THE LISTENING POST

For a fellow who attends church services as irregularly as the old Listening Post, I guess I know as much about revivals or protracted meetings as the next one.

For my father was a preacher for more than fifty years, and I can drive on almost any road in West Tennessee and pass many churches which he pastored at one time or another.

Naturally I did not attend those meetings in later years, but in childhood days I frequently went to various churches, and at times when meetings were held nearby the visiting preacher was a guest in the home.

The thing which I used to dread was the personal work that filled the latter part of the meeting. During the last few days the stalwarts of the church, men and women, started on personal cam-

People Urged To Buy Winter Coal Very Soon

Shortage Is Foreseen; Ickes Appeals For Cut In Use Of Gasoline

Washington -- Anticipating "very grave danger of a shortage" of coal next winter, the government urged householders throughout the country tonight to "buy winter coal now."

At the same time Secretary Ickes removed the qualification "probably" from forecasts of an oil shortage and said definitely that easterners "will have to get along with less gasoline for their cars and probably less oil to heat their homes."

Both coal and oil shortages are threatened not by lack of supplies but by the demands the defense program is making on transportation facilities. The coal shortage may be avoided, officials said, if the campaign for summer buying succeeds.

Ickes Asks All To Aid Ickes, as defense petroleum coordinator, proposed in a formal statement that "all of us" reduce gasoline consumption:

- "1. By reducing our driving speeds;
"2. By refraining from non-essential driving;
"3. By less hasty get-aways in city traffic, and
"4. By adjusting our cars for maximum fuel efficiency so that no gasoline will be belched through the exhaust pipe."

The appeal to "buy winter coal now" was issued by the consumers counsel, with endorsement of the Offices of Production Management, transportation coordination, price administration and the consumer adviser.

Draft Boards Are Given Praise For Excellent Service By Hershey

Washington -- Selective Service headquarters today cited for high praise the unknown civilian soliders of the new Army--those 19,500 citizens who serve on the Nation's local draft boards.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, acting headquarters director, said that "they serve for no other remuneration than the knowledge that they are giving of their time and their effort to perform well a task for their country in an hour of need."

Graves County Is Considered For Munitions Plant

For several days reports have been current in Fulton that government engineers were surveying a large tract of land near Wingo. It was reported here that a tract of some 25,000 acres was being surveyed and there has been much talk of a possible defense project there.

House Group Approves Reducing Money For WPA Appropriation

Washington -- A reduced relief appropriation of $385,905,000 for next year was approved Monday by the House Appropriations Committee which voted also for retention of present restrictions on W. P. A. such as that forbidding employment of aliens.

The total was $95,000 below what President Roosevelt recommended for the twelve months beginning July 1, and was 35 per cent lower than the current fund. The committee said the cut would necessitate a reduction in W. P. A. employment from an average of 1,300,000 this month to $941,315 in July or August.

In addition to trimming W. P. A.'s request the committee allocated $50,000,000 of the total to the Agriculture Department for extension of the food stamp plan, and called for a $10,000,000 cut in the $50,000,000 fund now available to W. P. A. for paying wages higher than usual relief wages to workers on defense projects.

The committee gave "heartly commendation" to continuation of the W. P. A. defense training program which it said had enabled more than 30,000 workers to fit themselves for private jobs.

President Roosevelt and Howard O. Hunter, W. P. A. commissioner, had proposed a series of revisions in the relief law, including removal of the ban on employment of aliens and the requirement that persons on the rolls for eighteen months be dismissed to make room for others.

Captain Says Nazi U-Boat Sank Steamer

Washington -- The White House asked today that judgment be suspended on the sinking of the U. S. steamer Robin Moor until it is established how she was lost.

Capt. Waldemar Lucio Periera, captain of the Brazilian steamer Osorio which rescued 11 of the 46 persons aboard the Robin Moor, told The Associated Press the 5,000-ton American ship "was torpedoed May 21" in the South Atlantic.

