THE LISTENING POST

● Until a week ago my knowledge of the drug called sulfanilamide was totally academic. I had read a lot about it. I remember the scare that went across the nation a few years ago when a lot of deaths were caused by the elixir of this drug, and I knew that it was being used with increasing success to combat many forms of disease. I was by it as I am by lots of things -- I merely thought it was one of those things which would pass me by, and I rarely thought of it, and in fact, could not use it in writing because I was unable to spell it. In fact, it does not appear in the old dictionary I use and I had no way of looking it up. True, it bobbed up in the newspapers every now and then and I might have learned to spell it from those stories, but I never did.

● Last week, however, a doctor looked at me more or less casually and then said, entirely too casually, I thought, that he was going to give me a mess of sulfanilamide. I rubbed my eyes, I opened my ears and in general tried to register profound shock and surprise. I knew I did not have pneumonia or anything like that, and in my ignorance, supposed that this was all the drug was ever used for. But the doctor meant it, and shortly afterwards I found myself under orders to take about two dozen of these tablets. The orders were to take eight in four hours and then spread them out about three hours apart.

● When I swallowed the first of these tablets I let myself down very carefully, for I had always believed that the dratted things had dynamite in them and I expected drastic upheavals from the very first. But they had little effect, so next as I could tell, and so the next time I dropped two more down the hatch I was not in such a swivet over the matter. Little happened after that, and I began to believe that the drug had been overrated. I began to believe that nothing would happen.

● The next two began to do something to me. I don't know yet just what it was, but I began to lose all interest in things and people and a strange weariness assailed me. I became sleepy, but when sleep came it was not restful. I dreamed constantly -- whether from the medicine or because I was scared -- and the dreams were not happy, either.

● I'll always remember one dream which came in the short space between doses. I dreamed that I was tied hand and foot, face down on the sand, and some of the choicest ruffians in the world, to judge from their looks, were taking turns in belaboring me with a board across the back. My back ached and I was tired and I struggled in vain against the bonds which tied me down. By twisting and turning my head I could see the men who were beating me, and in fascinated horror I always saw the board rise up and flash down. Curiously I never felt the blow as it fell across my back, but I could feel it after it struck, for my back seemed to be beaten completely and thoroughly. Then I heard one of the men say: "Let's finish him up," and I felt hands tugging at my bonds. I knew then that all was finished, and it was more of a feeling of relief than anything else. But, as dreams do at times, I woke just at this moment, and the hands which were tugging at my bonds were merely hands on my shoulder to rouse me and give me two more tablets.

● So it went through the night (Continued on Page Four)

Tax Suggested On Insurance, Food, Cars

Light Bulbs, Bookies, Oil,
Gas, Movies Are Included

Washington. -- The House Ways and Means Committee said Friday Congressional tax experts had suggested levy of excise taxes on several foods, the use of automobiles and airplanes and on insurance premiums in connection with plans to raise $3,500,000,000 in new revenue.

These and other levies, proposed by the staff of the Joint Congressional Committee On Taxation, would be in addition to a long list of excise taxes proposed by the Treasury Department and would yield an estimated $661,000,000.

Food Taxes Proposed
Food taxes proposed by the committee staff were levies of 5 cents a pound on coffee and cocoa, 10 cents a pound on tea and 1 cent a pound on sugar.

Other taxes in the list included one of $5 each annually for the use of automobiles, yachts and airplanes, exclusive of those operated by State or Federal Governments; an unspecified tax on pari-mutuels and a corresponding tax on bookmakers; a 1-cent levy on electric light bulbs and a 5 per cent tax on the sale price of slot machines and other coin-operated devices.

The list also included a suggestion that second-class postage be placed on a paying basis, exclusive of county free delivery, and it was estimated this would produce $78,000,000 in revenue. The proposal was not further explained.

Fuel Oil Tax Suggested
The group suggested a 5 per cent rental tax on motion picture films, an increase in the capital stock tax from $1.10 to $1.50, levy of 2 cents a gallon on fuel oil used for motor fuel and a 3 1/2 per cent tax on the production of natural gas.

The committee staff emphasized that its proposals might be considered "in addition to the levies recommended by the Treasury."

LEARN OF DRAFT WHEN QUESTIONED BY POLICE

Fort Worth, Tex. -- Richard Smith, a 22-year-old Negro, never heard of the selective service program until recently. He got off a box car when police approached on a routine search of the floaters.

"Let's see your draft card," one of the policemen asked.

