CAPITOL COMMENTS

Lazy summer days of opulence when the farmers in salubrious satisfaction watch their growing crops, while from the kitchen comes the aroma of cooking preserves or fruit in the process of canning. The farmer's wife is utilizing the bounties of nature and soon these products at the County Fairs and mayhops win prizes.

The County Fairs are coming back to the hearts of Kentuckians and their importance to the welfare of a community is again being realized. We, here, wish to congratulate Mercer County for their Horse Show and Fair this week and all the other Counties with fairs to come.

The strike at Harlan was settled this week after it had caused numerous deaths and the loss of millions of dollars to both the wage earner and industry. The C.I.O. did not gain the supreme right of employment for its members only. Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, Director of Old Age Assistance in the Department of Welfare, resigned last week and John Young Brown stated he would campaign for him, but before the week was out, Dr. Lloyd withdrew his resignation, and an embarrassing situation was saved the Administration.

The Louisville organization came out militantly for Keen Johnson last week with a called meeting by the Mayor to organize an act, but a former member and secretary of the organization is working for John Y. Brown.

The President stated to a group of Kentucky Congressmen that he had no preference in the Democratic primary in Kentucky.

For the number of candidates and the intense campaigning, the people of Kentucky show an antipathy that is amazing. Perhaps they are tired of high pressure campaigns and elections.

"On Borrowed Time" Revolves Around Apple Tree

When Joyce Kilmer wrote his celebrated poem, "Trees," he hadn't seen the apple tree for "On Borrowed Time". Around this tree the whole story revolves: the story of an old grandfather desperately fighting death to prevent the young grandson he loves from falling into the clutches of an unscrupulous aunt, and trapping Death in the tree by means of a mystic wish.

The procuring of the right tree for the picturization of the Broadway stage success, coming soon to the Fulton theatre, provided the studio construction department with employment for twenty-four men in seven different divisions of its shop. Two week were first required to find a nursery in or near Los Angeles with a tree large enough to play the role, for the tree is a definite character.

In the sequence where the mysterious stranger, Mr. Brink, personification of Death, is trapped in the branches, the tree shudders as though in the grip of an earthquake. Fred Gabourie, superintendent of the construction department decided this effect could be best obtained by raising blows from a pneumatic hammer on the base of the trunk. Therefore a tough trunk was needed, a trunk with no rot or hollow spaces.

Gabourie could take no chance of the trunk splitting and possibly part of its branches falling on Lionel Barrymore, who, as Gramp, sits in his wheelchair beneath it at the time of the upheaval.

Soil Improvement Aids Corn King

LAFAYETTE, IND. — Producing 151 bushels of corn per acre and winning the title of Five-Acre Corn King for the third time in the past 25 years was simply a matter of sound farm management plus soil improvement, according to A. C. Brown, of Ripley County, Ind., who accomplished this amazing feat.

The eight-acre field on which Mr. Brown's championship yield was produced was originally "slash land" and is now classified as Clermont silt loam, which is not considered productive corn land because of poor drainage, high acidity and low fertility.

Mr. Brown overcame these handicaps by careful surface drainage, laying out the fields in eight row lands with a drainage furrow on either side. He applied seven tons of limestone per acre to the field in the past 15 years and as a result obtained some excellent stands of red clover.

For the past four years he used a light application of manure on the corn land each year. The championship field was in clover pasture in 1937. Last spring Mr. Brown applied 325 pounds of fertilizer per acre to the plot. The fertilizer, he told agronomists of Purdue University, not only greatly increased his yield, but advanced the maturity as well as improved the quality of the grain. This was important, for his corn—a hybrid top cross J. C. N. No.

A. C. BROWN

1—was planted two weeks later than normal because of wet weather.

Mr. Brown won the state corn yield championship in 1933 and 1935. The runner-up in the five-acre contest was Ralph Heileman of Bartholomew county, Indiana, champion in 1937, who placed second with a yield of 147.3 bushels per acre.

