THE LISTENING POST

● I quit playing competitive golf a long time ago, and in fact, play very little of any sort any more. Four or five years ago I took a close inventory of my stock of golf playing abilities and reached the conclusion I was as good as I would ever be and had just as well be satisfied with what I could do at that time and quit trying to better myself. I had been playing then for about ten or twelve years and all I had to show for it was the most ridiculous form any man ever had; the necessity of remembering 32 different things to do just before hitting a ball if I expected to hit it well, and the certain knowledge that all I could expect normally was a score of 45 on nine holes. Now and then, if luck happened to come along, I might drop a couple of lucky putts and come in with a 42 or 43, while on the other hand I might forget some of the things I had to remember and come in with a 49 or 50. So I decided to quit competitive golf and play the game only as an amusement, quit at the end of three holes if I wanted to, throw a ball bodily out of a ditch or deep rough if that seemed the better plan, and since then I have no longer worried about scores or tournament play. Believe it or not, I can still go out there and shoot a 45 almost any time I want to and once or twice this year I have shot two or three strokes lower than that. Once I actually had a 42 without telling myself any lies or taking any undue advantage of Old Man Par.

● Having reached this period of serene philosophy I can now enjoy things about golf which I used to suffer. Take these tournaments which are played with players from Mayfield, Paducah, Dyersburg and Humboldt, and readers will see what I am talking about. I used to play in those matches, starting out for eighteen holes at one o'clock, after driving to one of those towns, and have sweated gallons on all those courses, as well as on the local course. Many times I have had the experience that a Mayfield friend of mine had here yesterday, and I never did get much fun out of it. In golf, it is quite customary to run across small boys, twelve to fifteen years and up to twenty or more who can really play golf. I remember once I was paired with a boy of 14 and he gave me an unmerciful kicking. I could not hit a ball right that day and that had never hit one wrong. I won one hole out of 18 and I have always believed the youngsters eased up to allow me to win the one hole. In later tournaments I looked carefully for a man about seventy or eighty years of age, and had better luck with them. I know from bitter experience that any man who learned to play golf after he reached the age of twenty, say, had best beware of any boy of 14 to twenty, for these lads will shoot the pants off any of the older boys.

● So when I saw Frank Evans, Mayfield publisher, here yesterday for play in the tournament and saw that he and Hub Bennett were paired against Darter White and Clyde Williams the Younger, I went off and had a quiet laugh to myself. I did not know how well Frank and Hub could play, but I knew these two youngsters could out-drive, out approach and out putt them, for they are young and limber and supple and have been playing the game ever since they could walk. I waited until they had played a few holes and then approached them on Number 4. Frank was singing the blues and Hub had frankly quit. "We need some old men to play against," Frank said. "These boys are wearing us out. They are whipping our ears off, they are making us ashamed of ourselves, and I want to go home. Why in the heck didn't you play against us. Either one of us can beat you, but we can't beat these limber devils." Privately I wondered if Frank and Hub could beat me, but I also have decided never to argue on a golf course, so I merely agreed and let them go on to certain doom. Frank pulled in

Unit Created To Enforce All Priorities

Washington. — Creation of a Priorities Compliance Section in the Office of Production Management, to enforce cooperation by industry with the priorities program and penalize violators by court action if necessary, was announced Sunday by Priorities Director E. R. Stettinius, Jr.

Instances of "hoarding" strategic metals or "bootlegging" materials under priorities control, will be policed by the new section, to be headed by L. J. Larry Martin, formerly assistant to the president of the Thomas A. Edison Industries is now head of the Inventory Control Section of O. P. M. and will retain that post.

Punitive Action Planned
The compliance unit will put emphasis on obtaining voluntary cooperation, Stettinius said, but "punitive action can and will be taken if necessary."

Three punitive measures are available, Stettinius said:

First, publicity directed at recalcitrant manufacturers by public statements on violations and evasions; second, the withholding of essential raw materials until compliance is guaranteed, and third, legal action.

The second method, a priorities division spokesman said, probably would bring quick compliance in most cases. If court action proved necessary, it probably would take the form of seeking a court order requiring compliance, followed by contempt of court proceedings if defiance persisted.

