THE LISTENING POST

● I have always believed that a river is the most beautiful handiwork of nature, and perhaps I still so believe. A few days ago, however, I began to believe that a mountain might be the most beautiful and for an hour or so I turned traitor to the rivers which have given me so much pleasure. Then I again saw a river, then a river and a mountain together, and I wound up by wondering just which I liked best.

● I was driving to Chattanooga. I had never been there, and was curious about how the mountains would look. In 1937 I was near Chattanooga, but my traveling was done under conditions which did not allow much investigation and I really did not see any of the higher hills adjacent to Chattanooga. So, as I crossed the river at Savannah and began to thread my way through the ever-climbing hills I had a deep and curious expectancy of the hills which crept nearer all the time and seemed to climb higher and higher. I guess it must have been at Sewanee when the hills began to seem unbelievably high, and I wondered if a car could travel up those high reaching hills. For a long time we wound in and out, with the hills creeping nearer all the time, and I felt that we were driving into a trap from which we could not escape. For a time there was an opening on the left, no hills showing there, but suddenly I became aware that we had really entered a valley from which there was no exit save upward. A peculiar blue mist hung over the hilltops, and miles away I saw the gleam of a white cross standing out from the thick trees. I guessed that must be Sewanee, and it was--after a long and twisting climb. Near the peak there was a lookout post and here we stopped and I looked back over the road we had traveled. I could see for miles, and there was a faint giddiness as I looked down at almost half a mile down at the pleasant checkerboard of farms and towns. There I began to wonder if a mountain did not have more beauty than a river.

● Well, we climbed through the hill country, and reached Monticello and then started down the hillside. As we emerged at the foot of this mountain in a long, pleasant valley, I began to see the higher ranges which led into Chattanooga, and then I knew mountains were the things of supreme beauty. The blue mist still touched the marching peaks; patches of shadows fell pleasingly across huge areas on the wooded mountain sides, the gentle breeze swayed the trees in a pleasant and happy pattern and I knew that I had been wrong about a river being the most beautiful thing.

● Finally we began to climb again along the side of a mountain, although we did not climb to the top. Around and around we went, climbing steadily and far off I thought I could see the bulging shape of Lookout Mountain. I had never seen it, but its shape is more or less familiar, for in my school-days I knew a picture of this famous mountain and the faroff bulk seemed familiar. As it turned out, I was wrong, but that did not matter at the time.

● Then, quite suddenly, we (Continued on Page Four)

President Hits Germany For Ship Sinking

Warning To Nazis Contained In Message To Congress

Washington, — President Roosevelt warned Nazi Germany, in effect but unmistakably today, that if it persists in such acts of "piracy" as the sinking of the S. S. Robin Moor, this nation will resist with force.

The destruction of that vessel must be construed, he said in a special message to Congress, as essentially part of a German plan for world domination, a first step in an effort to grasp control of the seas.

Serving notice that Germany would be expected to make "full reparations," he summarized his attitude in four brief and defiant sentences:

"We must take the sinking of the Robin Moor as a warning to the United States not to resist the Nazi movement of world conquest. It is a warning that the United States may use the high seas of the world only with Nazi consent.

"We're not yielding on this we would inevitably submit to world domination at the hands of the present leaders of the German Reich.

"We are not yielding and we do not propose to yield."

As the President's communication went to the capitol, State Department officials were busy preparing a formal protest to be forwarded to Berlin. But it was plain, nevertheless, that the chief executive's message was intended as much for the attention of Berlin as of Congress.

Together with American newspapermen, a representative of the German news agency DNB was given a copy of the message in advance of its delivery to the House and Senate and it is probable that Berlin officials knew the gist of its contents as soon as Congress did.

An announcement that an important message of foreign affairs would inevitably submit to world unexpectedly at mid-morning. Mr. Roosevelt cancelled his usual Friday morning press conference to gain time for its preparation and consulted Sumner Welles, the under-secretary of the state on its contents.

