THE LISTENING POST

From the news stories of a recent newspaper convention held in Gulpport, Miss., I gather that the publishers did not have a great deal of pleasure from one part of the program. It seems that a highly placed member of the Wages and Hours Division of the United States government had been invited to make an address and this man, in no gentle terms, upbraided the newspaper profession and advised the members to live up to Wages and Hours legislation rigidly. He did not mince any words and assured every publisher there that his department would certainly move against them at the first opportunity. He called some names and named some newspapers, too, and in general threw the convention into an uproar.

Knowing that in all probability Fred Sullens, Jackson, Miss., publisher, was present, I waited for the blowoff and it was not long in coming. Sullens took the floor shortly afterwards and paid his respects to the gentleman who had spoken. The Jackson publisher, who seldom pulls any punches, said that the government bureau in Washington was filled with "riffraff, ragtag, scum of creation and shyster lawyers." This is quite in character with Mr. Sullens, who usually says what he thinks, and his thinking is generally of the acid type. Mr. Jacobs, who had made the speech for the government bureau, listened to Mr. Sullens and then also listened to Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas Morning News, which has had some trouble with the wages and hours boys.

Publisher Sullens made his attack a bit broader, too, when he said that "there is entirely too much codding of organized labor. We are kowtowing too much to men of the John Lewis type and the William Green sort. I declare they are just as dangerous enemies to this country as Hitler himself. We are undergoing strikes today which may cost thousands of lives tomorrow. Any man who strikes today in a defense industry is just as disloyal as if a German subject."

The Dallas publisher denied that the government had brought a suit against his newspaper, as charged by Jacobs in his address. "The Dallas Morning News brought that suit against the government," he shouted. "We got eternally tired of wage and hour investigators sneaking around our plant. Every morning there would be a new one or two turn up to investigate something. They interfered with our work. So we went to court to find out whether our policy was correct." The Dallas man said also that he favored censoring those who were responsible for the appearance of Jacobs on the program, except for one thing. "Obviously those who brought this man here could not have known what sort of speech he planned to make. He gave us unshrunk hell. I contend it was in bad taste."

A straw which may indicate something new is seen in the announcement that Philip Fleming, head of the Wages and Hours Division, is planning a trip to England. It is whispered that he is desirous of studying the effect of longer hours for working men that has been experienced in England, and may ask some sensational changes when he comes back to this country. England started the war with the firm belief that business could be carried on as usual, with short working hours and the usual week-end vacations, and it was a year before these things were changed. France never changed and was swallowed by the Nazi legions from a nation that has never heard of short working days.

However, it does not appear likely that there will be any basic change in this country until there is more pressing and immediate danger. It is not likely that any change could be made now without the greatest wave of strikes that the nation has ever seen. La-

Burrow Fight Involves Million In Orders

Louisville Official's Dismissal Brings Halt In Negotiations

Louisville, Ky. --More than $1,000,000 in national defense orders became involved today in the efforts of the Kentucky Federation of Labor to obtain the dismissal of W. C. Burrow, state commissioner of industrial relations.

This angle of the affair became known when a conference on a strike now in progress at the Louisville Tin & Stove Company was postponed.

The conference was called off after Burrow telegraphed John R. Walsh, manager of the Louisville office of industrial relations department, notifying him of his indefinite suspension. Burrow appointed R. E. Bailey, Owensboro, assistant manager of the bureau, to Walsh's position.

Walsh had arranged the conference in an effort to settle the strike which involves 300 employees of the company.

Burrow Dismissal Asked
The Federation of Labor through its secretary, Ed C. Weyer, yesterday said the labor group had asked Gov. Keen Johnson to dismiss Burrow on the grounds that "due to negligence or inability" the commissioner was unable "to fully perform his duty."

The federation at the same time praised the work being done by Walsh and charged Burrow attempted to "throttle" the Louisville bureau manager.

At Frankfort, Burrow viewed the efforts to oust him as "Republican politics and said he had no intention of 'resigning under fire.'"

Weyer said he and officials of the Tin and Stove Company agreed after Walsh's suspension not to hold the conference unless Walsh was present, as he has conducted hearings and was familiar with the controversy.

