Child Health Day May First

On May 1, we join in celebrating National Child Health Day. The campaign conducted by the Fulton County Health Department under the supervision of Dr. Hugh Prather and his efficient assistants in educating parents of the value of what must be done to meet the requirements adopted by the Health Department for a child to be eligible for a blue ribbon, has been most thorough. A suitable program for the occasion will be carried out and children meeting the requirements will be awarded ribbons.

The celebration of May Day as National Child Health Day may be likened to the ring of innumerable bells throughout the land; rung so that they may be heard above the din occasioned by the everyday pursuits of busy lives.

These bells are saying, "Don't forget. The health of the child is the strength of the nation. There are before you the seeds of future health. They will grow if planted now. It is harder for them to take root if the planting is delayed. Strong hearts, good lungs, sound teeth, keen eyes, dependable digestive machinery can be aided or can be denied by what goes on in childhood. Stop, look, listen and act."

It is this kind of message that National Child Health Day is trying to make audible. And because this childhood structure of health is very important there are a great many organizations and people—national, state and local health, and educational groups, official and private, professional associations, the press, parents—joining together to make these facts known.

National Child Health Day asks for attention—attention to the desirability of health and attention to dependable sources of advice for its preservation and cultivation.

It does not appear in the newspaper ads. It is drowned out by the orchestral strains sent over the air. But once a year at least May Day tries to tell the public that there is such a thing as the family doctor who can give worthwhile advice if it is sought. That there are physicians and nurses in the schools who are trying to help your children. That your state and local departments of health are in the business of strengthening your health.

Summing it all up, May Day is asking fathers and mothers to give these sources of advice a hearing, and to join hands with those who have but one article to sell, the health advancement of Uncle Sam's children.

PROCLAMATION

In view of the fact that the President of the United States has by proclamation set apart May 1, of each year, as Child Health Day, we, the American people, shall focus the attention of the public upon the health of the child; because the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow. Their development and future welfare depends largely upon their training and their health.

It therefore, is the duty of our citizenry to concern themselves about the problems of the health of our children. That they, who will be the future rulers of our great nation will be better fitted in body and mind to carry on the great problems and ideals of our beloved America.

The ideal to which we should strive is that which is expressed by our President, Herbert Hoover that there shall be no child in America:

That has not been born under proper conditions;

That does not live in hygienic surroundings;

That ever suffers from under nutrition;

That does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection;

That does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health;

That does not complete birthright of a sound mind in the sound body, and the encouragement to express in fullest measure, the spirit within, which is the final endowment of every human being.

Therefore, I, Paul DeMyer, Mayor of the City of Fulton, designate Wednesday, April 30, "Child Health Day," as a day to be set aside for our citizens to consider the child development to that end, that our children may enter manhood and womanhood as useful and healthy citizens.

Delightful Event

C. OF C. BANQUET

After being served a bountiful and delicious feast by the ladies in the basement of the First Christian Church, Tuesday evening the members and guests of the Chamber of Commerce were given an oratorical feast, the like of which was never surpassed at an annual banquet and show.

A. M. Nugent, toastmaster, after a brilliant address, introduced President R. H. Wade of the Chamber of Commerce, who was seated at the head of the speaker's table, also Superintendent Cy Young, of the Illinois Central System, Chicago, a visitor and former citizen, whom the people of our city esteem and admire.

Mr. Quigley, Superintendent of Southern Lines of the I. C. System, was introduced and delighted the assembly with a brief address.

A feature introduction was the charming young ladies who served the delicious dinner.

Secretary Joe Davis of the Chamber of Commerce, was introduced and made a splendid talk in which he pleaded with the members to use their best efforts of loyalty to business and community interests.

Mr. Davis introduced Dr. Henry Mace Payne, consulting engineer of Mining Congress, the principal speaker of the evening, who delivered one of the most interesting and educational addresses ever heard at a Chamber of Commerce banquet, using as his text, "Problems We Have to Meet Today in Industry." He also spoke in glowing terms of the work done by the Kentucky Progress Commission, of which he is consulting engineer. Dr. Payne also spoke very complimentary of accomplishments of Representative J. D. Via, of Clinton, who was a guest at the dinner.

The banquet room was beautifully decorated for the occasion and on the seven long tables vases of colorful spring blossoms adorned the centers. Lovely musical selections were rendered during the dinner by the Southern Rhythm Boys of Union City, Ellis Needham, director.

