THE LISTENING POST

● I know absolutely nothing about liquor drinking from personal experience, for outside of a bottle of beer at widely spaced intervals, I have never taken a drink of alcohol as a beverage. So, I cannot qualify as an expert on drinking and drinking habits. All I know about the subject is gained from reading and observation. I read something the other day which seemed so sane, so informing, that I am using it as a subject in this column today.

● The man who drinks occasionally is not a man who does a great deal of harm, either to himself or to others. There are some people who can really take a drink and then go about their business and not require another for days. There are others who cannot take a drink without wanting another and wind up either mildly intoxicated or totally drunk. There are others who have followed this course for so many years that they must always be either drunk or on the way to becoming drunk. When this happens this person is known as a total waste to society and a menace to his family and friends. Yet even a person of this type rarely admits that he is so far advanced on the road to total alcoholism. Many of them will say that they can still take a drink or leave it alone, although every other person knows that this is not true.

● An expert investigator recently said that normal drinkers find reality enjoyable and drink merely to exaggerate that enjoyment. The abnormal drinker, on the other hand, finds reality unendurable and drinks and becomes drunk in order to forget reality. While drunk he forgets the unpleasant things of life and lives in a dreamy world of apparent enjoyment. He never wants to face reality and day after day he drinks in order to forget all the unhappy things which he otherwise experiences.

● Usually, according to this expert, the chronic drinker never recognizes his condition. His friends and his family recognize his condition long before he does—that is, if the drinker ever recognizes it. Lack of control is the chief characteristic of the chronic drinker, and figures show that two persons out of every one hundred cannot afford to drink at all without facing the danger, almost the certainty, of becoming abnormal drinkers. The well-known danger signals which point to this disease, for disease is what it is, are the morning drink, the drink for a quick pickup during the day, the drink at intervals all day long for no certain reason, and finally the solitary and unsocial drink. Whenever a man is found who hides a bottle about his desk and takes a quick, hurried drink while unobserved, he has traveled the road to total alcoholism pretty far and is in a bad way. All this is based on the findings of this expert.

● This expert gives a list of questions which should be answered by every man who drinks. Perhaps the word "person" should be used, for it is no longer the case that only men do the drinking. Five questions are asked, and the expert says that if two affirmative answers are given, that person should at once give up all drinking, for otherwise, there is danger ahead. The questions are quite searching, and honest answers might help any drinker. Here are the questions, and remember, in private answers, every person should be perfectly honest.

● Has your drinking increased lately? Do you feel you gain something by drinking, and if you do, are you dependent on that gain for happiness? Do you honestly feel that life would be unsatisfactory without alcohol? In the opinion of your friends and family, do you drink too much? Could you stop alcohol without having it bother you either physically or mentally?

Japs Silent On Course To Be Followed

Indicates Her Policy Will Be Announced At Early Date

Tokyo. — Japan kept the Pacific area guessing today on her course in the Russia-German war but indicated her policy would be announced soon.

"Following the cabinet meeting tomorrow," said a report by the semi-official Domei news agency, "a statement manifesting Japan's firm attitude will be issued."

"The statement will have the double purpose of stressing Japan's unswerving devotion to the cause of establishment of lasting peace in the world and of renewing the Japanese nation's determination to proceed with construction of a new order in East Asia."

Discussing Situation

Japanese leaders and military heads were reported discussing the situation in small groups preparatory to the cabinet meetings at which ministers will formally consider for the first time the war between Japan's tri-partite ally, Germany, and the Russian neighbor with whom Japan has a new neutrality treaty.

A joint meeting of the cabinet and high command was scheduled for today, but indefinitely. Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye conferred with Emperor Hirohito, and talked for six hours with Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka who had been in conference with German ambassador Major General Eugen Ott.

(Far Eastern sources at Shanghai thought Japan might try to seize Eastern Siberia. Others believed she might drive for the oil and tin of The Netherlands East Indies.)

Construction Of Waterway Is Urged By Jones

Washington. — Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce, warned today that "if we do not make up our minds that war is apt to recur we're not very smart" as he urged construction of the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway for national defense.

"We cannot have too many inland waterways in the interest of commerce and defense," Jones told a House committee, and expressed the belief power sales and waterway tolls would make the St. Lawrence project self-liquidating.

