Modernize Fulton Water Plant

Fulton is now on the eve of another progressive step forward. The city is figuring on electrifying the water plant. Mayor Paul DeMyer, accompanied by Councilmen T. H. Irby, T. T. Boaz, J. E. Hannephill and J. A. Colley, visited Henderson recently on an inspection tour to get first hand information and acquaint themselves with what a real modern water plant, operated by electricity, looked like, and the expense of operation.

While Fulton can proudly boast of its excellent water, little can be said of the practically obsolete plant at the pumping station, which has caused much worry and trouble in recent years to those in charge and acquainted with conditions. The expense of trying to hold the old machinery together and serve the people efficiently, has been a heavy burden while the city dads have been studying and considering various plans of operation. The electrical way is modern in every respect, and as we understand it, the savings in operation alone over the present method, will pay for itself within three years.

The time has arrived when something must be done to avoid a water famine when we least expect it, and the sooner the improvement is made, the better.

Should that old machinery at the plant go out of commission, and it may at any time, we would get awful thirsty to see nothing about the inconveniences experienced in many ways.

We heartily recommend to our mayor and councilmen, electrifying of the pumping station and encourage them in the installation at an early period.

It should be one of the most distinct achievements of the administration, apple of their eye, successful both from the standpoints of efficient and economic operating results.

FULTON SHOWS CENSUS GAIN OF OVER 400

The population of Fulton, released for publication by Miller Hughes, census supervisor, is 5,490. This includes both the Kentucky and Tennessee sides of Fulton.

In 1920 the population of the Kentucky side of Fulton was 3,415. The population of the Kentucky side of Fulton in this year's census is 3,504, showing a gain on the Kentucky side. This does not include the portions of Fulton on the Kentucky side known as Riceville and Highlands, the home of many railroad employees, where there is a population of 608.

If the 608 persons living in the outlying sections of Fulton known as Riceville and the Highlands, which are in Kentucky, were added to the section of Fulton on the Kentucky side within the city limits, and the Tennessee section of Fulton, its total population would be 6,098, Mr. Hughes said.

The population of the whole town in both states last census was 5,065, showing a gain of 425 in this census, or a little less than nine per cent.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

Improvements now in progress at the local light and power plant of the Kentucky Utilities Company is only in keeping with their up-to-date methods of keeping abreast of the times in perfecting their properties for efficient service. The old building housing their large boilers has been completely torn away and will be replaced by a modern structure of reinforced concrete and brick. The plant is modernly equipped throughout with the best machinery and appliances and the improvements now in course of construction blots out entirely the only part of the original plant formerly owned by H. F. Oliver and his successors.

POISON MURDER CASE GOES OVER TO NEXT TERM

Important State Witness Now in Europe

The case of the Commonwealth against Jim Gardner and Miss Lela Bunch, charged with murder in connection with the mysterious death of Gardner's wife last June, was again continued when called before the May term of circuit court. The two have been in jail since last July, and at the January term of court it was definitely set for trial at the May term. However, when the case was called Monday, Commonwealth Attorney Martin explained that one of the principal witnesses for the state was in Europe and it would be impossible for the state to go to trial without this witness. The witness is a doctor of Louisville, who examined the stomach of the dead woman and was to testify of the findings of this examination. Judge Warren then carried the case over.

Brieflets

Maybe the reason Fulton housewives fear a fruit shortage is because they know that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

There will be fewer divorces when we see more girls wearing dust caps and see fewer kneecaps.

At last we are all equal—big or little, rich or poor, fat or slim, smart or foolish. Each fellow only counts one with the census taker.

The Fulton woman who has to slip her feet-killing shoes off to ease the ache every time she gets a chance would surely be out of luck if her shoes were nailed on like those of a horse.

It's all very well to be able to speak several languages, but it's far better to know how to keep your mouth shut in one.

Many a man who has embarked on the sea of matrimony wishes afterward that he had missed the boat.

Wonder how many citizens around Fulton can remember the old-fashioned starched skirt that made a sound like a nervous man eating potato chips?