Spring Activities

Large Crowds Visit Laundry

"Visitors' Week," at the O. K. Laundry was a brilliant success. Every way and probably more than a thousand accepted Mr. Owen's invitation to call and inspect the plant on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Mrs. Boyd Bennett graciously greeted the visitors on entering, while Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Owen and Mr. Vernon Owen extended the hand of welcome and provided guides for an inspection tour through the laundry and dry cleaning departments. Assisting the host were Mr. W. L. Scott, of the Union City Steam Laundry, Union City, Tenn.; Mr. T. E. Owen, of Owen Brothers Dry Cleaning plant, Paducah; Mr. Charles Gregory, of Fulton. In the office, Mrs. J. H. Johnson and Misses Dot Finch and Opal Sinclair presided over the register.

A trip through the O. K. Laundry & Dry Cleaning plant is educational and interesting, especially to the housewife. Here she inspects the various processes of cleaning and why this modern, sanitary plant can be entrusted with the family wash and dry cleaning of garments. Everything about the premises is spotlessly clean. Only Ivory soap chips are used in the wash, and when it is known that 1,500 gallons of water is used with each load of clothes no wonder the gratifying satisfaction when the bundle is returned home sweet and clean.

The O. K. is modernly equipped with machinery for doing high-class work for particular people. The wonderful Vorlon tumbler, Cascade Washers, Hoffman pressing machines and all the appliances used are the best money can buy and during the past thirty-two years Mr. Owen has conducted his laundry establishment in Fulton with the ambition of using his best efforts to please his patrons.

There are forty employees in this establishment who work with only one purpose in view and that is to give satisfaction. The dry cleaning department reminds one of a ready-to-wear establishment, with its lovely garments of every description, and no less interesting is the rug cleaning department where rugs are cleaned with the vacuum shampoo process. All who visited the laundry this week are loud in their praises.

It will be remembered too, that Mr. Owen, the genial proprietor, rewarded the various churches with a nice sum of money by donating 25c for each lady visitor representing her denomination.

UNION CITY COMMERCIAL CELEBRATES FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY WITH 58-PAGE EDITION

Last week the Union City Commercial celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a fifty-eight page edition, one of the most complete historical publications ever published in our neighboring city. In the first place we want to congratulate the editors and publishers in the issuance of such a wonderful and interesting paper, and in the second place, we want to congratulate Union City in having newspaper geniuses, men of masterminds capable of picturing to the outside world the community life, and activities, past, present and future, in such an attractive way as to reflect a city of outstanding merit to the homesee and industrial promoter. Many of the write-ups bore the earmarks of E. H. Marshall's quill, veteran newspaper man, who has probably done more with his pen and personal work during the past twenty-five or more years to make Union City a prosperous, home-loving community than one can tell.

G. B. Baird, editor and publisher of the Commercial, is a former Fulton citizen. It was here he started his newspaper career, but for a number of years has successfully been engaged in newspaper work in neighboring towns, and today is a potent factor in the business life and upbuilding of Union City, and trade territory. It will be remembered that Gordon won the heart and hand of Miss Annie Lee Paschall, one of Fulton's charming society buds, before leaving town, who has been the inspiration and guiding star of his brilliant newspaper success.

Paper Filled with Ads It was indeed timely for the

No Fulton woman is old until she reaches the age where it doesn't upset her to discover she has forgotten her powder bag.

Two of the hardest things in the world for a man to put by are money and temptation.

Now that Henry Ford has announced that he is in the market for an old windmill we suppose a lot of people will send them the name of their congressman.

It has about gotten so in Fulton homes that daughter is as good at shying at a dish towel as her father ever was.

Dr. Harvey Wiley declares auto is the poorest of all exercise. Wonder if he ever had a flat tire?

If a corn doctor should write a book we suppose it would consist of nothing but footnotes.

What has become of the old-fashioned Fulton man who kept his meerschaum pipe covered with a chamois-skin jacket so it would "color?"

Our idea of a saint is a man who can be confirmed for any office by the United States senate.

If feminine feet ever have anything to say about it we'll bet the shoe stores will be selling larger sizes than they are now.

We suppose that about 20 years from now the present younger generation will be terribly shocked by the older younger generation is doing.

Never whip your little boy for lying. He may grow up to be a successful seed catalogue writer.

If it is true that nobody loves a fat man then how does it come that Babe Ruth draws down a salary of $80,000 a year?