Confidence In Walsh
J. L. Wrege, president of the company, expressed confidence in Walsh and said he was disappointed because the conference could not be held as he had hoped to work out some sort of a plan for going ahead with the defense orders. He disclosed that in addition to the orders he now has for defense material, the company has been awarded another contract for $1,000,000 worth of material, to be delivered, starting in June.

State Seeks Early Trial Of Men Under Indictment In Benton

Benton, Ky. --Commonwealth's Attorney Holland G. Bryan said Thursday an effort will be made to dispose of the indictments returned late Wednesday by a special Marshall County grand jury at the June term of Circuit Court, which opens June 23.

The indictments charged twelve Benton and Marshall County officials and tavern and lunch stand operators with violating anti-gambling and liquor sale laws.

Says Some Left County
Bryan said it was reported to him that some of the defendants left the county soon after Circuit Judge Joe L. Price issued a call for the special grand jury about ten days ago.

Neal Owens, Benton city patrolman, was charged in fourteen indictments with accepting bribes to protect two places in Benton. In five of the true bills he was charged with accepting from $15 to $25 a month from Felix L. Bailey, operator of a pool hall and lunch stand, and in the other nine he was ac-

Mike Johnson Is Candidate For Sheriff Of Fulton County In The August Primary--Strong Contender

It is with real pleasure that this newspaper makes the announcement that Mike Johnson, well known taxi operator and party worker, is a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Fulton County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in August of this year. Mr. Johnson's name appears in the regular announcement column today, and he is the first to make the announcement for this important office.

For the past 31 years Mr. Johnson has operated a taxi line between Fulton and Hickman, starting years ago when an automobile trip between the two towns of the county was a sort of adventure. In good weather and bad, over good and bad roads Mr. Johnson saw that his passengers got through. In this work he has become well acquainted with practically everybody in the county, and by his courteous treatment of all has really made friends with them. During this long period he has carried thousands of persons over the county roads and he never fails to give a bit of personal service if the occasion arises. These things are reflected in the warm esteem in which he is held by so many Fulton County folks.

During his long residence in the county Mr. Johnson has always been ready to help in party work and has given invaluable aid many times. Four years ago he made the race for Sheriff, and at the time there were many who said that he did not have a chance to win. Two weeks before the primary the word began to circulate that he was really rolling, and that information proved to be correct. In a field of five he lacked only 84 votes of being elected. That clearly proved something of his popularity and his vote getting abilities. He took his defeat without trace of ill humor, remarking that he "did all he could, and was willing to abide by the vote." But he did make a mental reservation that he would be in there four years later, and so today he is again making his announcement for the office of Sheriff.

Mr. Johnson has all the qualifications to make a good Sheriff. He is thoroughly informed of conditions in Fulton County; he knows the duties of the sheriff and has the qualifications to fill those duties. He pledges himself to give the best that is in him to properly fill the duties of the office if elected, and his many friends know that his best will be plenty.

"I have no axes to grind, no bosses to serve," he said in discussing his candidacy. "I really feel that I can give the people of Fulton County real service in the office which I seek, and if elected I will devote all my energy to giving the county a good administration of the office. I have made no promises to any man, and will make none. If I go into the office I will enter it with my hands untied, and I know I can make a good officer. I can satisfy the public."

That is not a long statement. Yet it covers all that needs to be said. The voters could ask no more from any man, and the many who know Mr. Johnson feel sure that he will be able to live up to every word of his statement.

Mr. Johnson expects to make a complete canvass of the county between now and the primary date, and in the meantime he asks that every voter make it a point to study his qualifications and his pledges. He asks that any person who wishes to talk to him do so at any time and pledges a frank answer to any questions that may be asked.

"I have nothing to conceal from any man," he added. "I am just plain Mike Johnson, and I believe I can render the people of the county real service if they will elect me as their sheriff."

Both went to the hospital, Myers with glass cuts on the hands and an injured back and the girl with minor injuries.

Publisher Scores Wage And Hour Division As Filled With 'Riffraff'

Edgewater Park, Miss. -- Harold D. Jacobs, assistant administrator of the Wage Hour Division, yesterday was vigorously criticized by two outstanding southern publishers in a forum on the Wage and Hour act that brought the 39th annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association to a close here.

Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas, Tex., News, said Jacobs' speech to the convention Tuesday was in bad taste, while Frederick Sullens, editor of the Jackson, Miss., Daily News, said the Wage Hour Division in Washington was "filled with riffraff, ragtag, 'scum of creation' and 'shyster lawyers.'"

