FULTON, KY., FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1939.

NUMBER NINETEEN.

COMMITTEE TO HOLD PRIMARY ON AUG. 5

The Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee met at the court house Saturday afternoon with 13 members, or proxies in attendance and three members absent. The committee, called to order by Chairman Archie Cultra, passed a resolution calling a county primary election on August 5 to name nominees of the party for sheriff, trustee and tax assessor. The run-off date was set for August 12, in the event no candidate receives a majority vote on August 5. The entire committee will canvass the vote on Tuesday following the primary, and the vote of the run off on Tuesday following that election.

Midnight of July 3rd was fixed as the final date of qualification for candidacy in the three races in order to have names printed on the ballot, and a filing fee of $100 was fixed for each candidate.

The primary board named to conduct the primary and run off elections is composed of Claude Summers, chairman; Mrs. B. B. Maxwell, secretary; Harrison Green, G. W. Robey and Guy Calhoun.

The resignation of Jeff Corum of the eleventh district was tendered and accepted, and the committee elected Harrison Green of the same district to succeed him. Mr. Corum's resignation was because of his having accepted a WPA job since his election to this office, and holding an office such as this is forbidden by the WPA.

All known legally qualified Democrats will be allowed to vote in the election, and persons who will be 21 years of age before the regular county election in 1940 will be allowed to vote. No poll tax payment will be required, and registration will be required for thirteenth and sixteenth district voters.

SIX TEAMS BATTLE FOR ALL-STAR GAME

Six clubs of the Kitty League, with Fulton and Union City out of the running, are battling to be on top on July 4th, and capture the honor of having the all-star game on their own diamond. The team leading the league on that date will be host to the all-star classic, and will provide the opposition for picked players from the other seven clubs.

The all-star game was inaugurated by the Paducah Sun-Democrat, and the idea met the approval of the league officials so well that it is a yearly event. Gate receipts are turned into the Kitty treasury, and are helpful in relieving financial difficulties.

Jackson was sponsored in 1937 and Mayfield in 1938. Paducah in sixth place is only 5 1-2 games behind Bowling Green, now in first place. Union City and Fulton have practically no chance to play host to the all-star game. The Greyhound club has been revamped and is now making steady strides in the winning column, but Fulton has suffered in five straight losses, and is badly in need of better material since the class rule was lifted.

Cayce Jones Boy Scout Troop Is Formed

The parents and friends of Boy Scout age in the Cayce community met Thursday night, April 27, at the Cayce school building for the purpose of forming a Boy Scout organization. A good number of people were present and showed a very fine spirit in perfecting the organization. Mr. Foad Homra and Mr. Bertie Pigue of Fulton and Mr. Roy Manchester, Scout Executive for the Chief Paducah Council were present to help with working out the organization. The Parent-Teachers Association was chosen as the sponsoring body. The following men were chosen by the group as a Troop Committee: A. G. Campbell, Ray Thomas, Cliff Wade, A. J. Lowe, Robert Ballew, J. C. Menees, and Roy Parish, Chairman. The Troop Committee then elected Kenneth Oliver as Scoutmaster and Clyde Corum Assistant Scoutmaster. The Committee decided to name the troop the "Cayce Jones Troop" in honor of the famed railroad engineer of that name.

The boys met for their first Troop meeting Tuesday night, May 30, with seventeen boys present. The boys were: Jack Parish, Billy Lowe, Billy Pat Sheehan, Joe Albert Searce, John Roland Harrison, Billy Dyer, Joe Campbell, Charles McMurray, Wade Brockman, Charles A. Sloan, Charles Thomas, Roy Eugene Wade, Roy Nethery, Lemuel Simpson, Kiethly Cruce, and Eugene Cruce. The boys entered very enthusiastically into their tenderfoot requirements and seem to be on the road toward becoming real Scouts.

June Declared As National Dairy Month

The production of milk is increasing rapidly (all records were broken in 1938) and the consumer is purchasing less.

There is a greater stability of farm income from dairying than from all other agricultural commodities.

During the past nine years of the difficult depression period, dairying has proved to be the mainstay of farm income. Since 1930 the price paid for farmers for milk has been as high as, or considerably higher than, the general level of all other farm prices.

