AN ASSET TO FULTON

S. FULTON HAS OWN WATER & FIRE DEPT.

South Fulton, site of Fulton Park, will have its own water and fire department, since the people in this community made the necessary improvements.

A new pump house is being erected in the city, and work is progressing rapidly. The new fire chief, with a revolving ladder, will be of great assistance in putting out fires in the city.

The improvements on the fire engine have been completed, and it is expected to be in good working order soon.

WEST FULTON DAMAGED

Produced by Cecil B. DeMille at the Paramount Picture Corporation, the new film titled "The Ten Commandments" features the story of the Exodus of the Hebrews from Egypt under the leadership of Moses.

This epic film, directed by DeMille, is set against the backdrop of ancient Egypt and its civilization. It includes a renowned scene featuring the parting of the Red Sea, and it explores themes of religion, culture, and human rights.

The film aims to provide a historical perspective on the story of Moses, symbolizing freedom and liberation. It is considered a significant work in motion picture history, with notable performances and stunning visual effects.
The change that has reached America's banking industry has been so rapid and so momentous, that it is hard to believe that men have pushed money to where it is today. This is why, I believe, the man who calls the banks a "monopoly" is guilty of a great injustice. You must understand that banking is in the same position now as it was 50 years ago. It was then that the banks were the only source of capital in America. Today, it is the same. We have come a long way since then, but the banks are still the dominant force in the economy.

If I had used the word "monopoly" to describe the banks, it would mean that there is only one bank in the country. But there are thousands of banks, each with its own staff of personnel. It would be more accurate to say that there is a "monopoly" of banks. This is true because the banks have a virtual monopoly on the money supply. They control the amount of money that is available to the public, and they control the interest rates that are charged on loans.

Don't buy the idea of a "monopoly" of banks. It is a false idea that has been perpetuated by the media and by politicians. The truth is that the banks are not a "monopoly" in any sense of the word. They are a force for good in the economy, and they play a vital role in the functioning of the economy. They are not a threat to the economy, but a vital component of it. They are a force for good in the economy, and they play a vital role in the functioning of the economy. They are not a threat to the economy, but a vital component of it.

NEK: Prill 11.11, so I'll report artist in Utah since I'll visit with her nearer home in Littleton, Ky., after Church.'

Education was in Fulton, and my interest in Fulton is due, in a large measure, to the fact that it is the site of one of the finest public schools in the state. The school is well equipped with laboratories and libraries, and the students have a wonderful opportunity to learn about their science subjects.

I have been reading the history of the town of Fulton, which is one of the oldest settlements in the county. It was founded in 1830, and the town was originally called New Madrid. The name was changed to Fulton in honor of General Andrew Jackson, who was born in the county.

We visited the town on Sunday, and the children in the school were very interested in the history of the town. They learned about the early settlers, and they were told about the famous battles that took place in the area.

Fulton is also known for its beautiful scenery. The town is located on the Mississippi River, and there are many parks and trails around the town. We spent a lot of time exploring the area, and we saw many beautiful sights.

We also visited the Fulton Museum, which is located in a beautiful building near the river. The museum contains many artifacts and displays about the history of the town. We spent a lot of time in the museum, and we learned a lot about Fulton's past.

Overall, our visit to Fulton was very enjoyable. The town has a lot to offer, and we hope to visit again soon. We highly recommend it to anyone who is interested in history or in exploring beautiful scenery.
