THE TRIUMPH OF GOOD

"The Triumph of Good" was the subject used as sermon by Rev. J. N. Wilford at the First Methodist Church, last Sunday morning.

TEXT—"Be not overcome of evil but overcome evil with good"—Rom. 12:21.

I shall attempt to set forth some reasons for my belief in the ultimate triumph of good. We are agreed that we must get the best of evil or evil will get the best of us. When someone does us an evil our first thought is to get even with him by doing him a greater evil. Retaliation is a universal law of human nature. This desire insists upon fighting evil with evil—fire with fire.

The Hebrews tried that method in their early social legislation, "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a life for a life." They claimed divine sanction for it, because these laws are prefaced by a "thus saith the Lord." There might have been some excuse for these laws in that early day, for they provided for measured retaliation rather than unlimited vengeance—"An eye for an eye" is not ideal but it is better than an head for an eye. But the method did not produce good results and Jesus put upon it His stamp of disapproval when He said, "Recompense to no man evil for evil."

HOG-KILLING

As I begin this article, in November, it is hog-killing weather—brisk cold air, clear skies; promise of several days of the same sort of temperature. However, it is not late enough in the season to kill more than one small hog to furnish fresh meat for the family. I must admit I do not know much of the science and art of hog-killing for it has changed since my last contact with it. I do know that some neighborhoods have a central slaughtering place but I would guess that the standardized festival of my childhood is much the same.

Sleeping was hardly necessary the night before this great annual event. We had spent the day before in making preparations; cutting sticks, putting up a scaffold, sharpening the knives, placing a barrel for scalding, getting the big kettles ready, and building the heap of wood that was to form the fire with several old bits of scrap iron on it. We got up, like the women in Proverbs, while it was yet dark and started our fire. Soon after an early breakfast the neighbors with whom we were swapping work came to help, often bringing their wives or daughters with them. Quite early in the morning, as soon as we felt the water was hot enough and the irons hotter still the slaughter began. Killing the hogs and sticking them were arts that every farm boy and man knew. The sun would be still far toward the east when the scalding actually began.

We poured some of the hot water into the scalding barrel and then threw in some of the super-heated irons, causing a great spluttering and popping. It takes great skill to scald hogs properly. The skillful scalding, who is always represented in each neighborhood, tests the effectiveness of the water, a common way being to try the tail first; if the hair slips off well, then the hog is well scalded. I recall how we sometimes made a poor scald and had to cut the hair off portions of the hogs rather than pull it out. People always apologized for meat that had hairs that had been cut. Scraping the scalded hog left a black deposit on our hands that only time would remove; soap, even home-made lye soap, was powerless with this blackness.

We hung the scraped hogs on our scaffold and proceeded to gut them. Then the bodies hung and chilled through while we stopped for dinner. After dinner came the cutting-up process. The whole hog was soon divided into lard, sausage meat, spare ribs, backbone, heads, hams, shoulders and middlings. I have seen great artistry displayed in cutting up the meat, artistry that was so common that no one realized that it WAS artistry. The small boys could be useful by storing the joints away until the salting down would take place, in the smokehouse after supper. The afternoon and much of the night with often adjourned sessions the next day, were spent in grinding the sausage and rendering lard. The neighbors usually departed after the meat was cut up, taking, as a matter of course, some backbones, ribs, livers, and hearts for their own use.

And on into the night turned the sausage grinder a vicious machine that contained fearful knives and a heavy metal core. The modern food choppers had not then arrived. Rendering lard required the patience of Job or any other famous character; it was a fearful thing to burn the supply of lard. Sausage was sacked and later smoked in the smokehouse. Later still the joints that had been salted away were taken out and hung up to be cured. Now isn't all of this a fascinating art, one so common that we almost ignore it?

UNCLE JIM

No man lives to himself—when farmers prosper rural merchants prosper.

Careful buying often is as important in determining farm profits as shrewd selling.

A wise buyer anticipates his needs far enough in advance to look for bargains.

Few farmers, like the Prodigal Son, waste their substance in riotous living, but many waste their means through unwise purchases.

Farm production averaged 5 per cent greater in 1937 and 1938 than in 1929, while industrial production for the same period averaged 18 per cent below 1929 levels.

If the 20 million families receiving less than $2,000 a year spent as much for cotton goods as those receiving between $2,000 and $3,000, the cotton farmers would have a home outlet for an additional 2 million bales yearly.

