DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE

IN TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Roosevelt Re-elected Governor of New York by Handsome Majority

Lewis, Democrat, of Illinois Wins the Senatorial Race in a Walk

Heflin, Who Bolted Smith In 1928, Snowed Under by Bankhead, Regular Democrat For the Senate in Alabama

Latest returns as we go to press give Logan and Williamson a good lead over Robison in the Kentucky Senatorial race.

Tennessee Democrats made a clean sweep, re-electing Horton for Governor, Hull and Brock for the Senate.

Early election returns from Tuesday's election showed the Democrats piled up a mammoth lead for Governor Roosevelt in New York.

Leading his Republican opponent, Charles H. Tuttle, both in New York City and in many districts upstate, Roosevelt's re-election was conceded at 7:50 p. m. by the Republican New York Herald-Tribune, and soon afterward by Tuttle.

In normally Republican Connecticut too, a Democratic college professor, Wilbur L. Cross, was leading for governor on early returns. But in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, both carried by Alfred E. Smith for president in 1928, the Republicans were ahead for both governor and senator.

The first returns from New Jersey gave Dwight W. Morrow the advantage over his Democratic opponents both for the short and the long term in the senate.

J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, stood almost two-to-one ahead of Ruth Hanna McCormick in the race for the Illinois senatorship. The Chicago Tribune, published by the brother of Mrs. McCormick's late husband, predicted in its first edition Tuesday evening that Lewis would win by a landslide.

Despite the lack of much Republican support in Philadelphia, Gifford Pinchot was building up a lead over John M. Hemphill, the Democratic-Liberal nominee, for the Pennsylvania governorship.

Meagre returns from Ohio found the Democratic candidates for senator and governor with slight margins. In West Virginia, former Senator Neely took an early lead away from James E. Jones.

The Republican senator from South Dakota, W. H. McMaster, was running behind Governor W. J. Eulow, Democrat.

Senator Heflin of Alabama, denied a Democratic renomination after he bolted Smith in 1928, was taking the short end of a count for re-election as an independent. His Democratic opponent, John H. Bankhead, increased his lead from the first returns.

In a number of contests for the House of Representatives, the Democrats were giving Republican incumbents a hard time, but no actual overturns had been reported.

The Democrats were given no cause to fear any decrease in their House strength. 165 seats, in the early returns. On the other hand, 74 members of that party were elected without the marking of a ballot. These were almost all from the solid south.

The Illinois and Rhode Island referenda on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, with a fraction of the votes counted, showed those for repeal leading although in Massachusetts the majority was small and uncertain.

Fulton Building and Loan Association a Blessing to Fulton

The 34th semi-annual statement of the Fulton Building and Loan Association Oct. 31, 1930, published in this issue of The Advertiser, shows the strength and phenomenal growth of this $2,000,000 institution. During the past 17 years this institution has been a blessing to our city. There are now more than 700 stockholders who enjoy profits from its operation. It is a local mutual financial institution organized and managed by home people. Bonded officers insure careful and accurate handling of all funds.

The following facts concerning this Mutual Association are worthy of your careful consideration:

Real Estate Loans made during the past twelve months amounted to $166,133.64.

Stock Certificate Loans made during past twelve months amounted to $29,868.75.

Stock matured and paid to stockholders during the past twelve months amounted to $130,700.00.

Dividends credited to the stockholders during the past twelve months amounted to $66,406.78.

You too, can enjoy the benefits of this institution. Why not call at the office, 204 Main street and talk the matter over with Sec'y. J. E. Fall or Ass't Sec'y W. C. Reed.

CHRISTMAS GREETING CARDS

We have a beautiful line from which to make your selection. Place your order now and pay in December. Remember, we print your name on Christmas Cards bought of us without extra charge. R. S. Williams, Fulton, Ky.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

