Daredevil Joe, the Man with the Iron Nerve, to Drive Speedster Blindfolded

Fulton will see its first real speed classic here Sunday, October 15, when midget racers will thrill thousands who will attend the event to be held at the Fulton Fair Grounds under the auspices of the Fulton Elks Charity Association. Chelso Cusna, supervisor of the racing program, announces that many entries have been received from owners of racing cars, and the competition between the midgetts will provide thrills never before seen on the local track.

Midget entries include the following:

Curley Cotner, St. Louis, Mo., driving a Kossman Special Ford V-8-60; H. J. Sagbani, Memphis, Tenn., driving a Gee Bros. Special Willys-4 owned by Gee Bros. Packard Agency, Memphis, Tenn.; George Schroeder, Springfield, Ill., driving a special Ford V-8-60; Elmer Byers, Memphis, Tenn., driving a Beacon Continental-4, owned by Ralph Greer, Memphis, Tenn.; Joe Shaheen, Springfield, Ill., driving a Shaheen Special Ford A; Joe Patterson, of Memphis and Miami, Fla., driving a R. The feature added attraction will be the amazing daredevil drive by Joe Shaheen, who will race his midget car three times around the track, absolutely blindfolded and unable to see. This stunt has thrilled thousands of people on some of the fastest tracks in the country.

The Hawkins family is occupying the Christian church parsonage on 411 Eddings street. A telephone, No. 663 has been installed in the parsonage.

Our guess: It won't be long now before airplanes will be bombing cities on the western front.

Because he stood smiling at a girl in a store in Johannesburg, South Africa, Sidney Bustin was arrested and fined $100 for disorderly conduct.

Mayor and Council Will Go To Knoxville

Mayor Paul DeMyer and members of the Fulton City Council will go to Knoxville, Tenn., next Monday to meet with J. A. Krug, chief engineer of T. V. A., according to an announcement made this week by Vernon Owen, chairman of the T. V. A. committee of the Young Men's Business Club.

KITTY RE-ELECTS HOWARD PRESIDENT

Ben F. Howard of Union City was re-elected president of the Kitty League Sunday at a meeting of officials, club presidents, scorers and sports writers at Boyette's Place on Reelfoot Lake. Each club in the league was represented at the meeting.

Mr. Howard received the commendation of the officials for having guided the Kitty League through its first successful season, finishing with a cash balance of $1,401.32 after all bills had been paid. During 1939 all attendance records were broken at parks in this league. The total attendance was 260,540 as follows: Owensboro, 54,643; Bowling Green 45,145; Mayfield 32,760; Paducah 26,691; Hopkinsville 23,287; Union City 21,157; Fulton 17,945.

President Howard moved that the league adopt a rookie rule requiring each club to carry throughout the season at least six rookies, and only three class men. (A class man to be a player that has played three years in Class D ball, or one year in a league of higher classification.) It was also proposed that the number of players be limited to 14 with the salary limit to be $1,000 exclusive of the manager's salary.

After considerable discussion it was found that about six changes in the by-laws would be necessary, and the following committee was named to work out the changes: W. L. Harrington of Mayfield; J. C. Miller of Owensboro; and Cecil Moss of Union City.

A meeting of the Fulton Baseball Association will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Rainbow Room, for the purpose of electing a president and board of directors. K. P. Dalton, president, urges that all baseball fans be present at this meeting.

WHAT PRICE GLORY

Nineteen months participation in the "first World War" cost this nation more than forty billion dollars reported Hugh S. Johnson in his syndicated column recently.

If this same amount of money had been devoted to building homes instead of to digging graves, eight to ten million dwellings at a cost of $5,000 each could have been constructed — capable of housing 35 to 40 million persons — almost one third of the nation — at a rate of five to seven million units a year.

Compare this figure with the less than 250,000 dwellings built during 1938 in this country.

OLD DIVISION OFFICE TO BE TORN DOWN

The old Division Office building of the Illinois Central System is now being razed. The Tennessee Division with main offices here were abolished September 21, 1931, being divided into the Kentucky division at Paducah, and the Mississippi division at Water Valley, Miss. Since that time the building has been occupied until a few weeks ago by the offices of the local trainmaster and other officials. These are now located in the upper story of the passenger station.

The old division office building was erected here soon after the turn of the 1900 period when the Illinois Central took over the line operating between Louisville and Memphis. About that time the passenger station was also built.

