HORSE MADE REBUILT

It is not so very long since the days of the ancient Egyptians when all the horses and mules in the land were taken to the sea and made to swim. The horse was then turned over and over again, and when dry the horse was fed on a mixture of hops and saline.

For many years the horse was kept in the sea. The Egyptians were the first to use this method of training horses.

A NEW BLOW is being made on the use of pesticides in the United States.

A new book by Dr. E. C. D. White, titled 'Some on Your Garden and the Flowers,

Institute of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

Dr. White states that the use of pesticides
is being reduced,
and that new techniques
are being developed for controlling pests.

For instance, a new type of pesticide is being developed which