During the 1930 depression years, retail prices of dairy products, and of food in general, declined substantially more than the cost of rent, clothing, house furnishings, and other major expenses making up the consumers' cost of living. The dairy farmer's share of the retail price of his product ranks sixth. Pork products 62%, eggs 59%, lamb products 55%, hens 50%, navy beans 44%, dairy products 43%.

Thrift is better than an annuity. Little things please little minds.

There is no wide-spread error that hath not truth for its beginning.

Dr. Seldon Cohn, who has been a member of the Illinois Central System's medical staff for many years, has been named district surgeon for the railroad, succeeding the late Dr. Horace Luten. Dr. M. W. Haws replaces Dr. Cohn as local surgeon, and Dr. D. L. Jones has been chosen acting local surgeon.

FRY SHOE STORE GETS READY FOR SUMMER

Fry Shoe Store has received a thorough rejuvenation, with bright, new and colorful finish of interior being innovated. The shelves and counters have received new dressing, and the general appearance of the store is eye-appealing. William Scott is manager of the store.

It has often been said, and in this column too, that accidents do not happen—they are caused.

The cause of any particular accident may be attributed to a careless driver or pedestrian, to a defect in the highway, to a mechanical defect, to hazardous weather conditions, or to a combination of a number of these factors.

Yearly statistics, as prepared by all states and bureaus, indicate that the human element is the outstanding cause. The driver of the automobile is usually responsible for the accident. According to the statistics given in recent years, two out of every three accidents involve mistakes by drivers. Excessive speed, driving on the wrong side of the road, disregard of traffic signal, and other careless habits have contributed to the high frequency of accidents.

We are to blame—not the machine.

WORLDS TALLEST MAN TO BE HERE JULY 4TH

The Young Men's Business Club will sponsor the Second Annual Old Car Derby at the Fair Grounds, on Tuesday, July 4th, and an outstanding added attraction was announced here this week. Robert Wadlow of Alton, Ill., the tallest man ever known, will make his personal appearance here that day. He is 8 feet, 11 1-2 inches tall, and weighs 487 pounds. This attraction alone is expected to draw thousands of people, for this is the first time he has appeared in this territory.

Older model cars, made between 1900 and 1926 are eligible for entry in the Old Car Derby. The race will be for 50 miles which is 100 laps around the fine dirt track at the fair grounds here. $100 will be awarded winners in this race. The derby last year drew a crowd of 15,000 people, and even this attendance record is expected to be broken as many new attractions have been added to an all-day program.

In the morning a game of baseball will be played at Fairfield Park between the Union City Greyhounds and the Fulton Tigers. The Old Car Derby attractions begin immediately after noon. Highlights of the program include a band concert, boxing, jitterbug contests for both colored and white, amateur contests consisting of quartets, singing, dancing, harmonica playing, hill-billy music, novelty numbers, with prizes offered in each contest. Anyone wanting to enter any of these events should contact the Old Car Derby Headquarters at once.

Another interesting event is the bicycle race in which scores of young boys will compete. Entries are now coming in, and this race is expected to appeal to youth and adults alike. The Drag Race promises to be chuck-full of thrills and laughs. It is something entirely new and different in this section. Those having fox hounds are urged to enter them and compete for the money prizes and added purse.

John Young Brown, candidate for governor of Kentucky, will head the speaking program. Many Kentuckians will be interested in this because of the nearness of the primary election in August. Other prominent speakers are expected to be present.

Several thousand advance tickets have already been sold, and the price of admission remains at 10c this year.

OUTDATED JOBS

When we consider passing institutions, we may remember only the picturesque side of customs that used to be, forgetting that every change in customs threw people out of jobs or else reduced them to a lower social rank. It is well to recall some of these important achievements that once loomed large but are now small or even forgotten. The man under a handstick at a log-rolling does not seem so important now as he did when a strong back was the measure of a man. Who of you could pilot a raft down a treacherous stream, or build an ark, or Kentucky boat? Who knows how to wield a cradle in cutting wheat or a flail in threshing it? Could you carry a corner at a house-raising or make correctly the whole set of rafters for a house or barn? Can you rive boards with a frow or hew logs for a house or other building? How many of you know how to make maple syrup or soft soap? I know that many people have lovingly kept alive the old-time processes of carrying on a house and farm, but most of us have been out of practice so long that we could not be sure of ourselves.

