THE LISTENING POST

● Ouch! Gosh! Oh! And a few other words which have similar meaning! I have tangled with this big fullback of a Methodist preacher and have come off decidedly second best again. I tried the same thing once before and should have known better than to do it again, but I did, with disastrous results. Of course, if I should keep this to myself and never allow the public to see it this defeat would not be so crushing, but in all fairness, Brother Hartman is due his time at the bat. So here goes.

● It will be remembered by the six or seven readers of this column that last Monday I made some remark about the preacher removing my back seat at the Methodist Church. Now the back seat was not actually removed, according to Smith Atkins. He says that to be perfectly accurate I should have said that the next to the last seat was taken out and the back seat moved up a trifle. However, it was the rear seat, to all intents and purposes, which appeared to be gone, and this was what was actual in the final analysis.

● Brother Hartman, taking vigorous exception to my remarks about his large and far reaching voice, now gives me the real reasons for removing the back seat. He is now at the milk:

● "The back seat was under the balcony and in the shadows. Attendees sitting on the back seat took advantage of the darkness to pass up the collection plates. In other words, they were not putting anything in! But the real reason for taking out the back seat was to remove temptation. Some of the back seat customers not only didn't put anything in, but judging from their faces, were not above taking something out! In view of one hard-looking character in particular, we decided to safeguard the collection plates."

● Wow! Zam and sowie! Listening Post again on the air. When I think of all the pennies I have dropped in that plate for the past several weeks and months for which I get no credit, I am made to feel sad. Brother Hartman does not inform the general public what elaborate safeguards he always had thrown about that back seat. I have never been there to this good day without seeing at least eight guards. Every Sunday night I see Abe Jolley, Lawson Roper, Warren Graham, Albert Baldrige, Leland Bugg, Roper Fields, R. E. Pierce, and a lot of others, who stand around the door and watch the customer come in. All this time I have had a childish belief that all these good and true men were there to show the customers to seats and to collect the money from them after they had ushered them inside the building. I will admit that at times I pondered over just why Smith Atkins kept pacing up and down the aisles, but I knew he kept tab on the number of attendants and presumed that he was merely taking the census. Now all is clear.

● All these men are watching, or have been watching the back seat folks, with a special eye on one hard looking character who should not be difficult to identify. Probably it will be much easier on them to have these folks out in the white glare where such close watching will not be necessary. It should be noted in passing that new light fixtures, with more horsepower, have also been installed in recent weeks, and I gather that this has something to do with the problem.

Churchill Is Given Vote Of Confidence

War Leader Scores Lloyd George For His Criticism Of Policy

London. --Warned in the anxious tones of David Lloyd George that America's war help is yet infinitely too little to beat Germany, the British House of Commons today gave Prime Minister Winston Churchill a new mandate to carry on with a confidence vote of 447 to 3.

For nearly two hours and a half the white-haired World War premier and the prime minister of this war engaged in a sober oratorical duel before an intent chamber. It was the end of a two-day debate, a totaling up of Britain's newest reverses and a summation of her determination and hopes, and it left Churchill to all appearances unshaken before Parliament and country.

Pledged Fight To Death
Churchill's speech in the main was a pledge that Britain will "fight to the death, without thought of retirement," on the besieged Greek island of Crete and in the beleaguered Libyan port of Tobruk, main present barrier to an axis advance through Egypt toward Suez; announcement that nearly 500,000 British and imperial soldiers now are in the Middle-East to block the axis, and the disclosure that America has promised enough new ships to help Britain through 1942 in the battle of the Atlantic.

Churchill admitted, in answer to Lloyd George, that Britain needed much more naval help from America but he added: "I expect we shall get a good deal more help in many ways."

Commends Stimson
"I thank God," he said, "for Secretary of War Stimson's speech Tuesday night suggesting that United States naval forces be used to protect shipments to Britain.

But, he went on, his experience has taught him that American war organization is "full of disappointments."

