NUMBER THIRTY-THREE

SUIT FILED BY LADDS IN AUTO-TRAIN CRASH

Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Ladd of Fulton filed suits asking a total of $80,700 from the Illinois Central System in the McCracken Circuit Court late Monday afternoon. Ground for the suit was an automobile-train crash in Fulton, December 22, 1938, in which Mrs. Willie Jolley, wife of E. M. Jolley, was killed, and Mrs. Ladd received injuries, which it was feared at first would be fatal.

In the suit, which was filed by Mrs. Ladd, damages of $50,000 were asked for personal injuries. She stated that her jaw was crushed, her back broken, and she received a fractured collar bone and arm. She said that she will be handicapped for life and that she still goes to a hospital for treatments.

Rev. Ladd, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church here, filed suit for $25,000 for the "loss of the society of my wife." Another $5,000 is asked for hospital and doctor bills, and $700 for his car, which he stated was demolished.

The suits were submitted in the office of the McCracken circuit clerk by Holland G. Bryan, Paducah attorney.

Following the crash the railroad company conducted an investigation, although no coroner's inquest was held. The accident occurred about 3 p.m. The limited train, running from New Orleans to Chicago, knocked the Ladd car about 300 feet. Mrs. Jolley was killed instantly. Eye witnesses stated that the car seemed to stall on the tracks in the path of the train.

Attorney Bryan stated that a suit against the railroad company can be filed in any county in which the company operates and, therefore, it was not necessary to file the suit in this county.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE AT SOUTH FULTON

Football practices were under way at the South Fulton School this week, as the game was reorganized again there for the first time in nearly a decade. Supt. W. H. Cravens stated this week. Mr. Cravens is coach and is ably assisted by J. C. Goode. The new 6-man football team will be innovated there this year, and plans are being formulated to establish this type of football at other schools in this section. It is pointed out by Mr. Cravens that the average high school of the smaller communities must adopt this plan if they expect to operate a football team, due to the lack of enough material from which to build the usual 11-man squad.

Those out for practice this week were as follows: Dayton Sanders, Bruce Buchanan, Tom Edwards, Royce Lee Dyer, Harold Wells, Wendell Coffman, Robert Vancil, Millard Luther, Bud Parham, Bill Parham, Jerry Jones, Harlan Hogg, Brooks Oliver, Jewell Greer, Leon Faulkner, Harold Frankum, L. REQUEST FOR LOCAL LIGHT PLANT REFUSED BY P.W.A.

Word was received here last week that the request made by the city of Fulton for federal funds to finance the construction of a municipal light and power plant and improvements in the locally owned waterworks had been denied by the Public Works Administration, because of the lack of funds.

The city council applied last year for a $142,000 loan and grant for the light and power plant and $40,000 to apply on the waterworks system. Local voters approved a bond issue for the erection of the light plant last November and a PWA grant was needed to supplement the funds that might be obtained in a bond issue. No plans have been made to seek other financing for the projects.

In 5,043 applications made throughout the country, 19 Kentucky projects were returned to their sponsors. Among these was a request made by the Fulton Board of Education for $85,225 to erect a new school building.

732 STUDENTS ENROLLED IN SCHOOLS MONDAY

While the enrollment had been almost evenly divided, this is the first year that the division has been exactly the same.

Enrollment for the city was as follows, Fulton High, 200; Carr Institute, 343; Terry Norman, 75; Milton Colored school, 114.

Only twenty-four students are now enrolled in the ninth and tenth grades of the colored school, and unless an average daily attendance of thirty can be maintained, Supt. Lewis will be instructed to discontinue these grades.

PAYROLL OF FULTON FACTORY HAS GROWN

Shirt Factory Would Employ 200 More Workers

Since the Henry I. Seigel Garment Company opened here nearly three years ago, both the payroll and the number employed has steadily grown until today approximately 300 people work at the local plant. Of that number most are women, but some 25 men are employed in the shipping room and at other tasks.

The Seigel company also has a plant at Dickson, Tenn., which is operating at capacity. In order to take care of increasing demands for garments manufactured by this concern, steady additions have been made at the Fulton plant. Recently it has been necessary to work a night shift in order to meet production demands. Five units are now in operation, and installation of other equipment will soon take up the remaining floor space available in the present building.

For some time now there has been a need for addition to the building in order to install equipment for manufacturing shirts. Mr. Seigel has conferred with local officials on the matter and it has been pointed out that this shirt factory would mean the employment of about 200 more workers.