THIRD QUADRUPLER DIES IN DURHAM

Durham, N. C., — Only one of the Epps quadruplets—Tiny Indian sisters born Tuesday in a farmhouse in a rural section of Person county—was alive today.

One of the little girls died yesterday afternoon while the quads and their 27-year-old mother were en route in an ambulance to Duke hospital here. A second sister died at 3 a. m. today and a third at 5:05 a. m.

The mother's condition is reported "satisfactory."

One-Man Sitdown Strike Succeeds; In-Laws Promise To Get Out

Fort Wayne, Ind., — Even "John," Walter Stanford's last symbol of defiance of his "in-laws and out-laws," was gone Thursday night; his victory was complete, his one-man strike was over.

Stanford, a 43-year-old war veteran and former draftman, engraver and W. P. A. worker, called his strike late Wednesday.

"Dad on sitdown till in-laws and out-laws move"—he painted on two signs and tacked them to the side of his house. Then he rigged up "John," a dummy, to stand proxy if he were called elsewhere.

Thursday his mother-in-law, Mrs. Katherine Fromm, said she and her husband and sons, Robert, 17, and Calvin, 19, would move out as soon as they could find another place. Robert worked for the N. Y. A. and Calvin had a job in a pump factory.

Health Officials Are Inspecting South Fulton

Six Are Fined For Violation Of Sanitary Laws In City Court Yesterday

Obion County Health Department officials are now making a sanitary inspection of each and every home in South Fulton. John A. Carraway, Obion County Sanitarian, Union City, Tenn., is in charge of this investigation.

The inspection will include a thorough checking of all plumbing, screening, garbage and general cleanliness of the premises. Mr. Carraway reported yesterday that a good many violations have been found and notices served on the violators of the sanitary laws.

Six persons were tried in South Fulton City court Friday for failure to make sewer connections or failure to maintain commode cleanliness.

The following persons were fined:

John Melton, for failure to connect place at 112 McFall street to public sewer, was fined $10 and costs.

Waddell Hopkins, colored, was fined $10 and costs for failure to make sewer connections for store at McFall and Iron streets.

Lula Stinson, 119 McFall, Mary Williams, Emma Reed, and Laura Malone, all colored, were fined $3 and costs each, for having dirty commodes.

Others will be summoned into court next week on similar charges as the Health Department will continue its inspection of the Tennessee homes and Mr. Carraway said yesterday. "We intend to thoroughly clean up South Fulton."

U. S. Locator World's Best

Washington, —The United States, already credited with possessing aircraft detection apparatus superior to any in use abroad, was invited today to contribute volunteers to help man Britain's similar "radio-locator" device.

The American apparatus, according to Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, former chief of war plans, apparently is "far in advance of any similar equipment available to any of the belligerents abroad." The aircraft spotting devices adopted by the Army, members of Congress have been told, are effective at well over 100 miles, piercing fog and darkness to give defending fighters at least fifteen minutes' warning of approach of hostile aircraft.

With such devices already in large-scale production, the War Department has started construction of a string of fixed and mobile warning stations in both the United States and defense outposts.

Back Seat Driver Meets Nemesis In Traffic Court

Kansas City, — A back seat driver paid Thursday for his advice.

Mrs. George Byrne told Municipal Judge Edmund B. Smith she insisted on her daughter, Genevieve, making a turn even though the daughter kept saying it was wrong.

Judge Smith canceled the $1.50 traffic ticket given the daughter and assessed the mother $1 court costs, adding:

"If you are going to drive from the back seat you will have to learn to watch the sign."

Peaches At 75 Cents Each Are Rare Bargain In London

London, —The coming of warm weather and ripening of fruit brought some rare bargains in London's crowded markets today.

One store had a shelf of peaches which a Georgia grower wouldn't bother to send to market and the price was 75 cents each.