If you don't believe farmers waste money just count the unused pieces of machinery standing in fence corners, fields laying idle without a cover crop, idle mules that can't have colts, "yellow hammer" steers and "racer" hogs, you see on your next trip through the country.

Seed, like blood, will surely tell. The Tennessee Crop Improvement Association, in cooperation with the U-T College of Agriculture and Extension Service, is making a special effort to increase the supply of reliable red clover seed through certification. See your county agent for particulars.

A Dutchman, upon entering the dining car of a German train was hailed by the waiter with the usual "Heil Hitler". Upon receiving no reply from the Dutchman the waiter became angry and said, "Whenever I say, 'Heil Hitler' to you, you are to say 'Heil Hitler' to me".

Paying it back is what puts the "row" in borrow.

Here is a question to test your night-driving sense.

How fast can you drive at night and still see as far as it takes you to stop?

A—20 miles an hour.
B—35 miles an hour.
C—50 miles an hour.

The average headlights show clearly for 100 feet. You cannot drive faster than 35 miles an hour if you want to stop in that distance. At 40 miles an hour you are over-driving your light or continuously driving blind 15 feet.

"It's Smart to Drive Carefully."

READ and REMEMBER

Better prices are not all that the farmer should have; he needs a permanent system of equality with industry in this country.

When the next war occurs, astute statesmen will have to determine whether it will be more profitable to lose the war or win it.

Michigan WPA workers are striking because they have been put on part time work. They maintain they cannot get used to only four hours of shovel leaning each day.

A man doesn't need to lead a girl to the altar. Nine times out of ten he has to hold her back.

Many people who don't have to work do work, and many who do have to don't.

They say that since a reward of $25,000 is offered for Louis Lepke, famous racketeer, Lepke himself is considering the offer.

Among 21 persons arrested by federal agent in raids in Arkansas, recently was one clergyman. Not a bad showing for the ministry.

"At that I shall not be surprised," replied the Dutchman, "for already we have your Kaiser."

"Star Maker" Saga Of Show Business

Local lovers of the grand kind of entertainment dispensed by Bing Crosby on screen and radio can look forward to seeing Bing in a picture which really measures up to his talents when Paramount's "The Star Maker" opens on Sunday at the Fulton Theatre.

The new Crosby vehicle, which might readily be termed a singing cavalcade of show business, gives Bing the best role he has ever had. It casts him as a tin pan alley song writer, a small time hooper, who believes that he can rise to the top in show business by taking talented kids from the sidewalks of New York, and building them into great acts.

Produced by Charles R. Rogers, who has discovered many stars, directed by Roy Del Ruth, who has brought many great musical hits to the screen, "The Star Maker" presents the best cast ever to appear with Bing. It includes Louise Campbell as his practical-minded wife, Linda Ware, fourteen-year-old singer discovered by Rogers, as a youngster Bing builds into a star. Ned Sparks, as Bing's press agent, Laura Hope Crews, as an ex-opera singer, and Janet Waldo, as Bing's secretary. Walter Damrosch "grand old man" of American music, will also be seen in the picture, conducting The Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles. In addition, the largest group of singing and dancing youngsters ever assembled for a motion picture, appear with Bing in the production numbers.

The story of the picture—suggested by the career of that grand showman, Gus Edwards—starts with Bing trying to persuade Louise Campbell, a girl who assists the matron of an orphanage, to marry him. She finally consents, and they are happy even though Bing writes songs which won't sell and loses job after job.

Watching a group of newsboys sing and dance while on his way to get another job, Bing decides to organize them into the greatest kid act ever to hit the stage. The act gets a tryout, is successful. Bing hires Ned Sparks as press agent, launches kid acts all over the country. Then Laura Hope Crews brings Linda Ware to him. Bing is enthused about her great talent decides to make her a star, and presents her in an all-kiddie musical revue on Broadway.

When the Gerry Society closes the show by enforcing a law which forbids children to perform after ten o'clock at night, Bing takes Miss Ware to Walter Damrosch, persuades him to present her in a concert. She succeeds, but Bing has lost out on his kiddie acts, is forced to seek success in a different field, radio.