Draft And Taxes Are Expected To Cut U. K. Enrollment For 1942

Lexington, Ky. --T. T. Jones, dean of men at the University of Kentucky, said Tuesday in enrollment decrease of at least 10 per cent was expected for the next school year because of Army needs, higher taxes and increased living costs.

In a letter to presidents of university fraternities, Jones suggested that in order to prepare for financial difficulties next year, the fraternities collect all outstanding dues and be prepared to operate on a nonhousekeeping basis if necessary.

Jones said the number of re-

Fulton Woman Not Certain Of Her Own Car

Presumably those folks who drive a lot of cars may forget what sort of car is being used at any certain time, and such really did happen to one Fulton woman, not long ago in St. Louis.

Mrs. Ira W. Little drives many different cars. Her husband buys and sells cars all the time, and Mrs. Little never knows just what sort of car she may be driving from day to day. A few days ago she was in St. Louis and parked on a public lot. When she returned for her car the attendant asked her what sort of car she had left. This is a device used by parking lot attendants to locate a car quickly, although of course the parking ticket will locate a car in the long run. When Mrs. Little asked for her car the attendant asked her what make of car. Mrs. Little could not tell him what make of car, what color, what license tag, or in fact anything the man wanted to know. She gave the man the ticket and he found the car after long search.

Tigers Swamped 14 To 5 By U. C. Hounds Last Nite

Showing a lack of power at the plate and very little pitching, the current edition of the local Tigers dropped a 14 to 5 decision to the Union City Greyhounds under the lights of Fairfield last night. The night was cool, and a small crowd saw the game. It was the second defeat at the hands of Union City and the third to Kitty League competition in exhibition games. Jackson having won a game last week. With the opening game only a few games away it seems apparent that the local squad needs stronger pitching and more power on attack.

Lake started the game for the Tigers and pitched a good game for five innings, allowing only four hits and no runs. The Hounds got to him solidly in the sixth and pushed over four runs. The Tigers had grabbed a couple of runs in the fourth. Lum Phillips, a huge six and a half footer, took up the pitching chores in the seventh and the Hounds greeted him with resounding base hits which seemed to center near the scoreboard. The Tigers had again taken a one run lead on a home run by Popeye Walker in the sixth, but the Hounds took a 7 to 5 lead in the seventh. Phillips got by the eighth without any runs, but got into trouble in the ninth and was relieved by Madson. Union City took kindly to his offerings and hammered him without mercy. Seven runs were picked up in the closing frame and the game ended 14 to 5.

The Tigers showed some nice fielding for the most part, but failure to hit in the clutches cost many runs. Three times they packed the runways, and twice they failed to score after this.

Draft Head Would Skip Men Over Thirty As Too Old For Service

Philadelphia. --The national director of selective service wants to revise United States draft procedure to exempt men over 30.

"They are too settled after that age," said Gen. Lewis S. Hershey in recommending Congressional action to give the President the right to defer by age classes.

"They are past their physical peak and many find it hard to learn new skills. That has been our experience in the draft to date."

Among the older men--those in their 30's--General Hershey said "there is a great deal more dependency than among younger draftees and physical disabilities are more frequent."

Seen "Flat Bowl."
"Physical co-ordination is demanded for training in tanks, planes and other implements of mechanized warfare. Young men are able to fill the requirements better."

After visiting Independence Hall yesterday to see the "fish bowl" from which draft numbers were drawn in 1917 and 1940, General Hershey told a gathering of Selective Service Board members:

"While we have fears for the future, they do not deal with things outside America. No great empire has ever fallen from pressure without. We must look at the internal situation and strive for unity."

1,418,000 By July
He estimated that the United States would have 1,418,000 men in the field by July 1 and that from 60,000 to 75,000 would be inducted each month during the remainder of the year.