The city of Fulton is distinctly a product of the railway era, and for three quarters of a century the railroad industry played a major role in the progress of this community. Back in 1934 a railroad exposition was held in Fulton, which brought out the history of railroading in this section.

It was on July 4, 1854, that the first steam locomotive ever brought to this part of the state made its maiden trip from Paducah to Florence over the first completed portion of what is now the Illinois Central line through Mayfield, Fulton and Dyersburg. This railroad was completed into Fulton in 1856 or 1857, and it provided this community with its only rail connection with the outside world until the Jackson-Fulton-Cairo line was opened sixteen years later.

Fulton's pioneer railroad was originally known as the New Orleans and Ohio. It was built by a group of Paducah business men for the

Newell - Emmett Places Large Advertising Account

The Pepsi-Cola Company, through its advertising agency, Newell-Emmett Company, 40 East 34th Street, has launched an intensive six weeks' national display advertising campaign, introducing to the public two new lovable and human-interest characters, "Pepsi" and "Pete." It was announced today by Walter S. Mack, Jr., President of the Pepsi-Cola Company.

The first ad copy of the campaign, 140 lines on three columns, "broke" last week in Metropolitan newspapers and papers throughout the country. The copy itself stressed the large size of Pepsi-Cola's 12-ounce bottle, obtainable for a nickel, and portrayed "Pepsi" and "Pete," rollicking cops of an adventurous turn of mind, measuring the bottle and advising the world at large of the quantity and quality of the beverage.

Similar copy, involving the use of "Pepsi" and "Pete" will run regularly in more than 700 papers in the nation between now and November 3, when the two characters will evolve in color into "comic strip" use, and will appear in newspapers throughout the country.

Charles Leonard, 18, has Indianapolis physicians baffled. He is senseless to pain, cannot distinguish between hot and cold articles, and is unable to identify anything by touching it.

The National Cotton Council and other organizations urging this additional support for the full program point out that the cost of combating the pest in future years will be vastly greater if the job is not thoroughly done now.

Great Cast Brings "The Rains Came" To Life On Screen

Zanuck Picture Stars Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power and George Brent

Hailed as one of the truly great motion pictures of all time, Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Rains Came," the sensational successful novel by Louis Bromfield, opens Sunday at the Fulton Theatre, with Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power and George Brent sharing stellar honors.

This powerful story of human emotions at the breaking point and says Verna S.: "Since using Adlerika the pimples are gone. My skin is smooth and glows with health." Adlerika helps wash BOTH bowels, and relieves temporary constipation that often aggravates bad complexion.

EVANS DRUG CO.

human lives at the climax, while the untamed forces of nature ravaged the earth, has been faithfully retold in this 20th Century-Fox film, in which all of Bromfield's colorful characters are brought to vivid life.

Myrna Loy is seen as the amorous Lady Esketh, Tyrone Power has his most romantic role as Major Rama Safti, and George Brent plays the world-weary Tom Ransome.

Brenda Joyce, star-maker Zanuck's newest discovery, interprets the role of young Fern Simon, while others featured in the great cast are Nigel Bruce, Maria Ouspenskaya, Joseph Schildkraut, Jane Darwell, Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers and H. B. Warner.

Clarence Brown directed the production which reproduces with breath-taking realism the earthquake, flood, fire and plague highlighting the novel. Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson wrote the screen play and Harry Joe Brown was associate producer.

Interviewed after his first showing of the film, Bromfield declared his delight with Zanuck's picturization of his novel and the expertness of Brown's direction.

MODERN ETIQUETTE

1. When an invitation is received over the telephone, is it all right for one to say, "I shall let you know this evening or tomorrow?"
2. Should a man remove his hat when in the elevator of a hotel or an office building, when a woman enters?
3. When passing a plate for a second helping, should one leave the knife and the fork on the plate?
4. Should a young man, engaged to be married, resent it if the girl's father asks him questions pertaining to his financial affairs, business position, and health?
5. Is it discourteous when one is talking with a person, for this person to show a lack of interest in what is being said?
6. When a woman and her escort enter a theater, and an usher is at the entrance of the aisle, which one should be first to follow the usher?
7. Please mention about six of the most common forms of rudeness for either a husband or a wife to be guilty of, when the other is entertaining in the home.
8. Is it poor form to use the expression "Gents"?
9. Should a hostess always rise when a guest is leaving, as well as arriving?
10. Is it all right for a man to give a woman an article of wearing apparel, as a gift?
11. How long should a hostess wait for a guest who is late for dinner?
12. Is it proper to address a wedding invitation to Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Brown and Family?

