RED CROSS BANQUET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Sixty-five persons attended the Red Cross banquet at the Methodist Church Wednesday evening, including members of the official board of the Fulton chapter, ministers of the town, workers and several invited guests.

Red candles in crystal holders and red flowers were used in decorating the table, with Red Cross place cards. The ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society served a delicious turkey dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

The invocation was given by the Rev. J. N. Wilford, Supt. J. O. Lewis, chairman of the Red Cross board, acted as toastmaster and presented Mrs. J. B. Manley and Tillman Adams, who entertained those present with several old-time songs. Miss Maxine McGee was the accompanist. Mr. Adams also gave an excellent impersonation of Bob Burns.

A report was made by the treasurer, Mrs. S. P. McEwen. Mr. Ernest Fall, Sr., chairman of the nominating committee, reported that Supt. Lewis was the committee's selection for chairman. Supt. Lewis was declared chairman by proclamation.

The toastmaster then introduced Dr. Don P. Hawkins, minister of the First Christian Church. Dr. Hawkins spoke on the splendid work that is being done by the American Red Cross and praised the local chapter for its assistance.

Miss Mary Ethel Lansen gave several accordion selections. Miss Ruth Riley, national representative and supervisor of thirty chapters of the American Red Cross, was then introduced and she made an interesting talk on the work that is being done by the Red Cross in Europe.

Mrs. Mansfield Martin, roll call chairman, announced final plans to workers for the annual roll call in Fulton.

The meeting was then adjourned by the group singing "America" led by Paul Hornbeak.

Clyde Williams Sopke Clyde Williams Sopke

Clyde Williams, local banker, spoke on "Money Mysteries" to the members of the Rotary Club in its weekly meeting Tuesday. Mr. Williams gave a short talk on the origin of money but spoke chiefly on inflation and deflation. He pointed out that the value of money depends on the faith that the people have in the nation backing it. He stated that the depression of 1929 began because nations lost confidence in each other, and that when people lose their faith in the government money begins to lose its value.

Next week Dr. Ward Bushart will speak on the Crippled Children's program sponsored by the Rotary Club.

TRUCKS COLLIDE NEAR FULTON

The truck belonging to the Union City and Fulton Hatchery was completely demolished about 8:30 Tuesday morning on the Metropolis highway, two miles north of Fulton. A truck driven by Jamie Stallins pulled out of a side road and into the hatchery truck.

Mr. Patterson, driver of the hatchery truck, suffered painful bruises and severe cuts about the face. He was treated at the Fulton Hospital. Mrs. Don Gerling, who was riding with him, was uninjured.

Grant's Sale Event Draws Many Shoppers

"Never have we had better response than we have had in the past week to our special selling event," Mr. A. R. Roam, manager of Grant & Company stated this week. "We are well pleased with the results of our sale, and know that the people recognized the outstanding values being offered, and for that reason were quick to take advantage of this opportunity to purchase fall and winter merchandise at definite savings."

"We still have a lot of new merchandise, for the unusually mild weather retarded sales during October, and these goods must be sold. Our store must be cleared to make room for holiday merchandise, so the time is right for you to replenish your needs."

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL

DOROTHY PICKLE, Reporter
Two Schools Meet—Both With Perfect Records

The 6-Man Football, which has been an interest of many football fans of Fulton is a wide-open game that was first originated in 1934 by Stephen Elpher, former Nebraska school-master and now of New York. This game has spread like wild-fire and is now played by more than 3000 squads in United States, Canada and Hawaii.

The South Fulton school is well represented with a fine coach and also a winning team. The Red Devils will motor to Memphis Tenn., Tuesday at noon where they will meet Hulbert, West Memphis, Ark., at the Fairfield Stadium in Memphis Tuesday night at 8:00.

Coach Cravens has been giving the boys hard work-outs and is drilling them on running, passing and punting. Coach will take first and second teams and three extra subs.

They are: T. Edwards, R. Dyer, H. Wells, J. McKinney, H. Frankum, L. Faulkner, J. Parham, L. Texas, J. Greer, R. Vancil, M. Luther, L. Frazier, W. Coffman, B. Dalton, B. Buchanan.

The entire squad will be intact for this game. Hulbert High team has not lost a game in three consecutive seasons of playing. They have an average weight of 145 pounds. The Red Devils have an equal weight to their's, so they expect to show a close battle.

The South Fulton school bus will take forty passengers to this game. If you are interested in going notify Mr. J. C. Goode or Supt. Cravens.

The cost to ride the bus will be 75 cents. Tickets to this game will be sold at the South Fulton High school this week until Friday. And these tickets in advance will be 25 and 50 cents.

Mr. Dillery also spoke of the necessity of watching the education of children. He pointed out that sending the children to school is not enough. Parents should visit schools and see that children are being properly taught.

HELL-RIDERS IN THRILL SHOW SUN.

The local speed season will be brought to an exciting close Sunday afternoon with a two-hour exhibition by "the world's greatest thrill show" featuring the "king" of all daredevils Mickey Martin and his troupe of "Hell Riders." Feats of nerve and daring with automobiles, seen here before only in moving pictures, will be performed in rapid-fire order on the Fair Grounds race track in full view of all spectators.