The personnel of the factory management is composed of the following: Leo Greengrass, manager sewing department; Maurice Ferrell, shipping and business department; Mrs. Jessie McIntyre, payroll clerk and office; Miss Irene Beaver, shipping clerk; Miss Martha Maupin, assistant payroll clerk; Mrs. Eula Younger, Mrs. Luna Bowlin, Mrs. Mattie Jones, instructors; Bessie Arnold, Virginia Weatherspoon, Wilmoth Gosson, Janet Penicost, utility supervisors.

YMBC ENJOYS LODGESTON DINNER

Members of the Young Men's Business Club of Fulton enjoyed a delightful dinner with the Lodgeston Homemakers Club Tuesday night. This was the first dinner meeting ever held by the business club with a rural organization, and it is hoped that others will follow. A large percentage of the membership turned out, and the hospitality of the homemakers was enjoyed and praised by all.

A business meeting was held following the delightful meal, with Foad Homra presiding in the absence of the president, Billy Blackstone. Secretary Parker called the roll with forty-three members present, and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Messrs. Holland and Carter, members of the Fulton high school faculty, talked on the football season now opening. The Young Men's Club voted to sponsor a game to be played here October 27 with Cadiz, Ky. A committee was named to prepare a program for that event. Coach Carter gave a summary of football at Fulton High this season, including the schedule of games, and how the team was expected to line up this year.

A final report was made upon the band program, which was sponsored this summer by various civic clubs, by which Yewell Harrison, bandmaster, conducted practices during the summer months for $300. The total subscribed was ten dollars short of this amount, and the club made up the difference.

Treasurer Bertie Pigue gave a report upon the financial status of the club. Inasmuch as membership dues have been permitted to lag recently, members were requested to pay up to date.

Plans for the renewal of bingo parties again this fall were discussed, and the committee met after the regular meeting to arrange to start these games next Thursday, September 21. They will be held at Lowe's Rainbow Room each Thursday night.

M. L. Parker, club secretary, announced that the semi-annual election of officers will be held at the next meeting on September 26.

ICE-CREAM SUPPERS

When ice cream was a luxury rather than a part of many normal meals, it was great sport to go miles across country to an ice-cream supper. Though this function is hardly dead as yet, it has so changed that I can write its obituary. It has been some fifteen years since I last attended one that had all the earmarks of the one and only genuine.

Most ice-cream suppers were ostensibly to raise money for some worthy cause, usually school or church. The women of the community contributed eggs, milk, sugar and flavoring. Sometimes I have seen the cream made by dumping all of these, raw, into a freezer; I have even eaten such. Stylish ones cooked the materials into a custard, and chilled the custard in the well or cistern, along with the milk, using coolers especially designed for the spring or cistern. Some boy or man was dispatched to the county seat to get ice and some other things that went along with ice cream: candy, chewing gum, cigars, soda pop, crackerjack. Meanwhile the women cooked tea cakes and other cookies to be served with the cream.

The great day arrived. Dusty buggies and wagons hove into sight. The stands had been built; the ice cream was being manufactured in freezers. The other things were laid out, beyond the reach of bad boys, in the stands. Often a barker stood a few yards away and called the attention of the crowd to what could be bought. One such boy that I knew smoked the fine cigars that others could buy merely by stepping up. Much-envied boys or men ran the stands. I always wanted to be one of these and actually became one a few times. It increased one's social standing considerably among the smaller boys.

Soda pop used to come in heavy bottles with a queer stopper. It almost hurt the hand to press down the stopper slowly; to hit it suddenly caused an explosion. One was sure to get some of the colored water and sugar and flavoring on his Sunday-go-to-meeting shirt.

The ice cream was the big thing, of course. It was served in saucers, with tea cakes added. Once when I was selling cream, a boy ate three saucers in rapid succession, and walked off without paying, just as a joke on the stand. My dignity has not yet recovered from that affront. Boys who had a few extra dimes treated their girls. Some boys were either too stingy or too poor to spend anything. We fellows who ran the stands felt ashamed of them and sometimes told them so.

Candy was just candy then, nothing fancy. Stick candy was the kind most often sold. We had whole buckets of it in pound packages and sold it with considerable profiteering, though custom forbade our asking more than a nickel for a bottle of pop. Crackerjacks, often pretty stale, was devoured in great gobs. In each package was a prize, often kept indefinitely, some little metal toy or a small balloon, worth about five cents a hundred.