Finally an oak of the required specification was found near Arcadia. Once at the studio, the tree was sent through the various shops. Its oak bark was ripped and sandpapered off and an apple bark made from rubber was cemented on. The branches were bolted to the trunk so they could not be broken loose by shaking. Four days' work was necessary before the tree could be moved to the sound stage. A crew of ten men then tore up the floor of the stage and set a pile-driver in a cemented foundation, to be operated by compressed air. A metal base was bolted on the bottom of the tree trunk and set on wheels which in turn ran on tracks underneath the stage. As the hammer hit the trunk, it jolted back and forth on its tracks.

MONEY DISAPPEARS

According to officials of the U. S. Mint in Washington, an enormous amount of money issued is lost or otherwise disappears, so that the Treasury never has to redeem it, but is that much ahead.

It is estimated that five billion pennies have been misplaced since the government began making them. Of the old-time 2-cent pieces, of which more than 91 million were coined, more than 57 million are still missing, while less than one-third of the 94 million 3-cent pieces minted more than a half-century ago were ever returned for redemption.

But it is not only small coins that get lost. More than 10 million of the old large-sized $1 bills, the issue of which was discontinued about 10 years ago, never got back to the Treasury, and the same is true of many large-sized bills of higher denominations. Of course, a considerable amount of this old money is hoarded away and may come to light some day.

Incidentally, by reducing the size of paper currency by one-third it is estimated that the Treasury has saved about 18 million dollars in cost of paper, ink and labor and storage place in the last ten years.

However, with spending going on at the rate of more than 9 billion dollars a year, such a saving is only a drop in the Treasury bucket.

So long as the farmer has to sell at wholesale and buy retail, he should strive not to over-do any crop.

Farmers participating in the 1937 AAA Farm Program carried out erosion control practices on nearly 7,000,000 acres of their land.

Wheat farmers who cooperated in the 1938 AAA Farm Program, received loans on nearly 86,000,000 bushels of wheat, totaling over $49,000,000.

The AAA wheat loan, averaging about 70 cents per bushel, makes it possible for the farmers to get immediate income from his wheat crop while waiting for a more favorable market.

The AAA in 1939 is helping farmers in nearly half the States to improve their pastures and conserve their soil by offering lime and superphosphate in place of cash payments for conservation practices.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday, July 30, 1939.

The Golden Text is: "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." (Jude 1:21.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new."

"Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" Latest Hardy Film

Presenting the lucky seventh Hardy Family hit, "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" opens Sunday at the Fulton Theatre with the family back home in Carvel.

Again Lewis Stone is seen as Judge Hardy, Mickey Rooney is Andy and all the rest of the family are present, Fay Holden, Cecilia Parker, Sara Haden, Ann Rutherford. Two new members are Terry Kilburn, fresh from his triumph in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," enacting an annoying friend of Andy's, and Helen Gilbert, Hollywood's newest discovery, who plays the school teacher.

The director is W. S. Van Dyke II, one of filmdom's outstanding directors and who numbers among his successes such pictures as "The Thin Man," "San Francisco" and "Sweethearts."

The story is said to be the most amusing and the most dramatic of all the Hardy pictures. The Judge gets entangled with some crooked promoters who talk him into investing not only his own money, but that of his friends also in a phony aluminum company. Andy Hardy, in the meantime, having quarreled with his girl, Polly Benedict, falls in love with the high school dramatic teacher. Vowing to have his worth recognized, Andy writes the school play and wins the role of the hero.

Two farmers near Benton, Ky. plowed up $790 in buried gold coins.

Chicago has a company of amateur actors, all of whom are blind. They study their parts in Braille and give plays for the aid of other sightless persons. The group has been organized about eight years.

Jimmie Akhurst, 12, of Wilmington, Del., while fishing for catfish, landed a two-foot alligator which is supposed to have escaped from a zoo.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Bitterness runs high in the current Congress—between New Deal and anti-New Deal Democrats, between nationalists and internationalists, between "conservatives" and "liberals." Cause of much of this bitterness are two matters of immense importance to the American people—our money policy and our neutrality policy. One to a degree will determine the future economic course of this country. The other will have an immediate bearing on whether we shall become participants if another world war occurs, or whether we shall manage to escape being directly involved in its toll of life and property.