"What, suh?" the Negro asked.

"Your draft card," the officer asked again.

"No, suh, ah ain't got nothing like that. I ain't never heard of that, suh," the Negro answered.

Today Smith is registered.

Agar Says He Will Fight If Nation Wars Against Germany

Frankfort, Ky. -- Herbert Agar, editor of The Courier-Journal, after urging Wednesday night that the United States go to war against Germany, declared vehemently that if it did he personally would take up arms.

Agar was asked during an open forum whether "you, who have so long been urging this country to get into war, would you risk your own life?"

The calm, dispassionate manner that had marked most of his argument gave way to a belligerent attitude.

"That question is stupid and irrelevant," he retorted, "but I am going to answer it because it makes me angry."

Would Even Go to China
"I am the father of a son 22 years old who is trying now to get into the United States Army Air Corps."

"I am strong and healthy, but despite that I wouldn't be accepted in my country's armed forces."

Then he added that if this

Baseball Game Here Tomorrow

The Fulton Tigers and Muskegon Reds will play tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Fairfield, this being their last game as the Reds will end their spring practice here Tuesday. An admission of 25c will be charged and a large crowd is expected.

This will be a good game as the Tigers now have six players from the Muskegon squad.

Muskegon and Saginaw will play Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Fairfield, this being Muskegon's last game in Fulton. Muskegon and Saginaw are in the Michigan State League.

country goes to war he would take up arms, "even if I have to go to China or somewhere else to get the chance."

Agar's speech was devoted to expounding his belief that Hitler is waging a "revolution of destruction" against "everything our country stands for," and that it is "humiliating that this great country shirked its obligations after the first World War." That, he said, was largely responsible for present conditions.

Urges Fighting for Ideals
He declared that the United States should get into the fight against the Axis powers, not to "save Britain or China or Greece -- much as we admire their courage -- but to have our civilization and the ideals our forefathers gave us."

"It's humiliating to any patriotic American," he said, "to stand back and let Britishers and Greeks and Chinese fight for us, if we really believe in the things they are fighting for."

British Press Admits Balkan Defeat; Seeks More Of Details

London. -- Frankly writing off the diplomatic and military campaign in the Balkans as a defeat, the British press and public in a heightening critical mood and chafing under a blackout of definite news from the Greek front, grimly awaited unfolding of the full picture of British reverses.

Two questions were dominant today: Where are the imperial forces, last reported yesterday falling back on Athens?

Where will the Nazi blitz legion's strike next?

(British Middle East headquarters at Cairo, Egypt, declared today that British troops in Greece "yesterday were in contact with the enemy, but no important engagements took place."

(German sources had reported British rearguards were "annihilated" in fierce fighting at Thermopylae pass.)

Still Holding?
A source described as authoritative (but not designated official) said the British today still were holding defensive positions, which he located only as in the Thermopylae area.

British saw a lone note of encouragement in North Africa, where Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of British Middle East forces, was reported to have posted his army for a decisive clash with the axis mechanized spearhead that has struck across Libya into Egypt.

London newspapers, which until now had scrupulously avoided criticism of the conduct of the Balkan campaign, today reflected a mounting inclination to call for an accounting.

The Daily Mail said "The government would do well to realize there is a feeling of grave uneasiness in the country at recent events in the Mediterranean. This uneasiness is born of the conviction that something more could have been done, or some things could have been done differently or more promptly."

Specter Of 'Too Late'
The Daily Mail recalled David Lloyd George's assertion in 1915 that the Allied forces in the world War had "been dogged by the mocking specter of 'too late,'" and added:

"That is the criticism now -- not that we should have withheld support from Greece but that our effort both diplomatic and military was too feeble and too late."

Tigers Win First Game Of Season

Manager Mullen watched his Tigers win over their Class D. cousins, the Muskegon Red, yesterday afternoon 6 to 5 in the first game of the local season. Mullen was not in harness, and the only familiar faces seen in the Tigers' lineup were Vic Males at short, Carroll Peterson in right field and Popeye Walker in left. The latter drove in the first run of the game with a timely single into left, driving Faudem in from second.

Lake, a big right hander, held the Reds to one hit for four innings and was in trouble only one time. In the fourth, with one man on, he walked a man, and then forced the next man to hit into a fast double play which choked off the rally.

Lon Anderson started the fifth and John McHale, big Red first sacker, crashed the first pitch over the right field wall for a homer. They kept pecking away at Anderson until they held a 4 to 1 lead.