And then, too, in the spring a Fulton boy's fancy lightly turn to thoughts of dodging work.

We don't want to be positive, but we'll bet there are a lot of doctors who can pronounce diseases that they can't spell.

One trouble about buying a parachute is that if it doesn't work you haven't much chance of taking it back and exchanging it for another one.

It has been our observation that about the time a Fulton man begins to quit getting any kick out of taking his wife in his arms he loses all interest in taking her other places, too.

Our idea of paradise would be to live in a world where it took as long to declare war as it takes in this world to declare peace.

DR. GRAFF AT CARR ON TUESDAY

On Tuesday afternoon, April 29th, at 3 p. m., Dr. Elsie Richards Graff will give the concluding number of her series of lectures she has been giving Parent-Teachers Association on "The Child, His Nature and His Needs."

The lecture will be in the music room at Carr Institute, and Terry-Norman P. T. A. is invited to join Carr P. T. A. at this time.

Dr. Graff's subject will be "Habit Training and Child Management," one of the most important of all problems to interested mothers.

All parents are cordially invited to attend, whether members of a P. T. A. or not.

business firms of Union City to let the outside trade territory know in such a magnificent way the character of merchandise carried in stock and the excellent service rendered. In fact, it was pleasing to know the magnitude of some of Union City's substantial business and industrial institutions, not only in the city but throughout Obion county. The paper was literally filled with advertisements artistically arranged as only artists of years of experience in the mechanical department of a well conducted newspaper plant could do the work.

Throughout the entire edition much hard work was displayed securing historical data and contributions from various sources.

To celebrate the golden anniversary of any business is uplifting and inspirational, but when a newspaper celebrates its fiftieth anniversary, it has a two-fold significance, for the publication and the town in which it is published.

Long live the Commercial and may the efforts of its editor and publisher be crowned with success so richly deserved is the wish of this editor.

FULTON FAVORITES COMING

The Smith-Willis Stock Co., will be in Fulton all next week, starting April 28, under the auspices of the American Legion Bugle Corps. This popular show is well known to amusement lovers of Fulton and surrounding territory for the excellent music and clean, wholesome plays. They carry a band and orchestra and give concerts daily. The opening play Monday night is the gripping 3-act comedy drama, entitled, "What Ann Brought Home." Prices will be 10c and 25c. The big waterproof tent will be pitched on lot next to cigar factory. Their ad appears elsewhere in this issue.

HANDSOME NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Atkins Cole are now occupying their beautiful new home on Third street. It will be remembered that they lost their home by fire some months ago, and today a new structure built from basement to garret, ornaments the lot where the fire occurred.

Community Building

Easily Possible to Cut Enormous Fire Losses

How are we to stop the depredations of the fire demon? There are three ways in which we can aid. First we should be careful to prevent fire. In our homes we can refrain from doing the little things that, seemingly unimportant, oftentimes result disastrously. We should clean out the chimneys annually and keep the smokepipes in repair; refrain from putting hot ashes in wooden containers; use only standard electrical equipment and installation; be careful with the use of inflammable liquids; and provide an incombustible roof. Similarly, we should use reasonable care in our place of business.

Even so, there will at times be accidental fires and we need to tear a leaf from the book of our European neighbors. We should so construct buildings that a fire, once started, will be confined near the place of origin until the fire apparatus arrives. Building codes, such as issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, are a pattern after which communities may draw up their own codes for fire-safe structures.

Proper Planning for Growth of Community

The era in which American cities "just grew," pushing outward their boundaries and piling up their buildings tier on tier, has given way to an era of orderly planning and development, making of them better places in which to live and work, says the Week's Work published by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Streets are not merely open spaces between houses and factories but channels through which traffic circulates, not only within the city but into which it pours from the outlying country. Parks are not merely municipal ornamentation but breathing spaces essential to wholesome city existence.

The modern city is not a mere agglomeration of buildings but an organism which functions badly or well as it develops improperly or properly. One part cannot be severed from another without disastrous results. Neither can it be blocked off from the region of which it is the vital nerve center without stagnation and decay.

City to Be Colorful

The world's most beautiful, colorful and restful city is the ambition of Oslo, Norway. In its new scheme of city decoration, the city is to be divided into districts, each painted in a different color, including pale blue, green, rose, white and other soothing tints. Various tests were made last year, and a five-story pale green building in the center of the business district is said to be very striking. Experts argue that green absorbs more light, and is, consequently, more restful to the eye than any other shade. They also point out that a particular tint of blue eyes steal more protection from the sun's heat than any other color. By these methods of choosing colors, Oslo is expected to be a city of utility as well as beauty.