The numerous things we sold were just extra. The real eating came with the dinner on the ground. By mid-afternoon we could count on seeing several small children and sometimes older people who had eaten so much that they had become sick. Thus did we enjoy ourselves, creating lifelong stomach ailments for some of us.

IT'S TRUE!

By Wiley Padan

New York, N.Y.—"IT'S TRUE! that the largest number of midgets ever gathered together anywhere in the world, were assembled to play the Munchkins in M-G-M's 'The Wizard of Oz,'" says Wiley Padan. "Sixty-two shades of all possible colors were used in the large Munchkin Village set. The screen version of L. Frank Baum's famous story will be made in Technicolor. Mervyn Le Roy, producer, is planning to send the entire Village set to the New York World's Fair following completion of the picture."

"The Wizard of Oz" opens Sunday at the Fulton Theatre for a three days engagement.

SEPT. 30, DEAD LINE FOR CROP INSURANCE

The final date for acceptance of applications from Fulton county growers for Crop Insurance on the 1940 winter wheat crop is September 30, 1939, according to C. M. Hornsby, Chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

"Wheat growers who want to insure their crop should remember two things," said Mr. Hornsby. "First, they must apply for the insurance and pay the premium before their crop is seeded this fall. Second, we can't accept any applications, even if the crop hasn't been planted, after the general cut-off date of Sept. 30."

"Both requirements have been made for the good of insured growers as a whole," Mr. Hornsby commented. "Applications are to be filed before the crop is planted in order that all growers will be on the same basis with regard to the prospects of the crop. The cut-off dates limit the insurance to growers who get their applications in before the end of the normal planting season."

MUSIC, MARVELS AND FANTASY IN "WIZARD OF OZ"

Famed L. Frank Baum Story Comes to Fulton Screen With Comedy Cast

Engineering and photographic problems never before encountered in a motion picture went into the filming of "The Wizard of Oz", hailed as Hollywood's most ambitious musical spectacle since "The Great Ziegfeld." The picture, one hundred per cent musical and filmed in Technicolor, opens at the Fulton Theatre next Sunday for an engagement of 3 days.

New inventions in sound recording, color photography, make-ups which eliminated the uses of masks, music and lyric writing, costuming and special effects which are reported to be beyond solution were required to bring L. Frank Baum's famed story to the screen under the direction of Victor Fleming, remembered for his direction of "Captains Courageous" and "Test Pilot."

Heading the cast are Judy Garland as Dorothy, Frank Morgan as the Wizard, Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow, Jack Haley as the Tin Woodman, Bert Lahr as the Cowardly Lion, Billie Burke as Glinda the Good Witch, Margaret Hamilton as the Wicked Witch, Charley Grapewin as Uncle Henry, Pat Walshe as Nikko and Clara Blandick as Aunt Em.

In addition there is a remarkable trained dog, Toto, seen throughout the story; scores of midgets playing Munchkins; 10,000 inhabitants of the Emerald City; amazing trees which move and a total of sixty-five fantastic settings.

Although set to music with catchy tunes and memorable lyrics the story is the same as Baum wrote it, which makes it ideal for children and adults alike. It tells of how Dorothy, a Kansas farm girl, goes to the Land of Oz. There she meets a Scarecrow who wants brains, a Tin Woodman who wants a heart, and a Lion who wants courage. Dorothy, who has been running away from home to keep a mean school teacher from taking her pet dog, is carried to Oz by a cyclone. Once in Oz, she wants to get home. All set off to ask the Wizard for favors. After many exciting adventures, all three get what they wanted, by finding it was within their power all the time.

THE MEASURE OF A MAN

(Murray Ledger & Times)

Gems of thought are worthy of repeating, worthy of exemplifying, worthy of acquaintanceship because they are the condensed best of all that is noble in life.

So are qualities which are descriptive of the noblest men. A study of social philosophy perhaps would teach the view that one man in a thousand is independent, one man in ten thousand may be considered unusual, one man in a million great; and that the geniuses of the world, the crown of humanity, comes once in many hundred millions.

Just how would you measure a man? Just who composed the following simple treatise on the qualities of manhood does not matter, even if it were known, but into the quiet truth of its statements lies a world of wisdom. These are the units to measure the worth of a man, regardless of his birth:

Not—"How did he die?" But "How did he live?"

Not—"What was his station?" But "Had he a heart, and how did he do his God-given part?"

Not—"What did he gain," But "What did he give?"

