AN ASSET TO FULTON

(Editorial)

The Fulton Fair Grounds is a real asset to Fulton. This has been proven on many occasions. It provides a meeting place for many community affairs, such as the county fair, farm bureau and 4-H club meetings, cattle and livestock shows, and the Old Car Derby, sponsored in the past two years by the Young Men's Business Club.

Approximately 25,000 people were here on July 4th, many of them coming from 50 to 100 miles away.

But the time has come to do something about establishing the fair grounds as a permanent playground for this section. It has been clearly demonstrated by the Young Men's Club that with the right set-up, events can be put on that will be worth while to the community.

Perhaps a meeting with the stockholders of the Fulton Fair association would be a logical step toward reorganization and laying of plans for improving this park. Under the right promotion it could be made into the most attractive play spot for the Jackson Purchase. R. H. Wade and J. W. Gordon, other officials and stockholders can tell you that the fair was for years the outstanding attraction in this territory. It was a real asset to this community.

Let's get together and make a bigger and finer recreation and entertainment center of this fine playground, and make Fulton the garden spot of the Purchase.

Rev. Fletcher To Hold Series of Services

Rev. Custis Fletcher, Jr., of Paducah, opened a series of services at the Trinity Episcopal Church in Fulton last Sunday, which will continue through July 20th. Rev. Fletcher was recently ordained, being a graduate of the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia. He will not be assigned to a permanent charge until September.

Rev. Charles F. Wulf, minister of the local Episcopal church, left with his family on July 3 for Penland, N. C., where he will assist in the summer camp work at the Appalachian School. They will return about August 15.

Thomas Goldsmith, junior warden and lay leader of the parish, will read the eleven o'clock service the first two Sundays in August.

Local Epworth League To Visit Martin Sunday

Instead of regular Epworth League services at the First Methodist Church Sunday, the young people will assemble at the church at 5:30 p.m. and go to Martin, have picnic lunch there in the park, and attend the worship services at the First Methodist Church of Martin, Sunday Night, which will be conducted by the Youth Caravan of the Memphis Conference. This is the same caravan of young people that conducted young people's activities here the week of June 25. A large number of Leaguers have indicated their desire to go Sunday Night, and also a few other nights during the week.

CLINTON MEN OPEN AUTO AGENCY HERE

Tom Jones and Edwin Vaughn, who are connected with the Murphy & Jordan Sales Company of Clinton, Ky., have opened a new sales agency in the Old Meadows building on Church St. They will sell DeSoto and Plymouth automobiles and carry a good line of used cars. The building has been refurbished and improved, and several new cars are on display, and on the lot adjoining are a number of used cars. Messrs. Jones and Vaughn expect to hold a formal opening soon.

CIRCUIT CLERK WILL BE HERE WITH LICENSES

I will be in Fulton Saturday, at the Atkins Insurance Agency, with the 1939 Drivers' Licenses. This will be my last time to sell these licenses at Fulton.

JUSTIN ATTEBERY,
Circuit Court Clerk

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY!

S. FULTON HAS OWN WATER & FIRE DEPT.

South Fulton, sister city of Fulton, now has its own water works and fire department, since the recent completion of work that was done with the aid of a PWA project. A new pumping station is located near the railroad in the southwest part of the town, with a large reservoir tank situated near the South Fulton school.

These improvements on the south side cost approximately $87,272, of which amount $39,272 was a grant by the federal government, and $48,000 a loan payable in 23 years. A new fire truck and equipment was recently purchased at an approximate cost of $3,000. "Cotton" Henderson has been hired as the fire chief, with a volunteer crew of firemen appointed.

Up to date 472 water meters have been installed in South Fulton. Rates are expected to remain about the same as they were when South Fulton was obtaining water from Fulton, with some bills possibly showing some increase, and others being lower. This is brought about due to the fact that water bills will now be paid for in comparison to the quantity of water used. The following rates prevail: First 3,000 gallons used, $1.50, which is the minimum water bill per month; next 4,000 gallons at 40c per 1,000; next 13,000 at 30c per 1,000; next 30,000 at 25c per 1,000; all over 50,000 at 6c per 1,000.

The South Fulton Board is composed by J. H. Lowe, mayor; West-Davis, Virgil Davis, Sam Jones, W. E. Baucum, Abe Jolley and Roy Adams, aldermen.

Improvements Being Made Around Town

Numerous improvements are being made among the business houses around town. This week redecorating and refinishing was being done at Smith Cafe, the OK Laundry, and the front of Evans Drug Store.

Drivers License For 1939 Now Available

Sale of 1939 state operator's licenses opened in the office of Circuit Clerk Justin Attebery at the court house in Hickman last Saturday. The driving permits will be on sale throughout July, and car owners of Fulton county have until August 1 to obtain their new license.

The state highway patrol reported that new applicants will be subject to a test before they receive their license. The first part of the examination will be to determine the applicant's physical fitness, the second part will be a quiz on state driving laws and the meaning of road signs, and the final part of the examination will be a road test in which the applicant will be requested to demonstrate his ability to operate a motor vehicle.