Costly Road Building

A good road, smooth as a billiard table, with neatly graveled shoulders and white-painted fences alongside, may be one of the ugliest things in a verdant countryside. Where it cuts a rocky hillside the blasting makes skeletons of living trees; where it grades a sandbank construction rips up the natural growth of roadside flowers and leaves a jagged scar; where it plunges into a forest the improved road seems by some unerring chance to demand the right of way from the finest old oak and maple trees. When the work is done the road is merely a road leading somewhere—the lingering invitation of the old countryside is gone.

Ownership Versus Divorce

There is a dignity in ownership that far outshines any lack of convenience. There is something fine in maintaining a home under one's own roof-tree. Every improvement has a value far beyond its intrinsic cost because of the romance of beautifying one's own home. Once young married people enter their thoughts on ownership of a home, work together, save together to achieve that home, the heresy of divorce will "fold up its tent like the Arab and silently steal away."

Roads Beautified

A program of highway beautification has been undertaken by the Connecticut state highway department. Thousands of trees and shrubs, grown in nurseries maintained by the department or transported from other places, are being placed along the highways where there is no natural growth.

Natural growths are being preserved wherever they do not interfere with the safety of motorists or become a detriment to the highways.

Three Forms Created

Architectural town planning has created three esthetic forms, the plaza, the monumental street and the park, quaintly named "patte d'oie." A synthesis of all three makes the Plaza del Popolo the glory of civic art, says Town Planning Review.

Lesson for April 27

GIVING UP ALL FOR THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 19:16-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving Jesus First Place.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Shall We Use Our Money?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Possessions.

The lesson title is likely to be misunderstood and the teaching misapplied. Christ did not directly, nor by implication teach that eternal life could be obtained by parting with possessions.

I. A Certain Young Man (v. 16). For a full view of the characteristics of this man, see Mark 10:17-30 and Luke 18:18-30.

1. His virtues.
(1) Courageous (Mark 10:7). He was of high standing—a rich young ruler (Luke 18:18, 23). To come to Jesus at this time might mean ostracism, but with manly courage he came. (2) Earnest (Mark 10:17). He knelt before Jesus, thus showing earnestness and sincerity. (3) High aspirations (v. 16). He wanted eternal life. Though taken up with the things of his present life, he felt the need of preparing for a life beyond. (4) Pious and moral (v. 20). From his youth he had conformed to God's moral law. (5) He believed that Christ could lay claim to the "good thing" to be done to inherit eternal life.

2. His errors.

(1) About Christ (v. 16). He esteemed Jesus to be good, but did not apprehend Him as God; otherwise he would have known Him not merely as one who did good, but as one who is essentially good; that is, God. (2) Concerning himself. He thought he was good and that he could do something good. (3) Concerning eternal life. He thought that it could be obtained by good works. He did not know that the only way to gain eternal life was to receive it as a gift from God (Rom. 6:23).

II. The Lord's Dealing With Him (vv. 17-22).

Jesus skillfully led the young man to see his errors.

1. His question—"Why callest thou me good?" (v. 17).

Before giving him a chance to answer He declared that only God was good, as if to say, "I am good, and therefore God." He was God manifest in the flesh, and repudiated the thought of being known merely as a good man.

2. Jesus' answer to the young man's question (vv. 17-20).

"If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." Christ met him here on his own ground, namely, that of the law. He took the young man's level that the young man's real worth might be revealed (Rom. 3:19, 20).

3. Christ's command (vv. 21, 22).

Replying to Christ's citation of the commandments of the law, the young man asserted that he had kept them from his youth. Yet in his inner conscience he knew that there was something lacking. When he had to make the supreme decision between Jesus and his possessions, he chose wealth.

III. The Relationship of the Rich to the Kingdom (vv. 23-26).

This teaching concerning the peril of riches was most timely. Covetousness was fast taking hold of the people.

1. It is difficult for the rich to enter into the kingdom (vv. 23, 24). This difficulty lies not in the possession of riches, for a man may possess great riches and be an heir of the kingdom. Money in itself is essentially good. It will help the poor and help bring the gospel to the lost. The difficulty lies in trusting in riches.

2. Entrance into the kingdom, though difficult, is possible (vv. 23, 26).

(1) It is possible for the grace of God to sanctify riches, to open a man's eyes that he may see his downward course and repent, to change a man from self-seeking to self-sacrificing.