12 Acts

Martin and his crew of car-smashers were scheduled as an after-piece for the race program staged last Sunday but darkness prevented them from giving a complete show. The enthusiastic reception given the "stunts" that they were able to perform prompted them to stay over for a complete show consisting of 12 separate and distinct acts of dare devilry that will tax the imagination of the most avid thrill fan.

To Demolish Three Cars

Headlining the program will be the old maestro-daredevil, Mickey himself, in a sensational jump of a stock automobile over the tops of two large trucks or four parked sedans. Paralleling this feat will be that of "Doggie" Artrip completely demolishing no less than three automobiles. He will prepare two for the "bone yard" in a deliberate side-on collision in mid air and drive another into a twenty-ton stone wall at a mile-a-minute, staying in the car during the impact.

Ann Terry Will Perform

Miss Ann Terry, whose stunt of jumping her car through a single wall of boards and flames proved to be the "star" act of the entire program last Sunday, will attempt to send her car through two walls this week. The barriers will be set up on the track six feet apart, saturated with gasoline and ignited a few seconds before the crash. Quick action by the Fulton fire department prevented Miss Terry from being seriously burned and her car destroyed last week when it emerged from the inferno with a mass of flames enveloping the front end.

Starts At 2:00 O'Clock

Boy Scout troops 43 and 44 are sponsoring the daredevils and it was announced by these in charge that only a small charge would be made at the front gate and that the grandstand seats would be free. Action will get under way promptly at 2 o'clock and it was said, there will be no delays or long waits between acts. Rains the last part of the week will not affect the show, it was said.

Fulton Will Observe Thanksgiving Nov. 30

WELCH HIGH SCHOOL

The entire school of Welch observed Friday, November 10 as a banner day in the realm of education. Practically all the morning was devoted to special programs in harmony with the spirit manifested through the United States during the National Education Week.

Highlights of the morning activities were the allegiance pledge on the part of the entire student body to the flag of the United States and a most enthusiastic talk on "Education in a Democracy" by Mrs. King Webb of Dresden, Tenn. The theme of the whole morning's program centered around patriotism and loyalty to American ideals and institutions. Such a program has proven highly important and profitable to both the school and community since one day preferably Friday of the National Educational Week has been designated as parental day. A most sincere invitation to all patrons to visit and advise with the faculty on school problems was extended and a hearty response ensued.

The Welch school and community are not altogether lost in the realm of intellectual pursuits for they have taken time off to construct a concrete floor in their basement. The school now boasts of having a nice smooth floor in their basement which has been badly needed. Congratulations to a most enthusiastic and loyal P. T. A. That is not all by any means, the P. T. A. is still working ardently on their hot lunch project hoping it will soon yield fruit.

In the realm of athletics, purple and gold are at the zenith. The "Blue Blazers" of Welch triumphed over Chestnut Glade Friday night three games in a row. First game: Welch Midgets vs. Chestnut Glade Midgets, scores—Welch 22, Chestnut Glade 8; second game: Welch 1st team girls vs. Chestnut Glade first team girls, scores—Welch 45, Chestnut Glade 15 and most interesting of the three was Welch's all stars vs. Chestnut Glade all stars, score 11 to 3. Welch, Chestnut Glade failed for some reason to get a field goal. Our next rival is Panther Creek at Welch Friday beginning at 6:30, everyone cordially invited who is interested in clean wholesome sport, admission 10c to all.

Ask Bates Byars if he is getting big enough to date. Juanita Reed is getting tired of being Mildred Woodruff's and Louis Wilson's mail carrier.

We are very lonesome this week since we lost one of our best school mates, Reba Morris, although we wish her good luck and a very happy married life.

Everyone had a bright face when they saw Pauline Means back in school today. But it's very bad on Eugene Killebrew because he had to give up his seat sitting behind Maybelle Carney.

Scott Ross is always yelling "Play Sidney," we wonder why?

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The neutrality debate, at the beginning, was widely heralded as a potential oratorical battle of the century. Commentators looked back along the tortuous path of American history, recalled the great moments of the past in House and Senate, and freely forecast that another major page in the story of this Republic was about to be dramatically written. The page was written all right, but it certainly was not done dramatically. In the view of correspondents at the scene, the quality of debate on both sides was generally very poor. The big issues were obscured by incidentals. Apparently the Senate itself was bored by the arguments—on a number of occasions the Chamber was practically empty, as some Senator or other talked to vacant desks, while the majority of his colleagues lounged in the cloak-room or went about other business.

Apparently the isolationists in the Senate were unable to swing a single vote. The final vote for the Administration neutrality bill was almost exactly what floor leaders confidently forecast weeks ago. And in the House, the majority in favor was even larger than Administration leaders, for the most part, had predicted.

The best available evidence indicates that the passage of the bill met with the approval of a considerable majority of the people. All the standard polls have shown a strong sentiment in favor of aiding England and France with all means "short of war."

