The tobacco show was to have been held here next Tuesday, November 24, by the Murray Tobacco Board of Trade, has been postponed indefinitely. It was announced Wednesday by officials of the board of trade.

Wednesday was the first tobacco season this fall and growers were unusually busy bulking down their crops and getting them ready for stripping.

CITY SEWERAGE HIT IN REPORT

Health Department States Unsanitary Disposal Makes Illness Rate in Murray

County Health Inspector Holman Jones, is urging that sanitary measures be taken by the city of Murray for the benefit of the health of the citizens. Murray has at the present time the best milk supply in the state and other facilities which point to Murray as the home of health.

While this is true it was stated by Mr. Jones that fifty per cent of the homes have unsanitary and unsafe means of sewerage disposal. Some of the business institutions, he also stated, have very unsanitary means of sewerage disposal. About fifty per cent of the homes have open surface privies and many of these are found within a block of the square and the center of the population. Such places are the center of germ breeding and spreading and give rise to the spread of typhoid and dysentery.

According to Dr. Outland, county health officer, there are two cases of typhoid in Murray to one for the same number of persons in the county while at the same time dysentery is more prevalent in the city. It is the opinion of both the county sanitary inspector and the county health officer that sewerage disposal in Murray contributes much to the lowering of the health of the community.

The county health officials are urging that means be taken by the city government to force those within specified limits connect up with the sewerage system or build septic tanks.

Kelly-Houston

Wedding

A marriage of unusual interest to a wide circle of friends is that of Miss Hontas Kelly, daughter of Mr. Hugh Leavell Houston, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Houston, Murray.

The marriage was solemnized in the pastor's study of the First Christian church, Paducah, Saturday afternoon, November 14, at three o'clock with the Reverend U. R. Bell reading the impressive ring ceremony.

Hal Houston, brother of the bridegroom and Miss Elizabeth Carter of Fulton were the only attendants.

The bride was beautifully dressed in an Empress Eugenie model of brown velvet and crepe with harmonizing accessories and wore a bouquet of tailsman roses.

This marriage is the culmination of a long courtship. Saturday, November 14, being the sixth anniversary in both day of the week and month of the young couple's first date.

After the ceremony the wedding party went to Murray where they were honor guests at a six o'clock dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. Houston at their home "Shadow Lawn".

The dining room was beautiful with decorations full of sacred sentiment. The center piece for the dining table was an accurate likeness of grocery platform scales in white, on which was mounted a miniature wedding party, including the bride and bridegroom, the little flower girl and ring bearer. On a stand near by back of the chancel rail stood the minister reading the ceremony. Garlands of smilax and streamers of white satin ribbon in which were entwined sprays of lilies of the valley hung from the chandelier and wall brackets. Crystal candelabras with lighted white candles and silver baskets of pink rose buds on the buffet and side tables added much to the beauty of the spacious room.

The scales of the centerpiece symbolized the day the groom met the bride six years ago when a party of youngsters were weighing at the grocery on College street just west of the city limits.

The living room, library, and guest room were very inviting with ferns and large yellow and lavender chrysanthemums tastefully arranged in baskets.

Leaving Dr. Houston's home the bride and groom went for a short visit with the bride's mother, after which they motored to the Ivan Cobb, Paducah.

They were honor guests Sunday noon, at a dinner in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Fain T. English and husband, 812 North 24th street, Paducah, after which Mr. Houston returned to his studies in Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Houston will finish her year's work as instructor in Lowe's High School after which they will make their home in Nashville and she will work on her master's degree.

Mrs. Houston is a young woman of unusual charm of personality possessing qualities of gentleness and loyalty to things worthwhile.

She received her A. B. degree from Murray State College in '28. During college life she was a member of the Allentown Society and active in dramatics.

For the past three years she has been teaching Home Economics in the Graves County system.

Mr. Houston is a young man of sterling character, possessing unusual qualifications. He did his high school work and two years of college in Murray. While in college he was a member of the Allentown Society and Sock and Buskin Clubs. He was voted by his class the "Most Outstanding Sophomore".

He holds A. B. and M. S. degrees from the University of Kentucky and is now in his third year's work in Vanderbilt Medical College. He is a member of the Delta Tau Delta academic social fraternity, Alpha Kappa Kappa medical fraternity and the Sigma Xi and Alpha Chi Sigma, scientific honorary fraternities.

An attractive picture of Mrs. Houston appeared in the Sunday Courier-Journal.

Missionary Tea An Elaborate and Interesting Affair.

One of the loveliest social events ever given in Murray was the progressive Missionary tea given Wednesday afternoon by the Christian church Missionary Society.

The motored started at the beautiful home of Mrs. W. S. Swann. Here the guests received a roll of pamphlets about the fields which they were to visit. In the music room were twelve persons costumed as characters of India ranging from the Indian prince to Gandhi.

In the dining room Mrs. Swann in her charming manner explained how the articles exhibited there were made, to whom they belonged, etc. There was a gorgeous display of tapestries, pottery and many other rare and valuable pieces. Punch and small cakes were served in the breakfast room.

