Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

Lesson for August 31

AMOS, A HERDSMAN CALLED OF GOD TO BE A PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—The Book of Amos.
GOLDEN TEXT—I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I, send me.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Shepherd Who Became Great.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Shepherd Who Became Great.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Answering God's Call.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Work That Serves God.

I. The Call of Amos (1:1).
He was a herdsman and gatherer of sycamore fruit (7:14). As a herdsman his income was not sufficient, therefore, he supplemented it by selling sycamore fruit. He was not a prophet by succession, neither was he trained in the prophetic schools. He sat not at the feet of any great teacher. God called him from a humble life to stand before the king. A prophet is one who foretells more especially than foretells. His primary work was proclaiming God's message rather than predicting events to come.

II. To Whom Was Amos Sent (1:1)?
God sent him primarily to Israel, the northern nation. Though he was from Judah, his ministry was to be primarily to Israel. It was during the reign of Jeroboam II when the northern kingdom had reached its highest state of prosperity. This prosperity, as is usually the case, was accompanied with a condition of luxury, corruption and cross wickedness.

III. Amos' Message.
1. Sins denounced (2:6-8; 6:1-6).
(1) Avaricious greed (2:6-8).
a. Sold the righteous for silver (v. 6).

The judge for a bribe of silver declared the innocent to be guilty.
b. Sold the poor for a pair of shoes.
The word "shoes" doubtless means sandals, the price of which was comparatively small.

c. Pants after the dust of the earth (v. 7).

The word "pant" means to eagerly desire. So avaricious had these men become that they even grasped after the earth which the down-trodden poor cast upon their heads in mourning their misery.

d. Turned aside the way of the meek. These grasping rich men turned aside those who did not stand up for their rights.

e. Licentiousness (v. 7).
It was not merely the case of falling into sensuous sin but indulgence with a definite purpose of insulting God and dishonoring his holy name.

(2) Reckless security (6:1-3).
They were living in a "golden paradise" and closing their eyes to the approaching storm of judgment predicted by the prophet. They regarded their city as impregnable. The strength of a nation is its righteousness, not its wealth and armaments.

(3) Luxury (vv. 4-6).
Their luxury expressed itself in:
a. Extravagant furniture (v. 4).
They had beds of ivory, which means perhaps wood inlaid with ivory.

b. Laziness (v. 4).
Many stretched themselves on their couches, living lives of indolence.

c. Feasted on delicacies (v. 4).
They bought what they desired regardless of its cost.

d. Adorned their feasts with music (v. 5).
They sang idle songs, even invented musical instruments for this purpose.

e. They drank wine (v. 6).
They drank from bowls, indicating excessive drinking. Though their feasts were adorned with refinement of music, they ended in drunkenness.

(4) They failed to grieve for Joseph (v. 6).
Joseph here stands for Ephraim and Manasseh.

2. The remedy proposed (5:1-9).
The prophet called upon them to return to God. He said, "Seek ye me and ye shall live." The implication is that while as yet the divine judgments are stayed an opportunity is offered for them to turn to God. "Seek" means applying for help. The time to repent is while judgment is stayed. In their turning to God they were to renounce:

(1) Idolatry (vv. 5, 6).
They were to turn away from the places of idolatry—Bethel, Gilgal, and Beersheba. God's judgment was to strike these places.

(2) Cease to pervert judgment (v. 7).
Turning judgment to wormwood implies the bitterness of the perversion of judgment to the injured.

(3) Cease to dethrone righteousness. Leaving off righteousness is thought to mean that unrighteousness was allowed to take its place. He now for the third time urged them to seek the Lord.

Praise the Lord

Good is the Lord—his loving kindness and his tender mercy are beyond all my thought! I will therefore praise him loudly, sweetly, with my whole heart, and with the buoyancy of ecstatic love.—Joseph Parker.

Fulton County Fair Week

Great Crowds Attend Daily To View the Displays and See the Races. Big Night Show Pleasing Feature.

Fair week started off with a remarkably large crowd considering weather conditions, and everybody seemed thoroughly well pleased with the exhibitions and amusements provided. Tuesday was Ladies' Day and beauty reigned supreme.

Every effort has been made by the Fair Association to make this year's meet the best ever, and from every point of view they will not miss it. More and better free attractions and music everywhere. The big Rice Carnival Company are making a hit with their clean and entertaining attractions. This is one of the largest and best show companies on the road.

The live stock exhibit is good and the Agricultural Department, under the supervision of Amos Colley, is more artistically arranged this year than ever before. It is a wonderful exhibition, considering prevailing conditions throughout the country. County Agent Brown complimented the displays and said Fulton county was in much better shape than some other sections of country.