In another radiogram to the Associated Press tonight, Capt. Periera said "Survivors said the Robin Moor was torpedoed by a German submarine."

One intercepted radio message given by the Navy blamed a German submarine and this aroused grave concern in the capital. However, Stephen Early, White House secretary, said there was no official information. He added:

"The President would appreciate it if there was a suspension of judgment on the sinking, pending a determination of the facts."

Churchill Says Crete Battle Worth Fighting

London -- Winston Churchill, fighting the great Parliamentary battle of his life before his critics in Commons, made it plain today that as long as he was Britain's war leader he was going to strike rather than stand still, to act rather than risk inaction and surrender.

This, he said without apology, was the choice between the "terrible alternatives" offered him on Crete and this would be his choice to the end.

He rejected, with a sharp "no," suggestions for the formation of an imperial war cabinet.

He said flatly that he could not and would not explain every British defeat--because such explanations would help the axis, would be only partial and not informative as to the conduct of the war as a whole and because "defeat is bitter. It is no use trying to explain defeat. People do not like defeat and they do not like explanations. There is only one answer to defeat. The only answer to defeat is victory."

Senate May Vote Power To Take Plants To FDR

Statutory Authority To Halt Defense Strikes Is Urged

Washington -- A War Department request for speedy congressional action to give the President statutory authority for taking over defense plants hampered by strikes ran into a bottleneck of Senate debate today but leaders were confident of passage tomorrow.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), touched off the dispute when he asked Congress to go on record as condemning all defense strikes.

Senator Murdock (D-Utah) immediately protested that this would be a "pat on the back for the industrialists and a kick in the face for labor" because some of the strikes were caused by employers.

This caused Senator Bailey (D-N. C.), to warn that "if we're on these national defense strikes, then we ought to turn tail and flee like rats."

Before these arguments Senator Connally (D-Tex.), had won broad support for his proposal to give the President authority to take over any plant when he finds that the "national defense program will be impeded or delayed by an existing or threatened failure of production at any plant as a result of a strike, or threatened strike, or other cause."

Robert P. Patterson, under secretary of war, told the House military committee that the War Department wanted Congress to speed action on legislation of this type, offered in the House by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.), of the naval committee.

Governor Uses Special Funds To Modernize Old Hospital Building

Frankfort, Ky. -- Gov. Keen Johnson Monday announced plans to take money from the Governor's emergency fund to renovate an old building at Central State Hospital to show the possibilities of modernizing and fireproofing antique plants at the eleemosynary institutions.

Bids will be opened June 24 for the complete interior reconstruction of Ward Building No. 10, a three-story unit on the rear grounds at the Lakeland institution. Five months will be allowed for completion of the job that State Engineer Ralph C. Wyatt estimates will cost about $50,000.

Governor Thought of Idea "The whole idea is mine," Governor Johnson said. "Three weeks ago I decided to take enough money from the emergency fund to show that it is both possible and practicable to modernize and fireproof these old buildings. So I called them all in here and asked them to select the worst building of the lot, then draw plans to modernize it thoroughly and completely."

When the work is finished perhaps by late fall, the modernization unit will be available to members of the 1942 Legislature, the Jefferson County grand jury, and such other groups as may be interested to see just what can be done toward the rehabilitation of the mental hospitals at Lexington, Lakeland and Hopkinsville and the Institute for the Feeble-Minded at Frankfort.

Editorial

UNPLEASANT—BUT NECESSARY

It is not a pleasant thing to think of the United States Army opening up a strike-bound industrial plant at the point of the bayonet. It is decidedly against our normal policy for troops to be used against strikes, although it has been done before and will probably be done again. However, it has been almost fifty years since federal troops were used in a labor disturbance, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the lesson taught by the California episode will be so thoroughly learned that use of troops will not be necessary for another half century.