STATEMENT

John A. Caraway, Obion county sanitation officer, who is conducting an investigation of sanitary conditions in South Fulton, wishes to announce that he has no authority on the Kentucky side and will make no inspection there. Several persons have come to him recently inquiring about this and he wishes to state that his investigation includes Obion county alone.

with a 93, while Hub, struggling from shots in rough and in ditches, passed the hundred mark. At the finish, however, I saw that they had managed to make the game interesting to themselves, for after much checking and rechecking of the score, Hub handed Frank a quarter, so I guess they had a game between themselves, with Frank winning. He gazed at the quarter a long time and then said, "That's more than I made out of publishing the Messenger last week, anyhow."

South's Construction Business Is Booming Towards New Records

Baltimore. — Southern construction in the first six months of 1941 "skyrocketed beyond any other period on record," the Manufacturer's Record asserted today.

Contracts awarded totaled $1,152,381,000, nearly triple the amount let during the similar period of 1940, the "Record" said, adding that awards during the past six months foreshadow "the greatest construction year in history."

The total for the entire twelve months of 1940, which was rated an all-time banner year, was $1,334,350,000, with the current six-month figure only 25 per cent behind that record.

"The $374,914,000 contracts in June also was a record-breaker. No other month has ever touched near this high figure. The closest was the $326,168,000 of June, 1940, when the South's greatest pipeline construction was under way. There is a possibility that coming months

James Meacham Is Candidate For City Council

In this issue it is a real pleasure to be authorized to announce that James Meacham, popular young business man, is a candidate for the City Council, subject to the action of the Democratic primary of next month. His name appears in the regular announcement column and Mr. Meacham will appreciate your support.

Mr. Meacham is a member of the grocery firm of Meacham and Hutchens and is known and liked by both old and young. He is a young man, but has always had a sincere interest in the welfare of the community and does great deal of work for the advance of various community enterprises. He has been urged by many friends to make this race, and at the last moment for filling finally agreed to meet the wishes of these many friends.

"I sincerely feel that I can do something for the community in the office of City Councilman," Mr. Meacham said this morning. "I am deeply interested in the progress of Fulton and have a real desire to help in this progress. If the voters elect me to the office I have but one promise to make. That is, I will do my best at all times to make Fulton a better town in every possible way."

The many who know this young grocer and who have had dealings with him know that he is a man who keeps his word in every way and a man who has an alert and an understanding mind about community problems. He will make a good member of the Council if the voters see fit to place him in the office. This newspaper is glad to commend him to the voters.

will see a similar situation, as efforts are made to remedy the lack of oil transportation facilities, said the "Record."

"Federal funds during June continued to pour into Southern industrial arteries. Great plants for munitions manufacture were either placed under contract or proposed by military authorities as additional energies were applied to the solution of the industrial phase of the current 'arsenal of defense' production."

"Greatly-expanded public building, highway and engineering activity contributed much to the high June figure. The total of public building for June was $88,532,000, compared with the $30,579,000 of the preceding month. June engineering contracts were $33,572,000, or more than four times the total of May Road and bridge work rose to $23,000,000; the total for May being $18,775,000."

Negro Is Shot In Scrape In Front Of Hotel

Jim Thorpe, colored, was given a preliminary hearing this morning before Judge Lon Adams in City Court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. Thorpe entered a plea of guilty to the charge and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury under $300 bond. He was taken to the county jail at Hickman to await trial.

Thorpe is accused of shooting Virgil Lee Hutcherson, also colored, in a shooting scrape, which occurred about 1:30 Sunday morning in front of the hotel in Missionary Bottom. The fight started over an "old grudge."

Hutcherson was shot in the left arm through the muscle and his arm was broken. He was taken to the Haws clinic for treatment.

STEEL WAGES OUTGAIN PRICES, REVIEW SAYS

Cleveland. — The price of finished steel has advanced only 1.8 per cent since August, 1939, while average hourly wages in the industry have gone up 15.7 per cent, the magazine, Steel, reported Sunday.