The money fight was over the proposal that the Executive's emergency powers in valuing gold should be continued—and over the policy of Treasury silver purchases. For several years the United States has been buying foreign silver in tremendous quantities. It has likewise purchased U.S.-mined silver at a price substantially higher than the world price—66.64 cents per ounce, as against a world price of about 40 cents. And, by acts of Congress, the President has been empowered to reduce the gold content of the dollar to as little as 50 per cent of its former value.

This last phase of the question was by far the most important issue at stake. Administration supporters wanted it continued—the measure legalizing it expired at midnight, June 30. "Hard money" men wanted it abolished. In the Senate, the "hard money" advocates, led by Senator Glass, threatened to talk the bill to death through a filibuster. This development, in the words of Time, caused the President to "hit the ceiling." He immediately stated that an effort was being made to return the control of money to "Wall Street speculators."

Answer to this came promptly from Senator Vandenberg, who said "I wonder if our distinguished Executive realized precisely what he was saying . . . that when Congress controls money, Wall Street controls it." The "hard-money" men were adamant—with the result that when midnight came on June 30, the President's power over the gold content was not renewed.

Then the Administration forces went to work and made a deal with the silver minded Senators whereby they offered to raise the price paid for domestic mined silver to about 71 cents per ounce. And this swung the day. In a vote taken a few days later, an act to renew the Executive's gold power was approved by a narrow margin. There is now considerable question as to its legality.

So the President won a provisional victory. But the fact that so much opposition within his own party developed against a power which was granted him overwhelmingly by previous congresses was a blow to the White House—and it further illumines the rift between Congress and the President. Not since the advent of the New Deal has the Administration's majority in the Senate been so slim as now.

Not so clearly defined are the ranks of those who are battling the neutrality issue. The President, backed by Secretary Hull, wants wide discretionary powers. He does not want to be forced to automatically forbid the shipment of arms to fighting nations. Instead, he prefers a law which would permit any nation to buy whatever it wants in this country, including arms and munitions, on a cash-and-carry basis, whereby, it would have to attain immediate title to whatever it bought and move its purchases in its own ships. Some men who are with the President in most matters, oppose this, feel it might lead us into a war. Other men who are opposed to the President in his domestic policies, favor it.

Irrespective of who is right, the strong congressional isolationist bloc, led by influential Senators Borah and Johnson, convinced their colleagues that the President's discretionary authority should be materially curbed. The Administration leaders felt sure that the cash-and-carry plan would pass the House, whatever fate might be in store for it in the Senate, but they guessed wrong. Passed, by a vote of 214 to 173, was an amendment by Representative Vory's flatly specifying that no belligerent nation, large or small, may purchase arms and ammunition in this country.

Other sections of the bill, which received House approval by the narrow margin of 200 to 188, provide that Congress, as well as the President, may declare that a state of war exists between nations; that U.S. citizens will travel on ships flying the flags of warring nations at their own risks, and that purchases of non-war materials in this country by belligerents must be on cash-and-carry basis.

There is a certain practical weakness in forbidding belligerents to buy arms here — after all, such peaceful commodities as oil and leather and metals are as vital to the pursuit of modern war as shells and guns and airplanes. But the action of Congress shows the growing feeling that the cynical lessons we have learned from our participation in the last war make it essential that we do everything conceivable to maintain absolute neutrality.

JAYWALKERS VICTIMS

Some months ago a check-up in Washington, D. C., disclosed that 73 per cent of all traffic fatalities in that city over a certain period were those of jaywalkers—persons who met death by walking in the streets under circumstances forbidden by traffic regulations.

It has been stated by the National Safety Council that 39 per cent of all traffic deaths are those of pedestrians, and in cities two out of three killed in traffic are on foot. Accidents to pedestrians caused 12,500 deaths and 275,000 non-fatal injuries last year.

Much has been said and written about reckless drivers and the campaign against them should be pressed with vigor. But the jay-walker presents a problem hardly less serious, as the figures given will show. Many of them risk their lives to gain a minute of time, and it is often difficult for the most skillful driver to avoid striking these careless walkers.