Not—"Was he ever ready with a word of cheer, to bring back a smile, to banish a tear?"

Not—"What was his church?" nor "What was his creed?" But "Had he befriended those really in need?"

Not—"What did the sketch in the newspaper say?" But—"How many were sorry when he passed away?"

So long as Uncle Sam is throwing money out of the window, everybody grabs.

Weigh yourself on three different scales and then strike a balance. An old-fashioned girl is one who goes to bed while it's still dark.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

War is the important topic on the tongue of citizens these days. Although everything is being done to keep America out of it, if war continues for three years, our country will be drawn in within six months. Roger Babson, famed statistician, believes the U. S. will remain out of it until early 1941.

In the meantime, the war means better business, rising prices, higher wages, and more jobs in America. For the long-term, no matter who wins, the war means world inflation followed by poverty, revolution, and chaos for the combatant countries and another horrible depression for us.

America must awaken to the importance of keeping our own country well-balanced. It will have to be a miracle if, when the final effects of this new war are felt, we have been able to retain our democratic form of government. No one dares to predict the eventual outcome if our country is drawn into the war. Only a spiritual revival can ever haul the world out of the abyss into which it is rapidly sinking today. The outlook for civilization for the next 25 years is dismal.

Surely, we have learned our lesson from the last war. Hitler was made by the stupid European diplomacy of the twenties. Although our sympathies are with England and France, our first line of defense, we should not spill the blood of American youth to pull chestnuts out of the fire for these countries.

Roosevelt's program for national defense should be backed 100 per cent. We must defend this hemisphere from Hitler, Stalin, and Hirohito—they must not get even so much as a toehold in the Americas. The Monroe Doctrine must be enforced. Latin-America is our second line of defense and vitally more important than England and France in the European crisis.

In our own country we must watch the huge pump-priming expenditures, which has already broken the English pound, and is certain to damage the American dollar, unless a check-rein is held on this vital factor in maintaining internal equilibrium. Protection of our public credit and our dollar is our best defense against armed invasion. Let us protect our country and our dollar from within . . . in this way we can save democracy. Raids upon the public treasury by selfish pressure groups must be stopped. In the past decade we have spent twice what the first World War cost us.

In view of the European situation, we must cut all government expenses—local, state and federal—in order to protect our dollar and our public credit. And if we want to save America for democracy, let us kick out irresponsible labor dictators and their running mates—the cheap grafting politicians. Let America not forget God, as He has been forgotten in Europe. Let us be prepared to face the enemy with a clean government, a bulging treasury and a united people.

Jack Carter, coach at Fulton High went in for a new coaching job Tuesday night. Whether he knows all the angles about dish-washing we are not prepared to say, but the boys had to persuade him from the "kitchen" during the YMBC dinner at Logeston.

At our table, I was preparing to enjoy a cooling old-fashioned lemonade, made from a glass of ice water and sugar and lemons for ice tea which most of the bunch liked. Just when I got it all mixed good and ready to drink, M. L. Parker reached over with a pepper shaker and speckled it all over. When the ice cream was served I was tempted to salt his dish right good, but the cream was so good I decided it would be a shame to beat him out of such a treat.

We all figured that the husbands of the Logeston Homemakers must be mighty lucky fellows to have wives, who prepare such appetizing food as we had Tuesday night. It is said that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. If that is true, then these homemakers must have the right recipe.

INCLUSIVE PROTECTION

All of us have some realization of the value of life insurance to protect dependents, and to assure for ourselves an adequate old-age income. Comparatively few know that life insurance can also be used for a multitude of other vital tasks.

For example, policies are written to guarantee future education for children. Other policies will guarantee that a home mortgage be paid off, in the event of the wage earner's death. Others have been framed to care for contingencies that may arise from the death of a partner in a business enterprise. Others provide for protection against business reverses.

IT'S NOT FAIR

The Fulton merchant is being imposed upon by floating solicitors, who beg threaten or wheedle money out of them in the name of advertising. Many of these efforts are nothing more than a hold-up which the business man does not always know how to get around.

This promiscuous solicitation of merchants to pay for some sort of so-called "advertisement" on a program, curtain, fan, etc., is being looked upon with disfavor by the Chamber of Commerce and local business men. Usually this type of solicitation is done by an outsider who gets the biggest portion of the "contribution." Sometimes, after money has been received for such purpose, the proposed "advertising medium" is never carried out. This boils down to plain swindling.