The clerk is not authorized to issue a license to: A person under 16; a person whose license has been revoked or suspended within the past year; an insane person, a drunkard or drug addict, a person with serious physical or mental weakness.

NEW TIRE AND BATTERY COMPANY NOW OPEN

The Fulton Tire & Battery Company, which is located on State Line St., opposite the OK Laundry, is now open for business. The building formerly occupied by Blondie Pewitt has been reconditioned for this business. They will specialize in new and used tires and batteries, and have available service batteries while re-charging is being done.

"King of Kings" To Be Shown In Fulton

The "King of Kings," one of the truly great films of all times will be shown in Fulton Monday night, July 17, 8:00 p.m., at the First Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Young People's Department of the local church. From results of an advance ticket sale now being staged, a large number of people will be on hand to see this great picture.

Produced by Cecil B. DeMille at a cost of $2,500,000 this vivid portrayal of the life of Christ showed for a long time for two dollars per seat. It was first made in the days of the silent film but Vitaphone sound effects have been added, and the small admission fee of 15c and 25c will admit the public to see it Monday night.

Justin Attebery, Hickman, for re-election as circuit court clerk of Fulton county.

L. L. Hindman, Clinton, for re-election as circuit court judge of Fulton and Hickman counties.

WEST FULTON DAMAGED BY WINDSTORM

A windstorm, which lasted only a few minutes early Saturday afternoon, did much damage in the west part of Fulton. Trees were uprooted, chimneys blown down and telephone and electric service was cut off for a short while.

The chimney at the Eli Bynum home on Fourth St. was blown down and the roof was badly damaged. Several other chimneys were blown down.

Several trees were blown across the Union City highway, about two mile out of town, and traffic was blocked until highway workers could be called to clear the way.

Employees of the Kentucky Utilities and Southern Bell Telephone Companies worked all day Sunday repairing cables and service lines.

Take Me Off Relief, Is Candidate's Plea

Claud Rowlett of Dresden, candidate for Weakley County tax assessor, is waging a campaign that reaches a high in political curiosities.

An employee of the PWA, Mr. Rowlett is urging Weakley county to take him off the relief rolls and place him in office. His campaign cards, marked with symbols of the PWA wheelbarrow and shovels, are carried in a large cotton bag, which he slings over the back of his mule. Known as the "PWA candidate," he gets up early every morning and makes the rounds in his countywide canvass.

From present indications, the race for tax assessor will be the most heated contest in the Aug. 3 primary. Six other candidates are Steve LeCorru, Talmage Peery, T. E. Smalley, Vester Crider, Garrett Sanders and the Rev. Vester Prince.

Webb Candidate For Re-Election

Robert E. Webb of Mayfield, Ky., has announced as a candidate for re-election as Railroad Commissioner of the First District, subject to the Democratic Primary, August 5, 1939.

The Commissioners, as an administrative body, regulate intrastate services, facilities and charges of the railroads and boat lines within the state of Kentucky.

They are required to examine all through-rates charged into and out of this State, and when such rates are excessive the commission appears before the Interstate Commerce Commission to obtain an adjustment of such rates.

Mr. Webb was born and reared in Mayfield and has been engaged in general practice of law since 1929. He is a member of the Kentucky Bar, the New York Bar and is licensed to practice before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Webb represented Graves county in the General Assembly 1934-35. He was elected Railroad Commissioner and Chairman of Commission in December, 1935, and has held that office since that time.

Brown To Speak At Hickman Next Thursday

John Young Brown Democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky, will speak at Stubbs Park in Hickman next Thursday, July 20, at 3:30 p.m., in behalf of his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination, James H. Warren, chairman for Mr. Brown in Fulton county stated here yesterday.

Brown is conducting one of the most extensive speaking tours ever carried out by a candidate for governor in order to bring his message to as many people as possible, Mr. Warren said. He is slated to speak at Cayce on July 20 at 4:15 p.m., at Clinton at 5:00 p.m., and from there he will go to Mayfield for an address at 8:30 p.m.

FORMER FULTON PASTOR IN WRECK

Rev. Frank Adams, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Fulton, and Mrs. Adams escaped injury when the car in which they were driving overturned Saturday morning on the Martin highway.

They were coming toward Fulton when a car in front of them stopped suddenly. Rev. Adams was unable to pass because of an approaching car and applied the brakes, causing the car to turn over. The car was badly damaged.

WELL KNOWN FARMER BITTEN BY BLACK WIDOW

Jim Dawes, well known farmer of this county, who resides on Fulton Route 6, was bitten by a black widow spider last Friday night. This type of spider is deadly poison, and its bite has been known to bring death.

Mr. Dawes has been attended by Dr. Hawes, and is reported to have suffered terribly. This is the first incident of this kind that has been reported in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Finis Johnson of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. Milner and Miss Pauline Milner spent Wednesday evening at Reelfoot Lake.

S. FULTON CITIZENS EXPECT COMPROMISE

During recent weeks there has been some dissention between Mayor J. H. Lowe of South Fulton and the board of aldermen over the letting of a contract to construct a fire station for the city. The trouble grew when the board is alleged to have let a contract for the work on May 25 to Frank Merryman, local contractor, at the figure of $4,248.75.