Women appear to be more careful than men, as only 22 per cent of fatalities and 33 per cent of non-fatal injuries were those of female walkers. This may be partially due to the fact that fewer women are on the streets at night, when 72 per cent of fatalities in cities occur.

The results of safety campaigns in numerous cities lately have been gratifying, but the needless slaughter will continue until both pedestrians and drivers are awakened to a fuller realization of their personal responsibilities.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—digesting food—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up rights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for Doan's.

I appreciate the vote of confidence the people of the district gave me four years ago. I have tried in every way to serve you and am now asking that you vote for me for re-election that I may continue with the work that I have been doing in your interest.

Sincerely,
Robert E. Webb.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Rates Must Cover Costs

One highly important requirement of railroad rates, as pointed out in our declaration of policy, is to cover the necessary costs of operation. In the aggregate, rates must be adjusted to enable the carrier to take in what it has to spend.

Out of every dollar collected for its transportation last year, the Illinois Central spent:

- For wages 43 cents
- For purchases 28 cents
- For taxes 9 cents
- For rents 5 cents
- For interest 14 cents
- For improvements . . . 1 cent

Thus those who use Illinois Central service spread their money widely and wisely. The Illinois Central thanks them for their patronage.

Little Stories about GREAT HYMNS

"PASS ME NOT"
Fanny J. Crosby

"Pass me not, O gentle Saviour,
Hear my humble cry;
While on others Thou art calling,
Do not pass me by."

Chorus:
"Saviour, Saviour,
Hear my humble cry,
While on others Thou art calling,
Do not pass me by."

"Mrs. Fanny J. Crosby Van Alstyne, the blind poetess, in 1868 was asked by Dr. Wm. H. Doane to write a hymn on the theme 'Pass me not, O gentle Saviour.' Taking the theme as the first line, she wrote the hymn, and gave it to Dr. Doane, who composed the melody. It was popularized by Ira D. Sankey in the meetings conducted by D. L. Moody."

In sad but loving memory of my dear son, William Paul Colley, whom God called home July 29th, 1938. One year of sorrow, lonely and blue. Life is so sad without you Paul, dear.

A Perfect Flower

Just why God took you from us, we cannot understand, you who were so young and useful to bloom in that better land. Counted as a precious jewel, was each day you spent here, but the precious memories of you will linger through the coming years.

Some day there will be a meeting in that land where we'll never grow old, where there's nothing but flowers and rosebuds the half has never been told.

When our work on earth is ended and we have crossed the tide, we will come and dwell with you forever more there in Heaven we shall abide.

"A little broadening of a ripple upon the Eternal shore; a little loosening of the bands that cripple, and nothing more. What is death? A parting of the clouds above us, which hide the sun; a golden vision of the souls that love us, and labor done. What is death? The opening of a perfect flower. No watcher sees; the silent Spirit who at twilight hour, the bondsman free. What is death? God's mercy strange, uncomprehended. Dr. JEKYLL and Mr. HYDE

that describes JOHNSON and these FACTS PROVE IT!

Mr. Johnson's platform pledges a $30 maximum Old Age Pension. He now states that it would be impossible to pay that amount.

YET—in his pamphlets enclosed with Pension checks he states "Keen Johnson not only advocates $30 a month pension, but believes they should be paid."

WHICH DOES JOHNSON MEAN?

Keen Johnson states that John Young Brown will put a 5 per cent Sales Tax on us.

YET—Keen Johnson was a Sales Tax Candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1935. JOHN YOUNG BROWN DEFEATED AND KILLED THE SALES TAX WHEN HE WAS SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE.

WHO IS FOR THE SALES TAX?

Keen Johnson states the CIO and John L. Lewis will get you if John Young Brown is elected.

YET—Mr. Brown is not attorney for the CIO, but for the United Mine Workers.

John L. Lewis has only spoken in Kentucky one time and THAT WAS IN 1935 AND WAS AT THE INVITATION OF ALBERT BENJAMIN CHANDLER AND KEEN JOHNSON, governor and lieutenant governor respectively.

Keen Johnson says he is for Senator Barkley.