The Tigers tied the score in the seventh with four runs and Muskegon tied again at five-all in the eighth. The Tigers put over the winning run in the ninth.

The two teams are playing again today and tomorrow, with Saginaw of the Michigan State League coming to play Muskegon Monday and Tuesday.

Senior Play Is Enjoyed By Audience

The beloved characters of Louisa May Alcott's unforgettable book, "Little Women," came to life last night at Science Hall, when the seniors of Fulton High presented their annual play, which was taken from the book.

Miss Mary Royster, who has been directing good seniors plays for several years, outdid herself on this one and gave the audience one of the best amateur performances seen on a local stage in sometime.

Jane Dallas, who has a great deal of talent as an amateur, was at her best last night in portraying the carefree, headstrong Jo. The adorable Amy was well played by Mary Browder Paschall, and Meg, the eldest daughter, was done well by Martha Nell Houston. The frail Beth, whose only thoughts were of kindness and helping others, was played unusually well by Elizabeth Payne. These four girls, playing the parts of the little women, did an excellent job in bringing to the audience the joys and sorrows of the March family.

Mary Neal Jones, in the role of Aunt March, the gruff old aunt, who was always displeased with everything, gave a good characterization.

The part of Laurie, another of the favorite characters of "Little Women," was well taken care by Will Taylor Lee. Mr. Laurence, his grandfather, was played by Earl Willey and Joe Treas. McCollum played the role of John Brook.

Laurie's teacher, who married Meg, Virginia Ann Hill and Joe Browder Williams gave good performances in the parts of Mr. and Mrs. March, parents of the four girls.

Although he appeared only in the last scene, Richard Rucker, as Professor Bhaer, a German teacher, brought many laughs with his accent and clever performance.

Lillian Homra played the role of Hannah Mullet, the cook.

"Little Women" was an excellent play and thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd that attended the performance. The cast was splendid and the costumes were unusually good.

Those who have been watching the show develop say that it will be better and bigger than ever, with some of the best talent available and the cast is hard at work with the determination to give a splendid performance.

FDR Brands Lindbergh An Appeaser

Asserts It Is Dumb To Consider
Nazi Victory
Inevitable

Washington. -- Asserting it was dumb to consider a Nazi victory inevitable, President Roosevelt today classified Col. Charles A. Lindbergh with appeasers who urged peace during the Revolutionary and Civil Wars on the ground that those wars could not be won.

He spoke at a press conference in a discussion developing from a request for an amplification of a previous statement that the people were inadequately aware of the gravity of the situation. Lindbergh's name was brought into it when a reporter asked why, although he holds a commission in the Army reserve, the flier had not been summoned up for service.

On Wednesday night Lindbergh made a speech in New York City in which he said the "United States cannot win this war for England, regardless of how much assistance we extend." He has repeatedly asserted that Germany was almost certain to win, and has vigorously criticized American foreign policy.

Wanted By Neither Side

In answer to the question, why Lindbergh had not been called to the colors, Mr. Roosevelt said that during the Civil War, numerous foreigners, liberty loving people, fought on both sides, and that at the same time, both sides let certain people go -- that is, did not call them into service.

The people who were thus ignored, he added, were the Vallandighams. The name apparently meant little to the correspondents, and the President explained that the Vallandighams were people who, from 1863 on, urged immediate peace arguing that the north could not win the War Between the States.

(Clement L. Vallandigham was a member of the House from Ohio. In 1863 he was arrested by military authorities for alleged "treasonable utterances" and banished to the Confederate states. He was known as a leader of the "Copperheads.")

New Defense Plant Program Is Now Planned By U. S. Officials

Washington. -- A vast new program of defense plant construction and expansion to cost approximately $1,500,000,000 has been drafted by the War Department. It was learned today, and is expected to reach the stage of contract negotiations in two weeks.

Almost doubling the $1,750,000,000 of defense plant construction already under contract, the new program is designed to:

- 1. Increase defense production capacity to the point where it will supply full combat equipment for an army of 2,000,000 men, plus so-called "critical" or basic items for a second time that size. Previous plans were based on furnishing full equipment for 1,400,000 men plus "critical" items for 2,000,000.

Capacity Boost
2. Substantially boost the capacity for turning out munitions needed by the British, particularly long-range bombers. It says Britain must have 100 planes in great numbers if it eventually to start widespread offensive warfare against Germany.

The new program was understood to be awaiting approval by the Office of Production Management and, after that, by the President.

