Men Over 28 Are Ordered Deferred From Service
Harry E. Gunns Order As TDC Vets

Washington, March 26 (AP) - Veterans of the World War II have been ordered deferred from selective service in the armed forces.

The order, issued by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, affects men who are over the age of 28 and who have not been previously deferred. The purpose of the order is to free older men for essential civilian work.

The selective service system is in effect to ensure that the armed forces are manned by the best and most physically able men available. The system is operated by the Selective Service System, which was established by the Selective Service Act of 1940.

The order affects men who have not been previously deferred and who are not serving in the armed forces. It does not affect men who are serving in the armed forces or who have been previously deferred.

The order is effective immediately and will remain in effect until further notice.

NOTICE

The following individuals are deferred from selective service:

- Leon Conner
- John M. Travis
- Ben Franklin L. 1738 Dreamed Of parachute Troops

Washington, D.C., March 26 (AP) - Ben Franklin, who is believed to have dreamed of parachute troops in 1738, has been ordered deferred from selective service in the armed forces.

Franklin, who was a selector of paratroopers in the early 18th century, is considered to be one of the earliest proponents of parachute troops. His ideas were not fully realized until the mid-20th century.

The order affects all men who are over the age of 28 and who have not been previously deferred. It is effective immediately and will remain in effect until further notice.

The order is issued by the Selective Service System, which was established by the Selective Service Act of 1940.

MORE NEW CITIZENS

The Bureau of the Census reports that American births for the first six months were 20,000 ahead of the same months of last year, reversing all trends and official predictions. If the trend is maintained, the U.S. will gain at least 500,000 more citizens in the present decade than it did during the last—provided the immigration rate in unchanged. This would raise the current estimate for 1930 by more than 2,000,000, for a decline was expected.
The Bureau offered no explanation of the change. Some amateurs voiced the opinion that the gain is the result of the refusal of all citizens to have children in preference to the state's being drafted, for service, and the increased marriage rate traceable to the expediency of U.S. involvement in war.

Others suggested a third war factor: the old saw that nature seems to it babies—especially of boys—since during the race antinoles which will surely cause numerous deaths.

Still others merely credit the increase to better times, booming payrolls and farm income having made it possible for many couples now to "afford" children.

A dispatch from Ohio relates another instance of increase in the number of U.S. citizens, which is apparently general, and should have long-term effects. Of a total of 18,000 aliens in Ohio who are attending naturalization classes, it is related, 12,000 are expected to receive their citizenship papers in the next six months.

The country had more than 5,000,000 resident aliens when the national-wide registration was held. This figure is now being dealt with. For hundreds of thousands who had reached for years without the wish of their foreign citizenship, to be an American is the greatest wish in life. Only here does it appear that reasonable periods of freedom and opportunity can long survive. It is another birth.