Big question now is to just what extent the repeal of the arms embargo will benefit American industry. Most experts feel that while it will help results will not attain the giddy estimates made on the outbreak of war. England and France will buy supplies of war materials here, due to necessity. But they will buy as few as possible, so far as the present is concerned, and will husband their dwindling gold resources. Largest demand will probably be for airplanes, which English and French factories are unable to produce in needed quantities. In fact, several hundred completed planes, ordered long ago, have been waiting in storage for repeal of the embargo. Allied ships are expected to come to our shores to get them soon.

Some think that England and France will not be able to fulfill all their desired orders here, because of our own military expansion program. Men high in the army and navy are known to feel strongly that we should rigidly control exports of implements of war until our needs are met.

Military experts are now waiting in suspense to see just what luck Britain and France will have in getting their ships home from the U. S. The German U-boat campaign has so far been eminently successful. And it seems to be true that the three German pocket battleships, which Britain at first thought were bottled up in Reich naval bases, escaped the blockade and are now roaming the seas. These ships are extremely fast. Their firepower is superior to that of any Allied war ships, save a few modern French and English battle-ships and big battle cruisers. They have wide cruising ranges, and, apparently, have sources of supply which the Allies have been unable to cut off. It was one of these ships, Deutschland, which seized the City of Flint. They, plus Germany's sub-

SINGING ROUND THE ORGAN

Not every home could afford an organ in the old days, just as not every home has a piano or radio now, but every organ was a community instrument, anyway, and could be used whenever it was so desired. Sunday afternoon was the official time to gather at some place where there was an organ and sing until it was time to go home to feed the stock.

It was not necessary to be a real musician to play the accompaniment to the songs we sang. Some good chords would do if one did not know how to read the soprano and then make up the bass. Most organists, though, could do pretty well for their training. Some of the people, male and female, singing the air. Of course, there was the neighborhood alto, such as they are rarely found now, but they were rare.

Most homes would not tolerate anything but sacred songs on Sunday. That meant that we must resist the temptation to sing "Margie," "Darling, I Am Growing Old," and dozens of other more worldly things that could be sung on any other day, with or without the accompaniment of the organ, the fiddle, or any combination of musical instruments. Occasionally we broke over, anyway, and were scolded only mildly, for the heads of the house had to confess to a joy in hearing us, in spite of the harm done on Sunday. Most of us knew this and acted accordingly.

There is something very appealing to me yet in seeing people gather around the organ to sing. There is a neighborliness in it all, which Seth Parker, in his radio programs, has perpetuated in our sophisticated times. Old people, with broken voices, often joined in with us, moved by the spell of other times and places.

A word should be said for the organ for most organs were worthy of notice, both for what they could and for what they could not do. Seldom did an organ keep its true tone for more than a few years. If there were mechanics who could help them, I never met any such. Sometimes a key would get stuck and carry its tone right through the whole piece. Still more often the octave stop would get out of order, so that a note might be a mile too high. But people around the organ, singing lustily because life was sweet, did not pay much attention to such minor things as a note's being obstreperous.

Very rarely we opened the front roops on other days besides Sunday. Then anything was appropriate, even fast melodies. Select company sometimes came on off days and could play the organ in any way they chose. Comic songs thus sometimes got to us, songs that we clung to afterward. Many times the one who played the organ on such occasions sang the song himself, doing what we all admired as something skillful, both playing and singing.

The radio brings us great things, things I enjoy as much as any one. I am sure. But sometimes I long for a full-voiced group of amateurs around the organ or, now, the piano, a group that takes seriously the responsibility of providing its own entertainment.

As a result of this big crop, the supply of burley on October 1, this year, was placed at 1,046,000,000 pounds, the third largest supply in history.

The vote on November 21 will be conducted under the direction of a local committee of farmers in every community in which burley tobacco is grown. All farmers who produced burley this year, as hundreds of thousands of shareholders are eligible to vote.

The proposed 1940 marketing quotas are on an acreage basis, which provides that all producers, who keep within their acreage allotments, can sell their entire production without penalty. Any acreage grown in excess of acreage allotments will be subject to a flat penalty of 10 cents a pound.

SUCCESS FAMILY

The Father of Success is work.
The Mother of Success is Ambition.

The oldest son is Common Sense; Some of the other boys are Persistence, Honesty, Thoroughness.

Foresight, Enthusiasm and Cooperation.

The oldest daughter is character. Some of her sisters are Cheerfulness, Loyalty, Courtesy, Care, Economy, Sincerity and Harmony. The baby is Opportunity.

Hatred, prejudice, jealousy and envy are characteristics of small minds and the smaller the mind the more of these undesirable qualities it will hold. They are directed against one's superiors, never against inferiors.—Anon.

Speaking of airplanes, it is reported that the automobile industry is planning to go in for plane manufacture soon, due of course, to foreign demand. It is a comparatively easy matter for the auto makers to change over plants and gear them to plane production. Also, plant expansion is said to be planned.

Other business news indicates a general confidence that times are going to get better. Thoughtful economists continue to point out that a "war prosperity" is an exceedingly dangerous thing—that industrial expansion to prepare for war buying simply paves the way for a terrific collapse in the future. But that doesn't affect immediate profits.

As a result of all this, reemployment has been going ahead. The unemployed total now is undoubtedly at its lowest level since 1931. And it is still going down.