Let's help take the business men of this city off the spot. Illegitimate solicitors should be scared off before they even start solicitations.

The average little business man of today, when he gets through mailing the long list of state, federal forms, paying his social security, buying licenses, paying county, state, federal graded school, city, water and income taxes, he has just about all the strain on his pocketbook that it will stand.

Every business needs well-planned legitimate advertising. This is vital to the growth and progress of business and our community. The local newspapers, as an important civic institution, is recognized as an outstanding medium of advertising and is used extensively by alert business firms throughout the nation. The local newspaper is constantly striving to build up and improve the community it serves. Anything that tends to tear down what local business firms are striving to build up, deserves the disapproval of the entire population.

It's not fair to impose upon local business by unfair practices.

"Humbleness is always grace; always dignity."—J. R. Lowell.

The London Daily Telegraph has joined the ranks of English newspapers which print news on the front page. Until recent years front pages of British papers were devoted entirely to advertisements.

The London Times and the Daily Mail still adhere to this ancient practice.

HISTORY OF EUROPE
TOLD BY McCORMICK

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

Victory at Manila Bay
"These first aroused our sympathy then our indignation, finally a veritable crusade to end them."

"An unexpected development in this war changed the international significance of the United States. At the time war broke out, an American fleet was in Hongkong, pursuing the leisurely, social life of the navy of that day. This fleet was ordered to attack a Spanish fleet in the Philippine Islands. It is fair to say that not one American in each hundred thousand had heard of the Philippine Islands. Their first information was the news that Dewey's fleet had sailed from Hongkong on its adventurous mission. It was before the days of wireless communication, and while Dewey's fleet was lost in the Pacific, the nation underwent an agony of suspense, suddenly to be electrified by the story of his decisive victory at Manila Bay."

"Now took place the incident which changed the entire aspect of American foreign affairs."

Germany Gets a Surprise.
"In 1896 America had been on the verge of another war with England over the latter's demands on Venezuela, when England had been compelled to abandon its belligerent attitude because of the Jameson raid in South Africa, which portended a South African war in which Germany expressed the deepest sympathy with the Boers."

"Germany, intent on extending its empire in the Pacific, was greatly surprised and chagrined in 1898 that the Cuban war led an American fleet and an American army to anticipate it in the Philippine Islands. A German fleet, superior in power to the American fleet, repaired to Manila harbor and began a series of provocations. American reinforcements were started to Manila. It was believed that the Germans would have forced the issue while still superior in strength but that the British fleet, much the strongest present, placed itself between the Germans and the Americans."

"This action, at a moment of great national emotion, turned against Germany the more than a century old bitterness entertained by Americans for England. The hostility was increased when German marines were landed in Venezuela in 1902 and withdrawn only because of a threatened attack by the American navy."

Nations Gain Prestige.
"Up to then in monarchies American ministers, as representatives of a republic, had been looked down upon by ambassadors representing kings, treated as inferiors, and had reacted to the disdain by pressing their country's interests with republican vigor."

"Now all this was to be changed. The power which had risen in the west became socially ambitious, sent ambassadors to the courts of Europe, and in imitation of the European monarchies, established a professional diplomatic service."

"Our ambassadors, for the most part, were not received cordially, but the new British foreign policy—to work with America—impelled the British ambassadors all over the world to stand sponsor for them, and render them every possible service. In that way the British foreign office substantially annexed the American state department."

Luxuries of Court Life
"The diplomats of Europe were enrolled from the aristocracy and, while carrying out the foreign policies of their respective nations, enjoyed the luxuries of court life. The American diplomats were now received into this life of official and social superiors. Americans primarily interested in this social advancement crowded into the diplomatic service."

"Since our diplomatic victories over England and Germany in the Venezuela affairs and the naval and military victory over Spain had caused all European nations to respect the Monroe Doctrine, our only foreign policy had been achieved."

"Our professional diplomats had nothing to do but to dance attendance at court, losing their republican principles and becoming, in effect, the agents in the American state department of the courts to which they were accredited."

Rendered Serviceable to Britain.

"By similar methods—by international marriages, by royal visits and by the skilful extending and withholding of invitations (which Sir Ronald Lindsay described as just like heaven—some are taken and some are left) to the embassy in Washington and the summer embassy in Newport—that nebulous, unorganized hierarchy known as society had also been rendered serviceable to British politics."

"The first result of the new order of diplomatic and social affairs was the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, under which it was proposed to give up sovereignty over the Panama canal, and give England treaty rights in this purely American enterprise."