The bandit situation in Chicago could be relieved by sending them to help sandbag the Mississippi river.

With spring in the air and fishing reported good we find it hard to sympathize with the man who is out of work.

The main trouble with a lot of Fulton citizens is they want too much interest on the treasures they've laid up in heaven.

It is said that fewer baby rattles are being sold now. Maybe that's because you can't rattle the modern baby.

It has about gotten so around Fulton that the only way for a man to get on his feet is to leave his auto at home.

The old-time girl of the clinging-vine type would probably be known as poison ivy to the modern generation.

FULTON HOTEL SOLD

The New Kenutkian Hotel, which was offered for sale here Saturday by Master Commissioner George C. Roberts, was sold to J. E. Penny, the main creditor, for $40,000, with the New Bry's of Memphis, bidding in the furniture for $1,000. The hotel has been operated for some months under direction of the commissioner and it is presumed that Mr. Penny will continue the operation.

SUMMER ROUND-UP BEGUN IN FULTON

On Thursday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce, a group of women met to discuss plans for rounding up children of pre-school age for physical examinations either by their family doctor or at a child health conference. Among those present were Mrs. S. Morris, Mrs. Virgil Windsor, Mrs. J. J. Owen, Mrs. F. L. Brown, Mrs. J. W. Hackett, Mrs. C. B. Cequin, Mrs. R. B. Beadles, Mrs. Mayme Berninger, Mrs. F. H. Riddle, Mrs. W. D. Boyd, other members on the P. T. A. health committee are Mrs. A. G. Baldrige, Mrs. Ramsey Snow, Mrs. Earl Taylor, Mrs. Newt Bondurant, Mrs. Chester Genung, Mrs. W. I. Shupe, Mrs. E. H. Knighton, Mrs. Luke Mooneyham.

The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will be asked to cooperate in rounding up the children. The slogan of the P. T. A. is to have every child physically fit when it enters school so as to secure the full benefits of their education. The pre-school child is entitled to protection from acquirable defects and diseases. Parental vigilance will help him to start to school as a Blue Ribbon Child. Parents must eventually share the child with the school and with society. There should be no damage to the child from either school or social contacts. Every need of his growth and life must be met by parents, school and community if he is to be effective and desirable as a citizen. "Who is responsible for the development of the pre-school child? The parents themselves determine by their attitude toward each other, toward the child, the school, and the community the kind of home or school or community in which the child is to live and develop. If any of these is good it is because the parents will it so. A few parents may be able to improve conditions but it is only when all parents cooperate that the health of the child is insured and his protection is effective. The Bureau of Maternal and Child Health in its demonstration work cooperating with the Fulton County Health Department and the physicians in Fulton County plan to have these conferences at numerous places in the county so that they will be available to parents in every community.

EARLY THIS WINTER

The forest fire season is somewhat early this year with thousands of acres of Virginia timber already consumed by flames. As a rule forest fires only come after hot summer suns have dried out grass and fallen timber. But the Virginia fires serve to point out that any season of year is a dangerous one and that it is still possible to cause great damage with careless match and camp fire when everything outdoors is green.

Motorists around Fulton are commencing to get out in the open and this means a greater need on their part for guarding against just such a calamity as has but recently visited some 20 Virginia counties. It is up to the people who enjoy recreation outdoors, as well as those who get their livelihood from them, to exercise reasonable caution at all times. A camp fire left unextinguished, burning tobacco discarded without thought of possible consequences, a match lightly tossed away—any of these acts may cause an outdoor fire that will destroy thousands of dollars worth of property before it can be extinguished or gotten under control.

ONE COMMON TOPIC

If you would ask us what topic is most often discussed, and by the greatest number of people around Fulton, we would not hesitate to reply—the weather. The weather and its effect on health has always served us well when we could think of nothing else to talk about, and it probably always will.