The forum was called when Dealey Tuesday sharply challenged Jacobs' speech in which he said the assistant administrator was "trying to treat us like a bunch of schoolboys," and charged that the Wage Hour Act was being used as a "whip" on newspapers critical of the government.

Jacobs Listens In Silence
Jacobs, attending the session along with an attorney summoned from New Orleans, remained silent as Sullens said the United States was at war with Germany and that newspapers striving to prepare public opinion for momentous tasks, were constantly "harassed, annoyed and bothered" by "petty bureaucrats" of the wage hour division.

Jacobs Tuesday had attacked newspapers seeking exemptions from provisions of the Wage Hour Act, and warned them not to withhold their labor records, which he said the government was determined to get.

He said the act was "the law of the land, it is here to stay, and it is not likely to be overturned by merely legalistic hair-splitting."

Too Much Labor Coddling
There is entirely too much coddling of organized labor," Sullens said. "There is too much kowtowing to men like John L. Lewis and William Green, who I declare are just as much enemies of our country as is Hitler. We are under-going strikes today that may cost thousands of lives tomorrow. Any man who strikes in a defense industry today is as disloyal as if he was a German subject. We cannot carry out the defense program with strikes tying up industry throughout the country."

Denies Paper Sued
Dealey challenged Jacobs' statement that the government had brought a labor suit against the Dallas News, now before an Appeal Court.

"The Dallas News brought that case against the government," he said heatedly. "We got eternally tired of wage and hour investigators sneaking around our plant. Every morning there would be a new one or two turn up to investigate something. They interfered with our work. So we went to court to find out whether our policy was correct."

Dealey said he would condemn SNPA officials responsible for Jacobs appearing on the convention program, except that "obviously they could not have known he would come here to deliver the type of speech he did. He gave us unshrunk hell. I contend it was in bad taste."

Miners File High Court Benefit Plea

Ask Payments During Contract Dispute Period

Washington. -- Kentucky coal miners asked the Supreme Court Friday to rule that they were entitled to State unemployment compensation benefits for a period of idleness in 1939 pending renewal of a wage contract and contended that their case had a bearing on the current wage contract deadlock.

A petition filed in the names of Carl Hall of Letcher County and District 30, United Mine Workers of America (C. I. O.), sought a review of a Kentucky Court of Appeals decision denying compensation payment on the ground that a labor dispute caused the lack of employment.

Pointing out that compensation had been granted in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland for the six-week work stoppage at Appalachia mines in the spring of 1939 during negotiation of a two-year contract between the U. M. W. and coal operators, the petition said:

"In our social security program the Nation should not be divided. The working men south of the Ohio River should have the same rights under the social security program as the working men north of the Ohio."

Describe Economic Weapon
In its contention that the denial of compensation in Kentucky had an effect upon the recently ruptured negotiations between the union and Southern Appalachian operators for another contract this spring, the petition said:

"The Southern operators had the advantage of knowing that their miners would receive no unemployment benefits pending negotiations for a new contract and that, therefore, this economic weapon could be used against the miners to force them to contract for a lower wage."

"In the North the operators... had no such economic weapon."

OPPORTUNITY IS HERE

For a long time there has been much talk of doing something to relieve flood dangers here. At almost every public gathering held here the discussion will finally get around to Harris Fork Creek and the need for doing something which will obviate or lessen the danger of sudden floods. Every business establishment in certain sections of the town faces this danger in heavy rainfall periods, and many times these floods have come along with great damage to many firms. Many times merchants are forced to move merchandise in anticipation of floods, and in general the creek situation is an unhappy one.

Right now there is a project being planned which would do a great deal in relieving this situation. It cannot be guaranteed that it would positively prevent any future flood, for that depends upon the amount of rainfall which may come. As long as there is a creek here there will be some danger from it, but intelligent steps can be taken which will lessen the danger, and this project which is now being planned would certainly lessen the danger.

The project contemplates installing an eight foot concrete bed to the creek, with rock being placed on the banks above the concrete work. The concrete bed will cause the water to move rapidly, and many who have studied the creek for many years say that this is the necessary step to take. There are other opinions, of course, but almost every person will agree that moving the water faster will remove much of the flood danger.

