Democrats Elect Fulton Republican

While Democrats throughout the United States were piling up large majorities for senators and representatives Tuesday, November 4, here in Fulton, the Gibraltar of democracy, Democrats were voting for R. B. Beadles, member of the board of education. This distinction and signal honor for Mr. Beadles' former postmaster and vice-president of the First National Bank, was no surprise to his wide circle of friends and admirers in this vicinity where he is held in highest esteem by all who know him. There is no distinction made between the two political parties in municipal elections in this city. It was an opportunity given the voters to show an expression of gratitude to the man who had devoted the best part of his life serving the town and community faithfully and honestly and they happily elected him, not because of his political affiliations, but because of past records in public office.

Democrats Also Elected

Joe Bennett, who has been tried and not found wanting as a public official, was also elected a member of the board of education. Mr. Bennett has the distinction of leading the ticket. He is Fulton's oldest druggist, having been in business here for more than thirty-three years.

Mrs. Birdie Hill was also elected a member of the board of education and the nice vote she received shows the love and esteem in which she is held by the voters.

Those who were defeated are loyal citizens and held in high esteem by the voters, but all could not be elected at the same time.

PICK BOARD MEMBERS

In the election for the members of the board of education the result for the city of Fulton, as announced by the Fulton county election officials, show Joe Bennett 783, R. B. Beadles 646, Mrs. Birdie Hill 564, J. H. Moore 493, and C. H. Warren 274.

The three first were elected and with J. P. Demyer, R. H. Wade and Leslie Weeks, hold-over members, comprise the board.

LOGAN GRATEFUL FOR ELECTION

Senator-Elect Issues Statement At Frankfort

Frankfort, Ky.—M. M. Logan, United States Senator-elect from Kentucky, issued the following statement:

"The victory last Tuesday, Nov. 4, resulting in the election of Mr. Williamson to the short term in the Senate and nine congressmen, as well as myself for the regular term, was brought about through the united efforts of the Democratic voters and the Republican voters of independent minds. The campaign just over was well managed. No mistakes appear to have been made.

"I am deeply grateful because of my election, and while the responsibilities of the office of United States Senator are such as to make me wonder whether I can fully measure up to them, yet I shall do my best and I hope that what I may do at any time will be for the best interest of all of the people.

Lots of men around Fulton can read their wives like a book—but they can't shut them up as easily.

What Europe needs is a United States of mind instead of a United States of Europe.

"LIME HONOR ROLL"

Fourteen Fulton county farmers are on the "lime honor roll," H. C. Brown, county agent, has announced. This means that each farm must contain at least 50 tillable acres and that the farmer must have limed at least 75 per cent of tillable land with one ton of ground limestone and two tons of marl to the acre. The roll follows: Ernest Hancock, Leslie Nugent, W. A. Terry, Ed Thompson, Paul DeMyer, Weldon King, John Wade, C. L. Drysdale, Enoch Browder, Jodie Browder, Wes Browder, R. H. Wade, Aubrey Nugent, and Charles Wright.

MR. AND MRS. MELTON RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Melton have returned home after a seven-weeks' trip through the "Golden West" sightseeing. They visited a number of places, including Los Angeles and Pomona, California, and met many former Fultonians, who enjoyed seeing them and getting a first hand story from their old home town of Fulton. Among the old acquaintances they met were Sam McCall, Jim Milner, Dudley Bran, Jim White, Miss Hunter Browder, Frank Brooks, Fate Rascoe, and numerous others. Mr. Melton and wife enjoyed their trip immensely and returned home improved in health.

ACTIVITIES OF FULTON STUDENTS AT MURRAY

Two Fulton students, holders of letters in basketball at Murray State Teachers College, are back for action for the 1930-31 co-ed basketball season. Miss Carrie Allison, coach of co-ed athletics, stated that the Lady Thoroughbreds would be strong contenders for the Mississippi Valley Conference championship this fall. The Fulton women players are Miss Margaret Foy, daughter of Louis Foy, and Miss Mary Shupe, daughter of W. I. Shupe.

Miss Allison has her M. A. degree from Columbia University, New York City. Miss Mary Louise Harkless, Wickliffe, was director of women's athletics last year when Miss Allison was completing the work on her M. A. degree.