IV. Rewards for Following Christ (vv. 27-30).

Those who turn their backs upon their kindred and possessions for the sake of Christ shall receive an hundredfold in this life, and eternal life in the world to come.

Obedience

Obedience is the secret. Not slavish obedience, but sympathetic, loving, eager obedience. "His delight is in the law of the Lord." May the law of holiness be to me welcome as the light, sweet as the flowers, more to be desired than much fine gold.—W. L. Watkinson.

In Company With Jesus

Get into sympathy with Jesus. Seek His presence, seek His help. And walking through the world in His company, you will be as balm in the blindest weather, a benediction in the wildest scene.—James Hamilton.

The Duty of Friendship

The only duty of friendship is that we and our friends should live at our highest and best when together. Having achieved that, we have fulfilled the law.—Randolph Bourne.

Eternal Spring

TIME was when people subsisted principally in winter on refined wheat flour bread, molasses and fat pork. That was a generation or two ago, and those were the times when everyone felt ill in spring. In those times spring vegetables were considered an invaluable boon, but now that practically the entire range of vegetables and fruits can be obtained in cans the year around, everyone can have a balanced diet and keep healthy at all times.

Some Simple Recipes

Peas and beans were two of the principal vegetables which were accorded warm welcomes in the spring. Now these products in cans are used in spring as well as all through the winter on account of their labor and time-saving attributes as well as the fact that they have all the nutritional and vitamin values of the fresh vegetables.

Here are two recipes, so economical and simple to prepare, that even the most inexperienced of spring brides who has just gone to housekeeping can prepare these dishes in a few minutes and be sure of a triumphant success.

English Peas: Add one and one-half tablespoons vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons crushed fresh mint to the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas, and simmer gently for ten minutes. This recipe will serve four people.

Buttered Beans: Heat the contents of one small (10-ounce) can of stringless beans in their own liquor for about five minutes. Add salt and pepper and one and one-half tablespoons butter. This, too, serves four.

ROADS GET PART OF MOTOR COST

Ten Per Cent of Motoring
Bill Goes to Highways in Minnesota.

(By E. E. DUFFY.)

When the motorist-taxpayer reads that his state is spending millions of dollars for road improvements he may feel that the expenditure is ample. However, the money that is actually devoted to road betterment is but a small percentage of the total motoring cost.

Minnesota Figures.

Taking figures compiled for Minnesota, which are exemplary of most other states, the total state and local road bill is but 10 per cent of Minnesota's complete motoring expenditure.

Replacement of parts, fuel, lubricants, accessories, financing, new cars and trucks, insurance, and so on, this year cost Minnesota motorists $372,000,000. It is estimated by the state highway department that in 1930 Minnesota will spend $38,500,000 for roads. It is prophesied that the total motoring bill for 1930 will be $390,000,000. Consequently, the license and gasoline tax moneys which go into the trunk highway fund will be less than 5 per cent of the total motoring bill.

C. M. Babcock, Minnesota's commissioner of highways, recently declared:

Vehicle Cost Decreases.

"Although our total motor bill is increasing, the cost per vehicle mile is decreasing. This is partly due to improvements in the cars, but mostly due to improved highways. With further improvements in our highway system, we can still further reduce the cost per car mile. Every dollar spent for better roads will save dollars for gasoline, tires and repairs."

With automobile registrations increasing rapidly and with a steady increase in the mileage covered by the individual motorist, most states would not be violating any economic rule by devoting more money to first-class pavement construction. Quite to the contrary, the wise spending of more money for smooth pavements would bring a proportionate reduction in car operating costs. The invisible charge collected by inferior roads is far greater than the motorist realizes—from one to two cents a mile.

Automobile Radios Are Getting Quite Common

Only a short time ago the radio enthusiast who strung an aerial over the top of his car and installed a receiving set in the back so that he could hear programs as he drove along was looked upon as a bit queer and people smiled as they passed such an outfit along the road. Nowadays, with the vastly better receiving sets many of the better grades of automobiles are being regularly equipped with aerials built into the car tops, so that high-grade receiving sets can be installed at any time the owner desires. The main problem in connection with such an installation is the elimination of interference from the automobile spark plugs, which can be done with the proper arrangement of condensers and resistances. The low tension sparks at the circuit breaker and the generator commutator are even more easily taken care of.

