I. C.'s Part In Diversification

By H. J. Schieler

The activities of the Illinois Central Railroad in developing agriculture, along diversified lines, was started in 1916. At that time there was a heavy demand for dairy cattle and there was a corresponding demand for farm produce. The need for this was so evident that Fulton could not meet the demand. The makers of farm produce did not have a ready market for their products. The farmers were not getting the prices they expected. They were in need of a market. The Illinois Central Railroad understood the need and went to work to meet it. This railroad believed that if it were to grow, it must do so along diversified lines. This was the beginning of the diversionary program.

One of the first steps toward this line of operation was the establishment of a department of the Illinois Central Railroad. This department was known as the Agricultural Department. The purpose of this department was to locate the best markets for farm products and to develop and improve the methods of growing farm crops. This was a necessary step in a diversification of agriculture along diversified lines. The Illinois Central Railroad understood the need and went to work to meet it.

The Agricultural Department of the Illinois Central Railroad worked hard in developing care of dairy cows. Three thousand cows were located in Fulton in 1920, and the number of dairy cows continued to increase. This was a necessary step in a diversification of agriculture along diversified lines. The Illinois Central Railroad understood the need and went to work to meet it.

Finding God

If we had been fooled in our home or in the woods, or had been in the ways of the world, we would have known no more about our God than the other man who lives in the city. We have learned to trust in God through the experience of daily life. We have learned to trust in God through the experience of daily life. We have learned to trust in God through the experience of daily life. We have learned to trust in God through the experience of daily life. We have learned to trust in God through the experience of daily life.
