PLAN APPEAL FOR FARMERS, KENTUCKY

Three Organizations Meet in Louisville to Consider Mak- ing Rectangle Gardens Productive

Louisville—(AP) — He appeals to the federal farm board to send instructions to farmers in Kentucky to prevent a further drought and shortage of food.

By the end of the month, the federal farm board will receive instructions to prevent a further drought and shortage of food.

In the meantime, farmers will be encouraged to increase the use of such crops such as corn and hay, which are being in short supply.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the American Farm Bureau, the United States Department of Agriculture, and the Kentucky Farm Bureau.

Financial distress as a result of severe crop damage by drought and shortage of food is the main concern of these organizations.

Beloved Woman Passes Away

Mrs. Mary E. Beil, mother of Luther Beil of this city, died at her home in Los Angeles Sunday morning at nine o'clock. T. Beil left here Thursday night and had never received a message of the serious condition of his mother.

Mrs. Beil lived in Fulton on College street, in South Fulton, for about twelve years. She was a quiet, sweet-cheeked woman, a member of the First Baptist church, a loving mother, a true friend and a deep regret of her passing. We have no doubt but that the whole community will join with us in extending to her family the sincerest sympathy in their loss.

Mrs. Beil was born in Ohio, and was long a resident of Los Angeles. She left here seven years ago with four of her children to live in California. She was buried at Ingleside Park Cemetery in Los Angeles Tuesday.
