THE EVENING POST

ins to appear that the cup over General Lear's forcing a number of hike for ten or fifteen the hot sun will end as it end-in a victory for the After the news of the Gen- action had been published was considerable discussion newspapers and in Congress. y of newspapers think that it ways necessary to criticize y action and it is traditional members of Congress to defend nobody in such manner as to at- tect public attention and create desirable publicity for the sterling en of Congress. This case brought out the usual oratory in Congress and the usual crop of critical editorials. Now it seems that all this is wasted.

• The men who were affected, the lads who offended the General by a breach of discipline and the boys who marched in penance announce they can take it. They say they did break discipline, they deserved punishment and they can take whatever punishment is handed out without whimpering and without any public sympathy. This is as it should be and serve notice to the nation that an army is being made of real men who can take their ups and downs in a soldierly way without crying over the matter.

• Building an army is not child's play. General Lear and the other high officers of the United States Army know their business. They have seen foreign armies. They know that no army can function without rigid discipline, and they also know that well founded discipline and obedience to orders may save thousands of lives under battle conditions. Discipline is founded on apparently trifling things, and American boys, while never giving up their individuality, can at the same time be as perfectly trained as any foreign army. No American army can be made into the docile, sheep like German army. No, American boys will yell at pretty girls and kid a General at such times as opportunity is offered, but they are also willing to pay for such indiscretions if payment is demanded.

• The punishment meted out to these boys in Memphis was a light one; in the German army, a few of the lads might have been shot. There is no room for individuality in the German Army, and it is a superb fighting machine. Coupled with our own American individuality, the American Army will be as good or better.

• However, there is no use in loud talking Congressmen and capping newspaper writers coming to the defense of American soldiers. These lads may not like Army life, but few ever fail to adapt themselves to it. They have the stuff which will carry them through, and the fact that they repudiate all this sympathy which was offered, shows this clearly. I heard a fellow say that he'd bet a lot of these boys were forced to make this statement. There is no way of proving the truth or falsity of this, but I do not believe any pressure was used. The American army, be it Regular, Volunteer or Draftee, has splendid traditions, magnificent morale, sterling fighting qualities, and I sincerely believe that these boys made this statement of their own free will. They knew they had broken discipline and they may have done a lot of grumbling as they paid the price. After it was over their native sense of humor made them see they had been caught in mischief and made to pay for it. It

Nazi Consuls Decline Risking Trip To Japan

Will Stay In U. S. Until British Assure Safe Passage

San Francisco, — German Consuls General Fritz Wiedemann and Hans Borchers missed their boat to Japan Sunday rather than risk British scrutiny at sea.

The two widely-known Nazis, of San Francisco and New York, respectively, stayed by their telephones almost to the last minute before the S. Y. K. liner Yawata Maru sailed at noon. But the orders they were awaiting did not come.

Two consular automobiles and 121 pieces of baggage remained on the dock. The German consular corps had made reservations for sixteen persons, including relatives and attaches. So far as was known none of them was aboard.

"It all depends on safe passage when we leave," an aid at the consulate office said. "We understand the U. S. State Department is still negotiating with the British about to leave under the present circumstances, so we didn't."

The San Francisco British consulate said it was not informed as to developments.

Dr. Borchers, his wife and a maid flew from New York last Thursday intending to take the Yawata Maru. Both Dr. Borchers and Wiedemann said it was probable they'd be stationed in the Orient.

German consular officials have left through this port at various times in recent months, always with a safe passage guarantee from Britain. Why such guarantee was not forthcoming in this instance was not known.

Yoo-Hoo Soldiers Can Take It, Say Punishment Was Justified

Memphis, Tenn. — Men of the 110th (Yoo-Hoo) Battalion feel they can "take it" and are indignant over adverse reaction to punishment given them for "yoo-hooing" at shorts-clad girls here, a high Second Army spokesman said Friday night on his return from Camp Robinson, Ark., where the unit is stationed.

"The morale of the men has never been so high," the officer declared. "They are aggrieved that they should be thought such slaves and weaklings that they can't take it. They feel they damn well deserved their punishment."

The punishment—having to re-

Editor Of The News Announces For City Council

J. Paul Bushart, editor of the Fulton County News, formally announced his candidacy for election on the Fulton City Council, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, August 2. Mr. Bushart is a young man who has been active in civic affairs in Fulton for the past ten years, being a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Young Men's Business Club, Elks Club, and the First Baptist Church. After graduating from Fulton High School, he has since attended business college, and studied journalism and law for two years. He resides on College street in West Fulton.