Answers

1. Never. This invitation must be accepted or declined without a moment's hesitation. A pause of even two or three seconds is bad form.
2. He should do so in a hotel elevator, but it is not necessary in an office building or shop.
3. Yes. Under no circumstances should silver be placed on the table cover.
4. No. The father has a perfect right to be concerned about everything that might afford the happiness of his daughter.
5. Yes. This is one of the most frequent acts of discourtesy. To be a good listener is one of the surest ways to gain friends, and is just as important as to be a good speaker.
6. The usher goes first, then the woman, and last her escort. If there is no usher, the man should go first.
7. Refuse to talk, refuse to smile, appear bored, fall asleep, leave the room abruptly, sit and read.
8. Yes. It is very poor form. It is no more correct than "ladies" would be for "ladies".
9. Yes, always, and whether the guest be a man or woman. It is exceedingly discourteous if she does not.
10. Not unless the woman is his mother, sister, or a close relative.
11. No longer than fifteen minutes.
12. No. The words "and Family" are no longer used. An invitation should be sent to Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and a separate invitation to each other member of the family.

UNCLE JIM SAYS

He who ridicules scientific research, makes only himself ridiculous.

There is still a lot we don't know about farming, but we don't apply all we do know.

Four regional Federal research laboratories have been established to study new industrial uses for farm products.

Much of the agricultural progress in this country, originated in the research laboratories of our colleges and universities.

One way to offset the effects of the late summer and fall drouth, which cut hay yields materially, is to sow abundant winter pasture.

Crimson clover and rye grass can be made to furnish as many days of pasturage as blue grass, white clover and lespedeza combined.

It's wasteful not to seed a cover crop on lespedeza stubble this fall—otherwise top soil washes away and accumulated nitrogen leaches out.

War in Europe makes it all the more desirable for Tennessee growers to sow crimson clover for supplying domestic seed requirements next year.

A show with a purpose, will be the Tenth Annual Jersey Production Show at Morristown, October 3-4, where production records combine with superior type in determining winners.

THE TAX PROBLEM

The tax problem is certain to be one of the most important to come before the next Congress in January. Therefore it is a good sign to see that efforts are already on foot to put as much common sense as possible behind the tax revision that is certain next year.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Hanes has sent a letter to many prominent business men and organizations asking their help in a complete study of the tax situation. "This is our common problem," Hanes wrote "and a successful effort toward its solution will depend largely on our mutual and sympathetic understanding of the government and the taxpayer."

Now that is a very fine spirit in which to approach the problem of taxation.

After all, we are all in this thing together. The big manufacturer worried about things like the undistributed profits tax just repealed the small business man burdened with excessive bookkeeping and plaguey small tax worries, the employed man goaded by a host of small hidden sales taxes, relief or work projects—they are all in a very real sense in the same boat.

The miseries of all of them are due to the single cause of the breakdown of the economic machine. Each is carrying and must carry his peculiar burden, for none can recover until all recover together. It recalls Franklin, who urged his fellow rebels to unity during revolutionary days by saying "If we don't all hang together, we shall assuredly all hang separately."

Because "he didn't even want women to look at him," George Nikerson of Colorado Springs, Colo., splashed acid on his face.

Another insect pest which threatens to do more damage to cotton than any with which the South has had to contend in the past is the pink bollworm, which entered Texas from Mexico in 1936, and unless checked will infest the entire cotton belt.

Is College a "Waste OF Time"

We see by the papers that Edward Matthews, formerly a member of a college faculty, expresses the opinion that college is "just a waste of time."

Frankly, we cannot agree with the brother who has established a high school where youngsters can earn their education by making shoes. He has been overwhelmed perhaps by the necessity of practical education, taking cognizance of the fact that many college graduates do not "know how to get a job."

We think Mr. Matthews has gone to the extreme. We agree that there is a failure on the part of schools and colleges to train students in a practical way but there are evidences that a new spirit is fast mending this deficiency. The danger, it seems, just now is that the pendulum will swing too far in that direction.

Education, to be popular, must, of necessity, fit individuals to become economic successes but we should never lose sight of the value of an education, regardless of the dollars and cents return. The development of an individual personality is worthwhile even if the profit motive is entirely forgotten.

In two years this destructive insect spread over a large area and reached points more than 130 miles above the Rio Grande. Its ravages are more menacing than those of the boll weevil, cotton flea hopper or any of the other pests which attack the cotton crop.