Floral Hall, under the supervision of Mrs. Leighman Browder, is unusually attractive. The superintendents and assistants in each department have worked over time to pass all former efforts in presenting an exposition worth while.

The articles on exhibition are above the average, and elicit many words of praise and appreciation.

Good Races

The harness races are probably better than for some years. The track on the first day was said to have been faster than for a number of seasons, and showed the care and work that had been expended on it.

The horses are unusually fine looking, and the knowing ones made some shrewd guesses as to which would come in under the wire in first place. There are a number of very fast heats each day, and some close decisions are made by the judges.

Poultry and Rabbit Show

Supt. Watkins is in his glory with one of the largest and finest poultry exhibitions ever witnessed in this section of the country. We didn't count them, but it looked like more than 1,000 birds were exhibited in the show. Every coop was in perfect order, and it is remarkable how neat and clean everything looked. A good display of rabbits was also exhibited. This is a new attraction Supt. Watkins has added to the department, and was cause for much favorable comment.

There is no denying it, this year's fair will go down in history as one of the best. The grounds never presented a lovelier appearance, and everybody in attendance is having a good time, day and night.

Attractive and Educational Displays

Some of the displays at the fair this year are unusually attractive as well as educational.

The Kentucky Hardware & Implement Co. are displaying the Oliver and Avery line of farm implements, Fordson Tractors, Springfield wagons, Fairbanks-Morse engines and corn crushers, Monarch field and poultry fence, better known as "Red Top," and the well known Enterprise stoves and ranges, Frigidaire and Maytag Washers.

The Fulton Hardware Co. is displaying the John Deere line of farm implements, tractors, wagons and engines, also the Southern field and poultry fencing, Majestic ranges and Allen's Parlor Furnace.

W. P. Felts Hardware Company is displaying the McCormick-Deering products of the International Harvester Co. line of farm implements, "Primrose" cream separators, engines and tractors, also the celebrated line of Charter Oak stoves and ranges.

The W. P. Felts Hardware Company has recently received notice that the McCormick-Deering Farmall tractor price has been cut $50 and are at once passing the information on to their customers with an advertisement in this paper telling you all about it. Don't fail to read the ad, it contains good news to the progressive farmer.

The Mitchell Machine and Electrical Company have an attractive display of Fairbanks & Morse machinery and electrical appliances. Let them give you a demonstration.

Under the grandstand the Graham Furniture Co. are entertaining the crowds with radio programs. They are displaying the Majestic, the "Mighty Monarch of the Air."

The concessions are extremely attractive, many of those which were so popular last season being again on the grounds, and the patronage seems to be even more general than formerly. The eating places seem to be fully as numerous as before and quite as well patronized, and the appetizing odors are every bit as enticing.

Night Show

The night show is a feature attraction of the show and great crowds are in attendance.

FULTON OFFICERS STAGE BIG BATTLE WITH RUM RUNNERS

Believe Large Liquor Running Ring Broken Up With Capture of Two

Hickman, Ky., Aug. 25.—Officers of three states were searching late today for Ernest McBee of Dyersburg, Tenn., who escaped in the convey car after Sheriff Goadler Johnson, of Fulton county, and his deputies had broken up what is said to be the largest whiskey running ring operating in this section, following a gun battle in which Mr. and Mrs. "Doc" Medley, of near Dyersburg, were captured with one automobile and 20 gallons of liquor. According to Sheriff Johnson, McBee is believed to be the head of the runners who have been operating in west Kentucky, west Tennessee and south-east Missouri with increasing boldness.

The sheriff's office had been investigating rumors for some weeks and being tipped off that a shipment was to be made they ambushed the cars on state highway No. 94, a few miles below Hickman.

Mrs. Medley, in one car with the liquor, was captured after a gun fight in which more than 50 shots were exchanged. Medley was captured later when he came back a second time to try to rescue his young wife. McBee is believed to have escaped into the Reelfoot lake region of Tennessee or across the river into Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Medley are being held in the Fulton county jail here. Efforts are being made to trace other members of the alleged ring, Sheriff Johnson said.

Labor Day

Value of Fair To Our People

Agricultural and Industrial Show for Both the Town and Country Folk

Besides, It Appeals to All of Us Who Want to Be Amused While We're Learning—Closer Touch With Home Lives of Neighbors

The fair is an educational clearing house. It is an agricultural and industrial institute for residents of both town and country. It is a short course in better farming and better living. It is a physical demonstration of why the man who farms with his head instead of with his hands must inevitably succeed.

