this club has literally worked its fingers to the bone to accomplish this community project. It has raised a great portion of the money through its own efforts and it has had other drives for funds to make the vault possible.

Every citizen of Murray owes each of these women individually a sincere thanks for their work and hearty congratulations for their success.

Democrats Should Heed History

Any successful organization looks far ahead. The years pass quickly and it will not be long before voters of the State of Kentucky will be called upon to select another administration to carry on their government.

The campaign of 1935 will be waged on the record of Judge Lafoon and his staff, who will assume their duties the first of January, just as every other state campaign has been waged on the merits or demerits of the current administration.

It is significant that in every gubernatorial election, except one, in this century Kentucky has changed from Democratic to Republican or vice versa. On that one exception, 1915, when Stanley was elected by a majority of only 415 over Morrow there was some little bit of stink about the method of counting the votes in the city of Louisville.

During the administration of Governor Beckham, Wilson, Republican, defeated Hager, Democrat, in the 1907 election. It was easy for McCreary, Democrat, to be elected by a large majority in 1911 on the record of the Wilson rule. Following the same trend, Stanley barely squeaked in by the narrow majority of 415 in 1915.

The next time, 1919, Edd Morrow won an overwhelming victory over Black, the latter's record and Stanley's record.

Came 1923 and Field was chosen by a tremendous majority over Dawson, who, following the custom, had to defend Morrow's record.

After 1925, the Republicans turned the usual tables and, with some other assistance that we had rather not mention, elected Sampson by a substantial margin.

Everyone knows what happened to the G. O. P. in last week's election on the record made by Governor Sampson. The oncoming administration can take a good lesson from this little bit of current history.

Unless it fulfills its promises and gives a four-square administration, open and above board, we will probably have the usual switch to Republican rule next time.

S. F. Holcomb says he voted the Produce Ticket last Tuesday. Mr. Holcomb says he saw a chicken on the ballot and since that's his business he just stamped his right there.

Can you beat it? A woman who claims President Harding was the father of her 12-year-old daughter gets a peremptory judgment in a libel suit she had brought in Marion, Ohio.

In the day's news we read of a 12-year-old boy being sentenced to prison for life in the state of Washington and a five-year-old child dying at Somerset, Ky., after drinking a half pint of moonshine whiskey. Makes us a little cynical of the "great fundamental soundness of American life".

I'm no music critic but this young man Akey out at the college is miles ahead of any violinist I have heard in a long time. We have paid five and six dollars many a time for a seat to hear a violinist not so good as this talented young man whom we have the pleasure of hearing often merely by stepping across the street.

Our Sentiments, Too
Well, election is over. And we must some of our Republican friends whose friendship we really value highly, will not continue to pass us by. Politics is a game—a mean, hateful game, to be sure. But one man's friendship for another should count for more than friendship for a political campaign. Some of our warmest friends are of different political belief, and what they say and what they have done in stress of political campaign, has not changed or affected our friendship for one iota. We hope they entertain for us the same friendly, considerate feeling as of old. Let's be friends, in spite of politics. It's foolish to think or to act otherwise.—Glasgow Times.

Good Butter Prices Boost to Dairying

Dairy farmers in Kentucky are getting a favorable break, points out the markets department of the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky. Those who are prepared to produce milk or butterfat during this fall and coming winter will profit by butter prices now being paid and which are likely to continue for several months. Compared with the prices of other farm products butterfat is rather outstanding, for while many other products are selling 30 or 50 per cent below a year ago butterfat is only 12 per cent below the price at this time last year.

The comparative scarcity of butter which has developed this fall may be of short duration but it does offer Kentucky farmers, who have plenty of feed, an opportunity to convert feed into butterfat at favorable prices. The present supply of feed for dairy cows is above the average in this state and its market value is low, but if converted into butterfat the farmer will get a fairly good price for it. The supply of corn is 10 per cent above average and corn prices are less than half what they were a year ago. In most parts of Kentucky there is an abundance of hay. With the prices for other livestock low, it appears desirable to give dairy cows plenty of feed in order to take advantage of present butter prices.

The dairy farmer who will profit most by the present situation is the one who has a herd of carefully selected dairy cows and who will feed liberally of a well-balanced ration. Merely dumping feed to nondescript cows will not yield a sure income even under present favorable market conditions. Good cows that are well fed are the only likely profit-making combination.

The advance in butter prices which has been taking place since last June has probably run its course, but it has resulted in a 50 per cent increase in price from a June average of 23 cents for 92-score butter in New York to 35 cents in October. This rise in price is about three times the usual seasonal advance, and it has occurred chiefly because butter production has been running much below that of last year in the important butter-producing states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, where drought conditions prevailed this year. With the return of normal pastures in that area production will very likely greatly increase and prices will doubtless fall as a consequence. Kentucky farmers will do well to keep this situation in mind, so as not to incur investments which will cause difficulty when lower prices occur.

Butter consumption during September was almost 2 per cent greater than last year. This greater use of butter, while production decreased, has reduced storage stocks to about 80 million pounds as of October 1 compared to the five-year average of over 135 million pounds. It seems that with the lower prices which prevailed during the summer more people used butter. Having gotten the taste of good butter, they are inclined to continue using it rather than turn to poor butter or butter substitutes. Even with the higher prices which now prevail there has been little decrease in butter sales.