Eleven men in Kansas City, all 6 feet 4 inches or taller, have formed a "skyliners club" to crusade for 7-foot beds in hotels.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

Bobby Matthews, middleweight fighter, and well known here, has just opened a place of business at Mayfield, where he has been promoting fights for the past few months. Since going to that city he has made many friends. Bobby tells me that he has a refreshing spot on the Benton Highway just out of Mayfield—it is known as "Bobby's." He invites all his friends in this community to visit him when over that way.

The preacher down at the colored Methodist church on Third-st. came into the Illinois Oil Station for some turpentine. He dug down deep into a pocket, brought out a handful of pennies to pay for it, but when it was all added up he lacked 15c. He felt in all his pockets—one had a hole in it. We asked him if he had lost some of his money, and he replied: "No, suh. I guess the collection plate didn't receive enough yesterday." We learned that he wanted the turpentine to mix with paint for improving the appearance of his church. So we chipped in the difference, and Preacher went off happy and extending blessings upon us.

Mrs. Chapman, city clerk, is 100 per cent for Fulton. She contends that there is something about the place that holds you to it. Coming to the city many years ago when she married Thomas Chapman, she was far from impressed with it at that time. But the longer she stayed the more she liked Fulton. So it has been with others. Fulton has a good climate, it is well located, and offers many advantages. But what makes a person come to like a place so well is the associations they form. Familiar faces, a cheerful good morning and pleasant memories form friendships and ties that are hard to break. That, Mrs. Chapman, is why you, like many others, prefer Fulton to all other places on earth.

"KILLERS" OF AMERICANS

The "killers" of modern Americans, in the order of their importance, are diseases of the heart, influenza and pneumonia, cancers and other malignant tumors, nephritis, cerebral hemorrhage and softening, tuberculosis, congenital malformations and diseases of early infancy, motor vehicle accidents and diabetes.

This is the report of the Department of Commerce, which says that these nine causes of death were responsible for 72 per cent of the 1,450,427 fatalities in this country in 1937.

This ought to make it easy for everybody to live long. All that one has to do is to avoid these nine causes, which are just as fatal if you happen to be afflicted with them.

Some of the diseases can be avoided by promptly and regularly receiving treatment. In fact, many men and women die every year because they neglect ordinary ailments and permit them to drift into dangerous and fatal maladies.

The body of the average human being can stand a great deal but there are individuals who seem unable to realize that there is a limit to what flesh and blood can endure.

Of course, if an individual wants to be careless, it is largely his, or her, business. Just the same death often punishes those who remain behind more than the individual that departs. Men and women with responsibilities in life owe it to those dependent upon them to take reasonable precautions against disease. They should not neglect their health.

HOG FEEDING SCHOOL

The idea of a hog feeding school might seem strange to many, but the importance of scientific feeding of livestock is becoming so generally recognized by stockmen that feed dealers in some localities are arranging meetings from time to time to discuss improved feeding practices.

One Kansas dealer, quoted in the trade magazine Feedstuffs says: "We stage a hog feeding school each year. It is the object of these meetings to get correct use of our products. We stress particularly that common sense is the foundation of successful hog feeding."

The magazine states that leading hog breeders and feeders throughout the United States have been showing a decided preference for soybean oilmeal in all their mixed feeds and supplement, and adds that with price favoring this high protein ingredient, this sentiment has recently strengthened.

Charles L. Woll, a widely known Illinois breeder of Poland China hogs, who has made a close practical study of hog feeding for many years, uses a supplement formula containing 800 pounds of soybean oilmeal to the ton.

Slightly varying formulas are recommended for different conditions of feeding, but because of its palatability, digestibility and high nutritional value, soybean oilmeal forms an important ingredient of each. Through its use no danger of producing "soft pork" is present, as is the case when whole soybeans or certain other protein elements are substituted.

of idle capital into business channels, said, in part:

"The Federal government should balance the budget. Both taxes and regulations should be made as simple as possible. Regulations should be changed infrequently, and only when absolutely necessary. If business interests knew exactly what to expect, that certainty in itself would help restore confidence. These seem to be practical, common sense suggestions. By heeding them Congress might largely allay the fear of government which has gripped the business community so long."

ELECTRICITY ON OUR FARMS

We heard of a couple the other day who, after many years of happy life on their farm, are now beginning to enjoy the convenience of electric light.

The couple have been married for many years, with both of them past the four-score mark, but never before have they been able to press a button and have light. Now, in their declining years, they will enjoy the comforts that electricity can bring to the farm home.