In home industries of all sorts there has been a shift of emphasis until many of the great arts of the world are likely to be forgotten by the average person. Cotton cards are museum things to nearly everybody now living; wool rolls to be spun in the spinning wheel would be a seven-days' wonder to many people under forty. Probably two-thirds of the population of the state at this very moment have never pieced quilts, and almost a hundred per cent would not know how to weave a coverlet. In other times these arts were necessities; today they are not for most of us; but there still lingers around these customs an enchantment that no amount of modern conveniences can quite dispel.

Though almost all of our contemporaries can drive an automobile, the time was, only a few years ago, that a man who could run a steam engine was a wonder. How would you like to be called on to pilot a steamboat down the Ohio or the Mississippi, even though you may have been driving a car for years? Incidentally, wouldn't it be difficult to direct a caravan of prairie schooners across the plains in the style of the Forty-niners? A hundred years ago the clipper ship was just yielding to the steam ship, but very few are left today who could even understand the language of the old sailing vessels. To the average harbor comes occasionally a sailing vessel, often a tramp, a smacking of the old, old times, but as strange to most of us as a raft of logs, such as the two huge ones I saw last winter.

Sometimes there are spasmodic attempts to reintroduce old-time arts, but at best we all know that these attempts are destined to a short life unless they are connected in some way with some permanent institution that can promote and protect them. I miss the sound of the spinning wheel, but I know that there's small likelihood of my hearing it again in the way I heard it as a boy. I like the taste of viands cooked on the fire, but I am content to eat what we cook when we camp out and then depend on the gas stove for the rest. One can become sentimental about these old things without losing sight of the advantages of their successor.

WHAT ABOUT JOBS?

Jobs for the young man or woman are available today—in spite of frequent statements that youth at present faces the very unpleasant prospect of a hard, hard world, in which they must work to live, and yet a world which hasn't enough jobs to go rounds.

"Where are these jobs, and what are my prospects of getting just one of them?" asks the young person of today.

Job-hunting is selling—selling one's self and his ambitions. The trick is to sell these two things to the employer that wants them. But who is he, and where is he?

The answer isn't easy and can't be reduced to a line o' type or two. It obviously depends on who asks the question, where he is, and what his experience has been so far.

Job-hunting is both an art and a "break." The "art" includes a lot of common sense and some knowledge of how to look, talk, and "approach" the prospective employer. The "break" includes the popular idea of luck which, when examined carefully, isn't luck at all but again common sense and stickability.

The thoughtful youngster isn't going to look for a job with the railroad. Job totals there are declining and seniority is too all-important.

He isn't going to try to get on the payroll in highly technical industries like the local telephone company or light and power company—unless it is in a "small job" capacity.

He isn't going to try to "make" the auditor's office without a lot of bookkeeping experience and accounting theory and practice to match it.

He is going to offer himself to employers in the trades and service groups. People must have food, clothing and shelter. Better clerks and assistants of all sorts are eagerly desired by managers and personnel officers.

He may consider seriously government jobs—of which, due to the tremendous growth of social services sponsored by local and federal governments, there is an increasing number. Pay is good, the experience useful.

He should consider selling. If he has a good appearance, gets along easily with people and can convince others as well as himself, here is a golden field. Few concerns in business today have enough good salesmen. Few fields offer the same opportunity to "push one's self", gather useful information, expand one's interests, and "get the eye" of the higher-ups, thus securing more rapid promotion.

The ranks of the unemployed need not frighten the youngster who organizes his information and works hard to discover openings such as these, who approaches the employer with frankness and without the "help-you-run-the-business" attitude; who will work—not only hard but hard enough to deserve his $8, $10, or $12 pay check. He isn't satisfied with its size, but he is glad to have it while he gets what is much more important, experience, and he looks forward to the time when it will be $25, $35, $50, or more, because he has thought, planned, worked.

