THE LISTENING POST

Heat! Day after day and night after night of blazing, searing heat! One hot, dawn after another, with no rain, and dust blowing from every section. Black clouds rolling up suddenly, lightning splitting through the clouds and the rumble of thunder far off. Breezes which are cool one moment and hot the next. That is June as the month marches towards July.

There is something peculiar about heat. It seems to me that extreme heat brings to the surface all the mean things which are inside me, and I have plenty. I have fought temper all my life and in recent years believe I have learned more of patience and tolerance than I ever knew before. But when a week comes along of one day after another of extreme heat I wonder if I have learned much of these virtues after all. For these hot days bring quick impatience, sudden bursts of anger, unreasoning intolerance and, it seems, a real desire to lose my temper. There is something about having sweat running down my body, of having clothing sticking to my body, of the unending feeling of being uncomfortable which causes me to grow impatient over things which normally would have no effect whatever. The smallest thing, under the urge of extreme heat, magnifies to a startling size; the least bit of argument causes me to want to shout and yell and pound things with my fist.

I guess, after all, that this human feeling is the thing which creates the need of vacations. I know that if I could get away from this steaming office for a week, or two I would lose this feeling of impatience. I know I am not really fit to work or associate with human beings, and I should be off somewhere to myself, in some cool and secluded spot, where I could forget all these petty annoyances.

I have never understood this effect of heat on the human system. It is quite well known to scientists that heat does things to human beings which no other season does. In the great, sweating cities during long continued heat periods, all the hospitals know they will be called on for sudden emergencies. They know there will be more suicide cases; police know there will be more crimes of sudden violence. All this follows a certain pattern which has become familiar to hospital workers and veteran policemen. Policemen know there will be sudden quarrels at card games, at swimming resorts, at drinking places; hospitals know that there will be more calls for ambulances.

It is quite definitely known that quarrels during such periods are more likely to be serious. A minor quarrel may start between two men, and in a few minutes it becomes more acrimonious than it would in normal weather. The men quarrel and become more excited; one word leads to another more bitter, and before any one realizes it some lethal weapon has come into play and murder is done. Or, some man, lonely in normal times, given to brooding, becomes more brooding as heat takes away his reasoning power, and in some hot room he decides to get out of a world which has suddenly become unbearable to him.

All of these things supply the reasons for the sudden flood of articles in the great city papers advising calmness and plenty of rest for all people. If one reads the daily articles written by medical men it will be seen that many of them are stressing this idea right now. They know, from long experience, how the human mind works in hot weather, and they are taking what steps they can to help some unfortunate persons. It will be found also that trained police officers in the great cities are more observant of petty quarrels, of men leaning over high places, of persons sitting off alone at resorts, now than ever

F. B. I. Arrests 29 Suspected Of Being Spies

Many Had Held Defense Jobs; Some Worked On U. S. Ships

New York. — J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Sunday announced the arrest of 29 persons charged with conspiracy to engage in espionage activities in the United States.

He said it was the biggest single round-up of spy suspects made since the passage of the espionage act of 1917.

Hoover said 22 of the men were born in Germany. Eighteen were arrested in New York and the others in New Jersey, Michigan and Wisconsin during the last 24 hours.

Many Had Defense Jobs
Hoover said that complaints against these persons, one of whom is a woman, and three of whom previously had been taken into custody, charged them with conspiring to violate the provisions of the espionage act which makes it a Federal crime unlawfully to transmit information affecting national defense and to utilize that information to the injury of the United States, or to the advantage of a foreign nation.

He asserted that many of those arrested had been employed in national defense industries, on ships, and one on a transatlantic airline. Their work, he said, included the transmission of information concerning new developments on many kinds of national defense items, especially in the aircraft industry.

One Is Internationally Known
Federal authorities, Hoover said, have had many of those held under surveillance "for nearly two years and their arrest in a virtual 'flytrap' was the result of 'most extensive counter espionage'."

At least one person in the group, Hoover said, "is internationally known. He identified the man as Frederick Joubert Duquesne, a native of Cape Colony, South Africa, and a naturalized citizen of the United States. Hoover said Duquesne "is by occupation a writer, lecturer and professional spy."

B-19 Tests May Lead To U. S. Air Fleet Of Super-Bombers

March Field, Calif. — Its maiden flight completed, the Douglas B-19, described by the Army Air Corps as the world's biggest bomber, was groomed today for a long series of test hops which probably will determine whether this country will build a fleet of super-dreadnaughts of the air.