The WPA is interested in the project and is really eager to get it started. Officials of the organization say that they really want something started here, as in the past Fulton has received very little work of this nature. Preliminary estimates indicate that the project will cost in the neighborhood of $14,000, and of this amount the WPA will contribute about $10,000. This leaves a balance of $4,000 which must be borne locally. The Chamber of Commerce, through President Bob White, has taken the initial steps to get the project started, and WPA officials have already looked over the area and given their preliminary opinions. An engineer will have to be employed to make the necessary survey, and naturally the figures which have been submitted are more or less informal. Revised figures might be a shade higher or lower, but it is the belief of Mr. White that they will not vary a great deal.

The Chamber of Commerce is anxious to ascertain public opinion on this project. For several years efforts have been made to make some permanent improvement in the creek situation, but thus far nothing has been done save the yearly cleaning out of the creek bed. Recently willows were cut from the creek channel for a distance of two miles below the city, and this helps to a certain extent. It is only temporary, however, and many believe that the plan which is now under consideration will prove of great and permanent benefit.

Right now it is the intention of

LAGUARDIA'S A GOOD MAN FOR THE JOB

The vast new civilian defense program is in good hands, with New York's Mayor LaGuardia at its head. He has shown his executive ability as the mayor of the nation's biggest city, and has demonstrated his capabilities as the American chairman of the joint commission for cooperation between the United States and Canada in perfecting the defenses of the Western Hemisphere.

LaGuardia is noted as a man who gets a job done when he tackles it. A fellow like that is needed to get the civilian defense program under way, for it has been bogged down in most localities.

In Kentucky, for example, some progress has been made toward the organization of home guard units, but the program has been hampered by the fact that those in charge refuse to give much attention to any municipalities which have not had national Guard companies.

Paducah is the state's second city in importance as an industrial center, but local efforts to bring the establishment of a home guard division have failed because Paducah did not have a National Guard company.

It seems logical to believe that an industrial city needs a civilian defense program, but the state officials in charge of the organization of home guard units apparently do not see it that way yet.

Most people are willing to do their share in carrying forward the programs to protect their country, and it is a foregone conclusion that with the proper leadership the civilian defense campaign will be successful. LaGuardia will provide that leadership, if he functions true to form established in other jobs.—Sun-Democrat.

Mr. White indicates that he believes the campaign will be successful, but adds that if there is not enough interest to raise the money we should quit talking so much about how badly the work is needed. "We can get the job done if we want to badly enough," he said. "Let's see if we want it badly enough."

A BROKEN LINK SMASHES THE ENTIRE CHAIN

Everybody knows that a broken or weak link in a chain makes the entire chain hazardous. But not every person applies the same reasoning to fire insurance. Yet is equally true in this matter. One poorly written policy, or particularly one that is merely planned and not written, may prove hazardous to your entire business or home. A weak link in your insurance coverage may cause an unexpected loss at any time.

Consult us as your friends about these matters. We know a great deal about insurance, for it is our business. We can make valuable suggestions—and we can write your policy properly.

Big Harry Sprute Pitches Tigers Into League Lead Last Night

Big Harry Sprute pitched the Tigers into the league lead last night in Owensboro by whipping the Oilers 4 to 3 in a tight game. Mayfield lost to Union City at the same time and this catapulted the Tigers to the top round of the league for the first time in many a year.

Sprute pitched a perfect game except for one inning. In the third frame the Oilers swarmed all over Big Harry for four hits, including a double by Kuester, and this scored three runs. At the time it seemed that Sprute was on the way out and the three run lead looked large. Big Harry came back strong and held the Oilers from that period on, and not another Oiler spike dented the plate. Outside of the fatal third frame Sprute gave up only three hits and eleven Oilers went down swinging. He did walk five and had a couple of wild pitches, but when the chips were down he had what it takes and came through in splendid fashion.

The Tigers trailed the Oilers until midway of the game, and failed to score until the fourth. In this inning Mullen doubled and rode home on Peterson's single. In the sixth Mullen again hit for a single. "Wee" Faudem doubled and both traveled to the Promised Land on Derrick's timely smash into center. The winning marker came in the seventh inning. Sprute teased Keeton into a pass. Mullen came through with his third hit and Peterson singled through Short to score Sprute.

The Tigers remain in Owensboro tonight and Sunday, returning here Monday night for a two game visit from the Jackson Generals.