We speak of winter colds, spring fever and summer complaints, showing that it is a common idea to connect the weather or the temperature with certain types of illness. But does the weather really have an effect on one's health? The answer is emphatically—yes. It is a well established fact that at the change of seasons with sudden fluctuations of temperature there are an unusually large number of colds. It is also known that certain contagious diseases are likely to be more prevalent at one time of the year than another. The occurrence of measles, for example, reaches the highest number of cases sometime in the spring; smallpox is called a cold-weather disease; typhoid fever is more common and more virulent in summer.

And that brings us around to what we are trying to get at. That is that we are again entering the warm period of the year when one must be extremely careful about the purity of drinking water, and when we must be on our guard to prevent the maintenance of breeding places of the germ carrying mosquito. From now on through the summer months we must use extreme precaution in protecting ourselves and our families from these dangers. It is a matter entirely too serious to be dismissed with a wave of the hand. Watch your drinking water, and stamp out every spot where mosquitoes and flies are apt to breed.

MORE OVERALLS

One of the biggest manufacturers of work clothes in the country reports that sales this year are 20 per cent greater than for the same period in 1929. What this means is a question. They may be due to a desire to protect more expensive clothing, or to a greater turning to the soil and to the tasks of life that demand work clothes. But to the average Fulton man the increased sale of overalls—the blue uniform of labor—can only mean that more men are now working with their hands than ever before. It may be the first sign of a rejuvenation that will benefit the whole nation, a new determination on the part of Americans to work for their living instead of letting someone else earn it for them. At any rate, we are told that more overalls are being sold this year than ever before, and that is certainly not a bad sign in a country where overalls are still a highly-respected article of clothing.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

New York has a new law against drunken drivers. It provides that a person who has been twice convicted of driving an auto while intoxicated, and who, in both cases, has caused personal injury, will have his driving license revoked, and may never have it restored. This is certainly very lenient punishment for a man guilty of such heinous offense as driving while drunk and injuring, possibly killing, another person. To be found driving while drunk is sufficient to brand a man as a menace to the general public—the repetition being sufficient proof that he is no longer to be trusted—and the requirement that he must hurt two persons before being retired from the roads and streets is straining justice in his favor. But the value of such a law lies in the spirit of its enforcement. If strictly applied it will certainly help to remedy a bad condition. Our own state will do well to see if it can improve on it, for we are far from free of this menace to the public—the drunken driver.

DON'T BE MISLED

Straggling census figures have commenced to appear and already the report has gone forth that it shows the cities making gains and the smaller towns recording losses since the 1920 census was taken. But Fulton residents will not be deceived into believing that it reflects on the ability of the smaller towns to hold their own. The fact is, America gains a good many thousand new citizens each year through immigration, and these all drift into the big cities, and remain there. Then too, our farms are being cut up and more opportunities offered those who want to make a living out of the soil. And it is the town man that most often grabs at the opportunity, not the city man. He still lives in the community, even though he is not counted in the town's population. So don't be misled by early census returns. Stop and reason the figures out for yourself. You won't be long in determining, if you are inclined to be skeptical, that the small town and rural population still makes up the biggest part of the country and will continue, as in the past, to be the real heart of the nation.

NUPTIAL CELEBRATION

A group of happy friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jackson, on Carr street, the evening of May 9, and enjoyed an entertainment given in honor of the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan. Mrs. Duncan was formerly Miss Addie V. Rye. After a few hours of pleasure by contests and games and also after showering the honorees with many beautiful gifts, a delicious plate lunch was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jackson, Miss Marie Duncan, Mrs. Jesse Bushart, Misses Louise Rye, Mary Baucom, Grace McMorris, Sarah F. Bondurant, Dot Finch, Katherine Campbell, Hazel Dean Hendley, Marguerite Allen, and Alyva Thacker. Mrs. Jackson proved herself to be a lovely hostess.

Lesson for May 13

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

(Temperance Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 23:1-22

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy mind and with all thy strength. This is the first and great commandment. The second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. (Matthew 22:37-39)

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaching in the Temple

JESUS TOPIC—Jesus in the Temple. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Become a Good Citizen. YOUNG PEOPLE'S AND ADULT TOPIC—Who Is a Good Citizen?