Business Registers Gain Over Recent Week And Last Year

Business during the closing week of May again registered improvement over the levels of recent weeks and the comparative period a year ago, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. Retail trade for the week showed marked improvement over last year, though the Memorial Day holiday tended to reduce volumes in some lines from those in preceding week. Increased activity was noted in certain lines of wholesale business, and there was evidence of relaxing the extremely cautious buying policies prevailing for some time. Operations in the steel industry were stepped up and ingot out put at 52 per cent of capacity was 7 points higher than in the week previous. Sales of new cars continue to show large gains over a year earlier. Automobiles, however, have been adversely influenced by the labor dispute at the plants of a leading body manufacturer and past week's holiday. Construction activity is well above last year, and residential work continues to be awarded at a favorable rate.

Louisville reported that the volume of retail trade continued to run ahead of year ago. Wholesale markets reported pickup in sales and further relaxing of the caution felt in past several weeks.

Twenty-two mines in Harlan County, Ky., now operating without union labor contracts.

Kentucky employment service reported placements the past week totaled 874, an increase of 12 per cent over preceding week.

Louisville bank clearings increased 15 per cent over year ago.

Corn planting still being done in some areas of the district at rapid rate; planted fields now showing fine stands. Many tobacco growers ready to transplant. Regular stock sales at Richmond, Ky., disposed of 1,723 head of livestock for $23,134. Cholera epidemic threatens swine in Calloway County area.

Work expected to start July 1 on the $1,200,000 main building for new Kentucky State Hospital, to be built as part of the $3,000,000 elementary institution near Danville.

CONDITIONS VITAL TO PROSPERITY

A study made some time ago by a group of industrialists and economists found that certain conditions always prevailed in periods of prosperity in this country. Among them were:

1. Absence of arbitrary or uneconomic governmental restrictions on the production or marketing of goods in an effort to control prices or to secure other oppressive effects.
2. Absence of governmental activity which prevents the effective functioning of private enterprise.
3. Government regulations limited to promotion of fair competition and equal opportunity in the field of competitive enterprise.
4. Moderate and equitable taxes not having as their purposes the control or uneconomic restriction of industry, agriculture or Commerce.

It takes no economist to see that today those conditions are largely lacking—and the result is our prolonged depression. Government has gone actively into competition with certain private industries, thus throttling private investment and employment, and other industries are threatened. Government regulation in certain instances has been so extended that it amounts to government management of private enterprise. Rigorous, uneconomic controls have been placed on the manufacture and distribution of goods, to the end that efficient producers and distributors have been penalized, and the consuming public has taken the rap. And finally, our "deficit" fiscal policy has placed a burden on productive enterprise that is very close to unbearable. Equally important, taxation has been used to penalize certain businesses, as well as to produce revenue.

There can be no sustained prosperity in this country so long as taxes take the profit out of industrial undertakings, so long as the investor fears government as a competitor which may ruthlessly destroy his savings overnight, so long as honest competition in either production or distribution is penalized, and so long as our affairs are brought more and more under bureaucratic control. That is the lesson of history—and we seem to have spent ten bitter years ignoring it.

Pleading guilty to a charge of burglary, Gordon McMaster of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., asked that he be given the maximum sentence because he was tired of bumming around.

In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Ruth Andrews of Sioux City, Ia., demanded possession of 14 calves, 7 sows, 2 cows and a flock of chickens on the grounds that she had to do all the work necessary to raise them.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

John Y. Brown opened his campaign for Governor last week at Morganfield and the gathering of the political elite was an ominous one for the other side, with indications that a bitterly fought close contest will be the result.

Senator Barkley, as Frederic Wallis so aptly said, stopped his work on National affairs of Government to come down and endorse John for Governor. John made a strong speech before a large crowd and the battle is on.

The legal minds around Frankfort are (and this is inside information) forecasting that the Wage-Hour law is unconstitutional, and that if it is questioned in court it will be ruled that way. If this happens the job holders of the Wage-Hour Administration will be out of work, and right at election time too.

Hetch Lackey of Paducah and Ralph Gilbert of Shelbyville announced for Lieutenant Governor making five now in the race for that place with the possibility that two more may announce.

Dr. A. Y. Loyd, head of the Old Age Assistance division of the Department of Welfare, announced for Superintendent of Public Instruction last week. He is from Providence, a graduate of Western Teachers and Vanderbilt and a former instructor at Morehead Teachers College, a young man who will make a strong candidate.

Although the tolls on State bridges have been greatly reduced, the revenue from them has not fallen in proportion because of increased traffic at the lower rates.