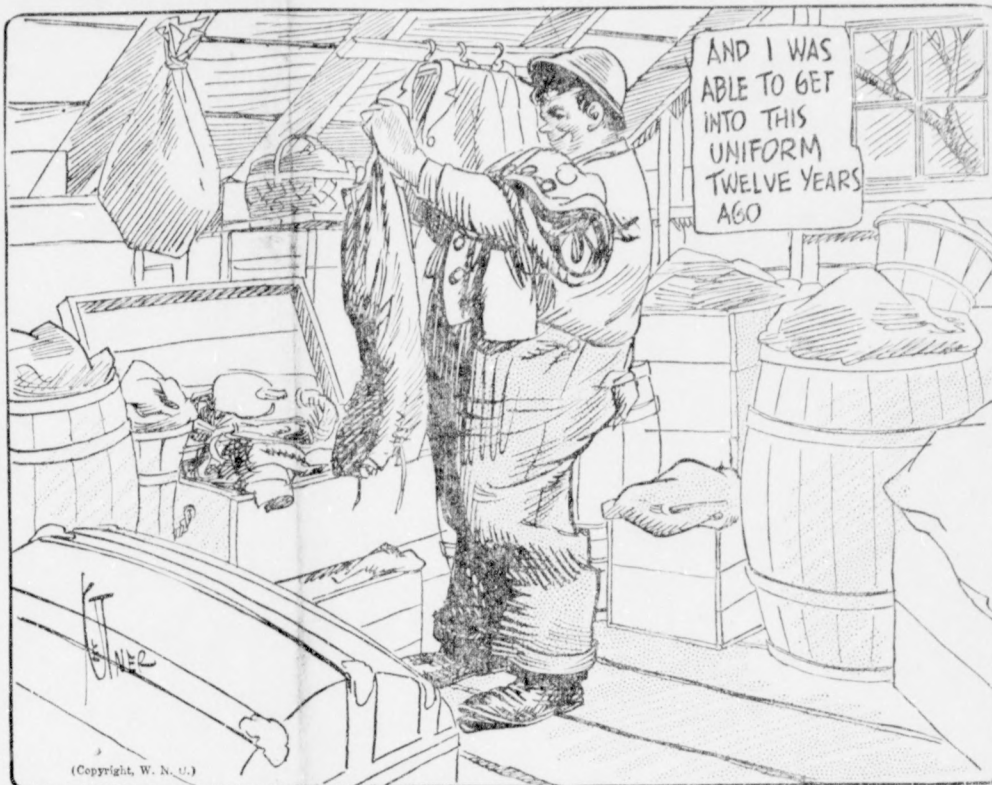

We often wonder how many of you "old-timers" around Fulton can recall when we put our shirts on over our head, when anybody could hitch up a horse, when there were no such things as wrist watches and a hired girl was lucky to get $2.50 a week. Or how many remember when boys collected cigarette pictures, when everybody had tonsils and kept 'em, when nobody had appendicitis and most everybody kept the Sabbath.

Surely there must be a lot of folks around here who can remember when they carried a lantern on the dash-board of the spring wagon and drove it through mud, loose rock or dirt most of the time; when they slept on a straw tick and took a bath in the wash-tub in the kitchen only on Saturday nights or when women wore Mother Hubbards, when a brick covered with carpet served as a door-stop and when congress gaiters were the most stylish of shoes. But if you can remember any or all of these it isn't a sign that you are getting old. It's just a sign of good memory.

Armistice Day

Rebuilding The Usona Hotel

P. C. Ford Has Purchased Hotel in Jackson, Miss., But Will Rebuild Usona Here

P. C. Ford, veteran Fulton hotel man, has purchased an interest in the handsome nine-story Walthall Hotel at Jackson, Miss., one of the fastest growing cities in the South. The Walthall is a new hotel and the pride of the capital of Mississippi and with Mr. Ford and his efficient assistants in charge can easily be classed as the leading hotel of Jackson.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Ford has turned his eyes in the direction of the "gas city" where the 24th well was brought in this week. He loves Fulton and its people and says he will rebuild the Usona Hotel in Fulton, practically destroyed by fire early Monday morning, Sept. 8.

Mr. Ford says he will start building at once a 75-room hotel, modern and up-to-the-minute in every respect which he will probably lease to some first-class hotel man who can maintain its former reputation while he was in charge.

Mr. Ford and family came to Fulton in 1919 and purchased the Usona and after spending thousands of dollars on the property made it the pride of the city.

The news that the Usona will be rebuilt will be hailed with delight by Fultonians but the removal of Mr. Ford and his excellent family to Jackson, Miss., is generally regretted.