"Wide inequalities have resulted from the New Deal's control policies," the review said. "In general, wages and agricultural products have advanced sharply, under the protection and encouragement of the Government. Major basic manufactured materials, such as steel and metals generally, have shown but slight increases."

obliged to abide by the commission's demands on their services:

The conference committee report field Thursday by Representative Bland (D.-Va.), called for Home acceptance of all Senate amendments except one which would have guaranteed to the owner retention of management and operation of the vessel. On that amendment the Senate reached.

Other Senate amendments, accepted by the House, would make the legislation effective for the duration of the "unlimited" national emergency proclaimed by the President May 27, 1941, instead of the limited emergency proclaimed September 8, 1939; and require the Maritime Commission rules governing maximum rates of charter hire to be "fair and reasonable."

Drafting Near For Tax Bill

Washington. — House Ways and Means Committee, in virtual agreement on major details of the Nation's biggest tax bill, met today to put the finishing touches on the $3,500,000,000 revenue measure and turn it over to the official drafting clerks by nightfall.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. S.) estimated that the task of getting the huge measure into proper legislative form would prevent it from reaching the House floor for debate before the week of July 14. He said he thought the House could complete action on the bill the same week.

Among its latest recommendations, the committee agreed tentatively yesterday on another series of excise taxes estimated to yield in excess of $124,000,000.

"CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT"

Manager Harold H. Thomas and Asst. Mgr. Jack Edwards have devised a very novel window at the Fulton theatre on their forth coming attraction "Caught In The Draft" this Sunday-Monday-Tuesday July 13-14-15. The window is done in water colors carrying out the idea of Army life. It shows a large tent painted on the window with the flap turned back inside the tent are blankets, army suit, foot-stool, shoes, and a candle. The title of the attraction is painted on the window in red, white, and blue. The window was painted by Fred Carden.

By the end of the year, almost 1,000,000 individual homes will be touched by the Draft.

Paramount Pictures has taken advantage of this major situation by placing Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour before the camera in "Caught in the Draft," which comes to the Fulton Theatre next Sunday.

J. W. Beasley Is Shot By Local Officers

J. W. Beasley was shot in the left side by the night police yesterday about 8 p. m., when he tried to jump out of the police car. Beasley, who was arrested by the night officers on Third street for being drunk and disorderly, was put in the police car to take to jail.

After he got in the car, he pulled a pistol on the officers, but they took it away from him and put him on the back seat. Beasley got the door open and jumped out, when the officers told him to stop, he started running and they fired on him.

He was slightly injured by the shot, and was taken to the Fulton hospital for treatment. Since hospital rooms were unavailable, he was taken to the Bernice hotel, where he will remain under guard until he recovers. He will then be brought up in City court for trial.

Big Milk Supplies Dumped To Cut Off 'Holiday Flow'

Utica, N. Y. — "Efforts of the Dairy Farmers Union to throttle a three-State milk supply to the New York City market resulted Wednesday in the dumping of 'hundreds of gallons' and union claims of 'increasing curtailment' of the normal 5,000,000-quart daily flow."

The second day of a milk holiday, called by the union to boost prices paid producers, also brought D. F. U. leaders' approval of the appeal of Owen D. Young, retired industrialist, for creation of a temporary mediation board to determine a fair price for farmers.

While many milk plants in the twenty-two New York counties in which the union is represented reported still receiving usual or "nearly normal" deliveries, the D. F. U. asserted many sections are "completely dried up."

Ship A Day Goes To Egypt From America

Flow Of Munitions To Near East Continues To Increase

Washington. — The flow of lend-lease munitions to Egypt to reinforce Britain's defense of the Middle East was reported authoritatively Sunday to have reached almost a ship a day.

Officials familiar with administration of the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease fund said that between twenty and twenty-five ships a month were being dispatched by way of either the Atlantic or Pacific routes to the Red Sea.

The manner in which shipments have been accelerated after a slow start tended to relieve the pessimism of some American military experts over British chances of holding on in the Mediterranean.

Cargo Includes Tanks

Top defense officials were said reliably to be hopeful now that the diversion of Nazi forces to the invasion of Russia would provide sufficient time for the British to secure needed arms.

Cargoes of early arrivals in Egypt included fast new type 13-ton Army tanks, which the British need particularly to replace their heavy losses of mechanized equipment this spring in Greece and North Africa.