Such a fleet, based on the experimental work which went into the $3,200,000 monster, with a fully loaded weight of 83 tons is more than a mere possibility.

Responsible military opinion has held ever since the start of the European war that with air power's coming age, larger, faster and more

Paducah, Ky. — Mrs. Ella Acker, wife of Paducah Postmaster Fred Acker, died Sunday of internal injuries suffered Saturday night in an automobile collision at Lone Oak, McCracken county, two miles south of here.

The driver of the other motor, Harold Vaughn, 23, 721 Broadway, escaped with a knee injury. Miss Dorothy Flowers, 19, Route 5, McCracken county, and Marion Lawren, 717 Floral, riding with Vaughn, were cut and bruised.

Mrs. Acker was unconscious when admitted to the hospital. She was given a blood transfusion but failed to rally.

30 Million Women Aiding Red War Effort

Moscow. — More than 30,000,000 women are working behind Russian lines to bolster the Soviet war effort against Germany, Pravda (Communist Party newspaper) declared Sunday.

The newspaper said 19,000,000 women were toiling in the fields and 11,000,000 in factories and offices, behind the thousands who had gone to the front in medical services.

"Women are useful in military units and military offices," Pravda said, "but the main task now is work in the rear. No tractor, machine or combine should stop."

Investia (Government newspaper) said: "In the hour of the people's holy war against the Fascist hordes, the responsibility has grown for every Soviet woman to assure in the rear a victory over the enemy on the front. No doubt glorious Soviet women will fulfill their duty in fighting spirit."

Simplification Is "New Weapon" For U. S. Industrial War Drive

New York. — An important new weapon, "simplification," is being forged for the industrial war drive, and its development in coming months may have important repercussions both on the eventual outcome of the struggle with the totalitarianism and on day-to-day ways of living and doing business.

A good illustration of what needs to be done is in tool steels. There are 1,100 of these key materials on the market. Manufacturers and users agree that it is a waste of man-power, materials and precious time to make 1,100 varieties, stock them and keep track of them, when perhaps 100, or at most 200, would cover every possible need. The American Standards Association has an active committee working on this subject.

1. One concern makes 20,000 regular varieties of electric motors.
2. There are 7,500 varieties of bed caster made in the United States.
3. There are 34 types, 4 grades, 35 brands, 11 finished and 19 sizes of axes a total of 6,118 varieties made by U. S. Manufacturers.

4. One plant carried in stock the number to 150 (at an incidental saving of $25,000 a year).

Men here familiar with the problems of standardizing and with the line of thought current in Washington hold that "simplification" does not imply "regimentation" of the consumer of the abolition of eye appeal and styling which makes goods merchandisable. Much of the work, they point out, will never be visible to the consumer at all. It will be in screws, bolts, couplings and the thousand and one internal parts and gadgets that go into our machine existence.

One expert made most clear what the proposals are expected to mean to Mr. and Mrs. Householder when he said:

"It's not so much a question of tightening our belts as of satisfying ourselves with just two or three kinds of belts instead of having a score to choose from."

President Hints Year Is Limit For Draftees

Order Calls For Nine Million To Be Replacement Of Ones In Camp

The temporary White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., gave a clear indication Sunday that selectees would be kept in military training only a year, then be permitted to re-enter private life.

A Presidential executive order, signed Sunday and released Sunday, set at 900,000 the number of men who may be inducted into the land forces of the United States in the year starting Tuesday, July 1. This is the maximum permitted under the Selective Service law.

William D. Hassett, the President's secretary, informed reporters that the War Department expected to ask the selective system for new inductees "as the training period of men inducted during the current fiscal year expires."

Asked whether this was "absolute evidence that men now in service would go back home after a year's service," Hassett first replied with an unqualified "yes," then added that he was not a military lawyer.

In the fiscal year now coming to a close, the President had authorized the induction of 800,000 draftees, but only 650,000 will have been inducted at the end of the year at midnight Monday Hassett said.

Meanwhile, military experts in Washington said a relatively high percentage of the 750,000 young men to be registered for military service Tuesday may be inducted into the Army within the next few months.

3 Other Orders Released

Officials of the Selective Service system prepared to register virtually all men in the country, aliens as well as citizens, who have attained the minimum Selective Service age of 21 since last October 16. At that time 16,500,000 were registered. Those exempted from signing up on Tuesday are foreign diplomats and members of their staffs and men already in the armed services.