Lansdes, junior, Greenville, Ky.; James Godfrey, senior, Paducah; William Cannon, sophomore, South Fulton; Betty Holderman, sophomore, Hyde Park, Chicago; Hazel Meacham, freshman, Williams, Graves County; Lillian Rice, freshman, Paducah; Marjorie Westbrook, freshman, Salem, Duke; Ralph Winstead, junior, Dresden; Eugene Hannah, sophomore, R. Citizens, they didn't let Union City get them down. They are going in that game fighting again. So don't you let them down.

The Band will be there to do its part, along with the Pep Squad. David Homra broke one of his right-hand fingers while practicing last Tuesday afternoon. He will be unable to take part in the games for a while.

A pep meeting was held down in town last night to give enthusiasm—if it can be done—to the citizens of Fulton, urging them to come to the football game Friday afternoon.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"ARE SIN, DISEASE, AND DEATH REAL?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday October 8, 1939.

The Golden Text is: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." (Psalms 103:2, 3.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes; and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go." (John 11:44.)

ILLINOIS CENTRAL ORDERS
$500,000 WORTH OF STEEL

Orders for 10,600 tons of steel rail costing approximately one-half million dollars were announced today by the Illinois Central System.

The orders today were for 4,000 tons from the Tennessee Coal and Iron Railroad Company at Birmingham, 3,300 tons from the Inland Steel Company at Chicago, and 3,300 tons from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company at Chicago.

This is in addition to an order for 2,500 tons from the Tennessee Coal and Iron Railroad Company which was announced September 11.

The rail orders announced today represent a part of the 1940 requirements of the Illinois Central System. They were placed at this time to insure delivery in plenty of time so there would be no interruption in the work of preparedness to handle any possible increase in business.

The Illinois Central System has also announced the placement of orders for 1,500 coal cars and 1,000 box cars. Bids will be received to October 9 on 10 Diesel-electric switching locomotives.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

Last week we gave you arguments against repeal of the neutrality bill, and this week, we are giving you the other side.

The bill prohibits the sale of munitions to warring nations, but we may sell all the raw products that go to make munitions, which is just as dangerous from the shipping angle as if they were manufactured, for Germany will try to prevent them from reaching England.

But the main reason for appeal, and one that is kept in the background, is this—We are not a neutral nation. Our sympathies, our hearts and our future welfare lies in the defeat of Germany, and with the side of France and England, who with us, are the only great democracies left and who are fighting a battle against dictators and their form of government.

If France and England lose, we are economically lost, for Germany has already destroyed much of our foreign trade, upon which our country depends, by their barter system of trading, in which they trade manufactured goods for raw material with South American countries.

It is readily admitted by high authorities that our national welfare depends on victory for France and England, and that we cannot afford to have them conquered by dictator nations. The best way to help them is by selling them the equipment and arms to win their fight, instead of joining with them as we did in the last war.

The Republicans opened their campaign last Saturday in Lexington with an overflow crowd, and the enthusiasm shown bodes ill for the Democrats.

Bob Lucas is Campaign Chairman, and believes that the Republicans have a good chance in November, and is organizing for a strong campaign. Judge Swope makes an impressive speech, and is a good platform personality. He has greatly improved over his last Governor's race.

Thomas N. Mamby, LaGrange, was appointed Campaign Chairman for the young Republicans.

The Democrats will open their campaign at Mt. Sterling.

Senator M. M. Logan, one of Kentucky's greatest statesmen, died of a heart attack early Tuesday morning. He was an individualist, strong in his opinions, and an authority on law.

The appointment of his successor will be made by the Governor.

It is almost a certainty that Governor Chandler will resign and Keen Johnson, then Governor, will appoint Chandler to the Senate vacancy.

It will be a wise choice.

Since Mussolini decided to remain neutral there are Americans who suspect that he is smarter than they thought.

merce of the Mississippi Valley, which had been developing gradually for several decades, moved for the most part to and from New Orleans via the Mississippi river. Therefore, a north and south railroad was in harmony with the currents of the Mississippi Valley of that period.

At the time the Illinois Central Company was incorporated in February, 1851, no railroad of such magnitude existed in the world. The longest railroad at that time was the New York & Erie, 301 miles in length. The Illinois Central in Illinois alone was to be 705 miles in length. The construction of such a great railroad through what was largely pioneer territory was a stupendous undertaking.