It will be only a short time now before all the better grades of autos will have a receiving set as standard equipment, and even the cheaper cars will be arranged to put them in as optional equipment.

Autoists Speeding Over Roads Built by Romans

While the United States leads in road improvement and construction activity, European countries lead in mileage of surfaced roads.

This is because their surfaced highways began with the old Romans, and these old highways have been kept in good condition throughout the ages. Europe has 639,000 miles of surfaced roads as compared to 150,000 in the United States.

Following close on the heels of the United States comes Australia with 80,000 miles of hard roads. The huge area of Asia, however, has only 105,000 miles of surfaced highways.

POOR MAN'S AUTO THAT SELLS FOR $100

Hardly larger than a toy, this automobile attracted a great deal of attention at the Paris auto show. It is two and one-half horse power and attains a speed of over twenty miles an hour. The price is only $100.

THE MOTOR QUIZ

How Many Can You Answer?

Q. How much dirt, sludge and other foreign matter is collected by the oil filter in 10,000 miles of driving?

Ans. Over two pounds.

Q. What attention must be given the oil filter?

Ans. At 10,000 miles the filter unit should be renewed.

Q. When was the first automobile introduced in the Fiji Islands and how was it received?

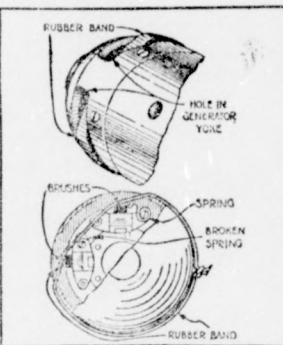

Ans. In 1905. The natives regarded it with superstition, claiming that the devils formed the means of locomotion.

Q. What is "Shellkol" and where is it produced?

Ans. "Shellkol" is a fuel alcohol manufactured in Australia and is produced from molasses.

Making Temporary Repair of Broken Brush Spring

Sometimes a break in a spring that presses a brush against the commutator on the starting motor makes the starter inoperative. The illustration shows a temporary repair. Cut a strip of rubber from an inner tube and pass it through the openings in the motor frame as shown. Pull fairly tightly and tie a knot. The rubber band will press the brush against the commutator and permit the motor to start the engine in normal fashion.—Popular Science Monthly.

Spark Plugs Important for Increasing Power

Some tests recently made in one of the automobile manufacturer's laboratories showed that an automobile engine in which the spark plugs had been used for more than 12,000 miles developed 31.2 horse power when run at an engine speed equivalent to 2,500 miles per hour. The same motor run at the same speed with a new set of spark plugs produced 38 horse power, an increase of 6.8 horse power, or 21.5 per cent. This shows the importance of good plugs for increasing power and decreasing fuel consumption.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

After the monoxide fumes have done their work, it is far too late to be cautious.

The absence of water in a battery will cause the bottom to be eaten away by strong acids.

Uneven tire wear can affect the rear as well as front tires, although it generally is associated with the latter.

Jeweler's rouge is still the most effective cleanser for headlight reflectors on which the plating is easily damaged.

Caution should be taken when driving off the main road into grass. Loose sand or dirt or a bad wheel will cause an accident.

When a balloon tire is starting to go flat remember that it always looks flatter than it is and often can be run on to the nearest garage without injury.

There are 238 motor vehicles for every mile of road in the Hawaiian Islands. Such traffic congestion is of course responsible for that eighth-tenth of a car.

OUR KIND OF FUN

We may not have as many attractions as the big city boasts in the way of shows and night clubs, but thanks to a kindly fate what entertainment we do have is clean. And that the day of clean fun and amusement is far from being past is evident on all sides.

The radio brings to Fulton homes such clean and entertaining broadcasts as "Amos 'n Andy" and it is identically the same as radios in city homes record. We get the famous Paul Whiteman orchestra and the magnificent music provided by Atwater Kent; the same thrilling playlets that make Collier's famous on the air—and all at the same instant the big city gets them. In the matter of movies, those responsible for their showing here are not offering them wholly for the money they can get out of them, regardless of what effect they might have on our boys and girls. They must be clean and with a limited population to cater to and hundreds of films to select from it is possible to see that only clean ones are displayed.

Good, clean amusement has been as many friends today as before the "jazz age" brought out commercialized filth and suggestiveness. In the big city the amusement promoters, putting the dollar ahead of everything else, give the public what they want the public to have—and make them like it. Here the public gets what it demands. And we are glad that it demands clean fun because so long as it does we can rest assured that the community is going to remain clean.