The picture affords Bing a chance to sing the great Gus Edwards' numbers, "School Days", "In My Heart Oldsmobile", "Jimmy Valentine," and many another. He also sings four new songs by the ace Burke-Monaco team. They are entitled "An Apple for the Teacher," "A Man and His Dreams," "Go Fly a Kite," and "Still the Bluebird Sings." And, of course, the talented Miss Ware sings a wide selection of numbers, ranking from "Darktown Strutters' Ball" to Tchaikowsky's Waltz of the Flowers.

"REVOLUTIONS" IN FARMING

Untold centuries ago, an authority on agriculture has observed, the art of farming was revolutionized "when some inventive genius contrived to overturn the earth by means of the forked limb of a tree, drawn by a camel, horse or ox." The first crude plow marked the initial application of mechanical power to farming.

Since that far-off time there have been many revolutions in agriculture. Today there is an immensely important, if quiet, revolution going on, though it is not of a mechanical character. It lies in the comparatively new awareness of the farmer to the fact that one-man enterprise is not enough in this age—that the energies, the brains and the abilities of many men must be enlisted together if each is to succeed and prosper. Its concrete manifestation is found in the fast-growing, strongly entrenched agricultural marketing cooperatives which dot the nation. A "revolution" which makes it possible to distribute crops more quickly, surely and to better advantage for all concerned is as important as a "revolution" which makes it possible to produce them with greater efficiency and reduced effort.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, September 3, 1939.

The Golden Text is: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him."—(Gen. 1:27.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I am the Lord, your Holy One, the creator of Israel, your King. This people have I formed for myself; they shall show forth my praise."—(Isa. 43:15, 21.)

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

The Fulton County Homemakers will end their 1938-39 year's work with an all day tour visiting demonstration kitchens which were improved as a result of their major project last year. They have chosen the date of Wednesday, September 13 for their tour which will begin at 9:30 on the Hickman Court house lawn.

Kitchens in the homes that will be visited are Mrs. Dean Collier, Mrs. Herman Roberts, Mrs. Leeman Drysdale, Mrs. Jim Hepler and Mrs. Allie Browder.

There are a lot of things to be put off to tomorrow that don't need to be done at all. Don't get a false idea of "duty."

When before in British history did the umbrella become a symbol.

A woodworker carved a statue of a WPA workman out of maple. He is merely carrying out the popular conception of what WPA workmen are made of. The general welfare is often lost in the scuffle for private advantage.

Whenever a speaker depends upon denunciation rather than arguments, the conclusion is inescapable that he has a poor cause.

One trouble with the bride is that she can't help comparing the man she married with the one who got away.

It is now one-quarter century since the beginning of the World War. As for what has been achieved it is agreed that many of us are now 25 years older.

THE TRIUMPH OF GOOD

We cannot overcome evil with evil. Individuals and nations have tried it much to their sorrow. This method leads to moral, political and financial bankruptcy.

We are told to overcome evil with good. This is what we might call the "higher resistance". Why not try that method? We have fought the devil with fire and it has not burned him up. We have tried hatred, bitterness, guns, gas, starvation, strikes and lockouts without success. We hear again the words, "If thine enemy hunger feed him, if he thirst give him drink. In so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head"—not to burn him, but to melt him down to a better mood.

We are not to be passive in the presence of evil. We are not to take it lying down. We are to do something about it, and the best thing we can do, is to do good. No one can observe Christ and His attitude toward His enemies during those last hours on the cross without discovering the Christian way of dealing with evil. He could pray for His enemies and save a thief.

Is evil more powerful than good?—If so the devil is stronger than God. Let's see—Have the nations and individuals who returned evil for evil, won out? I leave that question for you to answer.

Some day, "you cannot overcome evil with good, because you cannot change human nature." It can be done—it has been done. But nothing short of divine Grace can do it. Cannibalism, dueling and human slavery have been abolished and war is the next evil to go. Christ must rule until He has put all enemies under His feet.

In Marston's play, "The Trial of Jesus", Pilate's wife says to the Roman officer, "Do you think he is really dead?" "No, Lady," he replied, "I do not. He is just let loose in a world where neither Roman nor Jew can stop him." Scorn, hatred, bitterness did not stop him. Thorns, nail and spear did not stop him. Those things can never stop the truth.

Today, it may look like brute force is going to win, but it can't.

Righteousness and peace have abided in quietness and belongs to the reign of Christ. If I did not believe that good is more powerful than evil, that God can and does put Satan under His feet, I would have no Gospel to preach. The Gospel is the good news that God is with us. It is good news that he can and does change badness into goodness, weakness into strength.

"Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne— Yet that scaffold sways the future, and behind the dim unknown Standeth God within the shadow, Keeping watch above His own."

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR

KENTUCKY ON DISPLAY

Dreamy, hazy days of sunshine—golden moonlit nights of happiness.

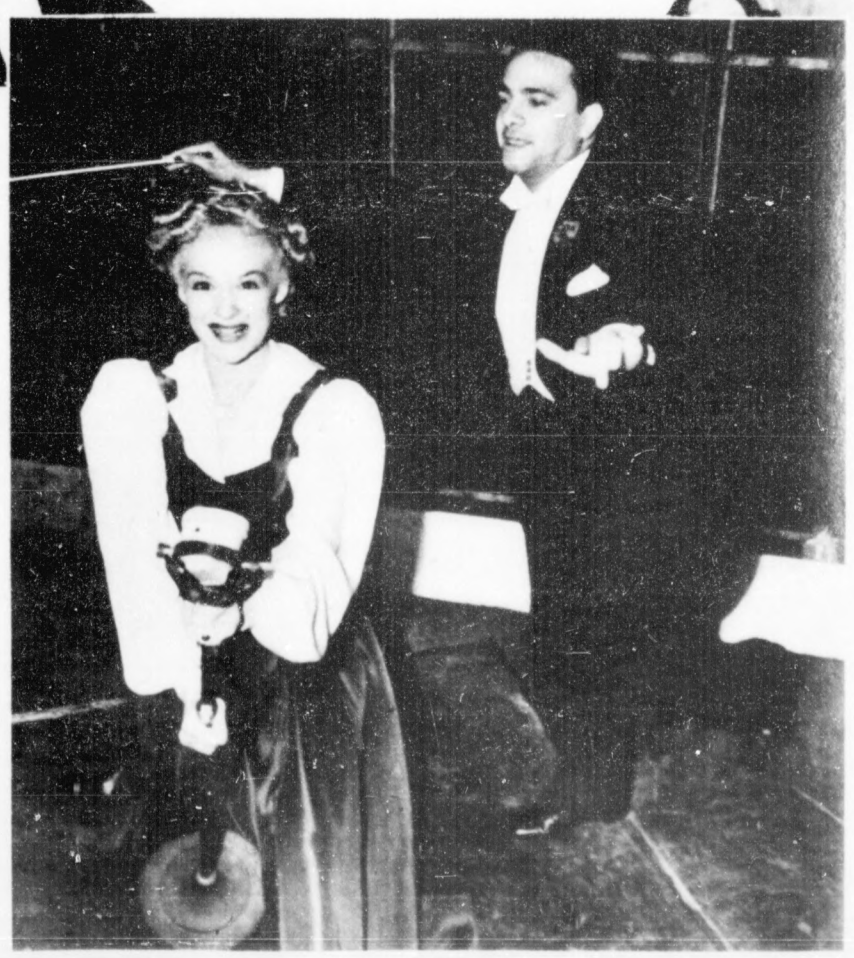

That is Kentucky in the fall, the season of fairs and of the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville, where the products of Kentucky proudly compete for honor and awards.

There is gaiety in Kentucky and you'll find it at the Fair where Vincent Lopez swings his music and Betty Hutton sways her songs.

There is earnestness in Kentucky and you'll see it in the faces of the judges and the eyes of the owners, at the cattle and live stock rings, as competition waxed hot and the champions are being chosen.

There is pomp and ceremony in Kentucky. You will see it when the band plays at the Horse Show and the horses parade in the show ring, and the soft lights reflecting on white shoulders and white shirt fronts in the boxes, make you reflect on the decades of tradition and charm of Kentucky.

There is happiness in Kentucky. You will see it on the faces of the people and hear gay laughter on the midway, for a bountiful season of productiveness is over and life is good to live in Kentucky.

Betty Hutton and Vincent Lopez.

S. S. PRESIDENT COMING TO HICKMAN

Merrell Hart, advance man for the excursion chamber President visited Hickman yesterday to complete arrangements for the coming of the big all-steel pleasure boat, which will make a moonlight dance trip from Hickman the night of Sept. 14th, leaving at 9 o'clock, and returning at 12:00 p.m.