Mayor Lowe contended that proper steps were not taken to award the contract at that time, and that lower bids were submitted after the matter was reviewed. The mayor and board met in a special called session, when bids were submitted for the job at $3,625 by S. M. Valentine, and $3,600 by M. E. Berry, other local contractors.

Meanwhile Mr. Merryman had already started work on the new fire station. When it came time for the city to pay the contractor some on the work, Mayor Lowe refused to sign a check issuing the money, on the grounds that the contract had not been officially awarded and properly signed by the city recorder and the mayor. There being a difference of $648.75 between the bid made by Mr. Merryman and Mr. Berry. Mayor Lowe recently stated that he feels that this savings is worthy of consideration.

There is some talk among citizens on the south side, that a compromise will be reached. It has been proposed that the contractor having started the job, reduce his bid to meet that made by the lowest bidder, and that Mayor Lowe then sign contract and checks to carry through the project.

The new fire station will be located on Paschall St., near the concrete bridge, and living quarters for the fire chief will be arranged on the second floor.

SAFE AND SANE ROADS

I am an American. On Independence Day, these four words take on new meaning for every United States citizen. A red number on the July calendar denotes a day on which flag-waving is the favorite eratic sport. The Fourth of July reminds us that America means freedom for 130,000,000 men, women, and children. This is every bit as true for each newly arrived immigrant who came to America to find freedom to live, to work, and to think as he pleases, as it is for the sons and daughters of the American Revolution.

Comedian Eddie Cantor, opening the 38th annual Convention and Highway Exhibit of the American Road Builders' Association in San Francisco, declared, "This is the American way, where men gather to plan roads for the enjoyment of people and not for the destruction of humanity." His statement is proved by the millions of citizens who celebrate the birthday of American independence by enjoying America's roads in the American way.

The broader issues behind the commemoration of July 4, 1776, may be overlooked in 1939, but the day still means independence in a special way to each member of the family. To mother it may mean freedom from ordinary household cares. To father, it means freedom from the job which claims his entire attention on ordinary weekdays. To the entire family, it means freedom from town and usual surroundings—freedom to see the distant countryside—freedom to trade the heat of city streets and sidewalks for the cool of trees and wide-open spaces—freedom made possible by the roads that lead to new sights and scenes.

A vast majority of July Fourth celebrants include a motor trip in their plans for the day. It may be a drive of only a few miles to the park on the outskirts of town—it may be a hundred-mile trip to the seashore or one of the fairs. Contents of the family car almost always include a picnic lunch. There are also bathing suits for every member of the group.

July 4 means patriotism and pleasure. Too often it also means pain and peril. The holiday has its typical delights which, unfortunately, carry with them typical dangers. We have come to expect as inevitable the fact that our July 5 newspaper must carry numerous accounts of deaths and injuries from burns and drownings. As on all holidays, death strikes most often on July 4 where faulty roads fail to safely carry the holiday crowds to and from the beaches, amusement parks and picnic grounds.

Unfair taxation of American motorists was responsible for thousands of deaths in 1938. Unfair appropriation of taxes paid by American motorists to non-highway uses will be the cause of thousands of deaths in 1939. Many Fourth of July travelers meet death because of sharp curves, narrow roads, highway grade crossings and other highway defects. Use of all special motor-vehicle taxes for the construction of better and safer roads will save these lives.

DON'T BLAME THE BANKS

The charge that there is inadequate bank credit at a time when the banks are overflowing with capital, has puzzled many a thoughtful citizen. And the easiest thing to do is call the bankers a crew of hard-hearted shysters and accuse them of turning deaf ears to worthy applications for loans.

The truth of the matter, as Senator Barbour of New Jersey, recently pointed out, is that federal financing and spending are the main factors at fault. The banks have been virtually forced to invest their surplus accounts in government securities. They are, in the Senator's word, "helpless".

There are, Senator Barbour continued, two possible solutions. One is for the government to go wholehog into the banking business, and thus subject the people's money to the changing whim of politics. The other is for the government to "quit borrowing and live within its means." The machinery of credit is well organized, well protected, except for federal interference with its proper functions, and able to serve the country adequately if released from the grip of its addiction to public lending, for which the government itself is responsible.

No bank wants to refuse a loan—after all, loans keep banking alive, and build the community prosperity that is an essential corollary of bank prosperity. But a government policy which virtually forces billions of capital into government securities is hardly a stimulant to lending for private, productive purposes. Furthermore, the banker's first responsibility is to his depositors—his own tried judgment, to say nothing of the law compels him to insist on the highest conceivable standards of safety when he makes a loan. As the Chairman of the Board of the National City Bank has said, "The idea that the way to prosperity is to make it easy for people to get into debt, does not stand the test of experience."

You can blame the bankers all you like—but the fact remains that a large volume of private loans can be made only under a government policy that is encouraging to individual activity, instead of a policy that puts the government more and more into competition with its private citizens.

WHY INDUSTRY LAGS

If we're looking for reasons why industry is not expanding and providing more jobs for the unemployed, here's one that speaks for itself in tones loud enough to be heard by even the most indifferent observers, says the Motor Wheel News.