In 1928, the first year that they played in the Mississippi Valley Conference, the co-ed eagles won the championship of the conference.

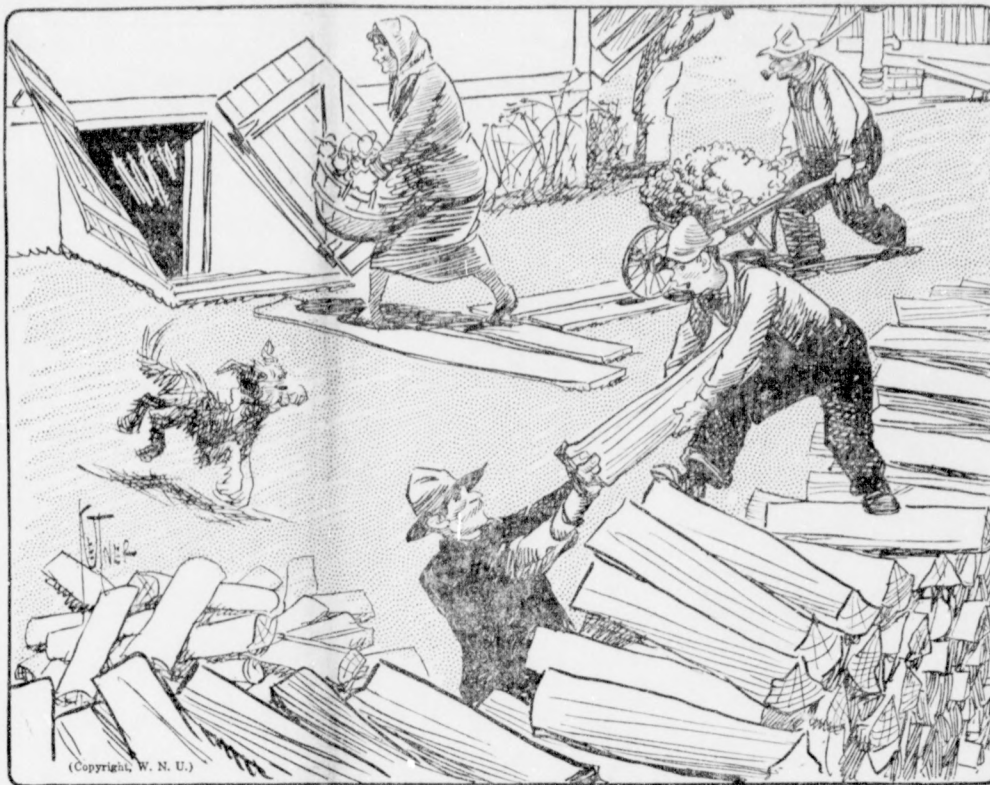

The eight regular varsity letter holders back for action include: Miss Georgia Ragland, Murray, captain last year; Miss Margaret Foy, Fulton; Miss Martha Ruoff, Paducah, member of the 1928 team; Miss Dorothy Wyman, center, Lowes; Miss Lucille Throgmorton, Mayfield, 1931 captain; Miss Ozane Flowers, Big Sandy, Tenn.; Grace Perdue, Paducah; and Miss Mary Shupe, Fulton.

No schedule of games has been announced.

TIME TO BUY SHOES FROM FRY & NEWHOUSE, EX- CLUSIVE SHOE DEALERS

Fry & Newhouse, the "all leather shoe men" of Fulton, start their Gigantic Stock Reducing Shoe Sale today.

This is a general cleanup sale of numerous lines of shoes for men, women and children, and among the various lots are some of the most remarkable values they have ever offered. It is a noteworthy fact that these are not "bargain" shoes, such as are seen in large quantities in the periodical shoe sales elsewhere, seemingly made for the purpose. All of the shoes in this sale are high-grade and taken from their own regular stock and reduced. This means that every shoe offered is a safe shoe to buy, and fully guaranteed by them as good value at the original price. It also means that there are many different styles, almost every customer should be able to find a pair that fits—and that without much searching.

Attend this big shoe sale and share the savings with the other shoppers who will be there. Seasonable shoes at the lowest prices. If this shoe store did not exist thousands of people would be compelled to pay a fourth more for their footwear. As long as they can give the kind of bargains advertised they are sure to be Fulton's big shoe store.