Mr. Ford is not only a first-class hotel man but a good citizen. J. Q. Schisler, member of the city council, said he regretted to see him go.

The contract for rebuilding the Usona Hotel was let to W. M. Hill & Sons, Fulton contractors and brick manufacturers, who have a large crew at work and the job will be rushed to completion.

ELDERS PREPARE FOR IMPORTANT SESSIONS

Methodist Conference Will Open In Memphis Nov. 12

MANY CHANGES PLANNED

With the Memphis Conference of Methodist churches less than two weeks distant, eyes of approximately 95,000 Methodists in West Tennessee and Western Kentucky are turning toward Memphis and Calvary Church at 584 E. McLemore Avenue, where plans for the 1931 program will be outlined.

Radical changes in the boards of the conference, election of two new presiding elders and a number of changes in the small churches in the Memphis district will take place at the annual meeting, Nov. 12-16.

Three boards of the conference will be discontinued and a new one formed. The Sunday school board, the board of education and the Epworth League board will be dropped and the work will be carried on by a board of Christian education. This will call for reorganization of all boards in all the churches.

Quadrennial Election.

The quadrennial election of board officers will be held this year. Discontinuance of the conference secretary, a position now held by the Rev. Lud H. Estes of Memphis, is expected. A report that all secretaries would be discontinued was denied by Dr. Felix R. Hill, Jr., presiding elder of the Memphis district.

Plans for the year were discussed by Bishop DuRose and the presiding elders at an executive meeting at Jackson, Tenn.

Dr. C. Wierfield, pastor of the First Church, Huntington, will give the opening sermon, which will be followed by a communion service, administered by the bishop and the presiding elders. The delegates will be assigned to their homes Tuesday evening, November 11.

The conference proper will open at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, November 12, with Bishop DuRose presiding. The lay activities program will be held Wednesday afternoon, November 12, in charge of G. L. Morelock, general secretary. The program will consist of inspirational addresses and discussion of plans for the year's work.

The general board of education, will deliver the address at the evening service. Dr. T. W. Lewis will deliver the address Thursday morning, November 13, when the episcopal conference will be given. A celebration of the diamond jubilee of the publishing house, in charge of the bishop, will also be held.

The Rev. G. C. Fain will preach at the afternoon session. Saturday the Rev. W. F. Maxedon and Mrs. Homer Tatum will give addresses. A feature of the conference will be the "Love Feast" Sunday morning, November 16.

Memorial services will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, November 16. Those who will be honored are the Revs. E. B. Ramsey of Memphis; W. S. Lockman and O. Stone, Bemis; E. A. Tucker, Lexington district; C. D. Martin, Memphis, and W. J. McCoy, Bardwell. The last two were killed in automobile accidents.

INSURANCE TO COVER 7,000 I. C. EMPLOYEES

Group Plan Will Bring $50,000,000 Protection

Seven thousand employed by the Illinois Central Railway will share in group insurance just contracted for by the company.

The group coverage for the Illinois Central employees, who number slightly in excess of 100,000 men and women, is said to be one of the largest insurance contracts of the kind ever written.

Accident and sickness will be insured against in sums from $30 to $100 monthly.

Company and employees share in the cost of premiums which, according to a letter from President L. A. Downs, will be low because "through buying wholesale instead of simply as individuals, we get the benefit of greatly reduced rates without any sacrifice of security."

Lack of credit is another thing that keeps quite a few people around Fulton from living beyond their income.

Another thing that's wrong with this country is that we have too many people who do nothing else but tell us what's wrong with it.

Brieflets

The nicest thing about a Fulton home is that it gives its occupants something to wish for when they are anywhere else.

An optimist is a fellow who hopes to get his vacation bills paid in time to make more for Christmas.

A soft answer may turn away wrath but it will not drive a book agent from the door.

Fulton young men will do well to remember that because a girl fits into their arms it doesn't mean she'll fit their pocketbooks.

They talk about the fruit fly and the boll weevil interfering with production in this country but the fact is the golf bug is worse than both of them put together.

Several auto accidents were caused the past summer because a bee got into the car. But more were caused by a little honey sitting too close to the driver.

The summer drought also took most of the water out of the melons of a lot of big corporations expected to cut this fall.