Asked if drafted men would be out of service in a year, the General replied:

"I'm no prophet. I couldn't tell for sure if it would rain today but if I were a farmer and it looked like this I'd get my hay in."

Washington. -- Chief Justice Hughes said Tuesday that the people of the United States "are engaged in harnessing our national power for the defense of our way of life," but that this way of life "is worth while only because it is the pathway of the just."

Addressing the annual session of the American Law Institute, the Chief Justice pointed out that "the lamps of justice are dimmed or have wholly gone out in many parts of the earth, but these lights are still shining brightly here."

"It is our high privilege, although our task may seem prosaic," he added, "to strengthen the defenses of democracy by commending to public confidence and esteem the working of the institutions

Training For Defense
By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International
Correspondence Schools

At this moment, we in the United States have a 14 billion dollar job confronting us. It is the job created by the money which has been appropriated for a national defense program. It is a stupendous undertaking, one which may well decide the future of our civilization.

Vast quantities of materials and supplies must be assembled to build ships, tanks, airplanes, guns; to maintain the fighting men who man our first line of defense; to equip the one or two million men who make up a "protective mobilization force." There are new plants to be erected, machinery to be built and installed, and skilled men to be developed.

The United States has virtually all the essentials needed—the money, the natural resources, the man power, and the industrial leadership.

Only one thing is lacking—a sufficient number of trained men. This problem can and will be solved, but it is one that will make our defense program slow up in spots. Although much has been done by some industrial groups to provide for a sufficient force of skilled workmen, others have been slow in establishing an apprentice training plant. The skilled mechanic never had a greater opportunity to serve his country and himself.

● Doggone it. I know of but one way to get revenge and I am now trying to get things shaped up with this end in view. I have challenged the Preacher to a round of golf and he has accepted. Now in ordinary course of events I would not worry over this, for I know he has not played golf in a long time and if I could play as well as I once did I could trim him up and down, I think. But, alas, I have not played either the one or the other day, in preparation for sweet revenge. I went out and played a round. I

DEDUCT JUDGEMENTS
FROM NET INCOME

Frankfort, Ky.—Sheriffs lack authority to deduct court judgments against them from their net income in computing allowances under the State Highway Patrol Act, Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman said today.

The act limits sheriffs' allowances for patrolling roadhouses and other duties to $1,500 a year. It amounts to the difference between a sheriff's receipts for a current year and the highest net income of him or his predecessor, provided the sheriff's entire income does not exceed the $5,000 constitutional limit.

T. E. Mahan, Williamsburg attorney, had asked whether Mrs. Eliza Ellison, Whitley county sheriff, could credit a judgement for damages against her for a death caused by a deputy shooting into an auto.

The Railroads, Too, Have Voices

As if to discourage any undue optimism, there are voices that are being raised these days in earnest if indirect prophecy of ultimate disaster for the railroads. These are the voices promoting unplanned, uncoordinated and costly transportation. They forecast inland waterways thickly sprinkled with carriers from barges to ocean-going liners, highways packed with motor trucks, sky black with airplanes, pipelines tunneling under roads and rails.

Railroads have a story, too, and they have voices to tell it. MILLIONS OF VOICES. Voices that call for planning in transportation. Voices that recognize the supremacy of railroads as the nation's chief reliance for transportation. Voices that declare railway service is essential and, with half a chance, cannot be beaten in doing its job.

These are the voices, first of all, of railway managements, the official spokesmen of the industry. Then the owners, too, a million or more. Then the direct creditors, another million. Then the indirect creditors, many additional millions—savings bank depositors, insurance policy holders, teachers and students in endowed institutions of learning.

Added to these for anything that clearly benefits the industry as a whole are the voices of railway labor. They speak for more than a million workers devoting lives to this form of public service. And last, but not least, are the voices of those among the public who believe in the ORDERLY development of the nation's transportation.

These are persuasive voices. They are voices strong in the justice of their cause. They are voices that must be heard and will not be denied.