"In the contest which later arose for control of American foreign policy the English diplomats outdistanced their rivals so far that when the world war broke out the American state department was enlisted vigorously on their side."

Situation Leads To War.
"While Mr. Wilson was campaigning for reelection on the platform of keeping us out of war, Mr. Lansing had stretched international law to the breaking point to lend aid to England, not only at the expense of the central powers, but at the expense of American interests. Eventually he produced a situation which brought us into the war, and changed a Franco-British defeat into victory."

"For services to Great Britain a tablet was erected in Westminster Abbey to American Ambassador Page—a tribute he shares with Maj. Andre, the seducer of Benedict Arnold."

"All this was followed by terrible peace treaties. France, after four years with enemy armies on its soil, its towns bombed, its country filled with undesired, but indispensable allied troops tried to protect the revenue itself by first rendering Germany helpless and then by keeping it blind white."

Germany Carved Up
"Part of Germany was transferred back to France, a little to Belgium, a little to Denmark, some to Czechoslovakia, some to Poland, which was given a corridor to the sea—a corridor that separated the two parts of the German republic."

"Cash payments and payments in kind were exacted far beyond the capacity of Germany to pay, and upon failure to pay, the French army marched into and occupied the Rhineland."

"France, England, English colonies, and Japan divided Germany's overseas possessions. The Austro-Hungarian empire was broken up, part of it going to Italy, part to Serbia, part to Rumania, part to the newly manufactured nation of Czechoslovakia, and part to the reconstituted state of Poland. Germany and Austria were forbidden to form a customs union."

Terms Follow Pattern.

"These peace terms, atrocious as they seem to us, and atrocious as they were, were following the pattern of European peace as far back as the records go. They were, however, outrageous desecrations of the principles set forth when American soldiers were conscripted to fight in Europe, and they were violations of the terms of peace which President Wilson had given the defeated nations reason to believe they would be accorded."

"Not long after the peace was agreed upon, and while he was campaigning unsuccessfully to make the senate ratify it, came President Wilson's mental breakdown. Participants in the peace conference have said that his mind showed signs of collapse during the deliberations. It is at least charitable to believe that such was the case."

"A number of other wars ensued. The Russian bolsheviks invaded Poland and were defeated at Warsaw."

Russian Yoke Thrown Off

"The Baltic provinces of Russia threw off the Russian yoke, and formed the little countries of Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Finland."

"The Poles invaded Lithuania and took the city of Vilna."

"The Lithuanians in turn took by force the city of Memel, which had been set up in the peace treaty as a free city."

"A volunteer expedition of Italians seized Fiume."

"The Greek army invaded Turkey. The Greek army was destroyed, and the city of Smyrna was burned."

"Other wars were carried on by France and Spain in Morocco; by England against various Arab tribes, and along the frontier of India, and in Palestine."

"Ireland revolted and after several years of guerrilla warfare secured recognition of the Irish Free State as a self-governing dominion. It now calls itself an independent republic, and is carrying on agitation for the annexation of those parts of Ireland still attached to the British commonwealth."

Military Rodeo in Albania.

"More lately Italy overran Ethiopia, and has only just conducted a military rodeo in Albania. Germany has occupied Austria and part of Czechoslovakia by a combination of force, diplomatic conspiracy and popular consent. Hungary and Poland grabbed other parts of Czechoslovakia."

"Long before this, Russia had fallen victim to communism, that doctrine which appeals to all that is vicious in mankind—theft, murder, and torture—and explains it with the skill of Bala to delude the victims of their passions that they are following high ideals."

"Communism took over Hungary. Communism at one time possessed half of Italy; and communism battled for Germany and Austria. The peace of Versailles turned out to be more terrible than the war it followed."

"Rumania expelled communism from Hungary and conferred itself with the province of Transylvania."

Fascists Take Over Italy.

"In the helplessness of the Italian government the Fascists marched on Rome with the consent of the king and instituted a dictatorship."

"Whether the Germans and Austrians could have maintained a republican form of government may be doubtful in view of their recent emergence from the feudal system, from lack of any conception of the rights of man, and from their custom to accept the Roman law imposed upon them from above. Whatever chance they might have had was taken away by the brutality of the peace treaty."

"In desperation they succumbed to the blandishments and brutalities of a desperado. Hitler's excesses have been excused and endured for the same reason—that those of Ivan the Terrible, and Peter the Great were endured in Russia—the dire need of stern, military discipline—and have borne much political fruit to the German nation."