Regardless of what happens in the current war, Jones said, "I can see nothing in the future but a future in which war is likely to recur."

Sound As Weapon Of Terror May Be Developed In U. S.

New York. — A new military weapon of terror for "a war of nerves," through producing fantastic and baffling sound, effects, may be developed from researches revealed by Prof. Harold Burris-Meyer of the Stevens Institute of Technology.

The key of the method is the development of "stereophonic sounds" that is to say of projected sounds having reverberating effects coming from all sides. Voices, noises, musical strains apparently come from all directions as far as the listener is concerned, but he cannot discover where they come from.

Professor Burris-Meyer stated: "In the experimental theater which is a part of the institute's department of research we produce sounds which to the listeners appear to be like the real sounds of marching soldiers, rumbling guns, tanks, dive bombers or what not."

Audience Gets Jitters

"Sometimes we have produced jitters among the audience, far more effectively than we had intended. All this is realism of the

Raymond Peeples Is Considering Making Race For Mayor

Raymond Peeples, owner of the Parisian Laundry and well known businessman, is considering making the race for Mayor of the city of Fulton, according to well authenticated reports which have circulated around town for the past few days. The Leader is informed that he has not definitely decided to make the race, but for several days he has been urged by several persons and groups to make the race, and it is believed by his many friends that he is seriously making the campaign.

Mr. Peeples has served as a member of the City Council and is well informed on all city problems. He has always had a deep interest in the welfare of the community, and he could really give the city good service as mayor.

Some developments are expected in the city race within the next few days. It appears likely that there will be at least one or two changes in the city council, and quiet work is now going on towards lining up a ticket for these positions. Thus far no one has filed for any of the city posts, but the deadline is approaching and action must be taken soon. It appears certain that Judge Lon Adams will be a candidate for the position of Police Judge, and his announcement may appear within the next few days.

Baileys Move To Jackson, Tenn.

J. P. Bailey, who has been employed in the DeMyer Drug Company here for some time, has accepted a position with a drug firm in Jackson, Tenn., and began work in this new post yesterday morning. Mrs. Bailey will join him there in about two weeks. The many friends of the family here regret their departure, but wish for them success and happiness in their new home.

Strip-Teaser May Control Crowds During Air Raids

New York. — Margie Hart, she who takes off her clothes in a Broadway burlesque, volunteered Monday as an air raid warden.

Dressed in red, white and blue sandals, a blue hat, a blue dress and carrying a purse to match the sandals, she said she used to be a Girl Scout back in Edgerton, Mo., and had learned first-aid and how to cook.

These qualifications impressed Patrolman Charles McQuillan who signed her up with the observation that she was qualified to "control a crowd best, perhaps."

New York Draft Chiefs Try To Ferret Out Mental Cases

New York. — To prevent induction of men who might have mental breakowns, New York Selective Service officials have instituted two experiments to ferret out such cases.

The plan, as explained by Col. Samuel J. Kopetsky, chief of the local selective service administration's medical division, calls for the employment of both experiments, with ultimate adoption of the most effective plan.

Previously all borderline cases were referred to the neuro-psychiatrist on the local board. Under the new scheme, social workers trained in mental hygiene will conduct research on "suspicious" registrants, visiting their homes and checking on their histories.

Details of any mental disturbance discovered will be turned over confidentially to the psychiatrist on the medical advisory board of the registrant's local board. The psychiatrist then will determine whether the registrant is recovered and hence available for service.

The other experiment is conducted by a psychiatrist serving a different local draft board, who will check up on registrants suspected of being psychopaths but whose histories have not been probed.

Jap Inaction Is Laid To Knowledge Of German Plans

Batavia, Netherlands East Indies. — Japan's abrupt abandonment of efforts to obtain huge surpluses of war-essential raw materials from the East Indies was attributed by informed quarters today to advance information in Tokyo of Germany's plan to attack Soviet Russia.

These quarters, basing their conclusion on the belief that Japan wanted these materials for Germany, said the Japanese evidently realized the trans-Siberian rail channel to the Reich soon would be blocked.

Belgian Tossing Garbage At Nazis Jailed 90 Days

Brussels. — Some Belgians still vent their feelings and they wind up in prison.

Here are two cases recently tried by the German war council in Antwerp:

A 65-year-old worker, accused of shouting abuse across the street from his flat to German officials and dropping cinders and potato peel on Germans walking under his window, was sentenced to three months in prison.