A leading statistical company has just released a report showing that last year 80 representative corporations paid a tax bill of $203,682,751, and that after paying this tax bill, these companies had an aggregate net income of but $133,685,202.

Reduced to simpler figures, this means that the various governmental taxing agencies took $20 for every $13 paid to stockholders. Nor does that tell the whole story. Some of these taxes must be paid whether the corporations are operating or not.

Now, it is a well-known fact that employees do not work for fun. And it is just as well-known that investors do not intentionally put their money into industrial concerns just for the fun of it either.

And that just about completes the circle. People will not invest money in a corporation whose enormous tax bill prevents the payment of dividends, and without such investments, industry is certainly not able to expand and provide more jobs for the unemployed.

RISE OF A NEW CROP

It is a curious fact that while the soybean is one of the oldest crops known to man, having been grown extensively in eastern Asia thousands of years ago, its production on a commercial scale in America is a development of very recent origin.

For more than a century after the soybean was brought to the United States in 1804 it was looked upon merely as a botanical curiosity. But about 1916 its cultivation was begun in a small way, although at first its progress was slow. However, through the work of the Department of Agriculture and collaborating experiment stations, the possibilities of the new crop were made known.

From a production of 21,690 tons of soybean oil meal in 1929, an increase to well over 900,000 tons was attained in the 1938-39 crop year, more than 95 per cent of which is used as feeds for livestock, small animals and poultry. The rapidly growing popularity of this product is due to its palatability, digestibility and nutritional value, as well as to its comparatively low cost.

Scientific feeding of livestock has become increasingly important in farm production costs, and the steadily widening use of soybean oil meal indicates that the esteem in which it is held by stockmen.

That there is profit in growing soybeans is also confirmed by the rapid expansion of acreage, particularly in the four leading states of Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, and Indiana. A new high in total production will likely be touched this year, following last year's record crop.

DO WE WANT DEMOCRACY?

"If we want democracy we cannot dispose of our responsibilities by marching to the polls once in a while and giving lip service to the Bill of Rights," writes Carl Dreher in Harper's. "If we want democracy we have to work for it. We have to accept the idea of politics as every citizen's primary and unremitting concern, as our business in a very concrete and personal sense."

We have left politics to the politicians—and what a mess has resulted! We have regarded government as something in which we have no direct interest, and the consequence has been a steady extension of bureaucratic power at the expense of us all. We've worked on the principle of "Let George do it"—and George has done us in good and plenty!

Not until we all realize that government is our business, will we have the fair, efficient and economical government that is essential to democracy.

EXPERTS OFTEN WRONG

In an essay which took up 23 pages of an Edinburgh periodical in the year 1837, a learned scientist of that day gave an elaborate exposition of the "fact" that it would never be possible to build a steamship capable of crossing the Atlantic under its own power.

About the same time other scientists declared Louis Daguerre, one of the inventors of photography, to be a crazy man because he thought he could make pictures with a wooden box.

A few months before the Wright brothers made their first airplane flight in 1903, a member of Congress opposed an appropriation for research into the possibilities of air navigation, declaring that no one but a fool would believe such a thing possible. And some eminent physicists agreed with him.

Scientists also once held that even if a speed of 100 miles an hour could be attained, human beings would be either suffocated or have their very brains addled by traveling at such a velocity.

Instances of similar errors by supposed experts ever since the beginning of recorded history might be cited to show how difficult it is to gain acceptance for a new idea.

But progress in the future, as in the past, will probably be made through ignoring those who think they know it all.

WATERWAY IS OPPOSED

Opposition to a proposed canal to connect the Tennessee river with the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Tombigbee river was voiced in resolutions adopted by the Railway Employees Association, at a recent meeting in Birmingham.

The protest was made on the ground that the proposed waterway is not needed and that it would tend to reduce railroad employment.

Attending the meeting were representatives of 21 organizations of railroad employees, which are said to have 6,999 members in the Birmingham area alone. It was stated that the United States now has an excess of transportation facilities to handle freight traffic, and that other public carriers would be adversely affected by the project.

The proposed canal's cost is estimated to be 66 million dollars, which the railroad men declare would be an added and useless burden on the taxpayers. It was further stated that only a few shippers would be benefited by its operation, while the railroads, already hard pressed as well as their employees would suffer from the diversion of traffic.

It appears that the railroad men's contention has much merit, and it should be given careful consideration by Congress before entering upon this costly and questionable enterprise.

BIG CITY BOOSTERS

Although Chicago now ranks as the second city in America and sixth in the world in population, a new drive for further greatness is being launched on a scale that promises to be unprecedented even for that marvel of modern progress.

The campaign is being organized through the Chicago Association of Commerce, which for 35 years has been the most potent force behind the city's amazing development. A special committee of nine outstanding leaders will direct a sweeping survey of the city's needs, and formulate policies and a program for the attainment of the objectives to be sought, according to Fred J. Ashley, an executive of the organization.

These objectives will doubtless lie along lines similar to those pursued by civic bodies of smaller cities and towns, including the extension of trade territory, the expansion of industrial activities, the improvement of municipal facilities, and many others.

AMERICAN HOTELS

The first hotels of any pretensions in the United States was the City Hotel in New York, opened in 1794, but it was naturally a crude affair compared with the magnificent hostilities of the present. There were few comforts in American hotels prior to the Civil War.