The Fulton woman who insists on keeping her husband in hot water has no one but herself to blame if he becomes hard-boiled.

An eastern professor says women resist heat better than men. Why not? Don't they go around all undressed most of the time?

A boy's chances of growing up and becoming president are small, but he can always figure on being able to grow up and tell everybody how the country ought to be run.

The average married man would much rather have his wife mend his socks than his ways.

The oyster may be dumb in some ways, but it knows how to get stewed without violating the Volstead law.

It has about reached the point in this country where a woman can serve most anything on a lettuce leaf except a writ of attachment.

The old-time Fulton boy who had a good head for figures now has a son who has a good eye for them.

The man who goes around holding his nose in the air may not get a pain in the neck but he certainly gives everybody else one.

COLUMBUS-CLINTON HIGHWAY CONTRACT TO BE LET NOV. 20

Contracts to finish the Columbus-Clinton highway will be let November 20 by the state highway commission at Frankfort. The contracts are for surfacing the road, erection of a steel superstructure for the Obion Creek bridge and grading necessary for the fill across the Obion bottoms.

HIT BY FALLING TREE

Mayfield, Ky., Nov. 1.—F. E. Smith, 44, Dukedom, Tenn., farmer, received severe injuries when struck by a falling tree as he was cutting wood on his farm late yesterday. He was rushed to a local hospital for treatment. Smith received three broken ribs and a fracture of the leg.

Community Building

Move to Reduce Costs of County Governments

The problem of county government is spreading into nearly all the states that have cut themselves into many county units. Two evils have developed demanding economic and political treatment. One is a growing extravagance in the government of populous and rich counties and the other is the burdensome cost of maintaining the offices and functions of small and poor counties.

In all cases where the problem is becoming acute the remedy, and the only remedy, suggested by the economists and the politically unsound, is the merging of the counties into fewer and larger units, or the consolidation of certain public services and institutions with common officials and communal buildings.

For example, in North Carolina there is a proposal to set up at Elizabeth City a district jail to be used in common by five counties; the county seats of the four other counties than Pasquotank being in quick and easy reach now of Elizabeth City over new hard paved roads. The taxpayers of those counties seem agreed that a central jail with one jailer and a few guards will serve them much better and more economically than the five jails, five jailers and five bodies of guards they now employ at a large cost to each county.—Atlanta Constitution.

Seek Rational Control of Outdoor Advertising

A resolution passed by the Outdoor Advertising Association at its annual convention looks toward harmony between billboard interests, civic improvement projects and those organizations seeking to protect property values. The resolution asks that the Department of Commerce make a survey outlining the manner in which advertising companies should proceed in suburban communities.

The resolution suggests that the Department of Commerce secure the aid of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the American Hotel Association, the Association of National Advertisers, the Art Center of New York and the National Federation of Women's Clubs in making its recommendations to the advertisers.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards four years ago placed itself on record as opposed to outdoor advertising of such a nature that it devalues the beauty and lowers property values. At an annual convention of this organization, held last June, in Boston, at a special conference on outdoor advertising, a resolution was passed asking the Department of Commerce to make a survey of present outdoor advertising.

Landscape Home Lot

After the lot has been graded and rolled so that it is level and ready for planting, sow grass seed if the lawn is in bad condition. A stretch of velvet lawn is just the first step in the plan.

Next comes the planting of shrubbery and hedges. A low, trimmed hedge along the public sidewalk and the boundary lines of the lot, defines the limits of the property and holds the lawn together, artistically speaking.

Well-massed shrubbery to soften the abrupt change in line.

Near the house additional shrubbery should be used to conceal the foundation of the dwelling. Flower beds are often set near the house for the same purpose.

Canada Sees Light

The planting of trees is not a costly undertaking and gives splendid returns for the labor and expense it involves.

In the United States special commissions have been appointed by some legislatures, whose sole duty it is to undertake tree planting.

New Jersey provides for a special commission "whose duty it shall be not only to plant trees along highways of the state, but to look after their welfare as well."

Such a measure is well worthy of emulation by Canada's federal government.—Montreal Family Herald.

Beauty Asset to Community

One beautiful home of assured permanence attracts others of the same type and thereby increases its own value as well as the real estate value of the community. This attraction is made stronger when the construction is of a type which increases the fire-safety of the locality. The better residence sections of most communities recognize this in their building restrictions.