That the State is in a sound condition financially, was shown last week when $3,125,000 of refunding bridge bonds were sold for $3,135,906 or $10,906 above face value. The bonds carry an interest of 1 1/2%.

That a happy solution to the County debt situation, is a 3% tax on pari mutual betting, was brought again to the public, with editorials in newspapers taken from facts given in this column, because it is a serious situation and the solution is easy, we again give you these facts:

There are 93 counties which have debts and 29 of those have defaulted their bonds.

A 3% tax on betting at racetracks would soon pay off these debts and get the counties on a sound financial footing. The tax on betting is the easiest form of taxation as the winners at the races don't object and the losers don't care.

A number of the States have this tax and Kentucky should assess it as business and the farmer cannot be burdened further.

PROTECT SUMMER HOMES AND CAMPS FROM FIRE

The pleasure and profit to be gained from summer homes and camps can be transformed easily into tragedy and loss by fire. These temporary homes, by their very nature, call for greater vigilance during week-end and vacation occupancy.

The use of kerosene for lamps and stoves is a common source of fire. But if a few simple rules are observed, the danger can be greatly reduced. Fill lamps and stoves in the daylight so you can see what you are doing. Store kerosene and all other flammable liquids outside the house. Use a tank or drum that has a drip-proof faucet and keep a drip pan under the faucet. Never start or hasten a fire with kerosene or any other flammable liquid.

If a portable kerosene heater is to be used, make sure it is one listed by the Underwriters' Laboratories.

Don't make improper alterations or extensions of electric wiring. Guard against over-heating of stoves which are near woodwork; the usual sheet of metal attached to the woodwork is of little value in protecting against ignition. Smokepipes should not pass through walls or partitions of wood or with wood lath.

Burn accumulations of rubbish and litter in a metal incinerator. When fires are started outdoors never leave them unattended.

Because summer homes and camps usually are remote from fire departments, and since water it not always readily available, keep fire pails and pump tanks or fire extinguishers on hand and know how to use them. If there is an extinguisher in your car, that too affords valuable fire protection to the summer home as well as on the road or in the garage.

And speaking of automobiles, if you value your life, don't burn up the roads and don't burn up the countryside. Throwing lighted cigarettes and cigars out of the windows of your car as you pass along the road, may cause great loss of life and property. Use the ashtrays provided by the car manufacturer for disposing of stubs and ashes. And be sure you have plenty of ashtrays around that summer camp or cottage.

Do your part to protect your life, your property, and the great outdoors against fire.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

We have always known that the Malco Fulton Theatres were bringing the best in screen entertainment to Fulton, and many times, before the features were shown elsewhere in this territory. But a recent trip around and about Fulton made us realize that theatre-goers in adjoining communities and the rural section know this, too. Manager Meeks should have heard the many favorable remarks we heard about pictures shown on the local screen.

Entries are coming in for the Old Car Derby. Anyone having a model between 1900 and 1920 should get in the race for real fun and the cash awards being given by the Young Men's Business Club. Come on, join the thousands who are coming. Twelve big attractions, including the personal appearance of Robert Wadlow, the world's tallest giant, 6 feet and 11 1/2 inches in height.

If you are a jitterbug, get in the money. There is a jitterbug contest for both white and colored. Practice up, and do your stuff.

All you amateurs get set for the contests at the Old Car Derby. Can you sing, yodel, croon, dance a jig, blow a jug, tickle a fiddle, jar down on a harmonica? Well, you'd better enter this contest. Who knows, fame and fortune may be yours by making use of your talents.

There is a dangerous corner on Highway 45, Detour, from Riceville to Highlands. It is a blind corner, and you can't see another car coming until you have made the corner. Weeds on the corner lot should be cut down by the Highway Department. It might save a wreck even a life.

Our friend, E. J. Stahr of Hickman, who is making the race for Senator from Fulton, Hickman and Graves counties, is getting off to a good start. We have talked with many people recently who favor him for the office, even Graves county people feel that Fulton-Hickman counties are due to send a man to the legislature this time, according to information imparted to us. But regardless, he is going to be a mighty hard man to beat, for he is out working, meeting old friends and making new ones.