In 1854 the famous Parker House in Boston had no water faucets above the kitchen floor, and the only bath tubs were in the basement. Rooms were unheated, with straw mattresses in summer and featherbeds in winter. Each room was furnished with a bowl and pitcher, one towel and a cake of yellow soap. One of the posted rules warned guests not to wear their boots in bed.

The Tremont Hotel, also in Boston, is said to be the first to provide single rooms for guests. In the early days two or more guests always shared the same bedroom.

But the best old-time hotels supplied a wide variety of food. An early bill of fare of the Murray Hill in New York has been preserved which shows 73 dishes on the menu for breakfast. At the opening dinner at the Maxwell House in Nashville in 1869, there were 22 hot entrees and 14 kinds of wild game, including saddle of venison, boned wild boar's head, Tennessee coon, and Kentucky 'possum.

Today the hotel business is the nation's seventh largest industry, employing more than half a million persons and serving more than 200 million guests annually.

THE FOOLISH DICTATORS

It is difficult to see any wisdom in the policies of Hitler and Mussolini, so far as contributing to the happiness and well-being of their own peoples is concerned, either in the near or distant future. Surely the populations of Germany and Italy have little for which to thank the dictators so far.

Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia does not appear to have improved the condition of the Italian people, while Hitler's seizure of Austria and the annexation of the Sudetan area have been of no economic benefit to Germany.

Both Italy and Germany cry about a lack of raw materials they already have on armaments preparations for war. This at a time when both nations are virtually bankrupt, and no other nation has any thought of attacking them.

By their arrogance and their threats to the peace of the world, Hitler and Mussolini have incurred the enmity of peace-loving nations, which are forced to incur enormous debts to provide means of defense against the menace of aggression. This enmity is heightened by the persecutions and general ruthlessness which mark the dictator's policies toward certain racial and religious groups of their own citizens.

Even such powerful rulers as these can not afford, in the long run, to be hated by lovers of liberty and justice throughout the world. The policies which provoke such hatred are utterly foolish, and may eventually lead to disaster for all nations including Germany and Italy.

Miss Marjorie McGhee, Miss Frances Asbell and Miss Jessie Wade with Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Home Demonstration Agent returned June 29 from Princeton, Ky., where they attended the Annual 4-H Club leaders' conference, which was conducted by the University of Kentucky. Dr. A. B. Graham from the U.S. Department of Agriculture was the main speaker for the conference. The theme of the conference was, "Motivating Forces in 4-H Club Work."

Homemakers' Camp 4

The purchase district Homemakers' camp will be held at Columbus state park the week of July 24. The Fulton County Homemakers' club members will have the opportunity of attending this camp where the homemakers will study music, recreation, weaving, and have plenty of time for rest and fun. With a strict "No admittance for men", rule, homemakers are assured of a week during which they can forget the cares and duties of home. This is said to serve the same purpose a business man's annual fishing trip does for him, and to make for a happier home life the remainder of the year.

SWINE ERYSIPELAS FOUND IN KENTUCKY

The identification of two cases of swine erysipelas is announced by the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. This is believed to be the first time that the organism of this comparatively rare disease of hogs has been isolated and identified in Kentucky.

Swine erysipelas was found in the United States as early as 1892 and cases have been reported in Kentucky before, but never positively identified.

Three forms of swine erysipelas occur, the acute, the sub-acute and the chronic. The most common of these are the sub-acute and the chronic, with the sub-acute usually producing an endocarditis and heart valve lesions. The chronic form of the disease is manifested by skin lesions (diamond skin disease) and by joint swellings.

If the sick pigs are treated in the early stages of the disease with immune serum they can be saved. Vaccination is also effective in some cases.

The fact that man is subject to wound infections caused by this organism makes the disease doubly dangerous. Erysiploid is the name applied to the infection in man and differs from true erysipelas which is caused by another form of bacteria.

Other animals, such as sheep, turkeys and mice, are subject to natural infection with this group of bacteria.

When a shipment of fish specimens from Pacific waters arrived at the Shedd Aquarium in Chicago it appeared that they were about to die. After being placed in still water for a while they revived, and scientists say they were only seasick from their long journey.

On a tombstone at Matamoros, Mexico is recorded the strange fact that one Servando Canales was born October 23, 1830, and died October 30, 1930, exactly 100 years later.

When the recent tornado struck Anoka, Minn., an American Legion meeting was being held in the city hall, after a failure to obtain the local armory for the purpose. The twister wrecked the armory, but did no damage to the city hall.

FALL GOOD TIME

TO SOW ALFALFA

August is perhaps the best time for sowing alfalfa for the first time. Men at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington say that seedlings made then seem to be more generally successful than spring seedlings.

Even on soils that have previously grown alfalfa, August seedlings have one distinct advantage; that is, they may be made on well prepared seed beds. For this reason, stands are likely to be uniform and practically free from weeds.

The Hardigan variety of alfalfa has produced best in tests made at Lexington, but this seed is not usually available in large quantities. Because the Kansas common alfalfa produces well and seeds can be had in large amounts, it is recommended for general sowing in Kentucky.