"In making my announcement," Mr. Bushart said, "I have no special claims to make, other than that I am, like many other civic-minded citizens, deeply interested in the economic and civic welfare of our community. I fully realize that any city official owes an obligation to his community, to see that the duties of his office are properly administered, and that every effort be made to regulate and carry out these duties with full consciousness of the responsibility given an official by the people who elect them."

"I am glad that I have had an opportunity to take part in community work here in my home town for the past several years. Those who know me best, know that I have always been eager to see our community improve and get ahead. I have aided in various programs promoting the progress of our city, as every good citizen in it does from time to time. Individual efforts for good streets, good schools, good social and moral surroundings, as well as ever-increasing business and industrial activity providing more payrolls and improving general economic conditions, are all of vital importance to our community."

"Changes are occurring throughout our nation. There are certain to be many more readjustments in the next few years in order to maintain economic equilibrium and preserve the American way of life. Every community in our great nation will be faced with problem after problem. The mayor and city council of every city and community will have to devote, in true civic spirit, much of their time and effort, to keep their community abreast of the times, and protect the best interests of their people. Whoever is elected to serve Fulton will have tasks to perform that will tax their ingenuity and best efforts. "Realizing these sacred responsibilities, I have after considerable encouragement from my friends and business associates, decided to announce for the council."

"This time there are two candidates for mayor, and eleven men have come out for membership on the council. It will be your job, as voters of this fine community, to go to the polls Saturday, August 2, and help preserve the good old American spirit of Democracy by voting for a mayor, and six of the eleven men to serve on the city council. You owe it to yourself and your community to exercise your own best judgment and vote as you deem it proper and best. There's

If You Forget Dates, Don't Drive In Spain

Madrid. — You have to keep track of the day of the month if you want to drive an automobile in Spain.

The law says that if you park on one-way streets, you must stop before hours with even numbers on the even days of the month and in front of houses with odd numbers on odd dates.

The idea is that the Spanish don't want to have one side of a one-way street all worn out by the end of the month. Cafe and restaurant owners likewise don't want cars parked on their side of the street all year 'round.

And there's a fifteen-peseta fine if you forget the date.

Fire Engines And Rubber Put On U. S. Crisis List

Washington. — Rubber was added by the Office of Production Management Sunday to the list more than 200 "critical items" to which Army and Navy contracting officers may assign preference ratings. All types of fire prevention and fighting equipment also were added. Officials said that fire engines had been purchased for army camps and for that reason were included among the items on which Government orders will have priority over civilian purchases.

Liquor And Corporation Taxes Increase $1,250,000 In Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky. — Increases of more than $1,250,000 each in liquor and income tax special corporation tax returns, as well as sizeable advances in other receipts, were shown today in the finance department's final report on the fiscal year ended June 30.

The total general expenditures fund income of $31,065,598.37, already announced, was $4,115,797.74 above the previous year. Director of accounts and control Arch Bennett announced that after deducting all obligations a net surplus of $977,941.66 was shown—the first surplus in the Treasury since December, 1907.

Bennett explained the net surplus was arrived at by deducting from the cash balance the total of all called and uncalled obligations, incumbrances and interest chargeable to the period just ended not actually paid.

"The actual cash balance," Bennett added, "will prove to be really more than a million since actual payment of claims outstanding will be less than the amount of incumbrances due to the fact that in-

Martin Urges Defense Work Be Speeded

Demands That President Roosevelt Break Bottlenecks

Washington. — Representative Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, demanded Sunday that President Roosevelt "take such steps, under his present authority and appropriations, as will break the bottleneck, free the log jams and get our national preparedness program moving as it should."

In a statement, Martin asked too, that "the nation be informed of the real state of the national preparedness," and an end put to "concealment of mistakes."

Arms Output Is Low.
The Republican leader said it had been stated by authoritative sources, and not refuted, that "the Administration in a full year of armament effort has produced a volume of arms which Germany's Europe could turn out in less than two months and England in about three months."

He asserted that the Administration had been given "ample power and ample appropriations" to carry out the program.
Another Republican, Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts, said in a statement that the President was "pursuing a policy, secretly agreed upon long in advance, of armed intervention of the United States in the present war in Europe and has shamelessly repudiated his (campaign) promises to the American people." This Tinkham asserted, was demonstrated by the American occupation of the British and American navies around Iceland.