As a matter of fact, use of troops was not made against American workmen literally. Perhaps American workmen were involved, but it is more than probable that foreign agitators had more to do with the matter than appears on the surface. The strike itself had been outlawed by labor leaders and the men had been instructed to return to their jobs. So strong was the hold of the agitators on the strikers, or on a percentage of them, that it was decided to defy the power of the federal army. Such defiance could have but one result. Overwhelming numbers of soldiers, armed with all fighting equipment, moved into the plant, dispersed the picket lines, cleared the entire area, and then announced that the United States government had charge of the entire plant. Against such force the strikers had no chance, and it is regrettable that several were injured in the skirmishing that followed the troop movement.

Federal action in California should draw a pattern for future labor troubles. It seems now that a firm stand has been adopted; that there will be no more temporizing, no more coddling of the small percentage of radical labor. Rather it might seem that the federal government has taken a firm stand against strikes. Naturally any workman will still have his right to protect in any normal way, but he will not be allowed to walk out on strike. He may register his protest; he may ask more money or shorter hours or better working conditions, and these protests will be handled through the various labor boards and will be adjusted. The men who protest may win or lose before these boards, but the main thing is that work proceed at all times, pending any adjustments which may be made.

There will be considerable outcry against the use of military forces, but this outcry will come largely from those forces which seek to undermine and wreck this government. Right thinking American citizens know that the government has at last taken a step that was needed and a step which should restore order in many industries. There is no great majority of American workmen willing and eager to strike. Strikes are always called by a minority, and just now there exists little doubt that many of the strikes are engineered by subversive elements in this country. It is not easy to detect this at all times, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation has enough evidence to know that espionage is now going on in the United States; that paid foreign agitators are at work in key American industries, and that sabotage will soon begin to lift its ugly head.

All these things being true, the

Charlie says under oath that he cut a lard can full, adding that one crappie weighed four pounds. Paul says that fish bit so fiercely that he had to use a baseball bat to keep them out of the boat.

WAIT AND SEE IS NAZI ATTITUDE

The seeming aloofness with which Berlin regards the invasion of Syria and Lebanon by the British and Free French forces is not a surprising attitude. The initiative for once having been taken away from them, they are watching events and waiting the outcome of them. They are remaining on that developments will favor their side.

What the Nazis most desire is that the clash in the Levant will result in a declaration of war by the Vichy Government against the British. Thus the French fleet—some 100 warships at Toulon, at Oran and at Tunis, might be turned against the British Mediterranean fleet, and along with the Italian navy render Britain's position in that island sea untenable. But war-weary France is in no mood for further fighting and particularly for fighting for Germany. Also the vessels are dismantled and the sailors are divided in their allegiance. There are limits to collaboration with the Reich even for the men of Vichy.

The Nazis are also hopeful that the battles now raging will align the Arabs against the British, but this, too, seems to be wishful thinking. Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Egypt and Palestine all favor the English and Syria and Lebanon are anti-French and anti-German.

The British, however, have extended their lines, and that may cause rejoicing in Berlin. General Wavell's army is spread out over Egypt, over Palestine, over Iraq and now over Syria and Lebanon and such extension may cause weak spots. The force of 500,000 men, however, is more closely concatenated than the Germans in Southeastern Europe and North Africa. In fact the British for the first time have something like an even chance against the powerful German war machine.—Courier-Journal.

federal government has done the right thing. It has served notice on honest and decent American workmen that they will be given protection if they seek to work, and has also served notice on those subversive elements that war has been declared. From this date on we may expect the defense picture to become brighter. When Army troops moved into the California plant they write a decisive chapter in this story.

Training for Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the marshaling of our man-power, our machines, and our natural resources in the stupendous program of all-out preparedness. Schools and colleges, too, have a heavy responsibility in this program.

If we are effectively to provide for the coming of democracy and freedom in today's world, every individual in our nation must perform a proper part. Both educators and students must do their work with the same speed and efficiency that is demanded of soldiers and workmen. Defense training is a widely discussed matter. The experts are pooling their opinions and every source of supply is being exploited to aid the speed-up in training. It is generally agreed by these same experts that the rate of employment in defense industries would be faster if it were not for a shortage of supervisory personnel—managers and foremen.