Alfalfa seed sown for the first time on a field, or on a field that has not been in alfalfa for several years, should be inoculated. Commercial cultures used according to directions are entirely satisfactory. Pulverized soil from an old alfalfa field mixed with slightly moistened seed will also give good inoculation.

A clover and grass seed drill gives the best seeding results, distributing the seed evenly and in such a way that all of it should germinate. Perhaps the next best method is broadcasting after a cultipacker. Or the seed may be broadcast after a drag harrow. It is usually advisable to brush the seed bed lightly after broadcast seeding.

When drilled, 10 to 12 pounds of seed to the acre is sufficient; if broadcast, 15 pounds should be used.

WEST TENN. FARMERS TO MEET JULY 26 to 27

West Tennessee farmers and their families will gather at the Experiment Station in Jackson, Tenn., on July 26-27 for their annual farm and homemakers institute, according to announcement by Ben P. Hazelwood, secretary of the organization and superintendent of the station.

An unusual strong program which includes a number of outstanding speakers on farm and home problems has been arranged and a record attendance is expected, Mr. Hazelwood said.

Speakers include Dr. J. D. Hoskins, President of the U. of Tennessee; Mrs. C. L. Lau, an Ohio farm homemaker who has won national recognition as a speaker on rural home and community problems; J. F. Porter, president of the Tennessee farm bureau; E. J. McMillan, President of the Southern Industrial Council; Congressman Hermon Pearson; Director C. A. Moores, Dr. M. Jacobs, and other leaders and specialists of the U. of Tennessee.

At the gypsies' annual bride market in Kraljevo, Yugoslavia, prices were exceedingly low this year. Parents of the prize of the lot, a striking brunette, received only $6.40, while less attractive girls brought as little as $3.60.

"Brad", a Boston terrier, was successfully operated on at Brookline, Mass., for removal of seven stones he had swallowed from his owner's rock garden.

Firecrackers which were 60 years old were shot off at a party in Cottonwood Falls, Kans., and exploded with louder reports than the modern firecracker makes.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

I have been reading the history of China, which coupled with the history of Japan, gives one a better understanding of the trouble that exists today, in the spread of Japanese influence in Korea, Manchuria and China, itself.

The antiquity of China is so great and the history of the Empire covers so vast a period, that it is difficult to absorb much about it in a short study. But the Empire from the time of Marco Polo, the Venetian traveler, to the present day, is by far the most important period.

But of all the great empires of antiquity, China alone has preserved her existence in defiance of the disintegrating effects of time and the assaults of her enemies. While the ancient empires of Egypt, Babylonia and Assyria have waxed and waned, she has maintained her position in the Eastern World, and has enlarged, rather than diminished her boundaries.

The earliest existing records of the people describe them as a small body of settlers dwelling in the fertile regions of northeastern China, river. They slowly consolidated in the neighborhood of the Yellow their empire and established a definite form of government, they forced back native tribes, and extended their rule over the regions lying to the west and south of their original location. As centuries passed, they threw out colonies into the outer regions, and after the manner in which may still be observed in their dealings with the Manchurians and Mongolians, made these colonies first centers for the spread of Chinese influence. Pushing on they crossed the Yangtze river southward in the third century B.C., adding province after province, and establishing the empire as it exists today. They have none of the characteristics of a warlike race, adopting rather peaceful methods of settlement and not by invasion and conquest.

The Chinese are ancestors of a tribe that migrated from eastward from a region on the south of the Caspian sea in about the 23rd century, according to historians. They have long been versed in medicine, astronomy, mathematics, literature, and other arts. This vast migration of the Chinese is but an example of the movements which have constantly taken place in the populations of Asia. Plague, famine, political disturbances have all had their influences in the constant distribution of the tribes and nations of the East. The early history of China is filled with the rise and fall of one ruler after another. It was during the reign of Jenghiz Khan, a Mongol chief, that the strongest early empire was built. He and his vast horde of mounted warriors invaded and captured every principal city in China, and claimed dominion over all. His son, Mangui, and grandson, the Great Kublai, continued the conquest of China. It was while the latter was in power that the Venetian traveler, Marco Polo, presented himself at the court of the great Khan. Already the father and uncle of Marco had made an adventurous journey in pursuit of commerce across Asia to the valley of the Onon, and it was on the occasion of their second visit in 1271 that they took the youthful Marco with them.

The pomp and splendor of the Oriental court struck the travelers with amazement. Never before had they dreamed of such imperial splendor. The annual feast and national commemorations were celebrated with a magnificence that surpassed their wildest imaginations, while the vicinities of civilization which they met on all sides led them to make comparisons as unfavorable to Europe as changed circumstances lead us now to make to the disadvantage of China.

But successful in all his land campaigns, Kublai was uniformly unsuccessful in his naval warfare. In 1266, in an attempt to put an end to the Japanese piratical raids on the coast of China and Korea, he ventured to cross the sea from Korea to Japan. A number of vessels were captured or destroyed. Several years later another attempt was made, with the same unsatisfactory results.