Some of the tanks already have seen action. Officials were silent on the results, but the War Department was reported to have been informed that they "did a very good job" in their initial baptism of fire in the British foray last month against German forces west of Egypt's Libyan border.

Plant Builds Ten A Day

Armed with a thirty-seven-millimeter cannon and several machine guns, the light tanks are being turned out at the rate of more than ten a day at a Pennsylvania plant.

Tommy Vance remains unchanged at the Haws clinic.

Billy Joe Kindred has been dismissed following a tonsillectomy at the Haws clinic.

Dick Jones has been admitted to the Haws clinic for treatment.

Lee Hutcherson has been admitted to the Haws clinic for treatment.

Draft Eligible Turns Woman And Dons Frocks — Illness Is Blamed

Los Angeles. — Edward Price Richards, 29, who registered for conscription, has petitioned Superior Court to change the name to Barbara Ann Richards.

Richards was an interior decorator until a few months ago, but he had become so effeminate in the preceding two years that he decided to change from men's clothes to dresses and temporarily retire, he stated.

Richards' petition said he was born April 1, 1912 in Essex County, Massachusetts; that he had predominant male characteristics and that he was reared as a boy.

Wearing a modish print dress and displaying painted fingernails, Richards told reporters:

"I first noticed a change a couple of years ago—enough so that I registered for the census as a woman. I was still wearing men's clothing however, and I had to shave every morning."

"When the registration for the draft came along last October I registered as a male, although by that time I realized I needed medical guidance."

An outstanding endocrinologist, Dr. Marcus Graham, presented Richards' case to an American Medical Association convention for discussion as a problem.

The physician notified Selective Service authorities, who placed Richards in Class 4-F.

"Shortly after that I quit my job and began to stick around the house. I changed to women's clothes—I felt I just had to."

"I quit shaving about six weeks ago. My beard just seemed to quit growing."

Dr. Graham said Richards' sex change probably is traceable to a severe illness in infancy.

"Such diseases as mumps," he said, "have been known to cause destruction of important male characteristics. All human beings have both male and female hormones, and whichever predominates determine the characteristics of the individual."

"It is possible through an illness to lose the predominating male characteristics."

"In numerous cases, physiological sex changes have been accompanied by a change in the trend of thought, so that a person who may have had extremely masculine tastes eventually assumes a thoroughly feminine state of mind."

VALUES THAT REMAIN

"Late of 50 Seymour Street—but that is gone," reads the dateline at the top of a letter from "somewhere in England." But we are saved, and protected! is the exultant postscript.

"Late of 50 Seymour Street." Can those of us who are thousands of miles from the present scenes of destruction translate this into terms of our daily lives? Suppose it had been our own house—on Pleasant street, or Windsor road, or East 167th street. It would mean that perhaps not a brick or a timber remains in place of the little home into which we put so much of ourselves. There were all those hours of planning and arranging, perhaps watching daily our ideas taking form in brick and wood and mortar. And the lasting qualities for which we strove through the treasures we put into it, over all the years! That masterpiece in oil for which we scrimped and saved, to make it a part of our daily living. The piano where the children had their lessons and where someone usually sat in the half-light of an evening and let a sonata flow from her fingertips. The rooms which held so many tender associations. The garden with its rich rewards. Can we imagine all these gone!

In this same British letter was an enclosure containing these sentences:

"After lunch the shelling stopped. I sat in the white seat where earlier in the day I had heard shrapnel come whickering through the air. . . Suddenly the stillness was broken; a cuckoo was beginning his spring song. . . You have no conception, after the morning's discord and horror, of the sweet harmony of those clear liquid notes, so vibrant, so full, so satisfying.

There you have it! the eternal values remain! The bird still sings—but even if the bird were gone, nothing could kill the beauty of the song once heard. And living things will survive whatever madness of human hate, to reclothe the words in beauty and melody. The larks of Flanders Field still sing through history and through their counterparts today. And though "50 Seymour Street" should be utterly destroyed, the achievements and joys of happy hours there could never be effaced. The courage that wells through such loss is guarantee that the sweet associations which in all lands surround the word "home" will be reconstructed, and even improved.