In authoritative quarters it was reported to call for construction of upwards of 30 ordinance factories; expansion of at least three existing bomber engine plants and dozens of other types of defense factories; construction of two new bomber fuselage frame factories, and the acquisition of two new bomber engine "capacities." The latter would cover either new plants or the conversion to engine manufacture of plants which now produce some other type of equipment.

Program Financing
The program would be financed partly by funds recently allocated by President Roosevelt from the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend appropriation and partly by construction and expansion funds given to the Army directly by Congress.

Editorial

THIS MAKES SENSE

In the midst of all the talk of rising taxes and plans for imposing the taxes, Secretary Morgenthau makes one statement which seems to make sense in the fullest way. Imposing new taxes is never a happy affair. Nobody enjoys paying taxes, but the Secretary of the Treasury has faith in the American public to the extent that he believes they are willing to pay whatever cost accrues in the effort to make the nation secure. No doubt he is right in this belief. There will be plenty of gambling, there will be many efforts to shift the load, but in the aggregate American citizens are willing to pay the bills which may be necessary.

The one significant statement in the Secretary's statement concerns a possible saving of one billion dollars a year and the point needs complete public understanding. Secretary Morgenthau, looking over the entire field of federal expenditures, says that a saving of one billion dollars a year can be secured by reducing or eliminating certain funds which are being used to pour money into the pockets of certain groups. Specifically he names the farm groups which receive parity checks, the National Youth Administration and the C. C. C. "None of these are properly to be classed as defense expenditures, and the question of relief is no longer pressing," he said. "Those funds could be reduced or eliminated, and the saving would be at least one billion dollars a year."

That seems to add up. During the past ten years or so the federal government has been pouring out millions in unnumbered ways, and right now, with a war crisis and a financial emergency ahead of us, is good time to examine those expenditures critically and thoroughly and see if many of these expenses cannot be eliminated. Likewise the pork barrel, if it still exists in its accepted sense, should be closed to all pressure groups and no more vast appropriations made for non-defense measures.

Only the other day an article appeared in a Memphis newspaper stating that Memphis was being considered as a likely place to locate a government library. The article stated that four cities were being considered for four libraries, each one to cost more than ten million dollars, and each to be modeled on the Congressional library in Washington. If the four should be built as planned the total cost would be in the neighborhood of fifty million dollars. Now fifty million dollars is mere pocket change in these days, but this one item is only one of many, and when a few more of these projects are launched we will find the total cost running up into hundreds of millions—perhaps even a billion.

Naturally those cities which see a chance of getting a ten million dollar library will work with all might and main to get it. No one can blame them for trying to get such a gift if it is to be given away. Presumably Fulton would do all in its power to get such a magnificent affair. However, the facts are that the nation has no particular need for fifty million dollars worth of libraries at the present time. More pressing things are ahead of us, and from all evidence available we are not going to have much time to build libraries or spend much time reading in them for the next few years. Such projects as these need to

TEAM WORK MAY SAVE BRITISH-GREEK ARMY

Across the narrow peninsula leading to Athens, the remnant of the British-Greek Army has stretched its lines as a barrier to the onrushing German juggernaut. There is no confusion such as attended the onslaught of Stuka bombers and Panzer divisions in the Low Countries and France. There is no lack of unity such as divided the British, French and Belgian allies. There is no fateful break through such as at the Albert Canal and at Sedan. Instead there is orderly disposition of troops, complete co-operation and co-ordination and an unbroken defense in spite of the enemy's overwhelming superiority in men and machines. The campaign in the Balkans is ending as it began with brilliant and heroic team work and with continuing losses of German manpower and material.

Such heroism and such team work should prevent a complete debacle. Such skillful rear guard action as has been carried on since the Nazi legions came thundering down the Vardar River Valley should allow the evacuation of the embattled forces either to Crete or to Egypt. The prospects, however, are anything but bright. The most unfavorable factor is Germany's complete supremacy in the air over the possible embarkation ports. The German claim of wholesale sinking of merchant vessels at Piraeus emphasizes the danger of exit by sea.