DO IT NOW

Winter, with its ice and snow, may bring joy to the hearts of school children, and a little broader smile to the faces of the coal and clothing men. But so far we have failed to hear a single Fulton motorist welcoming its approach. It is the danger time for them, a time when they must exercise far greater care than at any other season.

Already papers throughout the country are chronicling deaths from monoxide poisoning. All the warnings that have been printed against leaving the motor running in a closed garage on a cold day have not been sufficient to impress some car owners. As a result we can expect a continuation of fatalities from this source. But one thing every motorist does know is that the brakes on a car must be in perfect condition in winter. Streets and highways are going to be far more dangerous during the next four months than they have in the four just passed. And there will be more instances in which drivers will have to put their whole dependence in the brakes on their car if they would avoid an accident. Not only is it a protection to the one driving the car, it is a safeguard for those walking or driving in the same vicinity.

Failure to start the winter with perfectly adjusted brakes is nothing short of criminal negligence. Surely there isn't a driver in this neighborhood who wants to risk being placed in that class by neglecting to look after his brakes.

BUILDING IN SOUTH AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

All-Time Record In Sight; Awards Jump $28,000,000

Washington.—More than $814,000,000 of new construction work has been awarded in the southern states during the 10 months ended Oct. 31, the Manufacturers Record announced today. Of this record the publication states:

"As this total is $28,000,000 greater than the awards during the whole of 1929 and within $77,000,000 of the record construction year of 1926, the south is most assuredly setting an all-time high construction record. This is one of the most encouraging features of the situation in the south today. It is a factor that is playing an important part in helping to stabilize business and to furnish employment."

October awards, amounting to more than $65,000,000, increased $19,000,000 over September, and work proposed and in sight at the end of October totaled nearly $100,000,000. Construction contracts during October were $7,000,000 higher than reported for the corresponding month in the south's record construction years of 1926.

Contracts awarded in October, 1926 to 1930: 1930, $65,658,000; 1929, $53,711,000; 1928, $47,913,000; 1927, $46,257,000; 1926, $58,663,000.

The statement added: "Especially worthy of emphasis is the increase in residence and apartment building during October as compared with the last few months. Miscellaneous construction projects also showed gain in October and the diversity of new industrial expansion is most gratifying. There has been a slight quickening of building activity throughout the entire country, but to the south must go the honor of keeping its construction ahead of 1929 ever since the early spring months."

JOHN T. SMITHSON

Central Church of Christ Em- ploy Preacher

John T. Smithson who has been serving the church at Tipton, Oklahoma, for the past five years, will arrive with his family this week, to begin work with the Church of Christ here. His first service will be next Sunday, November 16th.

Brother Smithson comes to us highly recommended. He received his College and Bible work at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn., and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Since leaving school some sixteen years ago he has served some of the strongest churches and has spent much time in evangelistic work.

We invite the people of Fulton and surrounding country to hear him.

MISS WILLIAMSON AP- PEARS IN PROGRAM

Miss Elizabeth Williamson, freshman, daughter of T. E. Williamson, Fulton, appeared on the program of the Allenian Society Tuesday, October 14. Miss Williamson, a graduate of Fulton High School, presented a reading "A Human Tonic." According to the president of the society her declamation was "very good." Besides Miss Williamson, the president, William "Peg" Mahew, and Prof. A. B. Austin, dean of men, appeared on the program.

Brieflets

The old-fashioned Fulton man who sang of the girl he left behind him now has a son who's got one that keeps up with him.

Many a father in this country who worked his way through college is now working his boy's way through.

As a general rule a woman will forgive a husband's past if he comes home with a present.

When a vehicle zipped past you in the old days it was a sign some horse was feeling his oats. Now it's a sign that some jackass is feeling his rye.

Our idea of a real old-timer is the Fulton citizen who can remember when crime was news because it was unusual.

More growling is done around home by a man who leads a dog's life than by the dog itself.

The unemployment situation is a great relief to the hobo. He doesn't have to be afraid that every fellow he meets now will offer him a job.

There are really but two kinds of women in Fulton. Those who talk love and those who love to talk.

Another evidence of middle-age is not being embarrassed on finding that the knot in your four-in-hand is an inch below your brass collar button.