YET—last year he spoke all over Kentucky, except Fulton (he cancelled a speech here) and stated Barkley was not fit to be a Senator, and had Rhodes K. Myers speak for the Chandler backers on Friday night before the primary, who stated that Senator Barkley was a communist and was being ordered by the Communist party.

Keen Johnson states he is for the New Deal and President Roosevelt.

YET—during the present administration he has been the severest critic and has cast more ridicule at President Roosevelt than any other newspaper editor in Kentucky, Republicans included.

WE DO NOT WANT A DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE FOR GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY, who is for everything until elected and then will turn on those who trusted him.

Kentucky glories in its State University. Louisiana did too.... until politicians debased it by misusing its funds. Happy Chandler has appointed a full new Board of Regents who will elect Happy president of the University of Kentucky if Keen Johnson is elected governor.

R. M. BAGBY

for LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

A practical farmer and business man. He has their interest at heart and is best fitted to aid the farmer and his helpers in their economic problems.

He is a friend to the laboring man and knows their problems. He believes there should be the closest co-operation between labor and capital and that our Government should always be sympathetic and helpful in its dealings with all our citizens.

VOTE FOR R. M. BAGBY. He is not a professional politician. He is GENUINELY interested in the welfare of you and me, and KENTUCKY.

"He Will Strengthen The Ticket"

WHO IS THE FRIEND OF THE FARMER?

John Young Brown has proven in the past and his pledged platform proves that he is the Friend of the Farmer.

1. Restoration of the Department of Agriculture and turning the State Fair over to the Farmers instead of politicians, as it has been for the past 3½ years.
2. Full co-operation and efforts toward Rural Electrification.
3. Free Bridges. We in Fulton county are not particularly bothered with Toll Bridges, but think of our Farmer friends in other parts of the state and some not over 50 miles from us, who are hampered by Toll Bridges.
4. $30 Old Age Pension. Mr. Brown pledges an unqualified $30. Mr. Johnson promises a maximum of $30, but does not pledge a minimum. That of course, could be regulated by him if he becomes Governor.
5. Higher educational standards and better pay for school teachers; with a retirement plan for teachers.
6. Full Co-operation with the New Deal and President Roosevelt. Soil conservation, AAA, CCC and all other measures which aid the farmer.
7. Civil Service for State Employees, to remove them from political servitude and thus make it impossible to spend our highway funds for political gains—but put this money where it belongs, on better roads.

FUN AT THE FAIR

NEW YORK—Three of the hundreds of amusements that will furnish enjoyment and thrills at New York World's Fair 1939. Above is a sketch of George Jessel's "Old New York," which will feature "Steve Brodie" jumping from the Brooklyn Bridge (6 times daily). At the right, top, is the 250-foot parachute jump which will bail-out passengers and bring "happy landings." At the right, bottom, is the feature of the Children's World—"A Trip Around the World."

It must be very different from anything we can imagine.

Scientists estimate the temperature on Mars to range from 40 degrees at noon to 100 degree below zero at night. There is very little oxygen in the thin atmosphere of the planet, perhaps not more than one per cent of that contained in that of the earth, according to Dr. Walter S. Adams, directors of Mount Wilson Observatory.

The air we breathe is about four parts nitrogen to one part oxygen with minute quantities of other gases. The atmosphere of Mars is believed to be principally carbon dioxide, and very little of that.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP
If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.
BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep.
So in case you need a good general system to remember for 3 generations, one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.
You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

MARS NEAR ON JULY 27

From a maximum distance of approximately 248 million miles, Mars will approach to within about 36 million miles of the earth July 27, the nearest it has been to us since 1924. Astronomers will take advantage of its nearness to make further study of conditions on that planet.

Despite its relatively close approach, however, Mars will not outshine Venus in brightness, although the latter is much further away. The distance of Venus from the earth ranges from 25 million to 161 million miles.

Much discussion has been indulged in concerning the so-called canals on Mars, but most astronomers do not believe these are real, or that there is any life on the planet capable of construction works of such magnitude. In fact, if there is life on Mars at all

A TRULY GREAT NATURAL REMEDY

"Mineralize your blood and the cells of your body with Min-Lax Tonic"

Min-Lax Tonic is not a patent medicine but a great and wonderful formula, compounded by nature in her own secret laboratories. It contains many mineral elements known to possess medicinal properties of great value which no doctor will dispute.