MORE MONEY PER ACRE

Figures recently given out show that Minnesota hens laid eggs last year worth twice the grand total of the state's wheat crop.

There may be more back of this statement than the average Fulton citizen can see at first glance. It may be the beginning of a method that will eventually change our entire farming system. No question but that land owners are now, more than ever, trying to get all they can out of an acre of ground. Raising chickens and marketing them along with the eggs, running a dairy and marketing milk and cream and butter, doesn't mean any easier work than producing corn, wheat, cotton or fruit. But the land investment is smaller and, as Minnesota figures will show, the profit on an acre of ground is greater.

Eventually agriculture may adjust itself to the point where every rural worker is a specialist in some particular line. Instead of sticking to the old crops he may raise a commodity on a few acres that will, in the long run, net him far more money for the same amount of labor. In that way, too, grain, cotton and fruit growing, as well as the raising of livestock would no longer be overcrowded fields. Those who did elect to continue in those lines would find it more profitable and not so apt to be jeopardized by over-production. It's something to think about, and something that may come to pass in the country far more speedily than we now imagine.

Read the advertisements in this paper.

ANOTHER SECRET OUT

We've always argued that experimenting with new crops is worth the time and money spent on it. Here comes a newspaper dispatch to prove it. The article says Joe Gingrich, of Washington county, Iowa, planted 8 1-2 acres in mint last season and his profit was $150 on each acre. Mint is planted like any other row crop in the spring, and cultivated the first season. It spreads by root growth and after the first year covers the ground. One planting is good for from five to seven years. Gingrich mows his crop twice a season, and with a steam engine, coil and tank of cold water for condensing the steam and oil vapor, he extracts the mint oil. This he sells. He dries the residue and says his horses devour it readily. Even sheep will not eat the growing plants in the field. Chalk up another victory for the fellow who is always looking for new ways to make old Mother Earth return him a profit.

PROTECT YOURSELF

An official of the American Automobile Association says that one reason why we have more auto accidents than we should is that too many drivers from our smaller towns and rural communities do not use hand signals when driving. Accustomed to driving where traffic is not very heavy they lose sight of the value of hand signals and when they get into heavy traffic they neglect this important means of protecting both themselves and the other fellow. There may be a good deal in this. It at least is worthy of the consideration of every Fulton motorist. If you use hand signals faithfully here at home you are sure to use them when you get away from home, and whether traffic is heavy or light there is no excuse for not using them. It is the only way the other drivers have of knowing what you are going to do. It safeguards your own life and property as much as it does the other fellow. Why not use them all the time, regardless of where you are?

TILTING COFFEE PRICES

Now that we're going to have to pay a little more for our sugar as the result of an increased tariff, passed primarily to protect the American industry, the chances are that the cup of coffee that goes with it will also soon be coming at a slightly higher price. Brazil furnishes the U. S. 81 per cent of all the coffee consumed here, and we drink one-half of all that's consumed each year.

Brazilian coffee magnates joined hands a few weeks ago with other coffee-producing countries, with a view to tilting the price. But coffee drinkers around Fulton need not accept this statement with a frown. Like the increase in sugar prices, the coffee raise will be so widespread as to be hardly noticeable. It will mean increased millions to the sugar and coffee producers, of course but the spread will be so great that in reality it will amount to but a few cents more each year from the individual consumer. So there really will be no cause for complaint, so long as it stops there and the producers do not accept it as an invitation to "gouge."

CHILD HEALTH HYMN FOR MAY DAY (Tune—The Church's One Foundation)

O God of little children, whom
Thou on earth didst love,
Look down today and bless them from Heaven high above,
Our orchards and our vineyards we till with zealous care
But child-plants, unprotected, are drooping everywhere.

O God of little children, teach us to know their worth,
Of such shall be Thy Kingdom
in Heaven and on earth.
And in the great world-garden
Thy laborers are we
To guard and keep the blossoms for all eternity.

O God of little children, we have no wealth beside,
Teach us to seek and save them
by effort nation-wide,
To fight the foes that threaten,
the weeds and pest and blight,
For every child-plant growing is precious in Thy sight.

O God of little children, Thy garden shall be tilled,
By us whose hearts are wakened,
Thy prophecies fulfilled,
The desert long neglected shall blossom as the rose,
With health and hope and freedom for every child that grows.