It is a comprehensive exhibition of what the ambitious boy or girl may achieve in agriculture, livestock raising, dairying, horticultural, home, gardening, domestic science or household economy. It is an exposition of the marvelous improvement in farm machinery and agricultural implements. It is an object lesson in the great part which improved machinery plays in the development and cultivation of the farm and the increased prosperity of the farmer.

Look for Yourself

The chief educational value of our fair lies in the fact that it is demonstrative in character. The eye is a more convincing instructor than the ear. We are slow to accept and believe in any new method until we have had optical proof of its superiority over the old.

Often it is difficult to obtain the attention of the busy man or woman long enough to give such a demonstration. Not infrequently it happens that farmers who would be most benefited by better methods of farming are not sufficiently interested to be present at any special meeting called for the purpose of discussing the subject.

But the fair appeals to that trait of mankind which demands entertainment and amusement and becomes a common forum for the discussion of all matters having to do with agriculture, industry, the home and the school.

In this clearing house of education, the farmer learns what the manufacturer, the merchant and the banker are and have been doing to make his labor less arduous and his farm more profitable and the town resident learns what rapid progress is being made in agriculture. A bond of common interest is created which means much to both town and country.

Value to Everybody

The farmer learns by actual observation of the newest devices and improvements in agricultural implements. He finds out their use and benefits. He learns in what way they assist in soil cultivation, in plant growth, in sowing, in harvesting, in threshing. He learns the economic value of the more modern machinery, of the silo, of motor power on the farm.

The urban dweller is furnished a vivid picture of the agricultural resources of the community. He learns about the fertility of the soil in the vicinity; of what is being done to increase the farm yield; to improve the quality of the stock, and to multiply the total dairy product.

Every man and woman, whether town or country resident, is brought into closer touch with the home life of others. All imbibe that broader education which means cooperation—that ideal education which is service to self and all humanity.

YOUNG GIRL TAKES POISON

Virola Barnett, 17, Dies at Home Near Hickman After Swallowing Lysol

Hickman, Ky., Aug. 25.—Reprobed by her mother and ordered to stay in the house while her father was sent for to lecture her, Miss Virola Barnett, age 17 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barnett, of Phillippy, a few miles west of Hickman, took a large quantity of lysol and died within 30 minutes. Dr. Hollifield, of Tiptonville, was called but was unable to save the girl. She had been working in the Charles L. Phillippy general store and had been despondent because her parents were strict and would not allow her to go out much according to Sheriff Damon Heddon, of Lake county. Funeral serv-

Brieflets

A lot of folks around Fulton seem to think that thrift consists in meeting their installment payments on time.

Our idea of foresight would be taking a wrecking car along with you when you start out motoring on Sunday.

The filling station boys now do everything except look to see if your hair needs another coat of grease.

A Fulton woman may appreciate a husband who helps her with the dishes but she could appreciate him more if he made enough for her to hire a cook.

About the only person we know of who doesn't feel pleased when asked to call again is the bill collector.

The difference between age and youth is that when you are young you long for things to happen, and when you are old you hope they won't.

The Fulton chap who thinks the horse is man's best friend evidently never had a bet on one of them.

It is said that single girls buy more silk stockings than married ones. Maybe their mileage is greater.

Before Mussolini goes much farther in nagging France we suggest that he take a run up to Holland and have a talk with the ex-Kaiser.

Some Fulton wives are more anxious to brag about what they have bought with their husband's money than they are to be able to brag about the husbands themselves.

The old-fashioned girl who looked for a mate now has a daughter who is trying to hook a bank account.

The only known remedy for love at first sight is second sight—and that doesn't come until after marriage.

Most every married woman in Fulton is glad to listen to what her husband has to say providing he is talking in his sleep.

Maybe the reason why our forefathers seemed more law-abiding than the present generation was because they had fewer laws to break.

Every time a wife develops political ambitions another husband has to learn to push the can-opener around.

Times haven't changed much. Older Fulton citizens tell us that there was just as loud complaint about the high cost of living in the days when the grocer would stick an Irish potato on the spout of the coal-oil can.

If women only had as much faith in their husbands as they have in beauty treatments there would be fewer divorces in this country.

REVIVAL BEGINS AT FIRST METHODIST SEPTEMBER 7th

Dr. A. W. Myres, of Gainesville, Fla., who is one of the outstanding preachers of the Florida Conference, will do the preaching. He preaches to packed houses in his own church, and will attract a large audience to hear him in Fulton.