BURLEY GROWERS TO VOTE NOVEMBER 21

Burley tobacco growers in Kentucky and in all other states producing this type of tobacco will vote November 21 on marketing quotas for the 1940 crop.

Following excessive production this year, the Secretary of Agriculture established a marketing quota for next year's crop. Two-thirds of those voting November 21 must approve the quota to make it effective.

Production of burley tobacco this year is estimated by the Government at 354,000,000 pounds, or considerably more than consumption. Some manufacturers believe more than this has been produced.

THE FORUM

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

VIOLINS AND LOCOMOTIVES
—Music and business are both based on harmony. They cannot be placed on one standard and be expected to advance. Pieces written for the Southland such as "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe," "Dixie," etc., seem more appropriate when played with a harmonica, guitar, violin or banjo. The more subtle music of today needs to be played by a modern orchestra.

Music changes and reflects the times. If music were restricted to a certain standard, it would not advance. Business is the same as music. If leaders in business were tied down to non-flexible rules, there could be no improvement. The spirit of advancement would be lacking.

Through the ages people who have been ground down under a tyrant, struggled to secure freedom. And when freedom was secured, there was rapid advancement and rising living standards. The United States has been the greatest example of this and is proof that freedom is a synonym for incentive and inspiration.

Music demands free expression. Business, like music, cannot thrive on a code of restriction.

There is nothing of unusual interest to report from the business

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts.
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are overburdened or overindulged, your stomach often cannot digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sick, and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and makes it take time to make the excess stomach acids harmless, before they do no time and put you back on your feet. Believe it or not, it is amazing and new. ### EROSION CONTROL COOPERATIVES

Farmers a good many years ago learned that local cooperative associations gave them many advantages impossible to obtain as individuals. They found out that through organization the interests of the individual could be protected. The rapid growth of local farmer cooperatives in recent years is a testimonial to this modern understanding on the part of the rural dweller.

It is not surprising, then, that farmers all over the nation are now organizing to fight their greatest common enemy, soil erosion. It has been recognized that soil erosion is too big for one man to tackle alone. It is understood that soil erosion is a community problem, that the best way to tackle a community problem is through community action.

Farmers in 36 states, therefore, are organizing erosion control cooperatives legally known as soil conservation districts. These districts are organized and managed by the farmers themselves. Through these districts it is possible for farmers to receive the assistance of state and federal agricultural agencies—assistance such as the advice of trained technicians, use of special machinery and equipment, use of CCC labor, grants of materials, such as seeds and trees, and even special financial grants. Such assistance is available only where there is local organization.

About 200 soil conservation districts have been organized in the United States to date. As many more are somewhere in the process of organization. Thirty six states have authorized them by special legislative acts. Kentucky is not one of these states. If Kentucky

HENS RESPOND TO GOOD CARE

For the hens, good feeding, comfortable quarters, sufficient water. For the flock owners, eggs in winter, when prices are good. So says, "Poultry Pointers for November," published by the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

To feed well, keep mash and grain before the flock in self-feeders. One hundred hens will drink four or five gallons of water a day. It is the cheapest part of the egg and should be supplied liberally.

A comfortable house is free from drafts and is dry. A deep litter is desirable. Artificial lighting is being used by some farmers who have electricity. Two 40-watt bulbs are enough for a 20 by 20 laying house. Lights are usually turned on about 4 a.m.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Here are some facts about the new administration.

Governor Johnson is the first newspaper man ever elected to that office and is the third man elected who was not a lawyer.

His majority is the largest ever given a governor. He is 43 years old, married, has one daughter, Judy age 11, and one sister who has been with the Educational Department at Frankfort.

All the other officers are familiar to the readers of this column and have been at Frankfort with the exception of the Commission of Agriculture, Bill May, a young politician with a bright future. He has been with the Federal Land Bank where he had a chance to meet and learn the problems of the farmers and will serve them well as Commissioner. Attorney General Hubert Merideth was re-elected by a big majority for a full term, he had been serving out a part term left vacant by Congressman Vincent.

State Treasurer Ernest Shannon was formerly State Auditor and is President of a bank at Louisville.

Auditor Dave Logan was assistant Auditor under Shannon in the last administration. He is a brother of the late Senator M. M. Logan. Superintendent of Public Instruction Brooker, served in the Education under Peters and Chandler.

Secretary of State Hatcher from Ashland served as Asst. Clerk of the Court of Appeals under the last administration.

Charles O'Connell was re-elected to a full term as Clerk of the Court of Appeals. He was elected to fill out the term of his father who died soon after the last election.

Rodes Myers Lieutenant Governor had been representative in previous legislatures.

The Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky are meeting in Lexington the 17-18 and rumor has it that W. H. Crowder, Jr., of Mayfield, Graves County, will be elected the next president. They have a strong organization and did Yeoman service in the last election.

The Governor and a number of the State politicians are on a duck hunt at Reelfoot Lake this week, resting up after the campaign and, we hope, getting a lot of ducks.

UNCLE JIM SAYS

Decent income is the foundation on which farm prosperity rests.

Every third bushel produced last year represented wheat that nobody wanted to buy.

Nothing changes the looks and prolongs the life of farm buildings like a good coat of paint.

One of the best ways for dairymen to make a short feed crop go further is to cull low producing cows.