THE HONEYMOON IS ALMOST OVER

The honeymoon is almost over for Americans, who have been earning more in real wages since the defense program was launched a year ago than ever before. This new money has been coming in almost without counteracting penalty, but now new federal taxes are about to cut into it.

It is always easier to spend money than to collect it. This applies to governments as well as individuals. The U. S. has been spending at an enormously greater rate than it has been collecting, this past year. Now Congress has at last got round to the new tax legislation.

Three and a half billions in new taxes is the first big reminder that we have to pay the piper. The bill won't go into effect until September. But already a $100,000,000 special tax bill is in effect. This new one, added on what is now to be paid, will make a bit of difference to everybody.

And there is no assurance that the bill approved Wednesday by the House ways and means committee will be the last adopted this year. The Treasury plans to finance the war effort on the basis of two-thirds income collected from taxes, one-third from borrowing. This new bill will boost the government's revenues not far above the half-way mark on anticipated spending for 1941-42, leaving still a wide margin below the treasury goal.

A good part of the appropriations bills necessary to get defense rolling have been enacted. Henceforth Congress will have to spend more and more time, regardless for its natural dislike for such tasks, dishing out new and better ways of getting the money in. A budget twice the size of the present one could become a fact a year hence. And two-thirds of it from taxes. . .

But there won't be much squawking from the public. Some individuals, some pressure groups and trade associations will not agree that the share levied upon them is a fair one. But the public will feel the new taxes most, and will say the least. General attitude is a practical one: that if the job is done, we don't mind the taxes. But let's get the job done.—Sun-Democrat.

farmers hope to have a 100 percent purebred stock record.

Christian county Negro farm women have been learning to make cottage cheese sandwiches, and other varieties.

A carload of ewes were imported last month into Russell county, all purebred or high-grade.

A survey shows that Livingston county county gardens have been increased in size by one-third.

In Owsley county, 200 acres were planted to hybrid corn—enough "permanently to establish the crop," it is reported.

2 GIRLS LOST IN CAVE FOUND AFTER 18 HOURS

Marianna, Fla. —Two girl hikers, lost in a Chipola River limestone cave for eighteen hours, were found early Sunday, tired and hungry but uninjured.

The girls, Mary Elizabeth Rhyme of Marianna and her house-guest, Emma Bess Watson of Jacksonville, both 22, entered the cave Saturday morning. They became lost after a flashlight and two candles they had taken along to light their way burned out.

When found by Cecil Haddock, one of approximately 300 persons engaged in the search, the girls were resting on a ledge far back in the cave.

Tigers Are Beaten In 11 Frames By Union City Greyhounds 6-5

The Tigers had a good lead in the final game against Union City there yesterday afternoon, getting to Herr for five runs in the first three innings. Madsen held this lead well until the eighth, when he pitched a home run ball to Smith, Hound second sacker, with the bases fully occupied, Smith belted the ball out of Obion County and four runs poured across. That tied the score and in the eleventh Ivy threw badly after trapping

Basso off third and Basso scored the winning run. It was a tough game to lose, with the Tigers out-hitting the Hounds 14 to 10, but the payoff is made on runs and the Hounds cashed in on their second victory of the season. Faudem led the hitting with three safeties, including one double and every player had a hit except Lis and Vico. The Hopkinsville team opens a three game series here tonight and these games may make or break the Tigers for the time being. Right now the Tigers are barely holding fourth spot, but could win third place by beating the Hoppers soundly in these games.

The Tigers placed three men on the All-Star team which plays Jackson this week. These are Ivy, catcher, Derrick, shortstop, and Mullen, third base. Mayfield, with four men and a manager, led in the All-Star balloting.

Strength In The Foundation

A business enterprise of lasting importance is somewhat like a giant bridge that spans the mighty stream. If it is to stand the test of time, it must be built upon a solid foundation.

Thirty-three years ago this month, the BROWDER MILLING COMPANY came into existence. Founded upon solid principles, this firm has enjoyed the confidence, good-will and patronage of a majority of the people in and around FULTON. We appreciate this fact and would like to offer our sincere thanks; again, for your loyalty during these thirty-three years.