Mr. H. M. Scott, who has been in the evangelistic field as a song leader for some fifteen years, and besides his ability as a chorus choir leader, is a splendid solo singer, will conduct the song services of the revival.

Trend to Beautification of National Highways

The highways have become America's playground, where millions of motorists spend their leisure hours in search of restfulness, beauty and charm. The necessity and demand for combining beauty with utility has become more pronounced with the growth of tourist traffic in recent years.

The application of purely utilitarian standards in highway construction meets engineering and economic requirements, but the motorist who seeks recreation in his automobile is cheated out of the natural beauty which belongs to him, the American Motorist's association declares.

There is a growing and insistent demand for beautification of national highways. California, Massachusetts and Connecticut have demonstrated how much can be done, at small cost, to beautify the road-sides by judicious planting of native trees, shrubs and perennial flowers.

Congress already has recognized the need for highway beautification by authorizing expenditure of federal funds in co-operation with the states, for roadside tree planting. This law was approved May 21, 1928, more than a year ago, but to date the bureau of public roads, which has charge of the fund, has not been asked to authorize an expenditure or to co-operate in a single roadside planting project.

No Need to Sacrifice

All Beauty for Utility

When our ancestors came to this continent they found it covered with the forest primeval, a spectacle whose beauty will never again be looked upon by human eyes. Civilization leveled the forests to make way for homes. That was unavoidable. Cities sprang up. They kept their trees until traffic congestion necessitated their removal. The greater part of the natural beauty one finds en route today is along the waysides beyond corporate limits. The preservation of this beauty from the blight of commercialization is essential to the preservation of the love of the beautiful in the nation, with its refining and humanizing influences. Gas stations and hot-stands may be necessary to feed motorists and motorists on the highway, but even they can be made attractive externally.—Detroit Free Press.

Appearance Important

Regardless of how attractive the interior of a house may be, it is generally judged by the prospective buyer from its exterior appearance, and very often well-constructed houses, containing every imaginable feature as an inducement, are drugs on the market, simply because the builder gave little thought to the outside. Generally speaking, the builder gives a great deal of attention to exterior details. With the keen competition in the dwelling field, the operative builder must be on his toes constantly. Let him wake up some morning and find that his operation which he thought was just right is not appealing to the buying public, which is not the same type that was so common ten years ago.

Proper Care of Lawn

Begin to mow the lawn when the new grass is about three to four inches high. From then on, mow the lawn regularly, keeping it mowed to a height of two inches.

Mow frequently enough so that the clippings are short and may be left on the lawn. They dry up and settle around the root where they decay and form humus. If they are long they must be raked off, as heavy clippings left on the lawn smother the grass. Particular care must be taken not to leave long clippings on the lawn in wet weather.

Citizens Asked to Help

The park commission, named by the town council of Federalburg, Md., to develop and beautify the municipal park grounds, donated to the town by Mayor T. H. Chambers, issued a general call for men with axes, saws, wagons and a willingness to work in an effort to have the 18 acres of ground, part of which is woodland, cleared ready for further beautifying and future use. The commission has planned for a roofed space for community gatherings and a swimming pool, with space for tennis courts and possibly a baseball field.

Aims to Clean Streets

A non-partisan organization, called the Clean Streets by Clean Methods club, has been formed in New York city to keep the streets clear of the litter of papers, etc., that the public throws about. About 500 citizens have joined, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Arthur Claflin, Mrs. Kent Cooper, Mrs. Charles Austin Bryant, and Miss Adelaide Stedman.

Build Home Wisely

One home in a lifetime is about all the average man builds. For that reason he should be certain that it is well built and of materials that will last. For reasons of economy he should be equally certain that his home is assured all the qualities of permanence that make for saving in maintenance costs and delay in deterioration.

"A Glimpse Into Paradise"

By HELEN R. BARTON

EMMELINE'S fingers and toes had reached the stage where she wouldn't have noticed the prince of Wales had he suddenly appeared before her. But, as a matter of fact, the young man who finally pushed open the door to the doctor's study that day, wind-swept January day, was about as remotely different from the celebrated perfection of manhood as Ethel Barrymore is from a Zulu princess.

There were a few coats in the open grate, and Emmeline had flung her snowshoes into the hall and had crouched over the fire, striving to ease the painful numbness that had driven her from her snowshoeing. Eventually she had become aware that her feet were paining her. So, with little success, she had tried to force her numbed fingers to the task of unfastening the lead rawhide laces of her high boots.