The 62 million acre wheat allotment for 1940 is larger than the acreage harvested any year during the World War.

Farm flock records show that there is a close relation between egg production during the month of September, October, and November and profit per hen.

To insure fall egg production, early pullets and hens that molt late should be provided with comfortable quarters and fed liberally on grain with mash or milk supplements.

Field selection of seed corn from standing stalks requires very little time and trouble and pays big dividends in increased production. Seed ears should be taken only from well balanced stalks of medium size, having well developed root systems, and producing heavily in competition with surrounding plants.

BLIND HORSE PICKS FERTILIZED PLOT FOR BETTER GRASS

Equine Sleuth Is Advocate of Pasture Improvement.

GEORGETOWN, OHIO.—Believe it or not, a Brown county farmer owns a blind horse that can unerringly pick out the part of his pasture that has been fertilized.

How the sightless equine sleuth accomplishes this feat was described by G. H. Pulliam, county agricultural agent here.

Mr. Pulliam assisted several Brown county farmers in laying out pasture improvement demonstration plots last season. After the grass had time to respond to the fertilizer treatment, the farmers noticed that livestock would go directly to the improved areas to graze and move only to adjoining ground when the grass on the treated soil had been eaten down.

Know Their Pasture

This was not regarded as unusual, for agronomists have noted the eagerness of livestock to graze fertilized areas, or spots where the soil was naturally more fertile. Limed and fertilized pasture produces a darker green grass, of more luxuriant growth and greater succulence than pasture on untreated soil.

But one farmer reported that he owned a blind horse which could go alone to the improved pasture as unerringly as animals with normal vision.

"If a blind horse can find a small plot of improved pasture in a good sized field," Mr. Pulliam observed, "then it seems it's time human beings admitted the values obtained from pasture improvement."

"This is the first time in history anywhere that a blind horse has been a leader toward a better agricultural system."

Soil Improvement's Values

The advantages of pasture improvement not only in Ohio but elsewhere were pointed out by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. Not only does improved pasture produce grass richer in minerals, but the fertilized grass grows more rapidly than grass on depleted land, a bulletin says. Thus it provides a diet essential to healthy growth and prevents the occurrence of deficiency diseases among livestock.

"A program of pasture improvement through the use of commercial fertilizers of recommended grades and analyses," says the bulletin, "is an investment that returns valuable dividends. It helps conserve the soil, prevents erosion and adds to the long range value of the farm."

THE SENSIBLE WAY

Championing the cause of cotton and cottonseed products, the National Cotton Council has set up a new section on trade barriers and penalties.

The principal activity of this new section will be to increase the use of cottonseed oil, with major emphasis being placed upon efforts to free margarine from its present unjust burden of taxes and restrictions.

Margarine manufacture in 1938 consumed 170,000,000 pounds of cottonseed oil. Reliable estimates indicate that use of cottonseed oil in margarine would rise as much as 33-1-3 per cent if state restrictions were lifted. If federal taxes were removed, it is estimated that margarine sales would treble.

The Cotton Council is going about this battle against trade barriers in the only sensible way. While successfully combatting 29 legislative attempts to further restrict margarine sales during the past year, it has laid a groundwork of economic research on the subject of margarine. Now it has established a new department headed by a widely known authority on the margarine problem.

An educational campaign is about to be launched, telling of the true virtues of this wholesome, nutritious food product. The story will be brought home to the consumer.

The injustice of the present scheme of prohibitive restrictions and trade barriers will be shown to the people and their law makers.

It will be a long campaign and a hard one. But only through such a program as the Council outlines can we hope to broaden and to hold this valuable market for American cottonseed. It is too valuable to risk through slipshod methods and hurried schemes.

WHY NOT KENTUCKY?

Thirty-six states have taken steps to combat America's leading agricultural problem—soil erosion—by community action. These states have passed legislation that permits local groups of farmers, if they have a common erosion problem, to organize soil conservation districts, or erosion control cooperatives.

Through these districts, or cooperative associations, farmers can combine their efforts to do a job that can't be carried out successfully by individuals, working alone.

Kentucky farmers who have erosion problems (and agricultural authorities tell us that 85 per cent of the total land area of this state is affected in some degree by soil wash) should become acquainted with this new method of attack that is proving so successful in three-fourths of the states.

Farmers of this state certainly have the right to try soil conservation districts, if they want them. But it is necessary that the state legislature pass an enabling act authorizing the creation of districts. Such legislation is now proposed for Kentucky and merits general support.

Soil conservation districts are thoroughly democratic. None can be formed unless voted upon by farmers. Locally elected supervisors manage the district. They can't issue bonds, or levy assessments. But what they can do is to ask for and receive the assistance of state and federal agencies. They are eligible for CCC camp labor whenever it is available. They may receive donations and grants from state and federal agencies. Equipment and materials that will aid in erosion control are available to districts. Technically trained men are lent to districts. This assistance is now available to only those few areas fortunate enough to have an erosion control CCC camp, or a demonstration project.

Two hundred soil conservation districts have been organized in 36 states. New ones are being organized almost daily. Kentucky needs erosion control work as much as any state in the union. It is apparent that the best way to get the job done is through soil conservation districts.