Hart was enthusiastic in his description of the dance land which is making the trip aboard the steamer from St. Louis to New Orleans. The musical troupe is headed by Ralph Williams of Chicago, whose band played for the fan dancers that made Sally Rand famous, and includes a number of versatile stars who have been featured with Buddy Rogers, Vincent Lopez, Fred Waring and other headliners.

This will be the only opportunity for pleasure-seekers in this vicinity to enjoy an outing on the President this season and a good crowd is expected. The cruise will be sponsored by Elks Lodge No. 1294, but is open to the public.

Queen of Mississippi River excursion boats, the President is five decks high, a city block long and built of steel. Its Rainbow Ballroom is the largest floating dance salon on the inland waters and the luxurious accommodations and appointments of the steamer surpass those of many ocean-going steamers.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

On January 19th, we announced a poll among the readers of the papers who run Capitol Comments, on February 25th we published the results of this poll for the various candidates for Governor.

The astounding thing to the politicians here at Frankfort is that the poll was 97.8% accurate as far back as February. I know that the people who are the readers of this column are citizens whose opinion coincides with that of most Kentuckians, an the results of the election which agrees with the poll, verifies our belief.

Students of music and art in the 7th grade of the public schools, may be without text books on the subjects, because of a peculiar situation.

Many of the schools in the State do not have facilities to teach music and art as a result, should not, and some do not teach these subjects, but high powered book salesmen get them to take these books as the State pays for them.

The State, on the money it has, is furnishing all books to students up through the seventh grade, if they didn't have to furnish these music and art books they could supply many of the books for the eighth grade pupils.

The law requires that the books have to be furnished to the grades in sequence, that is all the books have to be supplied to each grade before they can start buying them for another grade. The Superintendent of Public Instruction wants a ruling on this, as the money spent on art and music books that are not used, could furnish many books to the 8th grade students.

Some farmers have already suffered losses on their tobacco crops from thieves stealing from their barns. Many of the farmers are sleeping in tents near their barns in order to guard their crops and all farmers should watch their tobacco to prevent losses which made an enormous total last year.

WHEAT MARKETING QUOTA PROVISION CHANGED

An amendment to the wheat marketing quota provisions of the AAA make it possible for a farmer to market all the wheat he produces on his wheat acreage allotment says F. W. Colby, state AAA administrator.

The amendment provides that a farmer who does not exceed his acreage allotment for wheat will be able to market all the wheat he produces without penalty, he says.

The farm marketing quota for wheat is the normal or actual yield, whichever is greater, of the farm acreage allotment, plus the carry-over, on the farm which was eligible to be marketed in previous years without penalty.

Formerly, the law called for farmers to hold part of their wheat on the farm when there was a marketing quota, even if they had planted within their acreage allotments. A farmer who exceeds his allotment will be subject to penalty on any wheat he markets in excess of his quota, but he may avoid penalty by storing on the farm an amount of wheat equal to the amount he produces in excess of his quota.

Under the new amendment for wheat, compliance with marketing quotas will be checked against the amount of wheat stored on the farm. A farmer who stores less wheat than his required storage amount will be presumed to have marketed wheat in excess of his quota.

A BOTTLE OF MILK IS A BOTTLE OF HEALTH

Milk is the most nearly perfect food known to man because it has all of those essentials that we consider important in the selection of any food, states H. B. Henderson of the U-T Dairy Department.

"It is our richest source of minerals, especially calcium and phosphorus, which are highly important in tooth and bone development. The protein of milk is possibly the most choice of all the proteins provided by nature because it is so easily and completely digested and assimilated by the body. This rich source of a superior protein makes milk an excellent food for adults as well as children."

The fat of milk is unlike that of any other product both in composition and form. Mr. Henderson points out. No other animal or vegetable fat has the peculiar complex composition as the fat of milk. Milk fat is made up of over a dozen different kinds of complex fats. The flavor and appearance of milk fat may be imitated but the composition can never be copied. Another interesting fact about the fat of milk is the form in which it normally occurs. No other fat is found in the form of minute globules so small that several billions may exist in a single cubic centimeter.

Milk is also one of the best food sources of vitamins, especially vitamin A which is "the body's first line of defense against infections of eyes, ears, sinus, skin, alimentary tract, and nerve degeneration." The chief carbohydrate found in milk is lactose or milk sugar, and is one of the most healthful carbohydrates produced in nature, Mr. Henderson says.