Millions of dollars were required to build it, and these millions the frontier state of Illinois did not have. Through efforts of Stephen A. Douglas and others, Eastern business men of substantial means and influence were interested. Before the close of 1852 dirt was flying on three railroad projects in this section of the Mississippi Valley.

All along these routes things began to take on new life. Land values increased. Settlers flocked in by the thousands. New towns sprang up sometimes even before the railroad was completed. And many towns and cities which were not on the railroad took steps to build branch lines to it.

This is how Fulton's first railroad came to be built. Paducah was in somewhat the same situation as New Orleans. For years it had been the principal river crossing between Kentucky and Illinois. Now, however, Paducah saw its primacy challenged by Cairo. Realizing the significance of the proposed Lakes to Gulf railroad system, citizens of Paducah lost no time in organizing the New Orleans & Ohio Railroad Company, to build a railroad from Paducah to connections with both the New Orleans and Mobile railroads near the Kentucky-Tennessee line. The New Orleans & Ohio Railroad Company was chartered on January 9, 1852.

This marked the beginning of railway history in Western Kentucky. Ground was broken for Fulton's pioneer railroad at Paducah in 1853, and, as previously stated, the first train was run between Paducah and Florence, nine miles south, on July 4, 1854. It was an Independence Day celebration never to be forgotten. People came "in carriages and ox-carts and cumbersome prairie wagons, as well as afoot and on horseback to witness for the first time in their lives the thrilling spectacle of a 'roaring iron horse' consuming wood and water and blowing forth smoke, fire and steam as it pulled a train of cars at the amazing speed of 15 to 20 miles per hour."

When the panic of 1857 suspended all railway construction, this railroad was practically completed to the junction point of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad at Rives, Tenn., and trains were running between Paducah and the Kentucky-Tennessee line, where a station had been erected and named Fulton, for the county in which it was located. At that time Fulton county outside of Hickman and a few small settlements, was wild and primitive as it was years earlier when Davy Crockett penetrated the canebrakes of the region on his bear-hunting expeditions. Fulton station was established at the point where the railroad from N. Orleans was expected to cross the Paducah-Rives line. For several years, therefore, the place and postoffice was referred to as "Fulton Station."

In the meantime the Paducah railroad had been reorganized and its name had been changed to the Paducah & Gulf, of which Judge L. S. Trimble was the controlling spirit. Also in the meantime the Illinois Central Railroad was nearing completion as far north as Jackson, Tenn. Before the outbreak of the war between the states trains were running all the way from New Orleans to Jackson, and the Mobile & Ohio was completed from Jackson through Rives and Union City to Columbus, Ky., providing Fulton with through rail connections to and from nearly all important cities of the South and East and North.

During the war period railway construction was at a standstill, and the railroads and their rolling stock suffered severely at the hands of the contending armies. At the close of hostilities, in 1865, the entire line between Jackson and New Orleans was a succession of twisted and bent rail, burned stations, rusted and wrecked rolling stock. Mile on mile of the road had become heavily covered with briars, weeds and bushes, undisturbed for three seasons.

Shortly after the close of the war, General P. T. G. Beauregard, the famous Confederate commander, was appointed general superintendent and chief engineer, and the following year he was elected president of the New Orleans-Canton road, and General Absalom M. West was elected president of the road from Canton north. Upon the shoulders of these two men fell the task of rehabilitation of the properties and extricating them from the financial difficulties in which the war had left them. They proved equal to the undertaking and by 1870 trains were again running over the entire road between New Orleans and Jackson. Shortly thereafter the two southern roads were brought under one management headed by Col. Henry S. McComb.

In 1872 the present main line of the Illinois Central between Paducah and Louisville was opened, providing Fulton with a direct route to the latter city. In the same year the Illinois Central Railroad Company which had previously confined its activities to points north of the Ohio River, took a momentous step which resulted a few years later in extending its operations into the Southern states, where more than one-half its mileage is today.

For fifteen long years Fulton had remained a way-station on a far from prosperous railroad, awaiting building of the Jackson to Cairo with ill-concealed impatience the link in the New Orleans-Chicago route. The Illinois Central, too, was growing impatient over the long delay in the completion of this Southern road. To one, its completion meant commercial and industrial opportunity, to the other it meant a through route between Chicago and the great seaport of New Orleans.

In the winter of 1871-72, Colonel McComb and his associates sought the financial aid of the Illinois Central. A $5,000,000 loan was granted the Southern company for the building of the Cairo extension.