In the rush to train workers for special jobs, so that they may do certain jobs with their hands, we should not lose sight of the fact that America's ultimate success depends largely upon moral and spiritual preparedness. Perhaps we should encourage this spiritual state by warning young men to give some thought to the longer view—that of preparing for a permanent career.

Educators have a job to do in keeping students interested in the future as well as the present. The task of the moment is pressing, but it is not everything. Democracy is founded on more than jobs. It is a state of mind, properly nourished and properly balanced.

CLASSES FORMED MONDAY IN "SUMMER WORKSHOP"

Five of the nine groups of the Obion County Summer Workshop, which is being attended by several teachers of South Fulton High school, were organized Monday and definite plans were laid out for the procedure of the courses. This summer course is sponsored by the Obion county department of education and conducted by members of the University of Tennessee faculty.

An arts and crafts group was organized with Miss Mary Hall Christian conducting the classes. A nutrition group was organized under Dr. Florence MacLeod, an adult education and out-of-school youth group under Dr. Muriel Brown, a community library under Miss Helen Kittrell and a recreational group under C. H. Loose. The remaining four groups were to have been organized yesterday.

One of the most interesting courses organized Monday was the recreational group under Mr. Loose. This course is conducted in the gymnasium in the Central grammar school which opened to the workshop. A loud speaker system has been installed in the gym over which folk rhythms are played for the amusement of the whole group. This group will visit towns in Obion county and will provide recreational parties for the general public.

The first field trip to be made by any group was conducted Monday afternoon when the library group made a trip into various parts of the county and later went to Martin to make arrangements for the use of the University of Tennessee Junior College library. Officials of this college are carrying on registration and collection of fees today, the last registration day. Each student in the summer workshop will take part in at least two of the courses offered. Four and one half hours credit will be awarded to undergraduates and three hours to graduates which is equal to one-half of a full six weeks' course at the university.

Maureen O'Hara and James Ellison are currently co-starred in a new romantic musical picture the action of which takes place in South America. The sparkling and vivacious Maureen plays the role of an Argentinian heiress, and Jimmy that of an American oil man who is interested in race horses—until he meets Maureen. With music and lyrics by the famous team of Richard Rogers and Lorenz Hart, the new RKO Radio hit, "They Met In Argentina," is reliably reported as a gay, glamorous and tuneful screen confection.

A BROKEN LINK SMASHES THE ENTIRE CHAIN

Everybody knows that a broken or weak link in a chain makes the entire chain hazardous. But not every person applies the same reasoning to fire insurance. Yet it is equally true in this matter. One poorly written policy, or particularly one that is merely planned and not written, may prove hazardous to your entire business or home. A weak link in your insurance coverage may cause an unexpected loss at any time.

Consult us as your friends about these matters. We know a great deal about insurance, for it is our business. We can make valuable suggestions and we can write your policy properly.

Mike Lake Weakens In Ninth, But Madsen Saves Game 9 To 5

Mike Lake was as hot as a bale of firecrackers last night in Paducah for six innings, but began to weaken after that and finally left the game in the ninth with the bases filled with Paducah Indians and one out needed. Madsen relieved him and forced Wiley Nash to lift a fly to Dean in left for the final out. Lake traveled six innings without giving a hit, although one run was scored on him in the second frame. In the seventh and eighth the Indians began scoring, getting a run in the seventh and three in the eighth, and then loading the sacks in the last frame. Lake walked five men and fanned six.

Mel Ivy batted in four runs with two hits, and Reese and Faudem had three blows each. Ivy had a triple in his two, while Derrick, Faudem and Peterson had doubles. The Tigers started after Thomasson early, getting two runs in the first inning and following this up with a four run attack in the second. The Indians made five errors and this made the Tiger cause easier.

The final game is being played in Paducah tonight, the Tigers coming home tomorrow night with the Bowling Green team.