HUSBAND ALLERGIC TO WIFE'S FACE POWDER

Norcross, Ga. — Allen Johnson felt bad and was losing weight steadily, presumably from sinus trouble.

Various medicines and a seaside vacation failed to arrest his decline. Finally he went to a famed clinic and found he was highly allergic to his wife's face powder.

Mrs. Johnson changed brands and now hubby's doing okay.

LOOT OF NAPOLEON RETURNED TO VIENNA

Paris. — Armor breastplates and finely carved helmets which Napoleon took from Vienna and from Arbas Castle in Tyrol have been returned from Paris to Vienna.

Much of the collection represents finest selections of German armor design. Particularly prized was a splendidly decorated war costume of Francis II. of France, who began his reign in 1550, a year after he had married Queen Mary Stuart of Scotland.

EAGLES 'DIVE-BOMB' LOCOMOTIVE CREW

Muir, Mich. — Grand Trunk trainmen who pass through this town daily have a rough idea of a Stuka dive bomber.

Every time the train comes through a pair of American eagles poised over the cars and rocket down, sometimes to within ten feet of the train crew.

The birds, who concentrate their attack on the engine, follow the train for approximately a mile and then return to their nest, which is near the right-of-way.

Fred Shultz To Speak Tonight At Pilot Oak Meeting

Fred Shultz, one of the most interesting speakers ever heard in Fulton, and who has appeared here many times for all the different organizations, will be the speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting in Pilot Oak tonight. This is the first of the rural meetings, and it is earnestly hoped that many Fulton business men will make this trip. Several meetings have been held in Pilot Oak during past years and every meeting there has been enjoyable. Dinner will be served in the high school gymnasium by the ladies of Pilot Oak community, and Mr. Shultz will be the principal speaker.

The Pilot Oak people have been guaranteed an attendance of forty men from Fulton, and about that many tickets have been sold. While forty is the guarantee, it would make a better meeting.

Plans are being considered for other rural meetings if the Pilot Oak meeting proves successful. However, there is no desire to continue the meetings in rural communities if Fulton business men fail to show their interest. In past years the meetings of this nature been worth a great deal, but last year it seemed that there was a lack of interest among Fulton people. If the Pilot Oak meeting attracts good attendance other meetings will be arranged.

Two Games Here Tomorrow

The Fulton Tigers will play a double header at Fairfield tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night against the Paducah Indians, pitted by "Butch" Simon. The first game will be played at 2:30 in the afternoon and the second at 8:00 o'clock.

The extra game tomorrow is the game from May 16, which was protested by Manager Simon and rained out when the score stood at a tie. The league president ordered it played over tomorrow.

JAPANESE FLEET IS MOVING SOUTHWARD

Shanghai. — Passengers arriving today aboard the President Coolidge from Hongkong reported seeing an estimated 100 Japanese battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, submarines and supply ships moving slowly southward in the Formosan Straits of Amoy.

POPULAR U. S. FILM IS TERMED IMMORAL

New York. — In the first real the girl gets the job. In the last reel she gets the boss.

A sure-fire plot—but to Rene Clair, French director of such European hits as "A Nous La Liberté" and "The Ghost Goes West," it's one of the most "immoral" in the movies today—worse than gangster, worse than sin.

"I've seen that plot over and over again," he said, "in American pictures and British and French and German pictures. It's dangerous and demoralizing, but nowhere does censorship stop it."

Cayce Woman Dies At Fulton Hospital Today

Mrs. Harpole Succumbs To Accidental Gunshot Wounds

Mrs. Eunice Johnson Harpole of Cayce, who was accidentally shot Friday afternoon, passed away this morning about 3 o'clock at the Fulton hospital. Mrs. Harpole, who was 46 years of age, was critically injured when her nephew, William Myatt Johnson, 9-year-old, was shooting a 22 rifle at a target in the yard and the bullet bounced off and struck Mrs. Harpole. She was brought to the Fulton hospital with critical injuries, the bullet having pierced the intestines and little hope has been held for her recovery. The accident occurred at the home of her brother, Myatt Johnson, who resides 2 1-2 miles West of Fulton on the Hickman highway.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church in Cayce. The Rev. J. E. Hopper, the pastor, will be in charge of the services. Burial, in charge of Hornbeak Funeral home, will be at the Cayce cemetery. The body was taken to the home of Myatt Johnson, where it will remain until funeral time.