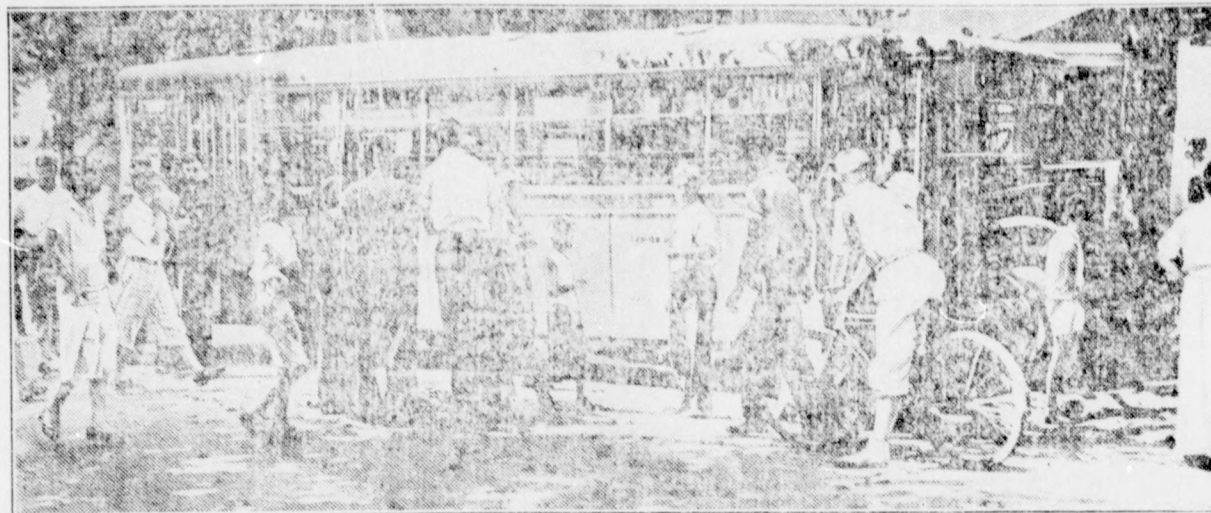

Modernizing Reclaims Values

Many thousands of our old homes, stretching from coast to coast, that are obsolete and out-of-date inside and outside, will take on new life and beauty within the year. Modernization will bring about this great reclamation.

Sound Investment

Those who invest in real estate carefully and wisely have profited in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

Bus Runs Amuck, Rams Tree, 40 Injured

AN UNSCHEDULED STOP! Missing on two cylinders but hitting perfectly on a lamp post and a fire hydrant this East Orange, N. J., bus gave its forty-five passengers an exciting down-hill flight until stopped by a tree. Forty persons were injured by shock and severe lacerations from flying glass before a rear emergency door was opened. Newer buses of the Public Service Company, it is said, are equipped with safety glass to avoid such unpleasant results. According to the driver, J. A. Mercer, the brakes failed as he approached Grove St., an important cross-town thoroughfare in Newark, and he cut into Roosevelt St. to avoid traffic.

A COMMUNITY DUTY

If you would compare the newspaper published in most any town with those of 25 years ago you would find in most cases that they have increased in size. They print more news, they carry more advertising and they reach a greater number of people. Where 25 years ago few local items appeared, now everything of interest is brought out.

Most towns have gone ahead in the past 25 years, and better papers have helped them do it. When a newspaper joins in movements for town betterment and the improvement of civic institutions, the people of the community work together better and more enthusiastically. They attend community meetings, learn to like their neighbors better, and that means a greater interest on their part in the upbuilding of the town.

But Fulton citizens are urged to remember that the newspaper in their town is going to be only as good as they will it to be. Its influence will be strong and its activities helpful just in proportion to their support of it. The mere printing of the news is not all of a newspaper's task. To be worthwhile to the community it must stand back of every worthy enterprise and every local institution, and in doing this it wakes the people up to their duty along this line. But it cannot do this without two kinds of support—moral and financial. If you are giving your home-town paper both of these then you may rest assured you are helping to improve the community.

(By J. T. Watkins)

I've had a number of breeders tell me their flocks all had the roup. Well, maybe they have, and maybe they haven't.