From 1506 to 1522, occurred an event which led up, though at a long interval, to the treaties which now govern the relations of China with the outer world. Portuguese traders made Canton and Peking points for extension of commerce. But outrages by other traders brought about conflicts, which rendered the Chinese disinclined to receive within their frontiers any foreigner whom they could conveniently keep out. For years even missionaries were not allowed to land. But gradually, after the success of Ricci, the first great missionary, foreigners were permitted to settle in China.

The China coast was continually ravaged by the piratical Japanese. These lawless attacks brought the Japanese merchants rich harvests. In 1522 a more serious campaign was started by the Japanese, with the invaders establishing themselves in fortified post. Some years later they even advanced and laid siege to Nanking, but this attempt at conquest finally failed. But in every naval engagement the Japanese were successful, and on land though vastly outnumbered, they were never hopelessly defeated. A Chinese historian describes them as "intrepid, insured to fatigue, despising of life, and knowing well how to face death." This training from childhood has made them terrible in battle during these invasions of China in recent years.

The Japanese invaded Korea in 1852 and again in 1895, butchering thousands of the natives and taking away rich spoils. It was about this time (1852) that the Spaniards reached the Philippine Islands, where they found a congenial climate and fertile soil.

I was rather surprised at an article written by Frank Smith, the new owner and publisher of the Union City Commercial, in which he severely criticized the people of that community who attended the Old Car Derby in Fulton on July 4th. For a man in a new field, trying to put forth his best foot, he seems to certainly have gotten off on the wrong one. He took the Old Car Derby for a ride. We don't know just why he picked on Fulton and the Old Car Derby, unless he heard so much about them—and just arriving in a new community—he concluded that the publicity and advertising they were receiving were more than he could stand to swallow. Anyway, his epistle certainly went over our head. We do believe, however, that he will find that he will have to pattern his way of thinking to the ways of the South, and not adopt a back-East attitude, if he expects to make headway in this vicinity.

His item follows for your perusal:

"This dept. has unavoidably been informed that there was some kind of a race at Fulton, Ky., Tuesday, Independence Day. From the information thrust upon us by returning pleasure seekers who had lacked the intelligence or enterprise to find higher grade amusement so abundant in our far city, this so-called race was between semi-decreased road-lice which had already been abused not wisely but too well for unbelievable periods of time, to wit and inasmuch that they were without exception spavined, sway-backed, saddle-galled and wind-broken or the equivalent.

"Upon proper philosophical consideration of this event one comes to the conclusion that it reminds one of the 500 mile race at Indianapolis—it is so different. In spectator interest there is no comparison. Hardly a spectator was killed for the amusement of the other spectators and as the drivers unfortunately none of the cars will in shape to run fast enough to kill its driver even under the most fortunate conditions. Therefore in a social sense the thing was a flop. Furthermore they had to get a Union City man to win the race. For anybody in Fulton to have twenty bucks in one piece might be fatal.

"On the other hand the quality of dust inhaled per spectator per capita, perhaps or preadventure was something else again and why not, I ask you. There was more dust to be inhaled per spectator, etc., ad infinitum. This is over the heads of a lot of people but perhaps it is just as well.

Well, so, anyhow, as another famous sport writer has said, a good time was had by all except those who could take it or leave it. Pax vobiscum."

Maybe the 25,000 people who attended the Derby, many of them Union Citizens, didn't have much "intelligence or enterprise" as our erudite editor so plainly classed them, but most of these citizens have the native intelligence and integrity to live their own lives as free-born American citizens and not meddle with the affairs of other people. Editor Smith might have intended his remarks as humorous, but in the opinion of many who read them—including quite a few prominent Union City people—they were untimely and misplaced, and showed a decided lack of wisdom and experience in the newspaper profession.

No farmer is farther from the market than the one who has nothing to sell.

One advantage of diversified farming is having saleable products at different seasons of the year.

Our farmers cannot fix world prices, but through the AAA they can protect their income.

Cover crops from a sponge on the ground that holds the water and keeps it from washing the soil away.

Phosphate and lime are needed on most soil to make soil-holding grasses and legumes develop a good vigorous growth and root system.

The war-time munitions plants at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, are being used by the TVA for the peacetime production of experimental phosphate plant foods.

The best crop on the farm is our rural youth. Encourage boys and girls to become better farmers and homemakers by first being good 4-H club members.

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, starchy or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or overworked, your stomach doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, indigestion, flatulence, etc. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes time to make the system work better. Doan's Pills are the only pills that will make the system work better. MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dance and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "peppy" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

For the land's sake, plant winter cover crops after row crops this fall. Plan to attend one of the cover crop meeting to be held in your county during the week of June 26-30. Consult your county farm agent for dates and places of meeting.

Farmers should learn to know what they have to sell. A cotton classing school to give instruction in grading and stapling will be held in Memphis, July 10-15.

Horace Greeley may not have been thinking of sheepmen when he advised young men to "Go West", but it is true that Western ewes, when brought here, are proving satisfactory for early spring lamb production.

Whether or not you get eggs this fall, depends largely on how you care for young pullets while they are developing. Your county farm and home agents can supply you with U-T Extension Publication No. 170, which gives good pointers on "Developing Pullets for Winter Layers."