In the previous parable, the responsibilities of the subjects of the kingdom were set before us in the light of the obligation to render to the household the fruits of his vineyard. In this one the emphasis is placed upon the privileges and blessings of the kingdom. Christ's kingdom is infinitely more than a system of laws and regulations to be obeyed.

I. The Marriage Feast (vv. 1-14). The benefits of the kingdom are set forth under the figure of marriage. The highest ideal of love and friendship known to the world is expressed in marriage.

1. The king's invitation despised (vv. 1-7).

The previous parable showed the attitude of the Jewish people toward the king up to the crucifixion. This one carries us beyond the cross, even to the present age of the Gentiles. The marriage feast which the king made for his son and to which he invited guests, represents the gracious offer of God to give joy and blessing to the creature. This feast has been made in honor of his son, and is an exceeding rich one. The repeated invitations show God's earnestness in seeking to bless men. They not only neglected it, but made light of it and hurried on to their worldly business, showing their disregard for the salvation of their souls. Some did violence to the messengers of the king, even killing them. Primarily, this is a picture of the attitude of the Jews toward Christ's kingdom, but it has its counterpart in the present day.

2. The king's invitation accepted (vv. 8-10).

When these first invited refused, the king sent his servants to others, for his table must be provided with guests. The Lord's table has been prepared for infinite ones.

3. The king inspecting the guests (vv. 11-14).

As a result of this inspection, one was found without a wedding garment. Failure, therefore, to conform to the regulation of the feast was an insult to the king. The wedding garment provided for each one invited to the Lord's table is the righteousness of Christ.

II. The Wonderful Wisdom of the King (vv. 15-22, 31-33).

That which called forth this wisdom was the effort of the leaders to entrap Jesus.

1. The tribute money (vv. 15-22).

The Herodians sought to test his loyalty to the Roman government; therefore, they came to him with the subtle question, "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?" For Christ to have answered "Yes" would have conveyed the impression of endorsement of the Roman government, and "No" would have brought him into conflict with the government. Christ's reply to this question is the real word on the Christian's relationship to civil government.

2. Concerning the resurrection (vv. 23-31).

The Sadducees did not believe in the resurrection. To entrap him they placed before him a hypothetical case of a woman who had had seven husbands—as to whose wife she would be in the resurrection. The Scriptures make it clear that marriage is only for this life; that in the resurrection human beings will be as angels of God.

3. The great commandment in the law (vv. 34-40).

(1) The first commandment (vv. 34-35). "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," suggests and involves love to God is the first and great commandment. (2) The second commandment (vv. 36, 39). This is like the first, in that it centers in love. The measure of love to my neighbor is my self-love.

4. The question put by Christ (vv. 41-43).

The mystery of Christ being the son of David and at the same time being David's Lord put to silence all those who had sought to embarrass him.

Star of My Life

Even ere I breathed the breath of life,
Your prayers, like rays of heavenly light,
Illumed safe paths for me to tread,
To point my ways in places bright.
Through childhood days of helplessness
And mystery, strange pain and tears,
You led me ever from the depths
Of joyless hours from needs or fears.

Star of my life—
My mother.

New interests with added years
Have come, but none that does imbue
With greater faith than your sure love;
No orb that gleams more brightly through
The clouds that float across my view
To peace and happiness and God,
To guide, to comfort, to sustain,
As life's uneven course I plod.

Star of my life—
My mother.

I know 'tis not without distress
You've kept your light before my feet,
Oft times I've followed errant bent
And brought you grief and sore defeat.
But your true life and patient love
Have e'er kept plain the surer way,
Though I fall short, you have not failed;
For this I honor you today.

Star of my life—
My mother.

Day of Days for Mothers

Of course there is no complete chain connecting the early celebrations with the modern festival, which is perhaps the most conscious and deliberate effort ever made to honor motherhood. Yet, the present Mother's day has something in common with the old celebrations. The history of the modern observance dates back to the Civil war. In fact, the movement had its inception prior to that struggle in the work of Mrs. Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia. Through her community and religious work she aided many war mothers and veterans in various ways. From this work was developed an annual celebration by her city.