This was the first step taken by the Illinois Central to interest itself financially in the lines south of the Ohio River. It marked the adoption of a new policy which was eventually to extend the influence and operations of the Illinois Central into seven Southern states and bring Fulton to the fore as a railway center.

Before the close of 1872 the Cairo Extension was under construction and Fulton was beginning to take on new life. Early in the winter of 1873 the last rail was laid and on December of that year the first through passenger train ever to operate between New Orleans and Chicago passed through Fulton. The river crossing at Cairo was accomplished by means of a car ferry, the Steamer "H. S. McComb" which remained in service until the completion of the Illinois Central bridge in 1889.

In the meantime, other developments had taken place. The line from Fulton to Rives had been extended to Trimble in 1873 and to Memphis in 1874, providing Fulton for the first time with a direct route to the "Bluff City." By 1876 the Illinois Central had a controlling interest in these lines, and steps were taken to rebuild the properties in conformity with the Illinois Central standards. Until the middle of 1881 the gauge of the tracks south of the Ohio river was five feet between the rails, while that of the Illinois Central north of the river was the standard gauge of 4 feet 8 1/2 inches. Consequently locomotives could not cross the river, and it was necessary to jack up every car at Cairo and exchange trucks for those of standard gauge or vice versa. This feat, which was accomplished within a few hours time without materially interfering with train schedules, elicited much comment in railway circles throughout the country.

Fifty-seven years ago on July 1 this year, the East Cairo-New Orleans line was formally taken into the Illinois Central System, and during the next two decades Illinois Central expansion in the South was rapid. In 1897 the Illinois Central took over the operation of the railway line between Louisville and Memphis, through Fulton, putting finally to an end the series of receiverships and misfortunes that had marked the road's history in the lower valley.

In 1908 the Illinois Central extended its operations to Birmingham and the following year the "Seminole Limited," the system's all-year-round daily passenger train between Chicago, St. Louis and Florida, made its maiden trip, passing through Fulton on its southbound trip on November 16.

The Illinois Central's latest contribution to Fulton as a railway center was the construction of the line, 169 miles in length, between here and Edgewood, Ill., shortening the rail distance between Fulton and Chicago by twenty-two miles. The construction of this project was begun in 1925. The Kentucky section was opened on April 7, 1927. The Illinois section was completed in May, 1928, and on the 7th of that month the first train was operated over the entire line.

For years Fulton has been the focal center of five lines of the Illinois Central System, and is the only point on the entire system through which moves every passenger, every ton of freight and every passenger passing over the system from North to South and from South to North.

Appropriations made by Congress for the control and eradication of the pink bollworm are said to be inadequate and an additional appropriation is needed for the next fiscal year, in order to carry out the eradication program recommended by the experts of the Department of Agriculture.

"More Than An Even Break"

In contrast to most men who make what the world considers "outstanding successes" the late Charles M. Schwab maintained that "there is certainly something that gives men more than an even break."

Mr. Schwab called himself "one of those proverbial jacks-of-all trade who are usually failures" and declared, "Why I am not, I can't tell you." He believed in "luck, opportunity, chance—call it what you will" but he was also in his day, a hard worker, which might go a long way to explain his success as a steel man.

What Harm Does Malaria Do?

Ask Your Doctor! See If It Does Not Cause More Misery Than All Other Diseases

Many people of our blessed South go about from day to day harboring Malaria germs in their body and do not realize to just what dangers they are subjecting their entire systems. Malaria works in many ways. With some people it immediately causes chills and fevers, with others it may be in the system for many months and may never cause chills but will attack some organ of the body and cause serious trouble in later years. We do not want to scare anyone but it behooves our Southern people to always be on the lookout for Malaria and its complication BILIOUSNESS.

Nine Out of Ten Have Malaria

Your physician will tell you that nine out of ten people in the South have some traces of Malaria even though a blood test will not show it. To be on the safe side watch for the early symptoms and begin treatment. Nash's Tonic, the medicine that is doing so much to eliminate biliousness and Malaria, is the one best remedy as it removes the Malaria germ and acts on the liver at the same time. It will surprise you the poisonous waste matter that it will remove from your system—it will build up the red corpuscles in the blood—it will act as general tonic to your system and make you feel good again.