The voyagers then went to China and Japan, the home of Mrs. Rudy Oury. The entire house from the front porch to the back was a setting of these countries, created by lanterns, inlaid plaques, linen pieces, and beautiful costumes. Tea was served in the dining room.

Mrs. Marvin Fulton's home represented South America. The little Washam boys, formerly of Brazil, sang native songs. The exhibit of hammocks, pottery products, birds and costumes were shown in the sun parlor. Coffee and cakes were served in the dining room.

The guests next were received at the home of Mrs. M. D. Holton, which was complete in its suggestion of Africa. In the music room was a school of small African children. Chocolate and cookies were served by African women.

The itinerary was ended at Mrs. Kate Duguid's or the Philippine Islands. Linens, a petite village, and products, etc., were interesting. Frappe coconut squares and wafers were served in the dining room.

Women of the Christian church assisted at the different places. This rare collection of five hundred or more articles would be worth much money at any of the larger museums. Yet they belong to Murray citizens. It would be a treat if not only the women but the men and children could have the opportunity of seeing these.

Passions of Statesmen

The startling declaration of Bob Toombs of Georgia, that he proposed to call the roll of his slaves from the base of the Hill monument—this in derision of the Massachusetts representatives who were fighting slavery, was made in congress when the slavery question was incidentally raised in the discussion of a measure to purchase Cuba, writes J. H. Gallatelli, Ohio historian. It was on February 25, 1858, and Gen. I. B. Sherwood, who told the story, said it was the occasion of his first visit to Washington. He was in the senate that night and heard the sensational debate. Over the thrilling memories of four years later in the Civil war the memory of what he saw that night stood out clear and fresh to his last days.

Medieval Dishes That

Called for Condiments

An important reason for the apparent vast thirst of the English medieval times, William Edward Mead explains in his volume, "The English Medieval Feast," is found in the dishes common to their tables, wherein condiments and spices played a major part. Loaded with pepper, cubes, mace, saffron, cloves, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, galingale, cummin, licorice, aniseed, and other tart ingredients, they were prone to inspire the consumer to frequent draughts from the ale keg or beer mug.

Geyser Draws Crowd

Old Faithful geyser is the central point of interest in Yellowstone National park. Its eruptions take place every 67 to 70 minutes with marked regularity, a trait which gives the geyser its name. Savage Internal Warfare

In 1648 the Cossacks rose against the Polish-Ukrainian lords who sought to impose upon them the Roman Catholic faith in lieu of the Polish-Ukrainian religion. The Cossacks fought with the utmost brutality, overcoming the Poles and torturing their leaders to death. Their Roman Catholic priests were hanged before the altars with a butchered hog on one side and a Jew on the other. When, after more than a year, this religious rebellion was put down, the Cossack leaders were punished with equal brutality.

Mustard

Mustard has many household uses. Rub some dry mustard on your hands after peeling onions, and wash in the usual way. You will find that all odor will be removed. Do the same with the knife, although, made mustard is better than dry for this purpose. Place a little muslin bag containing some dry mustard next to fresh beets in the pantry. It will keep the beets fresh for days. Mustard freshly made will often remove ink stains. Spread thickly, leave for an hour, then sponge off.

Savage Internal Warfare

In 1648 the Cossacks rose against the Polish-Ukrainian lords who sought to impose upon them the Roman Catholic faith in lieu of the Polish-Ukrainian religion. The Cossacks fought with the utmost brutality, overcoming the Poles and torturing their leaders to death. Their Roman Catholic priests were hanged before the altars with a butchered hog on one side and a Jew on the other. When, after more than a year, this religious rebellion was put down, the Cossack leaders were punished with equal brutality.

Mustard

Mustard has many household uses. Rub some dry mustard on your hands after peeling onions, and wash in the usual way. You will find that all odor will be removed. Do the same with the knife, although, made mustard is better than dry for this purpose. Place a little muslin bag containing some dry mustard next to fresh beets in the pantry. It will keep the beets fresh for days. Mustard freshly made will often remove ink stains. Spread thickly, leave for an hour, then sponge off.

Missing Possibilities

"There is no known limit to the possible depth of our mining," says an expert. "It is all a question of getting fresh air down to the men." Part of the answer to the question is furnished by the Quincy mine, the Old Reliable, which overlooks Houghton from its hill in the city of Hancock across Portage lake. The Quincy at its extreme depth is finding richer ore than it has for several years past. They call it "secondary mineralization." Copper, for all the scientists know, may extend many thousands of feet into the center of the earth.—Detroit Free Press.

Four-Eyed Fish

Among the specimens recently added to the collection of a Philadelphia museum is a four-eyed fish from Honduras. It was taken from the Rio Choluteca. The existence of such a fish has been known, but specimens are exceedingly rare. It was accompanied by about 100 other fish specimens. A nine-inch moth was the leading feature of the insect collection from the same locality. The expedition was somewhat hampered in its work by the prevalence of fogs of such density as would put the London fog to shame. There were days when the explorers dared not venture a few feet from the cave in which they made their headquarters.