Never stop your little boy when you find him playing with mud. He may grow up to be a successful politician.

There are only two places in Italy where Mussolini doesn't come first. In the city directory and in the telephone book.

There is probably nothing a Fulton girl likes better than to marry a self-made man and then make a lot of alterations in him.

The old world has become so brazen that about the only way anybody can be shocked is with electricity.

The reason Fulton girls don't blush all over is because they can't carry that much rouge around in their compacts.

Fulton's New Flower Shop Opened Friday

L. E. Bolin, nationally known florist, has opened a flower shop at 309 Walnut street with Mrs. Bolin Kirby in charge. The opening last Friday was a grand success and all who attended were loud in their praises. The beautiful flowers displayed were gorgeous and won the admiration of everybody. The genial manager was pleased with the large number who attended the opening and gave each one a lovely blossom as a souvenir.

They are always ready to serve you with careful selections of fresh cut flowers or potted plants. Funeral designs a specialty. Don't fail to visit this lovely flower shop and see the beautiful blossoms and artistic display. Mrs. Kirby will welcome you at any time.

FARMERS USE DYNAMITE TO HELP FIGHT DROUGHT EFFECTS

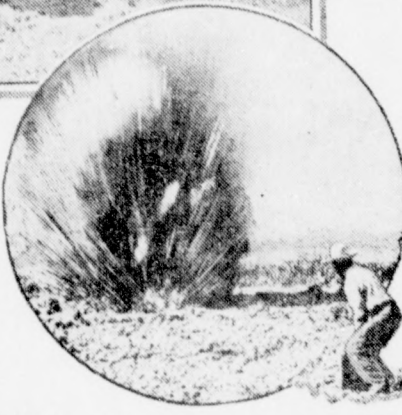

A FORM of trench warfare is being waged by farmers in many states to fight the effects of the long drought.

Dynamite is being used to shatter the soil and permit its easy removal with teams and slip scrapers in the construction of trench silos. The explosive is also being employed to excavate water holes or earth tanks for the conservation of all available water.

Hastily made trench silos are being filled with ensilage salvaged from corn, damaged by lack of water and the intense heat of August, and such forage as is adaptable for use in this kind of cattle feed. In some cases clover is being mixed with chopped corn to increase the amount of moisture.

These emergency silos consist of trenches in the earth. When filled, the ensilage is covered with a layer of cut straw or chaff and a roof of about two feet of straw. Poles are used to support the roof. Sometimes woven wire is stretched between beams to add strength.

The trenches are usually of a width of 12 to 14 feet at the top and slope to a bottom width of eight to ten feet at a depth of eight to ten feet. They vary in length from 25 feet to 60 feet or more. The length is determined by the number of cattle to be fed.

Explosives experts of the Du Pont Agricultural Extension Section, Wilmington, Delaware, are cooperating with county agricultural agents, agricultural engineers, and others in demonstrating to farmers the uses of a low-cost farm explosive for blasting trench silos.

Larry F. Livingston, head of the Du Pont Agricultural staff, advises farmers who are facing a feed shortage to immediately get in touch with their county agents or state colleges relative to construction of emergency silos. Based on a survey of conditions, Mr. Livingston's belief is that trench silos will be especially beneficial to dairymen, cattle raisers and farmers in general in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky and Louisiana.

Trench silos as means of drought relief are being advocated by the Missouri College of Agriculture and some other agricultural institutions. Their construction and operation are described in extension circulars prepared by the Colorado State College of Agriculture, the North Dakota Agricultural College, the University of Minnesota and the University of Missouri.

In many localities water holes or earth tanks are being excavated with ditching dynamite for the purpose of storing water for dairy herds, beef cattle, sheep, hogs and horses. Where wells have gone dry and may remain so for a prolonged period, these reservoirs are being used to catch the runoff of rain or to impound water from springs and small streams.

Special methods of blasting to save time and reduce costs have been developed by Du Pont agricultural engineers. As a result, one afternoon's work with explosives does more than a gang of men with teams and scrapers can do in a week or longer.

Although dynamite has long been used in making drainage ditches and for flood control, the explosive is now finding its first uses in an agricultural crisis caused by an exceptional drought.