"Yes, sir," said a clerk, "we've sold quite a few. There's nothing like a fresh peach, you know."

Lots of strawberries—knotty little specimens—were on display at another store for sale at $3.80 a pound.

A shop offered unrationed cheese from Wisconsin at $1 a pound.

"It's straight from America," the clerk said, "and shoppers like it mighty well."

Tomatoes have come down. You could get them at many places for $1 a pound. String beans sold for 90 cents a pound.

Asparagus, which has been difficult to obtain, was on the market at $1.50 a bunch.

"It's a large bunch," said a clerk, "enough for two people."

Canned grapefruit, which also has been hard to find, was offered at 50 cents a can, but the seller said you have to take two cases.

The pebbles gooseberry retailed at 10 cents a pound, the only trouble being that, at the four markets we visited, there were none in stock.

Incidentally you can buy a champagne cocktail for $1.25 and a razor blade for 6 cents, providing you can find someone who wants to get rid of either.

MURRAY SUMMER SCHOOL REGISTRATION DROPS

Murray, Ky., — A seven per cent decline in summer school registration at Murray State Teachers College was noted today by President James H. Richmond.

President Richmond said 535 students had enrolled for the first term this year, compared to last year's 569 at the corresponding date.

He said Murray's slump was less sharp than those experienced by other summer schools. The defense effort, he said, has provided many jobs for students who normally would be attending school.

Mrs. Harpole Is Accidentally Shot By Nephew

Mike Johnson's Sister Is In Critical Condition At Fulton Hospital Today

Mrs. Eunice Harpole, who resides at Cayce, was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon at the home of her brother, Mike Johnson, 2 1-2 miles west of Fulton. The accident occurred when her nine year old nephew, William Myatt Johnson, was shooting at a target in the yard with a 22 rifle and the bullet bounded off the target and struck Mrs. Harpole.

The bullet went through the intestines and she was brought to the Fulton hospital for treatment. Her condition was reported as critical by hospital attaches this morning.

Army And Navy Practice Defense Of New York

New York, — The entire Army defense forces for New York harbor were in action Thursday in joint exercises with the Navy under blackout conditions simulating a war-time air and sea attack on the Nation's largest city.

While the maneuvers were large-scale command post exercises, involving considerable chart work, troops of harbor defense forts manned all coast guns and a number of naval vessels, mostly small types, maneuvered off-shore. A defending fleet, operating without lights engaged in simulated combat with invading vessels Wednesday night.

Pigeon's Message Starts Search For Munitions

New York, — Mac Gang heard a cooling sound on his garage roof shortly after midnight and thereupon found a worn out homing pigeon.

He turned it over to police, who found this pencilled note attached to one leg:

"Twelve car load of munitions will arrive at usual place. Watch out for Gover. Off 42264. Time is 12:15."

On the other side was this: "Deutschland Auber Alles." Police are investigating.

Britain Refused To Tell Just Why Hess Deserted Germany

London, — Long Parliamentary pressure on the Government for a statement on the Rudolf Hess case resulted Thursday in a declaration by Richard Austin Butler, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs that such a statement was not regarded "as being in the public interest."

Laborite Samuel Sydney Silverman recalled Prime Minister Churchill's speech June 10 in which the Prime Minister said Britain had advised the Government of the United States about the German Deputy Fuhrer's flight to Scotland May 10.

"What is the Government of the United States entitled to know that our people should not know?" Silverman demanded.

Navy Suspends Rescue Efforts; Hunt Fruitless

Submarine Sank During Trails Off Portsmouth Harbor—33 Lost

Portsmouth, N. H., — Crushed by the tremendous pressure of a 403 foot depth, the sunken submarine O-9 began to disintegrate tonight and death of all of her 33 officers and men was unofficially acknowledged by the Navy.

After a day of desperate search for the craft by a sizeable Navy fleet, and with her exact location still uncertain, one high Navy officer viewed wreckage that shot to the surface and said he held no hope that the men on the ocean floor could have lived.