We have been wondering if the city of Fulton is going to get a new sprinkler. Councilman McNeilly recently stated that the old one is all shot beyond repair. Word has got around among many local business firms, and they favor a new sprinkler, which is badly needed during the summer months to keep out streets spick and span—and keep down dust that flies everywhere. The Illinois Central has promised to oil the railroad right-of-way through the downtown district and this is a good move. Let's get a new sprinkler.

Over in South Fulton many changes have been taking place in recent months. Our sister city now has its own water system, and if plans carry through they expect to obtain TVA electricity. The many civic moves by the board of aldermen and the mayor show that they are awake and ready to consider any proposition that means progress. And that's what it takes to build a community.

We are told that the project to obtain a new school building for Fulton is now first on the waiting list. And if funds held out long enough, the project will receive the okay of the federal government. Let us hope that everything works out, for we are in need of a new grammar school building.

And while we are speaking of things that should be done to improve our community, we would like to call attention to the Harris Fork Creek. Every time we have a big rain or a flood, many citizens get all worked up about controlling this overflow condition, but just as soon as the threat is over, everybody seems to forget. This is a project that should have been taken up long ago. It could have been worked out and put through during the past few years. The federal government was ready and anxious to cooperate in programs of this kind to the benefit of a community. But, seriously, let us not forget this nuisance, which is proving both costly and unsightly.

Bing Brings 4 New Song Sensations

To be an asset to a motion picture a song must have more than just the qualities to make it a popular hit.

So believe Johnny Burke and James Monaco, who composed the four songs Bing Crosby sings in his new Universal picture, "East Side of Heaven," coming to the Fulton Theatre on Sunday.

"Naturally a song must have popular appeal or it's no good at all," declare Burke and Monaco. "But if it is to be sung in a picture, it also must blend with the theme.

In other words, instead of slowing down the story, the song must give it even greater motivation."

Well Known Hits

Burke and Monaco wrote four songs for "East Side of Heaven"—"Sing a Song of Sunbeams," "Hang Your Heart on a Hickory Limb," "East Side of Heaven" and "That Sly Old Gentleman From Featherbed Lane."

To make sure these numbers would fit in with the action of the picture, the composers moved right in with Herbert Polesie, co-author of the original story and production associate on the film. Working hand in hand with Polesie, they concocted four numbers that are a definite part of the story.

Record Breakers

In addition, these songs give every evidence of being just as popular as some of the previous Burke-Monaco hits such as "I've Got A Pocketful of Dreams," "Doctor Rhythm," "Crazy People," "Dirty Hands, Dirty Face," "This Is My Night To Dream," "One Two, Button Your Shoe" and "Beat of My Heart."

Joan Blondell co-stars with Crosby in this picture which was directed by David Butler. Included in the supporting cast are Mischa Auer, Irene Hervey, C. Aubrey Smith, Jerome Cowan and baby "Sandy."

Fertilizer Attachment Got Empty

HERE'S what happens when fertilizer is omitted from one row of corn at planting time while it is being applied to the next row, says a bulletin of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. The fertilizer attachment on the planter became empty on one side. So the row on the right was unfertilized, while the row on the left received an application of 150 pounds of fertilizer. In the above photograph taken on the middle of the growing season the corn on the right was 1 1/2 feet shorter and not tasseled like the corn in the row alongside of it. And at harvest time the row on the right yielded a much smaller crop than its fertilized neighbor which had had the benefit of plant food.

whether fertilizer would be more effective if applied under the soil of a permanent pasture, instead of broadcast on the pasture. Dr. Ferguson's answer is, "No, provided the soil is good enough to produce a satisfactory cover after treatment."

Tests of the two methods of application show that broadcasting is always as effective as subsurface treatments and generally better. Generally speaking, says Prof. Ferguson, it is best to apply fertilizer to pastures between fall and spring, but the work may be done any time it is convenient. Perhaps livestock should be kept off a pasture after top-dressing and until the material has disappeared from the herbage.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"God, the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday June 11, 1939.

The Golden Text is "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep: O Lord, thou preservest man and beast." (Psalms 36:6.)

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The President's address to the Retailers' Federation was amiable and non-aggressive in tone. But, according to the Washington observers, it was far from being non-aggressive in intent. It definitely committed the Administration to a continuance of the spending policy—and, in the words of the Washington team of Alsop and Kent et al, "read out of the Democratic party to all those who do not stand with him on that issue."