Rockefeller Center Closes Walk To Keep Title To It

New York. — Four uniformed attendants shooed away hundreds of curious pedestrians Sunday when a three-block plaza running north and south in Rockefeller Center was closed to traffic to permit private retention of the land.

Under common law a roadway which the public is permitted to use continuously for a year becomes public property. To satisfy the city fathers and Columbia University, the landlord of the plaza, Rockefeller Center roped off the territory at 5 a. m. and barred the public for twelve hours.

BLITZKRIEG SCHEDULE IS NOW BADLY UPSET

Those military observers who predicted that Germany would conquer Russia in three weeks based their calculations on carefully studied past performances but they will have to amend their gloomy prophecy. With the end of today's fighting three weeks will have passed and as yet the decisive phase of the struggle has not begun. Up to the present, it may be said, Hitler's legions have penetrated only that vast No Man's Land which separates the German-Russian frontier from the main lines of Russia's fortifications. Russia, because of its huge size and its numerically powerful mechanized army, is unique and the present campaign cannot be compared with those that preceded it.

In three weeks Poland was crushed and the Bolshhevik hordes invaded the prostrate country for their share of the spoils. In three weeks Norway was occupied and the poorly armed Allied expeditionary force beat an inglorious retreat from Namoss and Aldalessnes. In three weeks Holland and Belgium were overrun. France was cut in two and a catastrophe defeat was avoided by the Dunkerque evacuation. In three weeks following Dunkerque the armistice was signed in the Forest of Compiègne. And in three weeks the conquering Nazi war machine rolled over Yugoslavia and Greece. Up to the invasion of Russia three weeks was the maximum time limit for a Nazi conquest.

But the failure to score a victory in the present titanic struggle is not due alone to the stubborn resistance of the Russians.

The vastness of the Russian steppe and the inability to put out of commission any large body of the Red Army or the Red Air Force has prevented a blitzkrieg. Hitler's panzer divisions have covered more ground in shorter time in the Soviet Union than in Poland, France or the Balkans. The trouble for the Nazis is there is so much ground to cover and it may prove limitless if the Red Army can avoid annihilation.

Thus three weeks have passed and three more may follow and the weeks may turn into months before a knock out blow is delivered to the huge Russian Bear. Certainly Hitler's past performances are no criterion on which to judge the duration of the present conflict.—Courier-Journal.

WILL CONGRESS WAKE UP AND TRY?

Congress is now sorely distressed at the complexities of price control which Congress, after everyone else had started to worry about the matter, finally heard of.

Whatever had been done about price control was evidently done in a haze and until "Cotton Ed" Smith started to howl about Leon Henderson's stab at cotton, the matter had apparently never intruded itself upon congressional minds. Now there are signs of an awakening to the fact that present price control powers are a slap-happy arrangement, lacking pattern, and permissible only of indiscriminate dashes at isolated items.

What the country needs and must have if the follies of 1929 and the mistakes that built them up are to be avoided is a general ceiling control of all prices and that by a definite agency, legally constituted, duly empowered and charged with promulgating a program that sets forth aims, practices and penalties for non-conformance.

Doubtless for lack of something better the executive branch will reason itself to be empowered to attend to the problem. But as matters stand today there seems more of a bottle-neck in the inner circle than anywhere else and it will grow worse as additional duties are flung carelessly on the Presidential desk by Congress.

If there is any disposition to believe that a catastrophe in price elevation will not come about unless a ceiling is imposed on costs of goods and labor alike, take a look at the government charts that tell very simply what happened in the last war. From an index figure of 80 in 1937, 10 points over 1918, costs swept up almost vertically to an unprecedented index of 150 in 1920 and then zig-zagged down to around 120 in 1922, pushed up to an uncertain 130 in 1926, then fluttered along to the nose-dive of 1929 which continued until an index of 90 was reached in 1933. It crossed to 110 in 1937 and hovered around a hundred until the beginning of 1941 from whence it has climbed to about 115 in a few months. It is accelerating now.