Now, roup is one of the worst diseases poultry can have, and one of the filthiest, and in my belief if we can do away with the filth we can control the roup. You will notice when a chicken gets a bad cold they run at the eyes and nostrils, but unlike the human, they have no way of wiping their eyes nor blowing their noses, so they just turn the head and wipe it across the back. Now, right here is where the poultry man falls down on the job. He will put all kinds of roup cures in the feed and water; even work on the birds' eyes, nose and throat, possibly killing all the germs that are gathered there, but what about the germs that are having a good time on the back of the bird where it has wiped its nose, or under the wings where the bird is constantly sticking its head to get its eyes from the bright glare of the sunshine? These two places are a regular hot bed of germs. To thoroughly cure the bird you must get rid of those germs also. Now, here is my way of treating a bird with roup, and I will say I lose very few birds from roup: First, I clean out the bird's nostrils as clean as I can get them, and the nose or bill and head, washing them with a solution of B.K. I then wash the back and under the wings with a strong solution of B.K., sometimes using the pure stuff as it comes from the bottle. I have one of those soft bulb rubber syringes with a rubber snout about two inches long. I use this to force a twenty per cent solution of B.K. up the nostrils, and in the cleft in the roof of the mouth, also squirt about a full syringe down the throat. Then I put the bird in a good, warm dry place to await developments. Give this dose two or three times a day for about a week and you will almost always cure the roup.

There are times when the bird develops quite a lot of canker in the throat, and if you don't get rid of this you might as well not try to cure the bird. Be as careful in removing this bumpy secretion as you can, without irritating the bird's throat, then wash it good with B.K. There are several preparations on the market for curing roup but I have found B. K. is in a class by itself. Now I am not getting a rake off for this free advertising but I am telling you what's what. Another disease that saps the life out of poultry while you are looking at them die is worms. They will undermine the strength and vitality of a bird before you realize anything is wrong with it, but when you see it drooping around and you pick it up, it is nothing but skin and bones and will weigh about one-fourth of what it should weigh. My way in combating worms is to starve the whole flock for twenty-four hours. By this time the bowels will be fully evacuated and the bird will be hungry and thirsty. Take each bird and pour a teaspoonful of tobacco tea down their throat. This tea is made by boiling some stems or cured leaves until the tea is about the color of strong coffee. Put the birds in a closed room that has a wooden floor if you can. In about three hours place some epsom salts in warm water, as much as will dissolve, stirring it to make it as strong as possible, in the room for the birds to drink. This will flush all the worms and eggs from the chickens intestines. The next day you can give them a warm mash into which you have mixed some poultry powder that is used to rid birds of worms. After a few days you will see the birds begin to pick up. Their combs will begin to show red and you will be sailing pretty far awhile. Now after you have run the birds out of this room where they were convalescing, use the most powerful disinfectant you can get hold of and clean it good and keep it closed to the chickens until you have to use it again, for if you find some of them that don't respond to the first treatment you may have to go over them again, but the safest way is to kill those birds and burn their carcasses.

Just a few lines now to let you know the Poultry Association is even with the world. Mr. Joe Davis, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, gave us a check for six dollars the amount we needed, so we paid off and are square.

NO MAIL DELIVERY ON CHRISTMAS DAY

The Postmaster General under date of October 24, issued an order stating that there would be no mail delivered at any post-office in the United States on Christmas day except Special Delivery mail. This means that all mail except Special Delivery mail not mailed in time to easily reach its destination before Christmas day will not be delivered until after that day and thus cause disappointment.

We again urge the patrons of this office to shop and mail early, and early means that practically all Christmas mail should be on its way at least 72 hours before December 25th.

All patrons who expect to mail out 25 or more Christmas cards for local delivery are requested to prepare same at least 10 days before Christmas and bring them to the postoffice and give same to the clerk on duty at the window and state that they are Christmas cards. This will enable the clerks to separate all these cards in advance and distribute them to the carriers on the same day. These cards will not be sent out until the regular Christmas mail begins to move.

Not only does Christmas mail have to move during the few days preceding Christmas, but other important mail must be delivered. You can help to keep the mail moving in a more even manner if you will observe the above requests.