SAFETYGRAMS

With the coming of the new sealed beam headlight it is going to be more important than ever that motorists who have this type of light dim their lights when approaching oncoming cars. More and better light will be given by this improved headlight, which makes it more convenient for the driver of the car; but it will be necessary that he dim his lights so that they will not obscure the vision of the drivers coming in the opposite direction.

Courtesy is the answer. It will promote safety for everybody.

REV. C. M. CHARLES PRAISES RETONGA

Had Been In Poor Health For Six Years And Was Almost Completely Disheartened. Gives Facts In Case.

Praising Retonga for ending his six years suffering that every other means tried had failed to relieve, Rev. C. M. Charles, one of Tennessee's most beloved Methodist ministers, today gave this famous medicine his grateful public endorsement.

Rev. Charles was reared near Manchester and taught school before entering the ministry. He has served many churches and is at present minister of the Methodist Church at Woodlawn, Tenn.

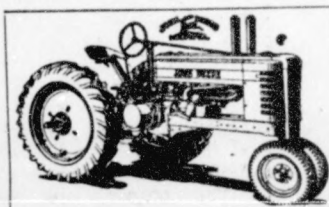

"For six years it looked like my body became more saturated with toxic poisons every year," stated Rev. Charles. "I had to force down every bite I ate and nothing seemed to digest. I was weak, run down and nervous, and a dull headache seemed to stay with me all the time. I was forced to take harsh cathartics regularly, and I felt sore and stiff in every muscle. Hardly a joint in my whole body was free of aches and stiffness.

"Retonga proved to be the best investment I ever made. It restored my appetite, regulated my whole system, and drove out every ache and pain. It brought me good, restful sleep, and gave me plenty of strength to carry on my work. This was a year and a half ago, and every few months I take a bottle or two and it keeps my whole body toned up. If those in my former deplorable health will take Retonga for one week the medicine will speak for itself."

You can get this famous medicine at DeMyer Drug Co.

Sheep

A sheep meeting under the direction of Dr. Polk, Field Veterinary from the University of Kentucky and County Agent S. V. Foy was held at Cayce High school Wednesday afternoon. Twenty sheep raisers of the county attended the meeting and held a splendid discussion of the common diseases of sheep. Dr. Polk says 90 per cent of our sheep trouble can be prevented and that it is easier and more economical to prevent the diseases than it is to cure.

Dr. Polk states that: Twenty per cent of the sheep that are brought to the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for examination have pregnancy diseases. Parasites and footrot are the only conditions that cause a greater economic loss to the sheep industry.

Pregnancy disease occurs in December, January, February and March. The largest losses usually occur in January and February. The loss varies from 5 to 25 per cent of the affected flock.

Pregnancy disease (acetemania) is not infectious or contagious, but develops as a result of poor feeding. In fact this disease can be produced experimentally by starving the animals. Many ewes are in poor physical condition at breeding time. If such ewes are not fed so as to gain 20 to 30 pounds in weight, from breeding to lambing time, pregnancy disease may develop.

Prevention of pregnancy disease depends on the selection of good, vigorous ewes as breeders, good feeding and the control of stomach worms and other parasites. Prevention should thus begin with the selection of the animals that are to be used as breeders. Early ewe lambs, that are well developed, well nourished and have been kept comparatively free of parasites should be selected for replacements. Such animals have a larger reserve of nutrients in the body and are more able to withstand the drain of pregnancy and lactation.

The majority of cases of pregnancy disease occur directly following a sudden drop in the temperature, a cold rain, or a snow storm. At such times the ewes may be temporarily cut off from free access to the water supply, green feed may become unavailable and shelter may or may not be provided. This sudden change in methods of feeding and management, together with exposure and a restricted water supply, may upset poorly nourished ewes that otherwise would not have developed pregnancy disease.

Ewes in the first stages of pregnancy disease lag behind the rest of the flock and refuse to eat or drink. There may be a tendency to walk in a circle or to stand with the head pressed against some object.

As the condition progresses the sick animals are found lying down more or less constantly, grinding the teeth, trembling and gradually becoming indifferent to their surroundings.

Ewes that are in the early stages of pregnancy disease can sometimes be saved by drenching them with two ounces of any kind of molasses diluted with an equal amount of water. This treatment should be given two or three times a day.

Further development of the disease in a flock can be prevented by feeding molasses at the rate of three quarts for each 100 ewes twice a day. Mix the molasses with an equal quantity of hot water, sprinkle over the feed and thoroughly mix. This mixture should not be prepared too long before feeding, since damp feed may spoil. Blackstrap molasses is much cheaper than other kinds.

practically completed. Fifteen hundred workers now are employed. The peak of employment of approximately 2200 workers at the dam proper will be reached early in 1940.

The Kentucky Dam Reservoir with its controlled flood storage of 4,570,000 acre feet will reduce flood heights on the Mississippi by at least 2 feet from Cairo to the mouth of the Arkansas and by at least 1 foot between the Arkansas and the Red Rivers, according to studies of the Authority.

In addition to the control of water for flood protection purposes, the Kentucky Dam and connected projects are designed to provide a nine-foot navigation channel the entire length of the river.