Miss Anna Jarvis, also of Philadelphia. Miss Jarvis is now recognized as the founder of this great movement despite the fact that several others have claimed credit for the idea.

Miss Anna Jarvis.

The story of the origin of this much-loved anniversary goes back to the time of the founder's mother's death. While wondering what flower to lay on her mother's grave it occurred to Miss Jarvis that it would be a wonderful tribute to all mothers, living or dead, if everybody would unite in daughters. On this day you should live your best. You should have your mother and father or other benefactors as guests. And if you have no place to entertain them, go home to them, providing of course your presence will not mean added work for tired hands. In case it is absolutely impossible for you to get home, write a Mother's day letter. No person is too busy to write a letter to his or her mother on this hallowed day.

White Carnation Proper.

The children to be worn on Mother's day is the white carnation. It typifies the beauty, truth and fidelity of motherhood. Some people choose to wear a red or pink one for one who is dead, but the Mother's Day association does not recognize any but the white carnation, which may be worn in either color. This is a rather common error of the best connection the association warns against peddlers, money-schemers and others who are always trying to commercialize Mother's day. The only authorized badge for the day is a button with a white carnation design on it and the name of the association. Many of these buttons have been given away, but their sale at a few pennies each is now the association's only means of raising money to carry on its work. The association has no paid officials and no one is authorized to sell such things as paper carnations, or real carnations at fabulous prices.

In recent years the celebration of Mother's day has broadened to include observances during the weeks preceding and following it. Many of our schools observe the Friday preceding the second Sunday in May, while many of our colleges celebrate the week-end by having parents visit the students and college officials. Last year thousands of mothers and fathers visited various colleges as guests of their sons and daughters. The heads of the army, navy and marine corps annually enter into the spirit of Mother's day by having the defenders of our country remember mother and home folks. —Pathfinder Magazine.

Samuel's Testimony to His Mother's Deep Love

Great men do not forget their mothers. Samuel never forgot his plow mother, Hannah, who, having prayed for her child, loaned him to the Lord for all his life.

When Samuel as a venerable statesman wrote down the events of his lifetime, he included among these the fact that, "his mother made him a little robe, and brought it to him from year to year when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice." 1 Sam. 2:19.

A strange event to chronicle among the mighty happenings of a nation? Yet insofar as it pictured in one beautiful stroke the relation between mother and son, it also revealed the human source of greatness in Israel's greatest judge!

Thoughts of Mother

The mother's heart is the child's schoolroom. —Beecher.
Children are the anchors that hold a mother to life. —Sophocles.
Hearts grow fit for heaven molded by childish hands.
The Lord could not be everywhere, so He made mothers. —Lew Wallace.

Dearest of All Names

Among all names in the tongues of men that of Mother stands dearest. It is the name blessed with affection by the lips of infancy, murmured with loving tenderness by the lips of maturity, sighed reverently by the lips of age.

TIMBER WOLF IS KILLED

Hickman-Reelfoot Lake Residents Alarmed, Continue Hunt

Hickman, Ky., May 12 — Great excitement prevailed in this section today following the killing of a large black timber wolf by Theodor Wheeler, after three nights' hunt by residents of the hill section between Hickman and Reelfoot Lake.

Reports that wolves had been seen in this section had been scoffed at as old residents said it had been many years since one had been killed around here, but as lambs, pigs, chickens, geese, etc., continued to disappear in the area around the Kentucky-Tennessee line between Hickman and Reelfoot Lake, the farmers could not believe dogs were getting them.

Wheeler ran across the wolf in a corn field and shot it nine times before killing it. He said the animal never cried out, but kept coming at him as he shot. It was discovered to have eight large tusks and is believed to have come into the section from Arkansas, where a drive is being made to exterminate them.