The situation at Durkerque was the reverse. There the Germans were taken by surprise and over the limited area the R. A. F. had established at least temporary control of the air. Now there can be no surprise and British planes in Greece are inadequate to challenge the mighty Luftwaffe. Departure by night or under stormy skies offers the best hope. The present predicament is similar to that at Namcos and Andalsnes almost exactly a year ago when the poorly equipped British Territorials beat a hasty retreat from Norway under constant attacks by German bombers. The full story of that unhappy episode has not yet been told. Under similar circumstances, however, the Greeks withdrew from Salonika to Piraeus. So a retreat from Piraeus to Crete may be possible.—Courier-Journal.

be firmly and definitely dropped down the nearest drain pipe in Washington. We must make up our minds that we can't go on, blithely spending a few hundred million dollars here, there and yonder, merely to keep folks in a good humor. There is a mighty job ahead of us, no matter what happens to the war that is now raging. Even if England could win at once we still have plenty of use for whatever money is available without hunting up ways to waste it, and if England loses we face the toughest prospect a nation ever faced.

SPORTS

Well, after Tuesday Fulton fans can begin to take a bit more interest in the baseball boys. For on Tuesday the Muskegon Reds, who have been doing their spring training chores at Fairfield, pack up their belongings and start the homeward journey. Manager Tighe has had good weather during his three weeks here and his team should be in pretty good shape to start the season. He will test his team against a member of the same league here next week, when Saginaw drops in here for a game and this will give him a sort of line on what he has. During the training period the boys have been so mixed with Fulton players that local fans have not been able to make much out of the picture. During the past week Manager Mullen has had a lot of Tiger players here, but serious work will start when he gets the field to himself and begins to look over his aggregation. Next week will see the real beginning of the Tiger machine for the coming season, and some games will probably be arranged with neighboring clubs before the season opens. Sunday Mullen will play a second game against the Muskegon outfit, and some of the players cut loose from the Michigan team will see service under the Fulton banner.

Six players were turned over to the Tigers during the week, still continuing with the Detroit farm system but in a notch lower league. Some of the players who were turned over look pretty fair, but Manager Mullen will look them over more carefully after the Reds have pulled out of the local park.

The big pitcher, Phillips, towering six feet seven inches in the air, was laid low with appendicitis the other day and returned to his home in Ohio. Whether he will undergo an operation, or whether he will return to Fulton is an open question that only time will answer. Frank Filchok, who has been here for the past two years, has been notified to report at once but has not arrived. He lives in Grindstone, Pa. Lloyd Yeager, the clever lefty who pitched some good games here last year, is teaching and will not arrive until May 15 (just after the opening of the season.) If Yeager should come through this year he might develop into a real star. He had a world of stuff last year and lost some hard games. He has the ability to win in the Kitty League, according to most of the local fans.

Big Harry Sprute is here again, and local fans are hoping the big left hander can deliver this year. Last year he showed vast improvement over the preceding year, and this may be his year. He has the build of a tank, hits extremely well for a pitcher, and if he can find some way to curb his wildness and still get his stuff on the ball, he will make some Kitty League teams have a hard time this year. Sprute is a popular boy here and lots of the fans are hoping this will be his big year.

"Poppy" Walker is working out daily and seems to have all that he had last year—which was plenty and to spare. He can play the first base the way it should be played and can hit almost any sort of pitching. If he comes through with a season such as he had last year Fulton is going to see first base adequately taken care of this year.

Next Monday night, April 28. The following boys are expected to make the trip: T. Parker, L. Cavitt, Geo. Whitrow, Geo. Dumas, J. Jones and H. Johnson.

Next Thursday night, May 1, we are to meet at the White Methodist church on Carr street, at 7:30 p. m. at this time, badges are to be presented. Every scout is encouraged to be present and on time.

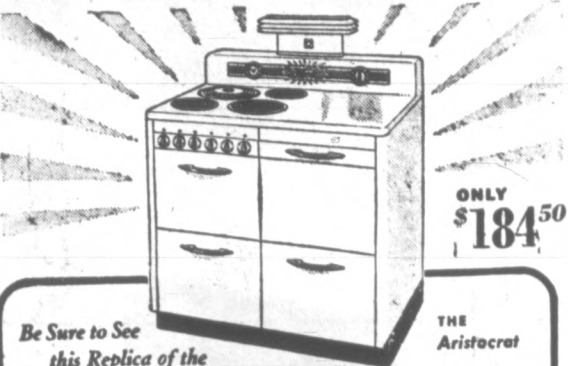

—CHAS. DAWSON, Scribe.

and all the next day and the night. I was never acutely uncomfortable while awake, never particularly, but never have I felt any more depressed, any more weary, any more tired than during the day or so when sulfanilamide held me in its power. I have been wondering whether it was the medicine or just plain fear caused all this. Perhaps certain amount of both, for certainly I was scared and certainly the medicine had some powerful effect.