The Kentucky Dam project, which includes the dam without power installation, purchase of land, the clearing of approximately 58,000 acres, the relocation of 330 miles of highway and of 30 miles of railroad, together with all other related activities incident to completion of the dam and reservoir will cost approximately $95,000,000.

Gilbertsville Dam
Making Progress

Gilbertsville, Ky.—The millionth cubic yard of earth has been removed from the site of the lock and the approach channel of the 8,700 foot long TVA Kentucky Dam located 22.3 miles above the mouth of the Tennessee River at Paducah, George P. Jessup, Project Manager of the Kentucky Dam and Reservoir, announced here.

The 1,000,000th cubic yard represents approximately one-third of the total earth excavation required. The construction schedule calls for completion of the concrete work of the 110 by 600 feet lock within twelve months. This means that not only will the remainder of the yardage of earth but that a portion of the 320,000 cubic yards of rock at the lock site will have to be removed before the concrete work gets well under way. The construction in the lock area will be followed by the successive stages of the power house, spillway and earth embankment sections, all planned to complete the entire project exclusive of any power installation, during the first half of 1945.

Earth and rock excavation now going on is only a part of the varied activities extending over a wide area. The grading of nine miles of standard gauge railroad together with half of the steel rails in place, has been completed to transport rock from the Authority's quarry near Birmingham, Ky., to the construction plant at the Dam. Some rock already is being taken from the quarry. Production of rock for the lock concrete will not get under way until the early part of 1940.

The temporary railroad relocation of the Illinois Central tracks has been completed and steel piling cells are being driven around the present railroad bridge piers to prevent erosion during the construction of the dam. Eventually the railroad will be rerouted across the top of the dam. Steel piling is being driven in the river for the cells to form the cofferdam which will provide dry land for the construction of the power house section and part of the spillway, the second stage of the construction program. Driving of the piling for the cells will continue this winter as long as river conditions permit and will be resumed again in the Spring. On the west side of the river, sheet steel piling is being driven for the cut-off wall of the earth embankment. Approximately 20,000 tons of sheet steel piling will be used many times in the construction of cofferdams and for the cut-off walls.

The approach road extends seven miles from the Benton-Paducah highway to the dam and the construction camp. The camp includes personnel, community, administration, school, medical center, barracks, mess hall and other employee housing and service buildings. Necessary public utilities have been

"Hell Riders" To Jump Car As Feature of Show Here Sunday

Mickey Martin Jumping Two Trucks To Set New Record

Jumping a stock automobile over the tops of TWO large trucks and four parked sedans will be one of the twelve death-defying feats of dardvilly Mickey Martin and his world-renowned "Hell Riders" will offer thrill seekers at the Fulton County Fair grounds Sunday afternoon.

Martin holds the present world's record for broad-jumping an automobile. To set this record he sent his car hurtling ninety-four feet through the air at Atlanta, Ga., early this spring. Mickey said with the local speed oval in its present "fast" condition it is possible to equal if not better this record.

Other acts on Sunday's program promise to be equally as thrilling. Miss Ann Terry, girl daredevil and the world's only lady board-crasher still living, will attempt to jump her car through two solid board wall barriers set up on the track six feet apart. "Doggie" Artrip will completely demolish three automobiles, driving one into a huge stone wall and crashing two together in a deliberate side-on collision.

Martin and his crew of car-smashers are being sponsored by Troops 43 and 44 of the Boy Scouts. The exhibition will start promptly at two o'clock.

COOPER URGES BIG BURLEY TOBACCO VOTE

Stressing the importance of burley tobacco in Kentucky, Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the State College of Agriculture urges every grower to vote in the marketing quota referendum to be held November 21. Every burley tobacco grower, he declares, should take full advantage of this opportunity to express his desires on next year's crop.

Due to excessive production this year, a quota has been set on marketing burley tobacco for 1940. It would mean about 10 per cent reduction. Two-thirds of those voting November 21 must approve the quota in order to make it effective.

"While only tobacco growers can vote, the referendum is a matter of great importance to all of Kentucky," declared Dean Cooper. "To town and country alike, the burley tobacco crop largely tells the story of good or bad times in Kentucky."

County agricultural agents and local committeemen are conducting meetings throughout the state in an effort to acquaint burley growers with the situation. Production of burley this year is put at 354,000,000 pounds, or much above consumption. Supplies of burley on October 1 of this year were more than a billion pounds, or the third largest in history.

"Prices and supplies are largely tied together," continued Dean Cooper. "Excessive production and burdensome supplies can only mean lower prices. I hope that growers will become familiar with the situation which they now face, and that they will turn out and vote November 21."

Mrs. R. L. Elliott, Mrs. Lena Greer and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Freeman attended the Methodist Conference in Paducah Sunday.

TALENTED YOUTH HAS ITS FLING IN "BABES IN ARMS"

Song and dance, pathos and drama, form the background for the first co-starring appearance of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Babes in Arms," which opens at the Fulton Theatre Sunday for a 3 day run.

Based on the Broadway musical success of a couple of seasons ago, the story deals with the era when vaudeville passed out of the entertainment picture. When the old-time headliners were up against it their kids came to the rescue, bringing with them a modern viewpoint and a talent that was unborn.