"I say, let me help you, won't you? You seem to be having a whole lot of trouble with those knots." And the young man stooped and unfastened the boot laces, removed the boots, and then, with business-like efficiency, advised her to get some warm water and try soaking her hands and rubbing them with a rough towel. Gratefully, Emmeline went to do his bidding. Ten minutes later, her father, being absent, she went back to his office to chat with the strange young man until the doctor should return from his calls. To her utter amazement, she discovered the young man there in a dead faint.

Emmy's knees shook as she went about the swift business of restoring the young man. The scars on his cheek and forehead told of either a war injury or some other accident or injury, perhaps causing the faint powdering of gray hairs at the temple, while the rest of his hair was raven black.

He stirred at last and smiled wanly up at her. Emmeline flashed him a warmly friendly smile and said softly: "You mustn't try to get up; you don't want me to have all that to go through again, do you? You scared me nearly out of my wits!"

Solely the young man turned his gaze toward the fire as he said softly: "So many of my pals have felt out of the way, since the war finished things for some of us that I'm just another square peg, I suppose? And I simply couldn't understand how I came to feel that one is a burden!"

Who? demanded Emmy fiercely, "ever made you feel so? Just tell me the name, please, and I'll give him just one chance to tell me what kind of strychnine he prefers, that's all." And Emmy's soft blue eyes flashed such wrath and fire that Link Schofield smiled back at her in a most disarming, little-boy sort of way. They were in the midst of Link's war experiences when Doctor Kingsbury returned and Emmy departed hastily at her father's unmistakable "high sign."

She thought often of Link in the days that followed, but he did not come again, and Emmeline finally decided that he hadn't cared about what she had said, or how she had looked—to drop into her life so casually, and so easily drop out again. So she thought that she had hardened her heart against him, and she occupied herself with her flowers, her garden, her music and whatever came her way as the long days drifted by.

Then, one day, Emmy happened to look up from her gardening (she was transplanting pansies), and there he was staring at her over the garden wall. And as quickly as she had looked up, he was gone down the street. For a blank moment she gazed after him, and then, casting discretion to the fur winds, she sprinted after him very much like a schoolgirl. Catching up with him, she said: "Do you mean to say you'd go right by my house without even speaking to me? You ought to be ashamed!" Propelled by her eager hands he was soon back inside the garden, sitting on a shabby old bench, watching her working in the warm, moist earth.

Of a sudden a thought struck Emmeline. Turning swiftly, she looked straight into Link's troubled eyes and said: "Have you been here before?"

Startled, he flushed painfully and said: "Yes—sometimes."

"Then—you came by on the hope of seeing me—Link?" she persisted gently.

"Yes," he confessed, "it was like a glimpse into Paradise!" He looked off beyond the distant horizon as though to find surcease for the pain in his eyes.

"But, Link—" she protested. "Can't you see," he grated harshly, "that nothing like that is for me? That I might have lived to ninety, but might not finish out five years more?"

"But those five years," she persisted unhappily, "wouldn't they be worth it?"

"It wouldn't be fair to you," he said gruffly, "even if you could care for such a wreck—"

"Ah, Link," she cried, "only those who dare to push the door open ever get into Paradise; the rest stand outside, peering in! Don't make me open the door for you!"

With a muttered exclamation, he gathered her tenderly into his hungry arms, scarcely daring to believe his happiness.

RADICAL CHANGES TRANSFORM BANKING

National Commission Sees Changing Opinion on Branch Banking Issue—Studies Group and Chain Banks.

NEW YORK.—Modification of the attitude of bankers on the long disputed branch banking question is forecast in a review and report covering rapid changes going on in banking issued here by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The report, however, after referring to recent proposals that national banks be given branch banking powers within the business territory surrounding their location, declares that "we do not believe that so-called 'trade-area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

The commission says that the "most important development that has affected American banking in recent years involves the rapid growth of multiple banking organizations in the form of group, chain and branch banking systems," and adds that "we present this report as an unprejudiced economic study and have no theories or policies to urge at this time." The statement says that the commission's information indicates there are now 259 group or chain bank systems, which control 1922 banks and $15,285,000,000 in aggregate resources, and that there are only six states and the District of Columbia where it does not find any group organizations.

The Commission's Investigation "We have been in touch with the managers of many important bank groups," the report says. "Aside from the obvious economies of centralized operation and control a number of these organization heads very frankly tell us that they do not feel that the system has been in operation and tested long enough to justify them in making positive or sweeping statements as to its advantages or disadvantages compared to unit banking."

The Banking and Currency Committee of the House, which is conducting an investigation into banking developments, has called a number of operating heads of some of the great group systems. These men declared that they found, under certain conditions, definite operating and economic advantage in both group and branch banking over independent unit banking. Some thought group banking was only a transitional stage, that branch banking was preferable and it were permitted on an extensive enough scale they would change their groups over to branch systems. Others held that group banking was preferable.