Germany Powerful Again.

"The treaty of Versailles and its exactions have been denounced; the German Rhineland, the Saar, and Memel reoccupied. Large parts of the empire of Bismarck have been united with large parts of the Austrian empire. Germany is once again a powerful empire."

"Many actions of the government have outraged our traditions and our sense of right—the enslavement of the Czechs, the empropration of the Jews, the oppression of the churches."

"These, perhaps, may be explained though not excused, by the backwardness of German political development which, as I have said, is three hundred years behind that of the more advanced civilization."

"To be sure, it has not been unusual for states to dominate religions or for religions to dominate states. Nor has the American doctrine of religious tolerance and the separation of church and state obtained full acceptance in Europe today."

History of Europe Told By McCormick

ances in Europe were Germany united in offensive and defensive alliance with Italy, Japan, and apparently Spain—seeking to regain England and France, which were in alliance with the world war, and were bargaining to obtain assistance from Russia and to procure again the service of the United States which was so outrageously betrayed twenty years ago.

"Our own post-war relations with Europe have not been those of an independent nation.

"During the war our navy had embarked upon a huge building program which after the war threatened to eclipse the British navy. Through machinations unknown to me an international conference was held at which it was agreed that the American navy should only equal that of England. American battleships were destroyed and, by interpretations of the treaty by our state department, the American navy was reduced from first to second place.

Island Rights Given Up.
"Again in accordance with British foreign policy at this time, a treaty abandoning the right to fortify certain American islands was made with Japan. The so-called nine power treaty was made, guaranteeing the status quo in China—a matter vital to England, but of slight importance in America.

"When Japan invaded Manchuria our state department wished to act in defense of these English rights. England found it inconvenient to do so.

"Let us look at Europe today. There is the German empire, formed of a union of the empire of Bismarck, less certain parts of Germany taken from it by the treaty of Versailles—in all of which there are elements wishing annexation to the empire—with that of Hapsburg Austria, less some of the discordant races which had weakened the old empire.

Empires In Opposition
"Opposed are the British empire and the French empire—enlarged by their acquisitions from Germany, but weakened militarily and financially by the long reign of communist doctrines in their governments.

"England had been further weakened diplomatically and militarily by the freeing of Ireland, and by the sovereignty of its colonies—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

"In 1914 the parliament was able to declare war for all of them, but by the act of 1921 freeing Ireland, and under the statute Westminster, Dec. 11, 1931, these became independent commonwealths, tied together by personal loyalty to the throne and by a customs union.

"It is certain that Canada, Australia, and New Zealand entertain the heartiest loyalty to the empire, will render any reasonable assistance to the mother country, enter any reasonable war—but to what extent is uncertain. None of them maintains military or naval establishments of any consequence.

South Africa In Doubt.
"The attitude of South Africa is doubtful. Ireland will be governed empirically. Ireland is a lost cause by self-interest.

"The attitude of Portugal, in face of Fascist Spain, also is uncertain. "Of the other states of Europe, the Balkan countries, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary are quite unpredictable, as are the states of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, also primitive in political development.

"Poland could have joined Czechoslovakia, in a probably successful defense of the latter's frontier fortifications, but preferred to attack her in the rear and share in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, and in consequence is now fighting an apparently hopeless battle with Germany along two long boundaries.

None Strong Separately.
"Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Finland are self-governing countries, high in culture and political development. None of them is strong enough separately to be of consequence. Ordinary statesmanship would indicate that the four Scandinavian nations should unite in a single government, but historical antagonisms, and the interests of the preceding dynasties stand in the way, and leave their people economically, diplomatically and militarily helpless.

"Holland and Belgium would have been small enough even had they not separated a hundred years ago. Belgium has often been the battleground of Europe and probably will be again.

"The condition of Holland is still more precarious. Not only has it the German empire on one side and the British empire on the other, but its colonies are objects of cupidity to larger powers, and especially to Japan, which wants the oil of Borneo for its fleet, airplanes, and tanks.

Propaganda Floods Swiss.
"Switzerland, so long gallantly independent, is being subjected to Nazi propaganda—with what effect I do not know.

"The human monster Stalin, entirely unpredictable, has broken his alliance with France and joined Germany, whom Japan and Italy appear to have deserted. At that, he plays an important part in the internal politics of all European countries and in our own.

"The present war in Europe, as we know is over the German city of Danzig and the Polish corridor—whether they should remain under Poland for economic reasons or be rejoined to Germany for racial ones.