It has been so compounded and blended by Mother Nature's own processes, through the course of ages that it is difficult, if not impossible, for man to successfully imitate her works.

The wonderful restorative qualities of Min-Lax Tonic, we believe, are in part due to the time element. No one, of course, knows how many thousands of years it has taken for these various chemical elements to act and react on each other so as to bring about this well balanced, effective compound, now known by and sold under the name of Min-Lax Tonic, which means simply Mineral Laxative Tonic.

It contains Iron, Sodium, Sulphur, Calcium, Potassium Magnesium, Manganese and Phosphorus in varying proportions. These minerals are extracted or obtained from the ore in which they have been imbedded for thousands of years by a very simple and well known leaching process which can be readily understood by anyone. The ore from which Min-Lax is derived is almost black when mined but rapidly turns to a greyish color when dried and exposed to light and air. It also crumbles up into a moderately fine powder which is exceptionally free from grit or other impurities. After several months of exposure to light and air it is ready for leaching and is then placed in a large "V" shaped vat or hopper and sufficient water poured over the ore to gradually dissolve and concentrate the mineral into liquid form. The liquid comes from the ore just as you see it in our bottles. No coloring matter is added as none is needed. We add a mineral laxative and "There" you have Min-Lax Tonic which may be used both internally and externally.

No one knows at this time how many ailments, both internally and externally, may be relieved or corrected by this truly great medicine and there is no question in our mind as to the results which may be had both in warding off disease and alleviating diseases already set up. Often a weak, run-down, anemic condition is caused by that arch enemy of mankind, CONSTIPATION. Indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach and dyspepsia, all of which lead to the loss of energy and pep, may be corrected by taking one to three bottles of Min-Lax Tonic to restore the organs and glands of the body to their normal functions. We also recommend Min-Lax Tonic for pus in the kidneys, cystitis and other troubles of the urinary tract.

Min-Lax Tonic may be used externally for burns, scalds, old sores, sun-burn, insect bites and stings, also for fresh cuts as a hemostatic, to stop the flow of blood. Use one part Min-Lax Tonic to 10 parts warm water as a gargle for sore throat or use it full strength as a swab for ulcerated tonsils.

Min-Lax Tonic, we believe, will come nearer relieving piles and restoring parts to normal condition than any remedy on the market. Begin by diluting with 4 parts water to 1 part Min-Lax. Gradually increase to full strength. Use syringe with hard rubber nozzle.

Min-Lax Tonic is one of the greatest remedies and safe guards against unforeseen accidents and sudden sickness that you could possibly have in your medicine cabinet. A few doses, if taken at once will overcome acute indigestion, ptomaine poisoning, diarrhea, dysentery and kindred ailments. In case of ptomaine poisoning, and acute indigestion take a double dose of Min-Lax Tonic and repeat within 1 hour, if not relieved. If two doses fail to relieve, call a physician.

Keep a bottle of Min-Lax Tonic on hand for emergencies at all times. If your druggist does not carry it send order with price direct to us and we will send it, post-paid, by return mail.

Positively refuse all substitutes.

HOME-MADE BROOMS

It is so easy to buy brooms today that few of my acquaintances know the art of making them at home. I must confess that my training in household arts did not include broom-making, but I have looked in on the art as practiced by others. Just as I marvel at basketry, so I marvel at the skillful art of making brooms.

For raking yards in the fall or spring a fair broom can be made from huckleberry bushes. They grow tough and have hosts of short, crooked limbs, making a pretty fair rake or broom naturally. By tying a bunch of these together, you can have a broom that will prevent your using a more expensive one.

Broom corn does not seem a farm necessity now. Once every farm had its patch, planted at some distance from the sorghum, with which it would mix and produce a sort of cane that is unfit for use as brooms or for stock food. The long heads have a tendency to bend into queer shapes after the seeds get ripe; hence it is wise to bend the stalks down at a certain stage of their growth. The stalks thus grow straight, and, I am told, the lasting quality of the head is increased by this partial separation from the stalk. The heads are cut at the right time, which I must confess I have forgotten, though I raised the cane several years. The seeds are removed by holding a flat stick on the head and drawing the straw between it and a board. Then the heads are dried until they become light; they are then ready for broom-making.