As everyone who reads the newspapers knows, a quiet but extremely important "war" has been going on within the White House circle. On the one side have been those who favor a reduction in spending, and a revision of our tax laws in the light of business requests. Leaders of this group have been Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Assistant Secretary Hanes, and RFC Chairman Jones.

Pitted against these men have been those Administration aides who are usually considered of left-wing persuasion. Best known are Cohen and Corcoran. Neither of this team occupy Federal jobs of any great importance—but they have long wielded a tremendous influence in the White House. They have a sizable group of followers scattered among all the departments of the Government, especially those which were brought into being by this Administration.

The internal struggles lasted some time. "Now," to quote Alsop and Kintner once more, "the struggles in the palace seem to be at an end. The spenders are triumphant." As reported by several trustworthy Capital newsmen, the advocates of a slow-up in spending were hardly consulted during the preparation of the President's speech to the retailers.

The significance of all this is apparent—and it affects not only the affairs of today, but the affairs of tomorrow. It appears that Mr. Roosevelt, in seeking the elusive key to recovery, has definitely decided that continued government spending on a big, and perhaps even increasing scale is necessary—that spending must be accepted as a more or less "normal" function of the government, as well as an "emergency" function. And, in all probability, it means that the political battle of 1940 will have spending as its central domestic issue—an issue overshadowing all others, save, perhaps, that of war.

The Republicans, of course, are committed to a certain amount of economy, and they will naturally use the issue to the full in seeking to unseat the Administration. And the Democrats are far from being unanimously committed to spending, in spite of the President's apparent decision. The conservative wing of Southern Democrats is strong for retrenchment, and it has enlisted powerful supporters from the mid-western wing. And opposition to the White House in Congress is obviously increasing.

What this adds up to is that Mr. Roosevelt is putting himself in a position where he can lead a new party (though it might keep the Democratic party name) whose principal appeal would be to the spenders and experimenters. Whether he wants or intends to do this is of course another question, and one which cannot yet be answered. Some think he is really preparing to read the dissenters in Democratic ranks out of the party. This, too, cannot yet be said to be a known fact, and it is certain he would run into many problems in trying to do it.

At any rate, the political lines that will divide the opponents next year become clearer and better defined. Clearer, too, becomes the fact that the next Democratic convention is likely to be the scene of a first rate fight between the New Deal and the anti-New Deal Democrats. It's going to be an eventful year.

Those economists who are wondering just how much longer the world can go on building up its armaments without entering bankruptcy are getting more and more food for sober thought and argument.

We are the richest country in the world, and our $1,126,000,000 national defense bill for the next fiscal year is the largest in our peace time history. Yet this is hardly a drop in the bucket compared to what Europe and Asia are spending. Great Britain's budget is close to $3,000,000,000. Japan's is over $1,500,000,000. France's is about the same as ours. Italy's is $611,000,000 and will probably be increased. Germany doesn't publish figures of this nature, but her arms expense is huge.

Lastly—hold your breath here—the U.S.S.R. has announced a defense budget running to the almost unbelievable sum of $7,700,000,000. That is creating plenty of headaches among Russia's potential enemies. And it comes as encouraging news to the European democracies, which hope to enlist "the bear that walks like a man" as an ally.

These figures show why the standard of living abroad is steadily dropping. In Germany, it is said, one-fourth of the entire national income goes for arms and public works, neither of which is edible.

PAYS TO FERTILIZE PERMANENT PASTURE

In answer to the frequent question of whether it pays to broadcast fertilizer on permanent pasture in Kentucky, Dr. E. N. Ferguson of the Agriculture Experiment Station at Lexington replies, "Definitely yes, provided the pasture has a reasonably good sod and is on a soil that needs fertilizer."

Results of pasture top-dressing experiments conducted in Kentucky in cooperation with the Tennessee Valley Authority during the past four years indicate that applications of about 140 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate per acre per year to permanent pastures outside the Bluegrass region will increase the herbage production about 20 per cent and protein production per acre about 25 per cent. Liming did not increase herbage yields but did increase protein production. Summarizing all results, it appears that each dollar expended for limestone and phosphate produced an income of $5 measured in terms of value of protein, calculated at its market value in concentrates or else in terms of gain in weight of beef cattle.