The Early Symptoms

So watch for the early symptoms and do not get sick in bed with chills and fever. When you feel that lazy no account feeling—when you hate to get up in the morning and feel tired and worn out after you get up—when you have a feeling to stretch from here to yonder—when you have a coated tongue and are constipated; don't wait another day but you get a fifty cent bottle of this wonderful tonic and begin to knock that Malaria out of your system and cause your bowels to have regular action thereby removing the poisons from your system. Mr. Nash says if you don't feel better after taking one bottle to ask for your money back and get it without quibble or question. One bottle will make you feel lots better but continue treatment according to directions to thoroughly remove the dreaded Malaria from your system. Ask your druggist—he will recommend this tonic and tell you of the many people that have been benefited by taking it. For sale in Fulton by Bennett's Drug Store.

WAR WON'T BRING FARM PRICE BOOM

Edward A. O'Neal of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, now touring Louisiana, said he did not think the European war would cause any sudden jump in farm prices as was the case in the last war.

He said the New Deal's war advisory board would keep prices in control. He added, however, that a gradual price rise might be expected to a maximum of about parity prices, or 25 per cent above present prices.

"We have plenty of everything," he said, "stored in warehouses. When scarcity develops, we'll open the warehouses and thus keep prices under control."

When a clerk in an employment office in Atlanta asked to see an applicant's social security number, he began pulling off his shirt, explaining: "My social security number is tattooed on my back."

SOME RAIN AND SNOW SIGNS

If you want to know about the weather, consult local signs, or superstitions, if you prefer to call them by this belittling name. Many of these signs have some basis in meteorology; others are sheer nonsense. But the folk believe the foolish ones quite as readily as the more logical ones.

Here are some queer ones: If you wish to play the part of a rain-maker, kill a snake and hang it up with its belly to the sky. I have often tried this, but I am afraid that the snake must have had enough life to turn over after I left it. You remember that a snake, no matter when it is killed, does not die until sunset. All of the snakes I have hung up were still alive by this rule.

It never rains at night in July. An old weather man of my boyhood always maintained this, year in and year out. I kept records one year to prove him wrong and succeeded admirably. In 1938 we had some of the best gully-washers on July nights, and a remarkably heavy rainfall, over nineteen inches, for the month.

Whenever tree toads sing noticeably and when rain crows (Yellow billed Cuckoos) call, look for rain. As a bird student I have never found any truth in either of these omens, though I am probably not sufficiently in tune with nature to pass judgment yet. I wonder whether raincrows shut up entirely during dry seasons.

When chickens run to shelter at the beginning of a rain, expect only a short shower. If they remain out in the weather, look for a big rain, one long continued. Chickens, as everybody knows, are wise, anyway, and may know the weather as well as they know the prospect of visitors. In the latter instance the rooster crows before the door of the house.

To be sure that snow is just around the corner listen to the noises made by the burning wood in the fireplace. If it makes a sound like heavy shoes walking on snow, there will soon be snow to tramp on (pronounced "tromp"). Just what this means in summer I do not know, largely because we do not have large fires in the fireplace then.

Now for a few that may have a bit of truth in them: A red sunset portends a clear day on the morrow, say some weather prophets; others declare that the reverse is true. Haloes around the sun or moon mean falling weather, rain or snow according to the season. To know how long the storm will last, or how long it will be before it starts, count the stars inside the halo around the moon, a day for each star.

Morning rains are brief. "A morning rain is like an old lady's dance." Except in winter it is literally true that most of our rains come in the afternoon. In rainy seasons, though, all signs fail, just as they do in dry ones. Another version of this belief is that if rain starts before seven in the morning, it will end before eleven.

A clearing of the sky late in the afternoon means clear weather the next day.

"Rainbow at night
Shepherd's delight."

Conversely, early cloudiness in the day foretells rain later in the day, even though morning rains may be brief.

"Rainbow at morning
Shepherds' warning."

SYMPATHETIC SERVICE and MODERN COST

'We were amazed at how little there was for us to do'

That's what one of our clients recently wrote us in gratitude for funeral service rendered at the time of the loss of a member of their family. Shouldering every detail—we add the considerateness of low cost.

The responsibility of making funeral arrangements can be taken over by us expertly. Free yourself of harrowing details, yet have the satisfaction of knowing the best is done.

WE WANT OTHERS TO KNOW ABOUT OUR SERVICE AND TO ACQUAINT THE PUBLIC WITH OUR FUNERAL HOME. WE ARE GOING TO HAVE

OPEN HOUSE

Saturday, Oct. 7, 8 a. m. to 10 p. m.

You are cordially invited to call at our funeral home and let us take you through, showing our equipment in hearses, ambulances, chapel, caskets, dresses, etc.

If not convenient to attend on this date, call any time later.