It is a natural structure for a picture which boasts the greatest collection of song, dance and acting performers since the memorable "Great Ziegfeld." In addition to the stellar Rooney-Garland team, the cast features Charles Winninger, Guy Kibbee, June Preisser, Grace Hayes, Betty Jaynes, Douglas McPhail, Rand Brooks, Leni Lynn, John Sheffield remembered as "Tarzan, Jr." in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" and some 200 supporting players.

Cast as the son of a famous "two-a-day" team in a period marked by the passing of vaudeville, Mickey leads the children of the despairing trouper in a fight to keep out of the county farm. Desperation and the amazing talents of the youngsters enable the kids to fight their way right to the very Broadway from which a fickle public has driven their dads and mothers. A puppy love romance between Judy and Mickey is threatened momentarily by June Preisser, playing a former screen baby star who has both the looks and the money needed to stage Mickey's show.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Every now and then some outstanding business incident clearly illustrates that the prosperity of one section of the country depends to a large extent on the prosperity of other sections. The present dispute in the Chrysler Corporation automobile factories emphatically brings this out.

The Detroit Chamber of Commerce estimates that purchasing power in the United States is being reduced by at least $3,000,000 a day and a total of $24,000,000 since September 30. At present, about 55,000 Chrysler employees and 11,000 Briggs Manufacturing Company employees are idle. In addition, thousands of employees in rubber, glass, and steel plants have been affected.

A rough estimate is that the Chrysler Corporation has failed to place about 110,000 cars on the market since the dispute began October 6. This has cost the employees of Chrysler and Briggs some $420,000 in wages every day of the dispute.

"But how does this affect me," you may ask.

It does affect every one of us and in a very real way. In the first place, there are 11,000 Chrysler Corporation dealers scattered in villages and cities throughout the United States. All of them are now "feeling the pinch" because they have no cars to sell. When they do not sell, they cannot buy from the baker, the butcher, and other retail stores.

Secondly, this depressing action is especially strong in the vicinity of Detroit, which means that the flow of goods to that section is considerably slowed down. This affects not only farmers and manufacturers of that region but also all farmers and all manufacturers. Because to stop purchasing power in one place, stops it all along the line—from the man who digs the coal to smelt the iron ore to the man who admires the stainless steel in his new car.

Detroit may be hundred of miles from your community, but this dispute reaches right down to your town and affects the well-being of you and many of your friends. This, I believe, illustrates well how much we all depend upon each other.

SOME FACTS THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THEIR SCHOOLS

1. There are 115,230 more children to be educated in Kentucky than there were 10 years ago.

2. There are 2206 more teachers teaching in Kentucky than there were ten years ago.

3. The total revenue receipts per child in Kentucky are $4.26 less than in 1928-29. (State plus local.)

4. The schools are teaching 115,230 more children with 2,206 more teachers and with $4.26 less money per child than was provided ten years ago.

5. The per capita in 1939-40 will be $12.19—the largest per capita the state ever paid, but while the state's contribution went up $2,561,280 in the last ten years, the total of local receipts for school purpose went down $2,391,482 in the same period.

6. Elementary teachers' annual salaries are on the average $50.00 lower than they were ten years ago.

7. Thirty years ago the state was paying about 62 per cent of the cost of education. Now it is paying about 40 per cent.

8. The wealthiest county district has thirty times as much wealth per census child as the poorest district.

9. The highest tax a county can levy for schools is 75 cents on the One Hundred Dollars of taxable property. Seventy-four of the 120 counties are levying this maximum.

10. Some counties can levy the maximum and produce $2.46 per child while others can make the same levy and produce $71.90 per child.

11. In cities and towns last year the assessed valuations on property per census child ranged from $114.00 in one town to $11,830.00 in another. In other words the children of one town had a hundred times as much behind them as the children of the other town.

12. Seventy-nine counties have only seven months of school.

13. There were 131,545 illiterates in Kentucky in 1930.

14. The Kentucky constitution says that the "General Assembly shall provide for an efficient system of common schools throughout the state"—not just in spots.

15. Only one state in the South has less debt than Kentucky.

Any person who drives a car or truck with poor brakes is violating one of the very first rules of safety. He may live to regret it.

It reminds me of the story of the farmer and his son who were working in a field where a line crew from the power company was repairing damage done by a previous storm. Abner, the farmer's son, while fussing around with operations, got hold of a live wire. His father yelled to him, "Put that down, Abner. It don't belong to you." But Abner couldn't let go of the live wire.

Poor brakes put you in the same position. You want to stop and apply the brakes, but they fail to hold and the result may be a serious accident and possibly death.

It's Smart to Drive Carefully!

War is the greatest of all crimes; yet there is no aggressor who does not color his crime with the pretense of justice. It is forbidden to kill; therefore murderers are punished unless they kill in large numbers.

bers to the sound of trumpets.—Voltaire.

MAY: "That movie actor is the stuff that dreams are made of."

FAR: "You mean he's tall, dark and handsome?"

MAY: "No, I means he's a big cheese."

Maybe we're old-fashioned, or just plain dumb, but we can't see where it pays the people of Fulton to send their money away from home to buy things that they can purchase right here.