Mr. R. C. King Tells a Wonderful Story About Rats. Read It.

"For months my place was alive with rats. Losing chickens, eggs, feed. Friend told me to try RAT-SNAP. I did. Somewhat disappointed at first not seeing many dead rats, but in a few days didn't see a live one. What were not killed are not around my place. RAT-SNAP sure does the trick." Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by

CARD A TRULY PERSONAL GREETING

It's only a very short time until the busy Holiday season is here again. Before we realize it, all of us—old and young—will be counting the days until Christmas.

We want to suggest right now, while there is time to decide without haste, that you make your Christmas greeting decidedly personal this year.

Select from our display of beautiful designs and charming sentiments the card that exactly expresses your good wishes. Then permit us to print your name below the verse or seasonal greeting, and the message will be doubly personal.

No extra charge for printing your name on Christmas cards purchased from us.

WORTH FIGHTING FOR

Reports being sent out from all sections of the country indicate that the arrival of winter weather is not going to mean the complete closing down of outdoor work, but that this winter will see more men engaged in road building than ever before. Every minute when such work can be done will be utilized. The government has advanced four months' federal road money, and is urging contractors not to stop work because of bad weather only where it is absolutely impossible to continue it.

This is going to tide a lot of families over the slack period and alleviate a lot of suffering. And every farm and every community in which such work is done will be benefitted, not only by the money being put in circulation as the roads are being built but from the roads themselves when the work is finished. When a majority of farms served by water-proof, hard-surfaced, year-round farm-to-market highways we will have taken a long step toward solving agricultural problems, and every community—Fulton along with all the others—will be benefitted. Anything that enables the producer to sell that which he produces helps every business man any every individual worker in that immediate community because it keeps the money of that community circulating. No matter how you look at it, there is nothing in the world that will bring prosperity to a community quicker than good roads. And anything that will bring prosperity, and that will help to keep it here, is worth fighting for.

MAKING LIFE EASIER

Hardly more than ten years ago the farmer who installed electrical service on his farm was regarded by his neighbors as headed for bankruptcy. In the first seven months of this year farmers to the number of 70,000 hooked up with central electrical lines. A million farms now get electricity from electric plants or from their own individual plants. And this same electricity has brought about a new era in farm life. Luxuries and even conveniences denied the average farmer are his as soon as his buildings are wired. In the home, as in the outbuildings there is less back-breaking labor, and with better results. He lives as well and with as many comforts as the man in the city, if he wants to, and most rural residents do. Ten years from now, we predict, there will be electricity in every farm house in America whose occupants want it.

THE RAILROADS WORK FOR THOSE WHO WORK

Every industrial worker in the country has the railroads constantly working for him, according to L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central System. In his November letter to the public Mr. Downs outlines these services in this language:

The railroads assemble and distribute raw materials and finished products—a service fundamental to modern industry. They make possible human existence in cities by transporting food and fuel and other necessities of life. They aid in the location and promotion of industries. They employ more than one and one-half million workers and pay them approximately three billion dollars a year. They and their employees buy and use what all other industries produce, thereby giving employment to many workers. They pay taxes which lighten the tax burden of everyone else.

More than 23,000 manufacturing establishments are located in the 231 counties on the lines of the Illinois Central System.

WHO GUARANTEES?

When you see tires advertised in mail-order papers as "guaranteed," stop and ask before investing your money just who it is that guarantees. Many such guarantees mean nothing—they are only catch phrases. Get your guarantee in writing beforehand, and with every condition set forth in black and white. Be sure that the maker of the guarantee is responsible and that he is able to make good if his articles do not. It is not what the ad says but how the guarantee reads. More than one Fulton citizen has been led to buy worthless trash through putting too much faith in that one little word "guaranteed." There was a time when it meant something, but not any more unless the guarantee is in plain words, backed by an established and reputable firm or one of your local dealers. The postal department has forced mail-order sharks to quit abusing the word "free." Now maybe it won't be very long until Uncle Sam will save the public many more dollars by cleaning up this "guarantee" catch.