When you want High-grade
PRINTING

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

Well another week has rolled around and it is time to write another column of "junk" for the perusal of those kind hearted enough to call it good stuff. Now if you don't think it is a job to think up this column of reading matter each week and have something new each week, just try it for a while.

On next Friday night, May 2, I want to have a meeting of the Fulton Poultry Association in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. It is the annual election of officers, and the time to lay plans for the show to be held at the Fulton Fair. Now if you are interested in putting over a big show come out and show your colors. This is a business meeting and we will have a lot of good plans to talk over for the betterment of poultry in this locality.

This will also be a good time to pay up your dues and get the boat started. Of course you will not be required to pay up that night but get your name in so that we can figure on you and your help.

Well I guess all the show chickens are hatched out by this time and growing good, but the fact is I haven't hatched out my show leghorns yet, will set my first bunch this week and when they hatch will force them for all they are worth.

National Egg Week don't sound good to me. Why pick just one week to eat all the eggs you can and then stop? I think if the public knew just the full amount of GOOD they would derive from eating eggs EVERY day there would be more eggs consumed in this country. Statistics show the American people eat less than 200 eggs each per year, while the people of Canada eat more than 300 each per year.

Children should have eggs at least twice each day. Eggs are rich in Vitamin D which is known as the growing property of the egg and other foods, and is a sure preventative of "Rickets" that dread disease that is so prevalent among children. Fried eggs for breakfast and boiled or scrambled eggs for the other meal will work wonders with that delicate child. Eggs are not only good for children but are the best food a grown up can eat. They are one dish of which we never tire, if we have nice fresh eggs for the morning meal, well the day is started off just right.

Once in a while I run across something real good written by some other chicken man and I pass it along, here is one I consider worth reprinting:

"Mr. and Mrs. Consumer, right now the opportunity presents itself to render a service to OUR FARMER FRIENDS worth thousands of dollars to each community, without cost of a single red cent by anyone. Egg are the Farmers table Bank account. We can assist them to swell that bank account by joining hand in a cooperative "Eat More Eggs" campaign. Increase the demand. Help the farmers dispose of their eggs. The local consumption can be trebled. Lets do it. Come on folks, lets eat 'em up, they are too cheap.

Eggs are the best, most nutritious and the cheapest item that you can serve on your table. There isn't a meal served, but what the egg may be used in some form to enrich the palatability and nourishment of the food. Each and every consumer can use TWICE the number of eggs they have been using without increasing their living cost. Use more eggs and less fresh meats. Many other items may also be cut down by the use of more eggs. Just dozens of ways to prepare them, so as to be served at every meal without duplication too often. Hundreds of dishes may be enriched by the use of more eggs. Dainty dishes are much more appetizing by the EGG properly prepared.

Based on real food value facts and figures, Eggs are the cheapest and most wholesome item on the menu."

I don't know who the author of the above article was but he sure has the right idea. Eggs can be used in so many ways to improve our food that it is a shame we are not consuming on an average an egg a day per person instead of a few 200 per year. There is an old saying, "An apple a day keeps doctors away." I believe this could be bettered by "an egg a day keeps doctors away."

Now I have another clipping written by a State Poultryman who knows his stuff or else he couldn't hold the good job he has. In this article he gives some of the soundest advice free. A lawyer would charge you like fury for this advice but here it is free

"Mr. Farmer do not sell laying hens this spring.

J. A. Chadwell, extension Poultry man, University of Tennessee, warns poultrymen not to sell laying hens this spring for the following reasons:

1. Eggs are the principle source of income from poultry.
2. Spring is the natural laying season.
3. Eggs can be produced at less cost during spring and summer months.
4. The majority make more profit when eggs are 20c per dozen than they do when eggs are 50c per dozen.
5. The number of eggs per hen is more important than the price per dozen. 15 eggs at 20c per dozen are worth as much as 6 eggs at 50c per dozen.
6. If hens are sold in the spring many of the good layers will be sold since practically all hens are laying at that time.
7. The good layers if properly fed, will continue to lay through the summer and fall months and should be sold at that time.
8. The hens that go out of production in July, August and September are the low producers and should be sold at that time.
9. The eggs laid during the spring will more than make up for the small difference in price of hens.
10. It is not possible to build up a flock of high producing hens where heavy spring selling is practiced."

Well I guess this will hold you for awhile.

Three things to remember: First, the meeting night, Friday May 2, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 p.m. Second, join the poultry association and help boost the show at the fair.