The hunt here will continue as definite reports of two others, one brown and one gray wolf have been received from residents and the country side is so alarmed that children are not allowed out at night and every farmer is keeping his livestock close to the house and sitting with them in many cases.

Ezra Brewer, living near Wheeler, lost 20 lambs in three nights and other losses have been reported.

MRS. BOONE IS LAID TO REST

Mrs. Blanche Boone, who died in Nashville Friday night, after a stroke of paralysis, was laid to rest Sunday afternoon in Fairview cemetery. Funeral services were held from the First Methodist church, with Pastor Wood and Rev. J. W. Watters, former pastor of the deceased, in charge. Winstead & Jones had charge of the arrangements. A large crowd gathered to pay the last respects, and the floral offerings were numerous.

YOUNG WOMAN
WRECK VICTIM

Mrs. Lillian Cress, of Bates street, South Fulton, suffered painful injuries Friday night about 10 o'clock when the car in which she was riding struck the bridge abutment crossing from Carr street into Lake street. The driver of the car, Curley Porter, of Hickman county, was injured less severely.

Mrs. Cress suffered several cuts about the face from broken glass. After receiving medical attention she was taken to her home.

The car was badly smashed up.

John W. Wade Told Children He Had Nothing to Live For

John W. Wade, 60, a prominent business man of Murray, died at his home on West Poplar street in that city, at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon after he had swallowed carbolic acid.

Mr. Wade had served for several years as a member of the Murray city council, was a director of the First National bank and a member of the Gilbert Doron Undertaking company.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

This time next week I will be in Atlanta, Ga., attending a mass meeting of rabbit breeders of the southeastern section of the country. We will meet there for the purpose of forming the Southern Combine of rabbit breeders associations. It is our intention to stabilize the rabbit industry from a commercial standpoint and put it on a paying basis. We also will petition each state to add the raising of rabbits into the curriculum of studies taught at the state agricultural institutes, and to include it in the work of the 4-H clubs. There will be other features brought up but all will be for the advancement of the rabbit industry.

Speaking about 4-H club work raising rabbits, I have given this end of the game careful study and will say boy on a farm can take twelve good breeding does, properly house them in good sanitary hutches, and make a profit of $125.00 to $150.00 a year. This can be done with a minimum amount of work, about thirty minutes in the morning and the same time at night. Some of you old heads will say it can't be done, come in some time and I'll show you how. I expect to clear at least $100.00 each year from the same number in my back yard and I will have to buy all my feed.

But don't think for a minute I am going to give up chickens. No, I am still a chicken crank, or fan, just as you wish to term it, have even gone into it bigger this year than I ever did before.

I was talking to one of our best breeders last Saturday and he has improved his stock by getting three settings of eggs from Holterman, the barred rock breeder of the celebrated Aristocrat strain. I tell you, when farmers spend their money to improve their stock this man has done, it means that we are on the way to make Fulton county the best poultry county in the state. It also shows that my work has not gone for naught.

The White Feather Farm made its first delivery Saturday. We've a few white leghorn cockerels big enough to eat and we couldn't think of a better way of starting our output than by presenting our good friend Bailey Huddleston with the first of the flock, however, we are not going to start putting out samples. This is our last sample.

Well, get your dollar ready, and when you meet me on the street, hand it to me and say, "Here is my dues for this year." I'll have receipt cards in my pocket to fill out for you on the spot. Remember, we want one hundred actual chicken raisers to join this year. Show your confidence in our efforts to make this a better poultry community by joining up at once.

You should be picking out the young stuff you are going to enter at the fair this fall. Don't wait until the day before the show to pick them out, if you do, you will invariably leave better ones at home.

1,000 chickens on exhibit at a county fair, what do you know about that? Never heard of such a thing before. All right, we can have that many at the Fulton County Fair this year if you will just do your part. Then we can challenge the world to beat it if they can. Last year Louisville State show had a few over 900; Memphis Mid-South show had about 1,500 and St. Louis National Show had 1,080. I know, for I counted them, so there.

For a short time we will accept subscriptions for this paper and the Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal—both papers one year for only $1.25.