Mrs. Harpole, who was a well known woman of this community, was born Feb. 14, 1895 in Fulton county, the daughter of Sam and Oesie Milner Johnson. She had lived in this county all of her life and has many friends who will regret to learn of her untimely death. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved children and relatives.

She is survived by two sons, James and Charles of Cayce; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Griffith and Lanelle, of Cayce; one brother, Myatt Johnson of near Fulton and a sister, Mrs. Belle Beasley of Arlington.

PUNCH PUT INTO NEGRO PREACHER'S SERMON

Greenville, N. C. — A Negro preacher was describing the collapse of the walls of Jericho when he was interrupted by a loud crash. The little church shook. There was a sound of falling timber, and bits of plaster pelted members of the congregation.

The congregation hastily evacuated, to discover that an automobile had crashed into the front vestibule.

Daughter Of Circus Man Goes To 83 Schools In Eleven Years

Sacramento, Calif. — June Handke, 16, has attended eighty-three schools during the last eleven years, the latest in Sacramento, and has manager to keep up with her classmates.

June, who is the daughter of Joseph J. Handke, traveling circus man, started her education by attending three kindergartens at the age of 5. The family has been on the road since.

It might well be said she has a "wide" education, stretching from Saratoga, N. Y., where she attended a country school for only eight days—her shortest enrollment, to Los Angeles where her longest attendance record was established with five months at the Washington High School.

She has attended schools in Boston, Tucson, Dallas, Kansas City, St. Louis, Washington, D. C., Tampa, Miami and Daytona Beach, Fla., as well as many others, and has visited all of the forty-eight States, Mexico and Canada. Yet, June doesn't regard traveling as a handicap.

"I'm just about where I should be in school," she said. "I'm a junior in high school."

She was born in Detroit, and although she has traveled some 700,000 miles, or fourteen times around the world, she manages to keep up her friendships by correspondence.

How long she will stay in Sacramento, or where her next school will be, or from what high school she will graduate, cannot be answered.

Hull Says Propaganda Law Tightened

Careful Watch Is Being Maintained By Proper Officials

Washington. — Secretary of State Hull said today that the state department was drafting legislation tightening the restrictions on dissemination of foreign propaganda in the United States.

He made the statement in a letter to Senator Mead (D-N. Y.) in reply to a suggestion from the New Yorker that axis propaganda films be barred from American picture theaters. Mead mentioned such pictures as "Victory In The West" and "Baptism of Fire."

Hull also wrote that the state, treasury and justice departments were "giving active consideration to the question of whether the dissemination of axis propaganda in this country cannot be prevented by other means, and it is my hope that a solution will soon be found by which a proper control over the dissemination of propaganda material may be effected."

The legislation which is being drafted Hull said, would be an amendment to a 1938 law requiring agents of foreign principles to register with the state department.

He added that a "careful watch over propaganda material" had been kept by the department whether the act was being complied with, but that it had been felt for some time that "an elaboration and tightening" would be desirable.

WAR MARCHES ON

An opinion which may be expressed as to why Germany suddenly attacked Russia is merely a guess and can be founded on little definite information. Nor can the result of the war suddenly spreading into the vast reaches of Russia be foretold. Presumably Germany can decisively defeat Russia, although it seems hardly probable that such victory can be won as rapidly as in other areas which were smaller and more accessible. If Stalin decides to fight a defensive war he can probably hold the Germans off for quite a while and may cause heavy losses to the Nazi armies. It does not seem possible that the Red Army can really meet the Nazis on an equal footing, for Russia has nothing in abundance save man power. It has been generally believed that Stalin does have a large air force, although it is not likely that it measures up to German air power in quality. The Red Army is supposed to have quite a force of tanks, but here again it is likely that the German article is far superior. Above all else, it is not likely that the Russians will have the will to fight. Russian armies have never had this, and Stalin will have to show the world that this does exist before it will believe.