Officially, however, the Navy refused to give up.

Portsmouth, N. H., — The death of all 33 officers and men of the sunken submarine O-9 was indicated tonight by the Navy after wreckage from the craft shot to the surface from the tremendous depth of 402.

Rear Admiral John D. Wainwright announced late tonight that efforts to place a line aboard the submarine would be suspended until tomorrow morning and this apparently sealed the fate of the men trapped on the ocean floor.

Speaking of the rescue fleet, which showed a blaze of lights about 18 miles east of this port, Admiral Wainwright added:

"If she's down 400 feet I don't know what they can do."

Only if a line was placed aboard the O-9 could the Navy's rescue bell be used and without a line to the surface the men below could not hope to use their "Momsen lungs" in trying to come up. Despite the wreckage, the air bubbles and an oil slick, the exact location of the submarine had not been established.

The O-9, one of the nation's oldest submarines and only recently recommissioned after a decade of idleness, went into a deep trial dive at 7:56 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, this morning. About two hours later a smoke bomb distress signal came to the surface.

Y. M. B. C. Will Meet Wednesday

According to an announcement made this morning by Foad Homra, president, the Young Men's Business Club will hold its meeting on Wednesday night of next week instead of Monday night, as announced by this newspaper yesterday. This change was made from the regular night (Tuesday) so that members of this club may attend the Chamber of Commerce good-will meeting Tuesday evening at Pilot Oak High school.

Canadian farmers increased purchases of farm machinery and equipment last year by 40 per cent, the Department of Commerce reported.

Britain Refused To Tell Just Why Hess Deserted Germany

Rumors Tamed Nonsense
Butler said that rumors that Hess was held at Chiquera, the country home of Britain's Prime Minister, were "nonsense."

This was elicited by the comment of Laborite Richard R. Stokes, who said:

"We now have the cheerful news that Hess is at Chiquera. Is that so? Why is he down at Chiquera. I do not know, but that is common talk."

To these and other comments, Butler reiterated the Government position that Hess "is being treated as an officer and kept in detention as a prisoner of war."

Butler denied "statements" implying that he is receiving very special and luxurious treatment.

Editorial

THE SENSIBLE VIEWPOINT

Walter Lippman, one of the most informed men of the columnist tribe discusses quite intelligently in a recent article the basic reasons for cutting down production of non-essential things in this nation as one of the means of beating Germany. He approaches the subject in a sane, common-sense manner which makes the issue crystal clear.

That we can out produce Germany Lippman does not doubt. Citing the fact that in the United States and the British Empire industrial production can far outstrip that of Germany, Lippman says that it is merely a matter of adjusting ourselves to the task and doing the job. Both in the long range and in the sprint, the two nations are fully equal to the task of out-producing Germany, but Lippman adds that that cannot be done if we keep up our normal luxury production at the same time. In other words, we cannot produce five million pleasure automobiles every year and at the same time develop a huge production of war production; steel must be conserved for these war machines, and only in this way can the job be successfully done. Likewise, the more long range plans we make and carry out the shorter the war will be. It is generally believed by the experts that once Germany is fully convinced that industrial production of the two nations is far ahead of Nazi production, Hitler will have a hard time in keeping his people at war. Naturally there will be but one way to prove this superiority, and that is in the air. When England is able to fly a mighty fleet of bombers over Germany day after day or night after night and pound Berlin and other German cities as savagely as the Luftwaffe has pounded England, the truth will begin to be felt in Germany.

Lippman also gives some pretty good advice to those who oppose this drastic curtailment of luxury articles. While it may not be pleasant, he says, the stark fact is that unless this war is won there will never be any market or any demand for luxury goods as this nation has known it. If Germany wins in this war it means a new epoch in the world. It means a great departure from life as we know it. Even if England only is beaten, with this nation still standing, it means a long period in which our national wealth must be poured into preparation for war. It means that we will face the same military cost which has burdened all Europe for so many years. It means that we must build and maintain a Navy that can police all the seas of the world, and maintain a great and permanent army. In this country we have never known a great deal of this sort of expense. The Army and Navy have been costly, it is true, but never before have we poured out our wealth in such prodigal fashion. Unless Germany can be decisively beaten we face the knowledge that these expenditures must be maintained over a long period.