No matter how old you are, it is never too late to make a better record in life, which, after all, is the only asset that really amounts to much.

"Speaking much is a sign of vanity; for that is lavish in words, is a nugard in deed."—Sir Walter Raleigh.

STRAIGHT AHEAD

There is a fable about two men who were forced to cross a very deep chasm on a small, slippery log. One of them kept his eyes on the stars above and moved straight ahead, safely. The other man kept looking down to the rock below, at the smallness of the log. He lost his confidence and failed to make the grade.

A community is no different from an individual. A community is merely the sum total of all the individuals in it. Fulton cannot use knockers and pessimists; those who keep looking below and lose their confidence. We must march straight ahead with our eyes on the stars. The doubters will fall by the wayside.

The News has abundant confidence in this community. It has many advantages, many natural resources. We believe it will forge ahead, because we believe a large majority of the people here are willing to work together for the advancement of the community. It is only by united effort that we can continue to make progress.

A united public opinion and a willingness to help on things that make for progress and advancement is what will keep us moving ahead, always forward. There are many things that can be done for the advancement of the community and every one of them will help every individual in the community in the long run.

One of the greatest things that we as individuals can do to help our community and help ourselves is to buy everything we possibly can here in Fulton. We will find that over a period of time it will actually save us money to do this. We will find that on the whole we can get what we need and want right here at home just as cheaply as anywhere else.

In addition what helps the community helps us all. And when we buy at home we help pay our taxes support our churches and civic organizations, provide local employment, aid community advancement. On the march straight ahead one of the most powerful weapons any community has is its own buying power. Let's make it help ourselves instead of the people of some other community.

The sweet young things seldom know their tones, you can get a fair idea of what they have in mind. Secret Service men in Washington are investigating a new racket, whereby several visitors to the capital city have been charged $1 each for admission cards to the White House. No fee is charged visitors for this privilege. "A wise man reflects before he speaks; a fool speaks, and then reflects on what he has uttered."—Delia.

COTTON PENALTY 3 CENTS PER POUND

Cotton sold from this year's crop in excess of a producer's cotton marketing quota will be subject to penalty of 3 cents per pound, to be collected by the buyer at the time of the sale, according to F. W. Culby, state administrative officer of the AAA.

The penalty of excess marketing of carry-over penalty, cotton will be 2 cents per pound. All excess marketing last year were subject to a penalty of 2 cents per pound. Provisions for the change in the penalty rate is included in the act under which the farm program operates. The penalty of excess marketing does not apply to cotton carried over from a previous season which would not have been subject to penalty if it had been marketed during the previous season.

The cotton marketing quota of a farm is the normal or actual production, whichever is greater, of the farm's cotton acreage allotment plus the amount of any carry-over cotton which would not have been subject to penalty if marketed in 1939.

In addition to other records, ginners and buyers this year will be required to report on all seed cotton purchased and all cotton ginned for a producer in less than bale lots in order that penalties may be correctly determined. This information also is important in the determination of yields and marketing quotas for producers.

FACT VS. THEORY

It is often argued that a reduction in railroad freight rates to pre-war levels, would increase the volume of business handled by the lines. Leaving aside the very vital question of how the railroads would meet 1939 payrolls, operating costs and taxes with 1913 revenues, there is a fundamental fallacy in that argument.

Freight rates are entirely unlike passenger fares. A sharp reduction in fares will often increase the number of passengers riding the trains, and results in a temporary increase in passenger revenues. But, as an authority on transportation has observed, "No-body ships freight just to give it a ride. Freight moves only because there is someone, somewhere, to use or consume it. Unless the freight rate is so large a part of the price paid by the final consumer as actually to limit his use of the commodity, freight rates have mighty little to do with the total amount of commodities shipped. Freight rates in the United States do not keep our people from eating food, wearing clothes, building homes, or doing anything else they want to do."

The argument for sharply reducing freight rates is naturally based on the premise that current rates are too high, and have an adverse effect on consumption. The truth of the matter is that freight rates are usually one of the smallest items in the selling cost of any product. The freight cost, for instance, on a fine big apple from Oregon, moved three thousand miles across the continent to the New York market, is just a little more than one-half cent. And the rail freight on all the lumber in a 5,000 house will not average more than $150.

What this all adds up to is that the American railroads, under private ownership, give the nation the finest service in the world, at a very reasonable cost. That is fact, as against theories.