WHEN ALL BENEFIT

We've all heard of the benefits that agricultural marketing cooperation has brought the farmers—fairer prices, more stable markets, etc.

And the fact shouldn't be lost sight of that this kind of business—like cooperation serves the consumer as well.

For example, it assures the city-dweller of a constant, certain supply of high quality farm products. And marketing cooperation, by tending to increase the farmer's cash income, broadens the rural market for urban-manufactured goods.

A sound plan that helps one large group of Americans, helps other groups as well. And agricultural marketing cooperation is no exception to that rule.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday July 16, 1939.

The Golden Text is: "Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and so the Lord, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken."—(Amos 5:14.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may know him that is true, and we are in him that is true, even in his Son, Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life."—(1 John 5:20.)

MONEY AND TIME

"The most useless things Robinson Crusoe salvaged were gold coins," said an economist recently. "Money has a time utility. When it buys the things we need when we need them most, as life insurance money does, it value to us is greatest."

There, in different words, is the old, sad, familiar story to the effect that dollars are needed most when they are hardest to earn—and that the money wasted by the young people, secure at the height of their earning power, is usually beyond the frail reach of the old. No one knows how many people life insurance has saved from a dependent old age, but their name is legion. They are the happy ones of this earth, who thought ahead.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, you read, the objective of which is only to approve every word of advertising recommending Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

A TENT SHOW AT FIDELITY

Circuses came to the county seat, ten miles away, but at least one tent show came all the way out into the wilds of Fidelity. There must have been dozens of such shows formerly, but they are now one of the passing institutions, even as the circus itself threatens to be. In an old field near the village the tent was set up, with the requisite number of saucer-eyed boys in the immediate neighborhood of the operations. Just how large or small it was it would be difficult now to say, for time often enlarges things. Anyway, it had some guy ropes and a central pole and some smaller poles; it was a bona fide tent.

From the hills and valleys around Fidelity came all sorts of folks to see the marvels to be exhibited. There were things that impressed us so deeply that probably fifty people could describe them yet with greater skill than I can. There was a cinnamon bear that could dance, and there was a brown bear that could climb trees, with a rope around his neck to keep him from straying away for good. My heart danced and skipped when the tight-rope walker did his act, rather clumsily; it seems that some of the neighbors were supposed to hold some guy ropes to keep his rope tight and relaxed in open-mouthed wonder when he danced jigs on the rope. As I recall it now, his language was neither chaste nor mild when this happened.

But the best things went on inside of the tent. Two clowns, dressed in bright-colored Turkish trousers or something like that, said and did cute things until all of us reared with laughter and slapped each other on the back. The marvel of all came when the ventriloquist came out with his dummy, or "little Man", and gave us a taste of an age-old form of entertainment. The dummy was as smart-alec as Charlie McCarthy. For weeks after the show we laughed at his stale jokes and near-improper sayings. We tried by every known method to develop a voice to suit a dummy, but I fear our efforts were pretty poor. Then a juggler did his stunts; knife-swallowing, tossing objects, throwing knives, and keeping several balls in the air at once. There may have been some other things, but they have disappeared under the dust of forty years.

Nothing, probably, is more distinctively folk than this tent show. Everything that we saw harks back to remote times, some of them among the earliest ages of civilized man. The ancient Romans had their marionettes and their trained animals. The jokesters whom we saw were the lineal descendants of ancient and mediaeval entertainers by the dozens. If that same little show in the old field could have been whisked away to the time of Shakespeare, the great poet himself could have enjoyed and recognized every feature of it. Chaucer must have known dozens of such troupes in his capacity of internal-revenue collector and traveller. While we were a far piece from civilization, there came to us in this ornery-looking wagon a slice of the whole world.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

"President Roosevelt's new 'invisible spending' scheme knocked the old congressional crowd virtually speechless," observed Paul Mallon, veteran Washington columnist, recently. "Hours afterward they had not regained their breath sufficiently to comment aloud."

Mr. Mallon does not exaggerate—the "invisible spending" idea is one of the most amazing things ever to come out of often-amazing Washington. To tell the story in its chronological order, you have to begin with that growing bogey, the national debt.

The legal debt limit—though few people seem to know this—is fixed by Congress. And it can be changed only by the will of Congress. At present, the limit is established as $45,000,000,000.

The national debt is now some $40,300,000,000. And it is slated for a sharp rise next year. The Administration has apparently abandoned all hope of balancing the budget, and has decided that continued and perhaps increasing deficit financing is a necessary and semi-permanent part of our fiscal policy.

Thus, the President and his advisors have found themselves uncomfortably close to the point where it would be impossible to add to the debt, and the government will have no way whatsoever of raising revenue beyond its income. The obvious solution was to request that Congress increase the debt limit. But that isn't as simple as it sounds.

The present Congress has shown itself to be definitely economy-minded, at least by comparison with its immediate predecessors. Early this session representatives of the President sounded out leading congressmen on the possibility of swiftly and quietly passing a bill to boost the debt limit. The answers they got were not reassuring. Consensus seemed to be that the odds were well against the bill going through—and that, even if White House pressure could turn the trick, it would only be done after a long and bitter fight that might prove definitely harmful to the Administration's prestige and power.