Welfare Workers met with Mrs. Ocie Yates October 30th. Each lady carrying a lunch and material for making crepe paper flowers. A dozen ladies were present. Roses, chrysanthemums, morning glories, daisies and other flowers were made. They are beautiful and fill the place of the home-grown which the drought deprived us. A business meeting was held in the afternoon. Business in general brought up to date. An all-day meeting was decided upon, asking Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Warner, health specialists, to meet with us. Lunch will be brought by each and Christmas presents made. A letter from Mrs. Ellis states she is asking Mrs. Warner for the 26th. So let me insist that each club member be present to welcome Mrs. Warner into our circle and enjoy the message of health and good cheer she always brings. Also bring along suggestions for Christmas presents we can make.

Mrs. Ridgway, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Ocie Yates and daughter, Mildred, spent last Saturday with Mrs. Ruth Finch. Incidentally they helped make Mrs. Finch a large bouquet of crepe paper flowers. In order to devote more time to her studies, basket ball and the social activities of her senior year of high school, Doris Finch is now boarding at the home of her school friend, Evelyn McKinney, near South Fulton school.

I understand Mr. Roy Nix will probably buy his father's home place in the Reed neighborhood. Katherine McConnell and Mary Alice Frank were sick last Friday, badly crippling the girls' team of basket ball, which played Palmersville that afternoon.

Unselfish Service to Others Is a Telephone Tradition

Once every year there is an award of Vail medals for Bell telephone workers. These are given in recognition of acts that are considered as outstanding in noteworthy public service, and four have been awarded to Southern Bell workers this year.

Every day more than 20,000 people in the Southern Bell telephone organization are giving their utmost endeavors to the service of the public. To most of them there does not come the opportunity for heroic or noteworthy conduct. And yet it is their conscientious daily fulfillment of their duty to the company and to the public that makes possible the smooth and satisfactory service that you have come to accept as a matter of course.

Usually it is only in emergencies that heroic acts are called for, but every hour of every day the telephone fraternity is giving you the best they can to serve your needs, and, if necessary they will rise to a crisis and demonstrate that they, too, place service above self.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

Next Tuesday the poultry show will be held in Cairo, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of that city, and it promises to be quite a nice show. It will be held down in the business district and should draw good crowds. I don't know how many of the breeders from down here are going to send birds up, but I hope there will be a good number go up from here.

It is a foregone conclusion that everybody makes mistakes, so you need not be surprised when I tell you the Chicken Man made a mistake, and I am sorry for making the mistake, but I was writing of one man the other day and thinking of another, so substituted the name Wes for Bob. I wrote an article saying Wes Browder came into the office and paid a dollar toward the deficiency of the poultry show, when I should have written that it was Bob Browder. My apologies to both gentlemen.

Chicken thieves are beginning to make their appearance in this territory. The best insurance against chicken thieves is a good load of buckshot placed in their anatomy, so that when they go to the penitentiary they will have to stand up to do their eating for some time.

I have been invited to attend a large banquet on the night of Thanksgiving in the city of Atlanta, given by the poultry and rabbit breeders of that vicinity, but on account of previously made arrangements to put on a rabbit display at the Cairo show during Thanksgiving week, I had to decline. Another thing, I thought possibly they might call on me for a speech, and being bashful and backward, was afraid I would not fit the bill.

The rabbit show sponsored by the Mid-South Rabbit Breeders' Association of Memphis during the week of January 12th, promises to be the largest rabbit show ever held in the Mississippi Valley. Inquiries are already coming in for entry blanks from states scattered all over this section of the country. It would not surprise me to have entries from every state in the union.

I haven't decided as yet what I will have for my Thanksgiving dinner, chicken, rabbit or turkey, but I guess it will be "crow."

News is real scarce right now. It is the "between times" from the country fairs to the winter shows, and as there are so few breeders around Fulton who have nerve enough to show their birds any place except Fulton and Union City, it is hard to boost their flocks. However, when I see an exceptionally good flock I can't help but say something about it. But I haven't been out in the county much since the fair so can't brag on anyone's flock just now. I will make some trips out in the county soon and then look for some flowers thrown at your chickens.

Station CHICKEN signing off.