"VENTURESOME CAPITAL" NEEDED

"It is essential that we direct our energies toward every move that will encourage our people to invest in enterprises which will put men back to work."

That is the view, not of some "Wall Street financier," but of John W. Hanes, Under Secretary of Treasury, as expressed in an address before the Indiana Bankers Association. And he said in addition: "We are confronted today with a great surplus of capital which does not desire to take a chance, and a distinct shortage of that which does. Venturesome capital is needed to induce the investment of cautious capital. New enterprises can be started and old ones that are subject to rapid change can be continued only with capital willing to take a chance. Moreover, even our most stable industries need a margin of enterprising capital willing to absorb the shock of the risks to which even these industries are subject. . . . The employment of a dollar of venturesome capital may permit the employment of several dollars of senior capital, but if no one is willing to take a chance, projects may be abandoned even if the earning prospects are promising. . . . There are a number of places where sympathetic action by government might help restore courage and willingness to launch out in new enterprises."

Risk capital doesn't go "into hiding" because it wants to, but because it is forced to. It is forced there by killing regulatory policies, by taxing policies which take the profit out of successful speculative ventures, while leaving the investor with the losses in case of failure, and by the general political drive against private enterprise as we have known it in the past. Our planned discouragement of investment over a period of years has been far more responsible for the maintenance of depression and unemployment than most of us realize.

Mr. Hanes told part of the story, but the reason capital is cautious is the point the public must begin to understand.

To this reply the angry German said, "Someday you shall have our Fuehrer in Holland."

Steve Brodie's critics denied that he ever jumped from the Brooklyn bridge, contending that he tossed a dummy into the river. But a few days ago Michael Ford, an able-bodied seaman, really made the jump on a wager and swam unharmful to safety.

Rudolph Turner, finding working out a fine on the streets a tough job because of the heat, asked the sheriff at Tell City, Ind., to lock him up, saying "I'd rather lay out my fine."

Gentlemen:
About 8 months ago I began the use of your Min-Lax Tonic and Cuasoe. At that time I was suffering from a general run-down condition. My health had been bad for a long time, besides general weakness, I was suffering with stomach disorders and piles.

Your Min-Lax Tonic and Cuasoe corrected these conditions to my entire satisfaction so that my general health, since using them, has been better than for a number of years. In addition to above troubles I used your Cuasoe on a malignant sore on my lips and also same kind of sore on the left side of my head.

These sores had been pronounced cancer and I had received cancer treatment from two different institutions. I am not prepared to make the positive statement that these sores were cancers, but I do know that they had refused to yield to treatment, until I applied Cuasoe.

I am happy to say that I received great benefit from the use of Cuasoe and that these malignant sores or ulcers, or whatever they were have disappeared. It gives me great pleasure to recommend both Min-Lax Tonic and Cuasoe, and I am recommending them every opportunity I have to my neighbors and friends.

Yours very truly,
H. C. LASSITER

DR. H. P. SPENCER
White Bluff, Tennessee

May 5, 1938

I am writing this to say that on May 3, 1938, my two boys and I became very ill, about 2 p.m., vomiting most severely, and after a few hours our bowels began acting every few minutes with severe cramping pains throughout the abdomen. We got no relief until about 8 p.m., when we began to take Min-Lax Tonic and after taking the second dose, one hour after the first, we began to improve very rapidly and were able to be up and eat breakfast yesterday morning, 12 hours after beginning to take Min-Lax Tonic.

MRS. J. B. MADEWELL

R. F. D. No. 1

MR. J. N. HINSON, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., unsolicited writes as follows:

"Just two weeks ago today, you gave me a bottle of your Mineral Products Remedy, MIN-LAX Tonic. At that time I was so weak from an attack of influenza and general run down condition, it was with the greatest difficulty for me to sit up or walk without falling. As a matter of fact, I did fall from sheer weakness and was unable to get up without the assistance of two friends, Mr. C. G. Joplin and Mr. A. E. Black, who happened to be present. They assisted me to my feet and washed the blood from my left eye, which I severely cut when falling. I have taken your remedy, MIN-LAX Tonic, as you directed, and am most pleased and happy to testify to the wonderful effects received from its use. I have gained five pounds in weight and am eating heartily three times daily and have returned to my work feeling like a new man."

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart for this great medicine and verily believe that the good Lord directed you to me."