"Some held that the ideal plan was a combination of the two with group bank units for localities strong enough to support complete banking institutions and with branch offices extending further into the smaller places requiring banking services but not large enough to support complete banks. Several of these who advocated multiple banking declared that nevertheless they believed there would always be room for vigorous independent unit bank competitors."

Government Officials Express Views "The Comptroller of the Currency recommended that national banks be given branch banking powers within 'trade-areas.' The Governor of the Federal Reserve Board appeared to be in general agreement with the Comptroller. He said there were 24,645 banks and 3,547 branches, a total of 28,192 banking offices; that in this total, 6,353 offices were either branches or bank members of groups, or both, leaving 21,839 banking institutions that might be definitely termed independent unit banks, having no branches and in no way connected with group affiliations. He said all the banks had total loans and investments of $58,500,000,000, of which the group and branch systems held $30,000,000,000, or more than half."

"He opposed nation-wide branch banking at present but said that ultimately if bankers became trained and experienced in the larger technique of 'trade-area' banking he thought it would in time evolve nation-wide branch banking under control of relatively few banks, but he did not believe this would mean monopoly or lack of competition. He favored branch over group banking which, however, he said represented an economic development along 'trade-area' lines and would spread unless something else were substituted and thought 'trade-area' branch banking would serve this purpose."

"It is the intention of the Commission to develop its own studies in these questions, watch carefully every move that is made and every bit of information that may develop in this connection and keep itself prepared to give an unbiased and accurate statement of the facts of the case whenever that is desired," the report concludes.

Federal Reserve Pays Government

In the fifteen years since its establishment in 1914, aggregate net earnings of the Federal Reserve System's twelve regional banks have amounted to $515,216,000, of which $90,672,000 has been paid to the member banks as dividends, representing 6 per cent annually on their contributions of capital to the reserve banks, while $277,434,000 has been added to the surplus of the reserve banks and $147,110,000 has been paid over to the Federal Government as a franchise tax.

The marriage was one of the big events of the week. But everything did not go too well.

"Yes," said Marian, "she was furious about the way her marriage was reported."

"Why, did it allude to her age?" asked Grace.

"Indirectly. It stated that Miss Brown and Mr. Wallace were married, the latter being a well-known collector of antiques."

Safe Supervision

"Have you been up in an airplane?" "Not yet," answered Senator Sorghum. "There are a lot of transportation matters involved in legislation in which I can interest myself without physical risk. The only safe place from which to supervise traffic of one kind or another is at a mahogany desk."—Washington Star.

"What! You buying that cheaper gas?" exclaimed the owner of a cheap bus.

"Certainly," returned the owner of the straight eight, "this kind of a car doesn't need expensive gas to make it run."

"What do you regard as the highest duty of an ideal patriot?"

"To watch his politics," said Senator Sorghum, "so that his patriotic idealism can still be on the job in case an emergency arises."—Washington Star.

WEAR A SMILE AND BOOST FOR FULTON

This is Fair week and the city is crowded with visitors.

It is a wonderful opportunity for every loyal citizen to be a booster and put forth his best efforts in entertaining our guests and extending them such a warm welcome as they never received before.

It would not be out of place to meet the strangers and show them over the residential part of the city as well as the business section. Few towns in the state the size of Fulton has prettier homes with well kept premises than we have. We don't realize or fully appreciate our surroundings until we visit other towns. The building of new homes and remodeling old ones, with the paint and clean up activities in recent years easily places Fulton among the pretty towns of the state and we should not be slow to let the outside world know it.

It is the little things that count to make an impression on the stranger. No one expects to go to a town and be royally entertained, but some of us could throw out more inducements and make better impressions than we have been doing.

When strangers and newcomers arrive in our town, it is every citizen's duty to show them every polite attention that is in their power, and when that person goes from Fulton, many people will hear them say: "Fulton is the finest town I was ever in, in my life. If I ever get a chance to make a move, right to Fulton I'm going."

If they never come back they tell strangers about the town and their good wishes and praise go on to one another.

Another thing people should do—spend all their money that they possibly can with their home merchants, to enable them to handle the highest class of goods possible, for unless we stand by our home people, how can we expect them to stand by us?

And if we don't help to build up our town, how can we expect strangers to plunge in where there seems no opening?

With Godly love in our hearts and good wishes for everyone, and "get-up-and-get" in our heads and hands, we can make Fulton just what we want it to be and what the rising generation will be proud to call "Home, Sweet Home."