In this period that is so plainly charted labor gained some ground, super-business profited, ordinary business and fixed moderate incomes wilted under the price barrage, and in the last analysis nearly everyone was hurt and the financial fabric of the country weakened by an undeclared inflation and consequent deflation just as will happen again if the curb is not applied.—Sun-Democrat.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

In Johnson county, poultry raising was increased until a local hatchery could not supply the demand for chicks. Boone county farmers used 1,452,000 pounds of phosphate and 11,000 tons of agricultural limestone Jan. 1—July 1, 1941.

Utopia club members in Laure county are keeping tab on a corn demonstration of 25 varieties in five series.

Frank Wheeler, Harlan county, sold 300 fryers a week at top prices and could not supply the demand.

At 10 Marion county community meetings, big home gardens and larger production of poultry, pork and dairy products were planned.

A final check-up showed 125,000 square yards of tobacco plant beds in Garrard county treated with Bordeaux Mixture.

Hopkinsville county farmers found pigs raised in sanitary quarters were healthier and made better growth than those in worm-infested pens.

Homemakers in McCracken county have begun a program to can all surplus peaches as a "food for defense" measure.

Better management of poultry and better sanitation has been adopted by Jackson county farmers as a way to large egg production.

not a man who is offering himself as a city official, who does not do so because of his deep and sincere civic consciousness, and there's not one who would feel the least bit disappointed if he is not elected. They probably all feel, like myself, that they are willing and ready to shoulder the responsibilities of office, if you as voters feel that we should do so. But, being a small community, where most of us know the majority of the citizenry, we all realize that the job will be done, and done well, as long as the people are allowed to privilege of choosing their duly elected representatives as we in America like to do things."

Strength In The Foundation

A business enterprise of lasting importance is somewhat like a giant bridge that spans the mighty stream. If it is to stand the test of time, it must be built upon a solid foundation.

Thirty-three years ago this month, the BROWDER MILLING COMPANY came into existence. Founded upon solid principles, this firm has enjoyed the confidence, good-will and patronage of a majority of the people in and around FULTON. We appreciate this fact and would like to offer our sincere thanks, again, for your loyalty during these thirty-three years.

BROWDER MILLING CO.

THE ROPE WON'T REACH

Picture the despair of a clutching hand and a rope that is too short—it means tragedy.

So, if your insurance is poorly planned and inadequately written, you may suffer crushing loss when the rope fails to reach your clutching hand.

Let us analyze your insurance problems and offer suggestions which are based on full experience and knowledge. We'll be glad to do this.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

THERE is little doubt that some of the methods and measures that have been instituted recently by industry as emergency features will become permanent, especially those concerned with the training of skilled workmen. There are many reasons why

Rufus T. Strohm American industry prior to the war in Europe had neglected apprentice training programs; however, that situation is being rapidly corrected.

Probably the best equipped industries in the United States at the onset of the defense program, as far as training goes, were those of the New England states. There long-term apprentice systems and state industrial schools had long existed and were quickly geared to defense needs. In Connecticut and Massachusetts, where many small but vital industries are gathered closely geographically, community training programs, financed by the state but definitely operated by and for the industries of the area, have been successfully and rapidly developed.

From the experience of the years and the accelerated experience of meeting emergency training problems of the last few months, industry is learning much. When the crisis passes, it will have at its command the greatest army of skilled workmen in world history—and the greatest plant facilities.

Now is a good time for management to begin thinking about the future. Needs of the moment obviously must be the major consideration, but lessons learned should not be forgotten. Some day the army of skilled workmen now being created must be utilized and still further expanded. It is a problem that must be answered by industry itself.

Tigers Break Even With Barons In Double Header There Sunday

After running over Bowling Green 12 to 4 in the first game of a Sunday double bill, the Tigers were set back in defeat in the eighth inning, as Manager Simons singled in the tying run in the seventh frame. The Barons went on to win 3 to 2.

In the first game the Tigers blasted two Bowling Green pitchers for ten runs in the first two innings and Mike Lake held the Barons safely all the way. Reese led the hitting with three safeties.

The second game developed into a duel between Harry Sprute and Lee, with each pitcher doing good work. Lee gave the Tigers only eight hits, while Sprute was touched for a dozen, but the big lefty kept them scattered and held a 2 to 1 lead until the seventh inning. In that inning Mel Simons drove in the tying run and in the eighth Richardson came through with a double to win the game.

Tonight Hugh Wise brings his Owensboro Oilers to town for a three game series. The Oilers have just finished dropping three games to Jackson.