It begins to seem, from all reports, that this nation is hitting its stride. The mere fact that England has kept up an air bombardment of Germany and German-held territory over a period of several days, indicates that there is more air power than has been; that chances of losses can be taken. It is not likely that any definite figures will ever be given out on the number

NAZI BLACKMAIL ON VAST SCALE

"The most gigantic blackmail in the history of National Socialism."

That is the way John T. Whitaker sees the Nazi machinations now directed toward Soviet Russia, the massing of 1,500,000 German troops at the Russian border and the ten-year non-aggression pact—it is now called a friendship pact—which only Franz von Papen has just signed with the Turkish Republic. Never before has Hitler applied his squeeze play on such an enormous scale, but it is the same old Hitler blackmail and the same old Hitler technique.

The German-Turkish "friendship pact" leaves Russia isolated as the Nazi-Soviet non-aggression pact of August, 1939, also a ten-year agreement, left Poland without hope of aid. The sprawling Bolshevik State is in much the same position as was Yugoslavia after Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria had been drawn into the Axis camp. And Germany did not march into Bulgaria, it will be remembered, until Turkey had been neutralized, as it is now neutralized by the Bulgarian-Turkish non-aggression pact. Non-aggression pacts of the ten-year variety are Hitler's favorite tricks.

And Stalin, playing the opportunist game, realized that the treaty he signed was not worth the paper it was written on. But it got him immediate advantages.

Now he is told to disgorge these ill-gotten gains, or else. He is told to submit to Nazi domination. He is put in the same position as the authorities of Bulgaria, whom he rebuked, to surrender or take the consequences.

The Nazi-Soviet marriage-of-convenience has gone on the rocks. Now a shotgun wedding is the alternative to shooting war.—Courier-Journal.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE WASHINGTON

Because of war-time trade dislocations the United States has increased sales of watches and clocks in South Africa by about 50 percent, says the Department of Commerce.

Road bridges of the Bolivian Army will construct and maintain national roads in that country due to a current labor shortage, the Commerce Department reports.

of bombers sent across. Probably the only indicates we will ever receive will be an intensified air offensive on the part of the British. It also might be true that Hitler is beginning to lose his advantage. During the air campaign in other sectors, air attacks on Britain have been few and light. It may be that Germany does not have enough planes to carry on several campaigns at the same time. In any event, our way is clearly marked. We must produce and continue to produce until Britain is stronger than Germany. That way hope lies.

SQUIRRELS DIET ON LEAD,
STOP TELEPHONE SERVICE
Camden, S. C.,—Pet squirrels in Camden parks have been on a lead diet for several months.

The unusual menu came to light when, as a result of heavy rains, the town's more than 200 telephones went dead as water penetrated the cables where holes had been gnawed in the lead sheathing by the squirrels.

The telephone company estimated that these meals cost the firm approximately $500.

THIS STORY ENDS WITH A 'BANG'

We repeat a timely little story that reads like this: Once upon a time a promising young man carried his bride over the threshold just as tradition says he should. He was the world's best husband, she the world's best cook. They would have lived happily ever after only Hubby became penny-wise and brought home that cheap brand of flour. He couldn't eat her biscuits—asked for in ax with which to cut the cake. So the sad little story ended with a "bang"—right in the middle of Hubby's forehead.

NOTE: When cheap flour comes in the door, love flies out the window.