WORK PROGRESSING
NICELY ON FULTON-
MARTIN ROAD

Contractors are now at work with large crews surfacing the Fulton-Martin highway with concrete. When completed this will give Fulton another concrete surfaced highway.

Work on concrete surfacing Highway 51 between Fulton and Wickliffe is progressing nicely. Several miles have been completed and open for traffic near Bardwell and it will not be long before the entire route will be finished.

On Jeff Davis Highway 45 between Fulton and Paducah work of concreting six miles near Paducah will soon be completed and open for traffic. The detour via Melber is a good gravel road but narrow in some places.

Many laborers are now at work in this vicinity on the roads and the prospects for a revival of good fall business is flattering.

FARMALL PRICE REDUCED!

We have just received a big piece of power farming news—the McCormick-Deering FARMALL price has been cut $50, and we are at once passing the information on to our customers. The Harvester Company's announcement says:

"We are glad to be able to make a reduction in the FARMALL tractor price at this time because right now the farmer is seriously in need of anything that will help him to cut down his costs of crop production.

"Due to manufacturing economics and anticipated reductions in material costs, we were able to reduce prices on the McCormick-Deering implement lines, effective for the present season.

"Recently, by the same process, we lowered the price on the 10-20 McCormick-Deering tractor $40, and cut the 15-30 tractor price $75.

"Now, to complete our program of reductions, we announce a $50 cut in the price of the FARMALL.

"These price reductions, made during recent months, mean a saving to farmers of millions of dollars.

"As the original all-purpose tractor the McCormick-Deering FARMALL has won tremendous popularity. More than 100,000 FARMALLS have been built. Already this tractor has created a real revolution in farming. It is the best investment a farmer can make.

You have probably seen the FARMALL Tractor at work. If not, we will demonstrate it at any time, on any job. The FARMALL replaces 6 to 10 horses and 2 to 3 men. It plows 7 to 9 acres a day . . . double disks 18 to 25 acres . . . drills up to 45 acres . . . plants 24 to 46 acres . . . cultivates 33 to 50 acres and, in later cultivatings, 50 to 65 acres. It handles every farm power job, including row-crop operations. Put the best tractor power to work now—at the new FARMALL price!

THE WORKERS

September brings a holiday that is generally endorsed, even though it may not be generally celebrated. Labor Day strikes a note of approval with every worker, whether he is identified with the organized labor movement or not. Here in Fulton where the laboring man is not as a rule identified with an organization of his craft, he nevertheless feels there could be no nobler sentiment than setting aside a day each year on which the nation can pay tribute to its greatest asset—the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. Labor Day is not a time for honoring organized workers only. It is a good time to honor every man who works and produces and thus insures this country's future.

We have far to go yet before we have produced enough to meet the demands of our own people. There are still over 7,000,000 families in the United States without autos. In our cities alone, not counting the farm population, there are over 4,000,000 families without bathtubs; over 3,000,000 without kitchen sinks or plumbing of any kind; over 13,000,000 without telephones; over 20,000,000 without radio sets and over 4,000,000 living in homes not wired for electricity. Add to this the millions on our farms who are sooner or later going to be in position to secure these things, and you have even then only a faint idea of what labor must produce to take care of the needs and desires of our own people.

The celebration of Labor Day should mean much to every one of us, whether we live in city, town or on the farm. It helps to keep before the world the important fact that the most important citizen of the nation still is "the man in the overalls." He built it; he has maintained it, and its future rests on his shoulders.

MRS. ERNEST ARRINGTON
MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

Remains brought to Her Old Home Near Fulton for Interment.

Mrs. Ernest Arrington, 30 years old, was fatally hurt in an automobile accident Saturday night at midnight, just out of Murray, about five miles on Murray-Mayfield Highway.

Mrs. Arrington and her husband were on their way from their home in Akron, Ohio, to visit her mother, Mrs. Ed. Bondurant, in Fulton, when the car struck loose gravel that was piled in the center of the road. The car swerved and turned over in a ditch. Mrs. Arrington was cut about the face and head and suffered internal bruises that caused her death about 4 o'clock Sunday morning at the Mason hospital. Mr. Arrington was not hurt seriously. The body was brought to Fulton and funeral services and burial were held at Liberty church Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Fulton Undertaking company had charge of the burial.

Mrs. Arrington is survived by her husband, mother, two brothers and one sister, and a host of friends.

Dyer County Highways Scene of Accident Series.