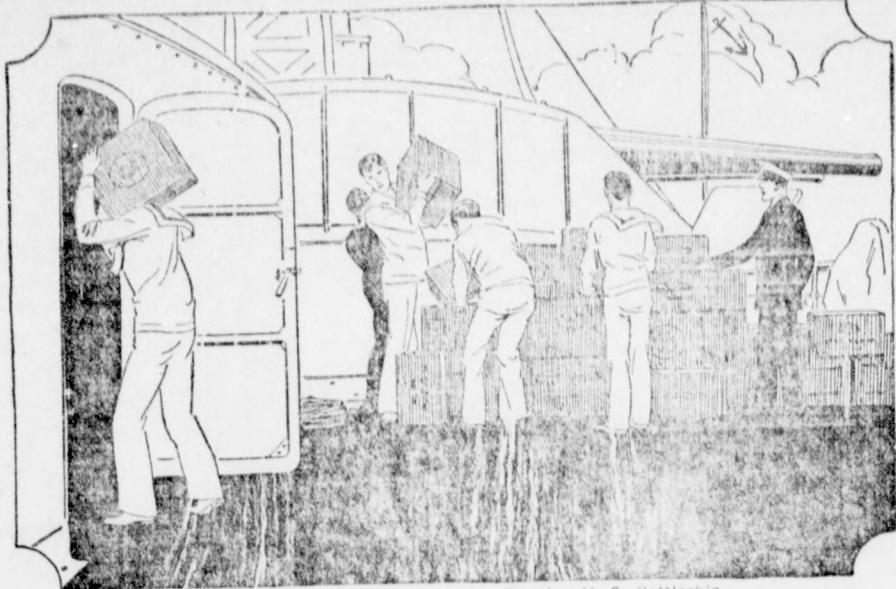

Luke Reilly Says, "The Rat Died Before Reaching the River."

"Since moving near the river 2 years ago, we've always used RAT-SNAP. Watched a vicious water rat, nibbling at RAT-SNAP outside the house. About 15 minutes later he darted off for the water to cool his burning stomach, but he died before reaching it." Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Taking Stores of Canned Foods on Board a U. S. Battleship.

FEEDING THE NAVY

WHETHER our legislators decide to build up our navy to actual parity with Great Britain or not, they are all in accord on one subject, and that is that the personnel of the aforesaid navy must be well fed. In an article in a recent number of The Canner, Frederick Krassner of the Brooklyn Naval Supply Depot reveals with what meticulous care the huge quantities of canned foods which our gobs consume are selected for them. The requirements in this respect will be appreciated when it is realized that it purchases approximately 25,000 tons of canned products in the course of a year.

"The scientific progress achieved in the art of canning foods," says this article, "and the variety of canned products available are factors which are responsible for the widespread use of such products in the Navy. As a result, the enlisted man aboard a ship of the American fleet is now able to enjoy the full benefits of a well-balanced ration both in times of peace and in times of war."

"If they can, they can it." The fundamental requirement to be met by all canned foods, as well as all fresh foods, for the Navy, is conformity with the Federal Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, and to the subsequent decisions of the Department of Agriculture. . . The Navy has its own set of specifications containing general and detail requirements for each specific item purchased."

The article then goes on to describe the Navy's method of sending out bids, and how samples of all canned foods purchased are submitted for inspection, and continues: "The well-known phrase, 'If they can, they can it,' takes on an added significance in dealing with the Navy. Due to the variety of products required, there arise the problems involved in refrigeration and storage space on board a ship, which does not occupy with the greater bulk occupied by fresh products. This is particularly so in destroyers and submarines, where space is even more limited."

A Well-Balanced Ration

"However, without sacrificing practically any of the nutritional elements involved, or in any way impairing the physiological efficiency of the men, as borne out in recent studies made by commanding officers of ships and medical officers, scientific advances made in the canning industry have made it possible to utilize this large variety of products in liberal quantities. It should, of course, be borne in mind that for a given diet in order to be well-balanced in all respects, supplementary additions of available fresh foods such as milk, vegetables and other similar products are also most liberally."

The writer then goes on to describe the care with which the quality of canned foods is judged, and to enumerate the requirements of the Navy in this respect and continues: "It will thus be seen that every precaution is taken so that Uncle Sam's Navy is well taken care of as regards the quality of canned foods purchased. It should, of course, be pointed out that the Navy's demands in these respects can usually be met by most contractors, the products obtained corresponding in general to the high-grade products used in the household."