"The instability of Europe is caused by the fact that the economic boundaries and the racial boundaries do not coincide. Racial states were and are economically unsound. Economic states are racially unstable.

Never Long At Peace.
"Europe has not long been able to remain at peace under any of the forms of government which have been devised, nor in any of the stages of intellectual and economic progress.

"The union of the American states—always heralded as the greatest achievement of statesmanship—was comparatively simple through the similarity of race and history. A like accomplishment in Europe with its variety of races, languages, and religious beliefs, seems beyond human power.

"Obviously it cannot be helped by the interposition of an outside nation like our own, with interests of our own, with a civilization of our own and for the most part as ignorant of and indifferent to European affairs. The most that could be accomplished is what was accomplished twenty years ago—the slaughter of American youth—to strengthen one side of a quarrel—and afterwards ingratitude and abuse."

"I'll kill that guy!" so spoke a friend of mine recently when a driver behind us persistently blew his horn at an intersection.

How many times have you felt the same way?

About the most discourteous driving habit people have is to try to "blow others out of their way." This is dangerous as well as discourteous. Frequently drivers become frantic in traffic when this is done, and I know of many accidents that were a direct result of such action.

Public opinion should rise against this type of driver until he realizes that courtesy is the keynote of conduct on our highways.

"It's Smart to Drive Carefully."

UNCLE JIM SAYS

More mind farming means less muscle farming.

A well built farm program is the most valuable structure any community can have.

A major objective of any farm program should be the maintenance of soil resources.

For the land's sake, sow winter cover crops on clean cultivated fields to control erosion and build fertility this winter.

The limestone and phosphate requirements of the land should be met before seeding any winter cover crops whether it be small grains or winter legumes.

Crimson clovers should be seeded early on well prepared land. If abundant winter and fall pasturage is desired. Later September and early October seedings have been successful on lespedeza stubble and permanent pasture sods.

Reports show that the use of agricultural limestone has increased over 500 per cent in the last 25 years. According to the U. S. Bureau of Mines, 1,299,545 tons of burned and ground limestone were used in 1914 and 6,500,000 tons in 1933.

Barn fires are among the most common causes of farm losses. Never light matches or smoke in a barn. Avoid the use of combustible lanterns. Check all electric wiring to avoid short circuits. Do not drive automobiles into a barn where there is hay and litters.

HERE ARE SOME IMPORTANT POINTS

Heavy Trucks divert to public highways traffic needed to maintain railroad employment, payrolls, purchases and taxes.

Heavy trucks greatly increase the cost of building and maintaining highways.

Heavy trucks are hazardous to automobile and other traffic using Kentucky highways.

Kentucky railroads have an annual payroll of $45,000,000; spend $18,600,000 in 102 Kentucky counties for supplies and fuel; pay $4,700,000 in taxes. State, county and local, nearly one-half of which goes to support of public schools.

Kentucky railroad employees own homes and automobiles, pay taxes, patronize local merchants. Theirs is a tremendous contribution to the prosperity of the State.

12 SIMPLE RULES FOR HAPPINESS

1. Don't run away from life—from the actual world of work, love and truth.

2. Treat your body as Nature intended—with fresh air, sunshine, good food and exercise.

3. Give your mind a yearly house-cleaning. Rid yourself of the poisons of hatred, fear, jealousy and intolerance.

4. Decide what you want most from life, and what price you are willing to pay for it.

5. Develop a laughing philosophy that keeps trifling annoyances from being magnified into miseries.

6. Confide in someone when you feel actually unhappy. We all need sympathy and understanding once in a while.

7. Steer clear of professional pessimists—they may easily infect you with their own gloom.

8. Acquire new interests. An energizing hobby is a good form of happiness insurance.

9. Remember that life begins not only at forty but at any age you wish.

10. Make a few friends every year. Try to like people and to get them to like you.

11. Enjoy the simple daily satisfactions of work, play and love. Forget yesterday's griefs and concentrate on the pleasures of today.

12. Share your happiness—don't hoard it. The more you give away the more you will keep for yourself.

Red tape in Washington costs the taxpayers about ten thousand dollars a year.

If more men would blow their own horns, pedestrians would live longer.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under existing laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the ad copies of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If since people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste from the blood, there would be better understanding of why the kidneys suffer when kidneys are weak and diseased. Kidney trouble would be more often recognized.

Burning, stinging or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer morning backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all mixed up.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!