Dyersburg, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Dyer County highway automobile accidents for the week, which took a toll of two lives and injured six others seriously, ended Saturday night with a crash on the Finley Road when Horace Harvey, employee of the Daily State Gazette, suffered a broken ankle and other injuries.

T. G. Golden, 55, prominent farmer, and Miss John Ella Hilliard, 24, school teacher, were the two killed. Mr. Golden died Wednesday night, 24 hours after his car was run into by some negroes, and Miss Hilliard was killed Friday afternoon when her car crashed with a bus.

In these two wrecks Mrs. Golden, wife of Mr. Golden, and Miss Hilliard's mother, Mrs. C. D. Hilliard, 55, were seriously hurt. Miss Bessie Lee Harris, Ridgely, Albert Markham, Tiptonville, and Mrs. Maynie Bess Shelton, Nashville, all occupants of the same car, were seriously hurt Sunday afternoon when their machine turned over near town.

Horace Harvey, who suffered a broken ankle and other injuries, formerly lived in Fulton.

Luke Reilly Says, "The Rat Died Before Reaching the River."

"Since moving near the river 2 years ago, we've always used RAT-SNAP. Watched a vicious water rat, nibbling at RAT-SNAP outside the house. (Famous Trainer and Coach of the Central High School, Washington, D. C.)

TRAINING theories are all right, I guess. Surely, I've had my share. But in the long run, I've found that helping Nature along, instead of trying to change her or improve on her, is just about the best policy. I've seen all kinds of lads come into my gym—

little ones, big ones, skinny
ones, and fat ones—and I have found that the boys who turned out best were the ones who were allowed

to develop normally, without any high pressure pushing beyond their natural limits.

Unlike
trainers
in colleges,
the material I get is completely
"raw"; and sometimes it's cruder than one would imagine. My boys are just commencing to take up some form of track athletics, and nearly all of them are woefully ignorant of what to eat or how to treat their bodies.
Realizing this, and also the further fact that if they do develop into record breakers it will be later, in their college years, I never hurry them. I am proud of the fact that I have never "burned out" an embryonic athlete—never hurried a boy along so fast that he was kept from reaching his full stride later in life.

In thirty-four years you get a huge respect for the part the stomach plays in a youngster's development. Mistreat the stomach, and his whole development is retarded. A growing boy, eating as he will all sorts of things, should have plenty of cellulose in his food. By that I mean the roughage or bulk that is supplied by leafy and fibrous vegetables and certain cereals. These latter, I have observed, are most popular with adolescents; and they do offer one of the best methods of getting this necessary cellulose into the system, provided that they have the necessary cellulose to give the required "vegetable effect."

found some of the poorest physical specimens to be representatives of the richest families, while some of the finest types were sons of relatively poor folk.

My greatest joy is taking an undernourished, spindly youngster and trying to develop him into a normal being. I remember one such boy a few years ago. When he first came out for track he looked hopeless. He wanted to be a jumper. I suggested some light work and a carefully balanced diet weighted with cellulose content. This gave Nature a chance,

and in his last year, this
"weakling" jumped 6 feet 1 inch,
and looked like a different boy. Nature has provided all the foods needed for building sturdy bodies and

abounding health.
Take cereals for example. All boys eat some kind of a cereal for breakfast. This is just what they need, as long as that cereal has the needed bulk to supply the body with a "vegetable effect." I know that one of the most popular cereals with my boys is whole rice. I can easily understand this, for it is extremely palatable, and the smooth bulk it furnishes never injures the stomach as do some of the other cereals with a rougher fibre content.

I have found that youngsters are even more serious and willing to follow suggestions than many more mature and seasoned athletes. They like to be put on their own. It gives them a feeling of responsibility, and makes them conscious that you have faith in their judgment.

I sat down the other night and made out a list of boys who have gained sufficient distinction under me to go into colleges and universities on full scholarships. I could remember nearly 450, including among others, "Big" Jones, Bernie Webers, Charlie Sykes, Arthur Duffy, Paul Cox, John Holden, Paul Magoffin, Maxey Long and Calvin Milans, the latter being the first 15-year-old boy to high jump 6 feet 1 inch in competition.
That's quite a list, and just goes to prove that Nature is the best trainer of all—if you only will get her to work with you.

EDITOR'S NOTE

"Bill" Foley, justly called the Dean of American track, has done more to place secondary school athletics on their present high plane than probably any other trainer in the annals of sport. We asked him to give us the benefits of his 34 years experience in improving the physical well-being of thousands of boys. We believe his story is one of the most interesting and helpful it ever has been our privilege to present.

High is a public school, so we get the gym is the great common denominator. There they are all just "boys," and there I have