The one certain thing which seems evident in the Russian attack is that the military now has the final and last word in Germany. It has been said repeatedly during recent weeks that there was a considerable political party in Germany which opposed a Russian attack. This party held that agreements could be reached with Russia, and in fact such an agreement was in existence since the very beginning of the war. Close observers said that Hitler's generals insisted on military action; that they wished to completely clean out Russia by force of arms and then impose their own terms. The sudden declaration of war proves that the generals are firmly in the saddle, and political leaders no longer are influencing the course of the war.

It is probably wishful thinking for many who believe that this sudden attack was caused by a desperate need of oil and foodstuffs in Germany. It may be that Germany is running short of these things. The fact that during the past five weeks England has suffered relatively little from bombing attacks seems to argue that Hitler cannot keep on attacks on scattered fronts and many people argue that this indicates a shortage of planes or oil, or perhaps both. However, these are wishful things and should be distrusted.

This newspaper hopes that little dependence will be placed in Russia by England and the United States. Communism is a more evil thing than any of the isms which are confronting the world today, and Stalin is just as untrustworthy and just as evil as Hitler himself. If Stalin can damage Germany, all well and good, but the democracies should depend on him very little. We should remember that any material which might be shipped into Russia might be turned against us almost overnight, for that is the way these countries operate. Finland provides adequate proof of this, for that little nation is now, or soon will be, fighting with Germany against Russia. Yet a short time ago England and the United States wanted to help Finland.

In the Far East the Russian war may be a blessing to the United States. Japan now must keep an eye on Rus-

A MEMORIAL TO A HISTORY MAKER

Pride of statehood, as our Sesquicentennial Year approaches, should make George Rogers Clark Day, to be proclaimed next fall by Governor Johnson, a momentous occasion. Reciprocally, its appropriate observance in every schoolroom will give the Sesquicentennial a new and patriotic meaning to the generation preparing for citizenship; because the exploit of Clark's Kentucky Expedition to Vincennes and Kaskaskia irretrievably directed the course of empire, forecast the destiny of the burgeoning little republic. The story of the expedition exalts Kentucky's influence on the Nation's destiny.

This is recognized in Ohio and Indiana, which have erected magnificent memorials to the intrepid warrior with a statesman's vision. But they honor the deed. Clark lived in Kentucky, organized his expedition in Kentucky and is buried here. It is for Kentucky belatedly to honor the memory of the man.

Indiana's "Centennial History" begins with the capture of Vincennes, prefaced by a sketch of French settlement. "But for such a leader in the right place at the right time," says the Hoosier historian, "there is little doubt that the vast territory, now comprising the five great States of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, would have not been ceded at the Treaty of Paris after the Revolutionary War."

What their loss would have meant can be appreciated by imagining the Great Lakes industrial section and Minnesota's from ranges beyond the border. And this is the least of the possibilities their loss might have entailed. Across the Mississippi was a foreign land—Spanish then, soon to be French again.

Here, as a consequence of enlarging the Western territory, we fomented the War of 1812. Here agitation for opening the Mississippi focused attention until the Louisiana Purchase was consummated. The acquired momentum carried us to the Pacific as opportunity arose; but Clark and his Kentuckians imparted the initial impetus. To their foresight and heroism we owe exclusive possession of this incomparable interior valley which welded the Federated States into an indissoluble union.—Courier-Journal.

sia, and in fact, may attack Siberia. The Japanese will not be nearly so ready to attack the United States with Russia as a possible and likely foe. Likewise, the Russian adventure must slow up any German plans against the British Isles, and this gives more time for help from this country.

In the long view, however, we should place no dependence whatever on Russia.

THIS STORY ENDS WITH A 'BANG'

We repeat a timely little story that reads like this: Once upon a time a promising young man carried his bride over the threshold, just as tradition says he should. He was the world's best husband, she the world's best cook. They would have lived happily ever after only Hubby became penny-wise and brought home that cheap brand of flour. He couldn't eat her biscuits—asked for an ax with which to cut the cake. So the sad little story ended with a "bang"—right in the middle of Hubby's forehead.

MORAL: When cheap flour comes in the door, love flies out the window.

We offer this suggestion to the June bride—specify a quality flour. Made and guaranteed by—

GENERAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S MISSIONARY UNION

The monthly general meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union, First Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon at the church with a good attendance. The meeting was opened at three o'clock with a song, "Jesus Saves," followed by a prayer, led by Mrs. Lula Bondurant.