Broom-makers of the ordinary type made round brooms, arranging the heads around a stick and wrapping them properly with a kind of wire made especially for this purpose. Then the body of the broom was sewed with some brightly-colored carpet warp. This broom, though not very artistic would last a long time and was usually strong and sturdy.

More artistic broom-makers could create a flat broom almost exactly like the ones we could buy at the general store. These artists were very rare, however, in our part of the world.

Brooms were and are useful inventions. When a new household was being started, or when the members of the church gave a donation party, a broom was sure to be a present from some well-wisher. I find in my old dairy that I contributed a broom to the Methodist preacher when I attended the one donation party of my life.

The broom became and remains the symbol of good housekeeping. "A new broom sweeps clean." Not to know how to sweep properly has branded many a girl who would otherwise have been a model wife. No man whom I have ever known is handy with the broom, except in sweeping up trash that is big enough to stumble over. Older writers called woman the user of the distaff, an earlier form of the spindle; in our times it would be more appropriate to call one's mother's side of the house the broom side.

THE THREE LITTLE FISHES

Down in the meadow at L.S.U. stood Monroe Smith and Dick Leche, too.
"Run" said Dick, "Run as fast as you can While I hold your resignation in my hand."

Now Earl told Dick, "You've gone too far, You'll resign tonight, or I'll tell the law."
"O.K.," said Dick, "I'll quit if I can
But you know darn well I'm in a hell of a jam."

The football players swore and swore,
And said they would play no more
Because if to play we'll get no pay
Unless Dick can steal it from W.P.A.

While at Nebraska, Biff Jones laughed
Because he knew there was too much graft.
"I ran," said Biff, "ran as hard as I can

While down in New Orleans, City of Swag,
Sat three little fishes holding the bag,
Baby Fish Bob and Big Fish Long
Waiting to hear Leche sing his own swan song.

Now what is the world are we going to do
We can't vote for Noe—he's crooked, too.
We voted for Roosevelt and the W.P.A.
And all they do is give the dough away.

Over in Canada sat the Monroe Smiths,
Telling them how they gave us fits
"I took their dough and ran and ran
I ran right over the poor little lambs."

"Ach," said Hitler, "If they'd let me in
I'd teach those little fishes how to swim
I'd take their money and business, too

And blame it on the poor little Jew."

FARM STUDIES REVEAL HOW LIVESTOCK HELPS

An analysis of farm records, made by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, shows that livestock raisers in Hopkins county, Kentucky, made more money last year than did farmers who depended on cash crops. Favorable prices for hogs and beef cattle helped put the stock men considerably ahead of men who produced only wheat and tobacco.

On the 22 farms studied, hogs returned an average of $278 per farm; beef cattle, $151 per farm; milk cows, $316; wheat, $103; and tobacco $11. Net earnings per farm averaged $822 after allowing for all cash expenses and depreciation, and 5 per cent on the farm investment.

Economists making the studies said that farm depending upon crops as a major source of income require considerable expenses, such as labor for harvesting, whereas farms having livestock to contribute a definite part of the income usually require less labor and operating expense.

Important factors making for better incomes were listed as follows: Higher receipts from productive livestock; more beef cattle; more pigs raised per sow; higher receipts per crop acre; higher percentage of plowable land in pasture, and higher total receipts per $1 expense.

In regard to costs, the report said that "although the expenses for the major items were slightly higher on the most profitable farms, a close observation of the expenses indicate more careful spending."

Arthur Wagner, charged with killing another Negro, escaped from jail at Macon, Ga., and fled to Atlanta. Then he hopped a freight for Birmingham, he thought, but wound up back in Macon. Police were waiting for him and returned him to jail.

Dave Elman, who runs the Hobby Lobby radio program, had a letter from a man whose hobby is collecting war weapons. He wrote: "Under separate cover I am sending you a bomb."