WPA Threatened By Deadlock In Committee Over Increase

Washington. — A joint Senate-House conference committee broke up in disagreement today over the $935,905,000 relief bill, which must be enacted by Monday midnight unless the WPA is to be deprived of funds.

Chairman Adams (D.-Col.) of the conference committee told reporters:

"We simply could not agree about the Senate's $50,000,000 increase for the disposal of surplus commodities. Some think it should go in this bill, some think it should go in the farm bill and some think it should not go anywhere."

HOPE FOR DARKEST EUROPE

Clouds have settled down over an increasing area of Europe as Hitler has extended and tightened his hold and shut whole countries off from intercourse with the free world. Hundreds of millions of people, divided between hope and despair, live in a twilight of rumor and doctored news, and with each new Nazi victory more people are engulfed in the area of darkness. As the sphere of conflict and enslavement widens, the problems awaiting solution grow in proportion; Allied "war aims," however expressed, clearly affect more people, and become vaster in scope.

It was right, at the outset of the war, to demand some statement of war aims, though we could not expect the filling in of the unforeseeable details. It is now becoming clear that the full definition of war aims, in terms of practical postwar programs, must be a gradual process that will not be completed till the war is ended.

But if the whole postwar program cannot yet be given, and all plans of action cannot yet be made, none the less there is much that belongs to the moment here and now. Have the democracies a message of hope for those hundreds of millions in Europe who are suffering from want and repression, and starved of opportunities for self-help and constructive action?

The war has brought Europe to a state of economic chaos, with shortage of food, a shortage of raw materials, and no quick means of turning industry over from war-work to peace-work. National currencies are in confusion, and markets utterly disorganized. When the war ends, there will be a need for goods of almost every kind and little credit with which to pay for them. To meet these economic needs will be the most urgent necessity.

In view of this necessity, it was reassuring to hear Anthony Eden, the British Foreign secretary, saying that plans are being made to prevent the starvation of the post-armistice period, currency discreditors, and wide fluctuations of market prices.

To prevent want and social insecurity everywhere, to enable every country to get going and to play its part in production, is to the interest of the British Empire, of the United States, and of South America. Economic cooperation between the free nations is the first essential in restoration.

ZONING WITH A VENGEANCE

The Civil Aeronautics Administration, which controls use of the air over America and her overseas possessions, has just set up one of the most extensive—in terms of space—zoning ordinances of all time.

The CAA on Wednesday reserved all space above 17,000 feet for military planes. Civilian craft, whether private or commercial, will get into trouble if sighted flying above that altitude.

The order sounds odd at first. But then we remember that most combat planes, especially bombers, are now built to operate at levels four or six miles above the earth. The increasing numbers of combat planes in U. S. fighting services may soon result in genuine traffic jams in the upper air over certain areas. The CAA order is a safety measure.—Sun-Democrat.

WOULD TURN ON BRITAIN

Experience with his war machine in a dozen countries may have given him confidence to tackle the country which is territorially greatest of all. He may have well laid schemes for promoting revolts in Russia, particularly within the Ukraine or other regions which might be split off under puppets.

Some of the "experts" believe it is possible for Germany to get the oil and wheat she wants most within a month and then turn on Britain. Some point to the fact that Russia has developed her industries well inland, out of the probable reach of panzer drives. They believe the Russians can maintain an active struggle which will keep the Nazis busy over a big terrain.

If this latter hope proves justified by the event the opportunity for Britain and America will be not merely to stave off a blitz over Britain this year but to take the offensive. Herr Hitler has been able to pick off one enemy at a time by forehandedly taking the offensive, striking with concentrated power at the unexpected place. In some measure this opportunity is now opening to Britain and America.

If Russia develops a really active front on the east there will be an increasing chance to concentrate Allied air power over certain sectors in the west. The RAF has been testing out the German air strength in very successful daylight raids over France in the last few days. When air superiority is wrested from the Luftwaffe there will be the possibility of quick sorties along the thinly held coasts of the occupied countries.

Wishful thinking is out of place. But recognition of opportunity and the possibilities which may open up is essential. In Chinese figure-language the symbol for crisis is said to combine two others, one representing disaster, one representing opportunity. Today Britain and America and indeed all the free peoples face a great crisis in this world war. By refusing to be immobilized as Russia was; by vigorous action they can make crisis spell opportunity.