Old World Recipes

By HELEN SCHAUFLER
Domestic Science Expert

ONE of the chief secrets of the best Old World cooking lies in the care which is taken that each dish on the menu shall go well with all the others. Flavors are carefully studied. Particularly in the case of those vegetable dishes which tradition causes the housewife to serve with certain meats, the most meticulous attention is paid to obtaining those nuances of flavor that will accentuate the savor of the meat itself.

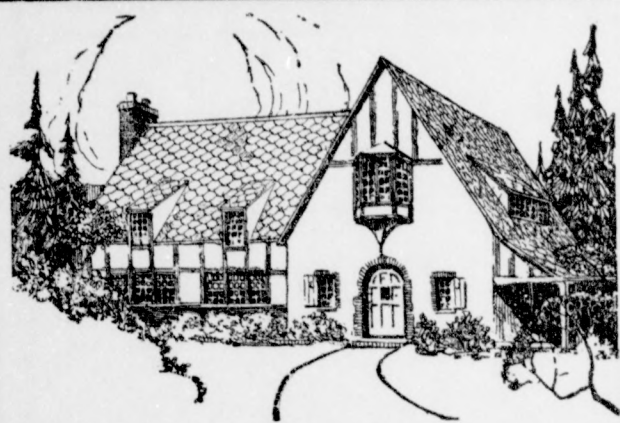

Helen Schaffer

Russian Beets—(Russian)—Serve with ham. Boil eight beets until tender in one quart of water sweetened with two tablespoons of sugar. Chop, add salt, one tablespoon of butter, one teaspoon sugar, one-half cup of chopped broiled bacon or salt pork, one tablespoon vinegar and one-half cup of sour cream or milk if it is on hand. Thicken slightly with one teaspoon of flour.

Ricewith Mint—(Spanish)—Serve with lamb. Boil two cups of rice in salted water until tender. Drain. Mash two tablespoons of fresh mint leaves with one tablespoon of powdered sugar. Add one teaspoon of lemon juice. Stir this into the rice with one tablespoon of melted butter. Pack in a baking dish. Brush with butter and dust with a little powdered sugar. Brown for fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

Boiled Cucumbers—(Turkish)—Serve with lamb, veal or beef. Peel and dice four medium-size cucumbers. Soak in salt water for twenty minutes. Drain and plunge into boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain. Add two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon of sugar, one-fourth cup of vinegar and one and one-half cups of the water the cucumbers were boiled in. Bring to a boil and thicken with one tablespoon of flour. Sprinkle with chopped parsley or chives.

Lesson for November 16

THE BELIEVING CENTURION, A
GENTLE WHOSE FAITH JESUS COMMENDED

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:5-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Believed Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Man Who Believed Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being Fair to Other Races.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming Racial Prejudice.

I. Who the Centurion Was (v. 5).
His name is not given. His title was derived from the word meaning "a hundred." He was, therefore, officially the commander of a hundred men. "The ordinary duties of a centurion were to drill his men, inspect their arms, food, and clothing, and to command them in the camp and in the field."

II. The Centurion's Need (vv. 5, 6).
He had a very dear servant who was gravely afflicted with the palsy, and at the point of death (Luke 7:2). This slave was highly valued for this character and ability. We are not told in this account as to whether the centurion had employed doctors. In all probability they had been employed and were unable to give help. The centurion had, no doubt, heard of the wonderful power of Jesus to heal. Therefore, he came to him as the only one who could help.

III. The Centurion's Request (vv. 5, 6).
It was that Christ would come and heal his servant (Luke 7:3). From the account in Luke we learn that the centurion first sent the leaders of the Jews. Being a Gentile, he doubtless believed that he could best secure the attention and consideration of Jesus through the mediation of the Jews. The centurion was of good report among the Jews. The leaders who were sent testified to the good reputation which he bore in the community. They especially mentioned his benevolent deeds to the Jews.

IV. The Centurion's Humility (vv. 7, 8).

As Jesus was nearing the centurion's house the friends were sent to say to him that he was unworthy for him to come under his roof, but because the case of his servant was so grave, he brushed aside all difficulties and personally appealed for help. Jesus is pleased when men realize their utter helplessness and appeal to him for help.