We offer this suggestion to the June bride—specify a quality flour. Made and guaranteed by—

EMPLOYEES TO OPERATE THREAD PLANT WHILE OWNER IS IN ARMY

Groton, Conn. — The employees of two thread mills engaged in national defense work will run them and share in the profits for the next year at least, while their chief executive drills with the Army.

"I'm going with a free mind because of the great confidence I have in my people," said Max G. Juhl, president and general manager of Max Pollack and Company employing 200 persons in a plant here and 75 in its Willmantic factory.

In the absence of Juhl, 12 years a reserve officer, who reported for duty July 1, employees will share in the earnings under a bond arrangement.

Juhl said that about 40 per cent of the factories output was thread for uniforms and Army equipment.

Browns Rally Again In Eighth To Win Second Straight Game

For the second straight time the eighth inning proved fatal to Tiger hopes, and it seems that the local team can win seven inning games, but finds the stretch difficult. Last night at Fairfield, after the Tigers had come from far behind in the fifth and pushed over five runs to take a 7 to 6 lead, the Browns rallied in the eighth and shelved Bob Emrich unmercifully for six runs and won the second straight game 12 to 7. The final game is being played here tonight and the Tigers must win it in order to get an even break.

Sprute started last night and was wild from the beginning. He issued pair of walks in the first inning, which, coupled with one hit, scored a run. He got by the second, but wildness again caught up with him in the third and four runs poured across the plate to give the Browns a 5 to 1 lead, the Tigers having scored once in the second. Bob Emrich relieved Sprute at this point and was touched for one more run in the fifth, and the Tigers also grabbed a tally in the same frame.

In the sixth the Tigers waited out Dyre and he walked three men in a row. Tommy Tucker, Mayfield ace, relieved Dyre and on the first pitch, a smash to third, the toss to the plate hit Derrick in the back, allowing Dean to score behind him. Walker came through with a hit to right, after Peterson had been walked to fill the bases and scored two more. Before the inning was over the Tigers held a one run lead, but this was washed out in the eighth when the Brownie attack open up. Emrich was hit hard, and his support was not of the best. Yeager finally relieved him to get the last out and pitched the ninth.

Mayfield had fourteen hits, many of the scratch variety, while the Tigers had only six.

The Tigers go to Jackson tomorrow to open a three game series with the league leaders. Defeat last night taking this post by a half game margin. Union City is a half game behind Fulton.

Manager Mullen is hoping to salvage the final game tonight and thus gain and even break in the four game series with Mayfield. The Tigers will have to play better ball and have better luck if they retain a .500 mark during the next week, for tough games are ahead.

There, framed by the great hills, flowing through deep gorges, it is more beautiful than at any other place, and as I gazed at it from far above I knew I had been wrong about thinking mountains the most beautiful. I guess that when the two come together they form a picture which is far too beautiful for mere words to describe. I shall not soon forget my first sight of the hills, and then my first glimpse of river and hills together.

When Most Women Choose

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS

There must be very good reasons—

AND HERE THEY ARE

1. Including original purchase price and yearly operating expense, electric refrigeration costs you less than any other mechanical cooling method. Your dealer will gladly prove this with facts and figures.
2. With more flexible cold-and-moisture control, electric refrigeration always keeps your foods properly chilled and wholesome, and freezes more ice faster—no matter how sweltering the weather.
3. You can use electric refrigeration as easily in the village and country as in the city—simply by plugging the refrigerator into the handiest electric socket. No plumbing required.
4. Electric refrigerators are made by some of the world's most important manufacturers. Their well-known standards of workmanship, materials and design insure the highest dependability, efficiency and quality.

85% Buy Electric Refrigerators

About 85 of every 100 buyers of mechanical cooling units choose electric refrigerators year after year. In 1940 over 2,600,000 electric refrigerators were sold for home use.

Operating Cost as Low as 35¢ a Month
—for electric refrigeration, with the average less than a dollar... the price of two or three sticks of chewing gum a day. Operating cost has dropped 50% in the last five years. It will drop further as electric rates are reduced.