HERE'S WHAT HOME CANNING WILL DO

Mrs. Ercel James of Crittenden county, Ky., put up about 1,000 jars of vegetables, fruits, jams and jellies last year. As a result the grocery bill of her family of six averaged $4.17 a month last winter. Several families in the county carried over a surplus of home-canned foods from last year, they reported to County Agent O. M. Shelby. This season, 30 families are growing model gardens to help demonstrate how farm families can produce most of their living on their farms.

LIGHTED CIGARETTE BLAMED FOR FIRE IN MAILBOX

Wichita, Kan. — Someone "mailed" a lighted cigarette here, firemen believed after putting out a fire that damaged thirty-five letters.

When smoke began pouring out of the mailbox, the fire department was called. Not knowing the proper procedure for fighting fires in mailboxes the firemen called the postoffice. Officials there said it would be all right to pour water in it.

THIS STORY ENDS WITH A 'BANG'

We repeat a timely little story that reads like this: Once upon a time a promising young man carried his bride over the threshold, just as tradition says he should. He was the world's best husband, she the world's best cook. They would have lived happily ever after only Hubby became penny-wise and brought home that cheap brand of flour. He couldn't eat her biscuits—asked for an ax with which to cut the cake. So the sad little story ended with a "bang"—right in the middle of Hubby's forehead.

MORAL: When cheap flour comes in the door, love flies out the window.

We offer this suggestion to the June bride—specify a quality flour. Made and guaranteed by—

Hounds Win Two Of Three In Winning Ten Inning Battle

In a game which saw sixteen Tigers left on bases and which carried every thrill known to baseball, the Union City Greyhounds edged out the Tigers here yesterday 7 to 6 in ten innings and thus won the odd game of a three game series. Burgess was the losing pitcher, while Herr, relief hurler, won his second game of the series.

The Hounds grabbed a run in the first inning and Fulton tied in the second and took a two run lead in the third. In the fifth the Hounds shelled Burgess for two home runs, Sidney Ray and Bill Smith each blasting over the fence, and each having a man ahead who had been put on base by an error. Peterson came back in the seventh and clouted a homer for a single run. In the ninth, trailing by a pair of runs, the Tigers came to life and Walker and Mullen slammed doubles to center. Herr was rushed in to replace the fading Sommerer and forced in a run finally to tie the score. However, Faudem was unable to deliver and tapped to Herr for the third out.

Burgess walked the first man in the tenth, with a good bit of aid from Umpire Kowal, and Lake relieved him. A sacrifice sent the runner to second and he scored on Johnston's drive down the first base line.

In the last of the tenth the Tigers made another strong bid. Walker slammed a drive to left which almost cleared the fence. Mullen was walked purposely. Ivy hit two screaming fouls to left, then fanned on a high pitch. Derrick lined a drive down the third base line which appeared to be a certain hit, but Rotermund snagged it with a great effort and touched third for the final out.

The Tigers are on the road for the next three days, playing in Owensboro. They come home Thursday to start a four game series against the Jackson Generals. Jackson is now three games ahead of Mayfield and seems almost certain to be in the league after July 4 and thus entertain the all-star game. Score.

Tigers Win In Saturday Night Game Here 8-2

The Tigers romped on Don Bakkenlund, star lefty, here Saturday night, to win the middle game of the series 8 to 2. Mike Lake held the Hounds safely until the seventh, when his control became uncertain and Perk Madsen came to his rescue. The Tigers had done very little until the fifth, but in this frame they began to find Bakkenlund and Mullen crashed a double with the bases loaded to put the Tigers in front. Faudem and Peterson led in hitting with three blows each.

Score.

College Girl Admits Bearing, Killing 2 Babies

San Diego, Calif. — A 22-year-old sorority girl at San Diego State College has confessed strangling 2 newborn babies within two years, the Sheriff's office said Friday.

Lieut. Blake Mason quoted Miss Ann Marie Hanssen, a junior at the college, as saying her first child was born in the spring of 1940 and that she went to class the same day she killed it.

Lieutenant Mason said a gardener at the home of a great aunt where Miss Hanssen lives told him of finding the body in the incinerator and of burying it.

Lieutenant Mason said the gardener also related finding the body of the second baby in Miss Hanssen's bedroom closet. Officers believe the baby, a boy, was born and killed the night of June 13.