The general president, Mrs. Earl Taylor, presided over the meeting and in conducting the meeting was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Knighton who gave the secretary and treasury report. Reports were also heard from the general officers and all chairmen of the various circles. The group voted that W. M. U. members will aid the Red Cross in the sewing project on Thursday afternoon from two until five o'clock.

Dr. Robert Houston Smith, evangelist who is now conducting the tent revival, gave a very interesting devotional, reading a portion of the twelfth chapter of Mark. His subject for discussion was "Contributing to Life's Treasury."

The meeting was then turned over to the leader of the program for the afternoon, Mrs. Norman Frey who presented a most interesting and instructive review of "An Urgent Gospel: A Night in Europe."

The meeting was then closed with prayer by Mrs. Joe Clapp, Sr., and adjourned.

ABOUT 107 ATTEND ANNUAL "GUEST DAY" LUNCHEON OF W. S. C. S.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the year's activities of the M. E. Woman's Society of Christian Service was the "Guest Day" program yesterday at the church, when the Society observed its annual custom of honoring the visitors and friends of its membership with a luncheon. For the occasion the dining room presented a lovely scene with attractive arrangements of summer flowers, consisting of daisies, baby's breath, roses and zinnias placed at intervals on the tables.

There was an attendance of approximately one hundred and seven persons, including thirty-four visitors and consisting of a large group of young women, many of whom were college students. The following out-of-town visitors were present—Mrs. A. L. Martin of Nashville, Mrs. Carlton Wilkes of Memphis, Mrs. Walter Goulder of near Fulton. The pastor, Rev. L. O. Hartman, and Rev. J. H. Felts were also especially honored guests.

At noon a delectable luncheon was served, after which Mrs. Warren Graham, president, extended a welcome address to the visitors and presided over a brief business session. A report was given by the secretary, Mrs. Leon Browder. The following announcements were also made:

The zone meeting will be held here next Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the church.

An ice cream supper, sponsored by the Epworth League, will be given on the church lawn Tuesday evening, July 1.

Prospective organization of a group to include young women between ages of 18 and 23, many of whom were present.

At the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. Lewis Weeks, as program leader, presented Misses Jane Dallas, Jane Alley, and Mary Ethel Lansden who rendered the hymn, "Lord, Speak to Me" in a vocal trio. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Jean Moon who divided her discussion into two parts. The first portion was taken from the 22nd chapter of Luke and for the second part she interpreted a one act play entitled "Number Six" by Stephen Phillips. Mrs. Moon, whose dramatic ability is well known and deeply appreciated by Fulton people, revealed in this reading the quest of a master painter for the remaining two figures in his masterpiece, "The Lord's Supper," and the fulfillment of this desire the distance between Heaven and hell were encompassed in one figure.

Following the hymn, "Majestic Sweetness Sits Enthroned," a stirring address was delivered by Rev. Hartman, as guest speaker. His subject was "Not Good if Detached," in which he emphasized the fact that no man lives unto himself, that only through cooperation and organization can any individual or group of people attain real progress and achievement. His remarks were both full of witicism and wisdom and were well received. Rev. Felts, in eloquent words of praise, voiced the sentiment of the Society in commending the talent of Mrs. Moon and the leadership of Mrs. Graham. The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. Hartman and adjournment followed.

Generals Win Second Game

Rallying strongly in the ninth inning, after Jackson had built up a big lead, the Tigers scored seven runs in the ninth and sent Gaiser to the showers, but the gap was too wide and the game ended 15 to 11 in favor of the Generals. This evened the series at one each, with the final game set for tonight in Jackson. Tomorrow night the Tigers start a five game stand in Fairfield, opening with Paducah.

The game last night was one of big scoring innings. Mike Lake started for the Tigers and held a one run lead in the third when Jackson bats began to function. Before the inning was over he had been touched for five runs and six hits, and Yeager, who relieved him, gave up one more tally. The Generals fell on Yeager in the sixth for four runs, added three more in the seventh and eighth, and entered the ninth with a lead of 15 to 4.

In the last frame the Tigers began to swing lustily and plated seven runners before the final out.

The Generals had eighteen hits, while the Tigers had seventeen. Fulton had eleven men left on bases, and the game was marked by five home runs. Four of these were for Jackson, while Peterson, who had four hits, also hit for the circuit. Frankie Faudem also had four hits.

Huether played left field last night and had a pair of hits.