V. The Centurion's Faith (vv. 8-10).

In spite of his unworthiness he committed his case to the Lord. He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word, his servant would be healed. It is most interesting to note his philosophy of authority. He said, "I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me, and I say to this man, 'Go,' and he goeth, and to another, 'Come,' and he cometh, and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he doeth it." He believed that disease was under control, that Christ could order it about just as he ordered his soldiers about. By faith he saw Christ as completely in authority over the most violent malady as he himself was in control over the soldiers under him. His faith was so unusual that Christ marveled at it. He did not marvel in the sense of being surprised at it, but marveled at its intelligence. His faith was based upon the true philosophy of the universe; namely, that the universe is based upon a law and Jesus Christ is the Director and Controller of that law. So greatly was Christ pleased with his faith that he declared that it exceeded anything found among the Jews, that many Gentiles would have a place in the kingdom to the exclusion of many Jews.

VI. Christ's Wonderful Power (v. 13).

He said to the centurion, "I will come and heal him" (v. 7). Note his perfect confidence in himself. He did not say, "I will come and see what I can do," but "I will heal him." He knew that all power was given unto him by the Father. He did not need to go and touch the centurion's slave, but needed only to speak the word, and it was done. He could heal from miles away as well as when in the presence of a sick person. How wonderful is the power of the Lord Jesus Christ! Let us trust him at all times and under all circumstances.

THANKSGIVING COMES

TINGLING toes, rosy cheeks and a voracious appetite are all natural concomitants of the Thanksgiving season. There also always remains from the early youth of all properly constituted persons a thrilling sense of expectancy as to just what there will be for Thanksgiving dinner. In spite of the drought and temporary hard times, there is still plenty to eat, thank Heaven, in this country. One can count on roast turkey; and pumpkin pie is sure to make its appearance on the menu, but of what will the rest of the meal consist?

It is to answer this question that we have planned the following menu for a modern Thanksgiving dinner, taking advantage of the reasonable prices of canned foods to make a tasty accompaniment with some fresh foods to the traditional turkey.

Anchovy Canapés
Celery Hearts Tiny Sweet Pickles
Chicken Consommé
Mushrooms and Olives on Puff Paste Rounds
Roast Turkey
Canned Cranberry Sauce
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Turnips Mashed Potatoes
Tiny White Boiled Onions
Pickle Peach Salad
Pumpkin Pie Fairy Plum Pudding
Coffee
Home Made Nut Caramels
A Fancy Canapé

Of course the housewife will want to know just how to concoct all these delectable dishes, so here are the recipes, calculated to serve eight people:

Anchovy Canapés: Stir one cucumber thinly sliced, put a boiled potato into thin rounds of the same diameter. Marinate thoroughly in French dressing, and drain well. Place a round of cucumber on top of a round of potato, and cover with tartar sauce. Put four thin strips of pimiento lattice-wise across the top. Wrap a fillet of anchovy from a can of these around a stuffed olive and set in the center. A canned artichoke bottom could be substituted for the potato if you want to make this canapé still more dressy.

An Appetizing Entrée

Mushrooms and Olives on Puff Paste Rounds: Drain the contents of two 4-ounce cans of mushrooms, and cook gently for three minutes in two tablespoons butter. Cut twenty-four stuffed olives in halves, add and cook two minutes longer. Smooth two tablespoons flour with the liquor from the mushrooms to which enough rich milk or cream has been added to make one and one-third cups. (Evaporated milk can be used for this purpose.) Add to the mushrooms and olives, and cook till creamy, stirring all the time. Season to taste with salt, add a few drops of lemon juice and serve on rounds of puff paste.

A Delectable Salad

Pickle Peach Salad: Drain one No. 2 can of peach halves. Cream together one package of cream cheese and one package of Roquefort cheese, add two tablespoons India relish and two tablespoons chopped celery, and fill cavities of peaches with this mixture. Beat three-fourths cup cream, and add one-third cup mayonnaise and a few grains of salt. Put a little of this cream mixture in eight individual ice cream molds, then put in a peach with the stuffed side up. Fill the rest of the mold with the cream mixture so that the peach is entirely covered. Cover with waxed paper and the tight tin cover. Pack in ice and salt until frozen. Turn out into lettuce nests.

Special Sweets

Fairy Plum Pudding: Soak one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in three-fourths cup cold water. Melt two squares of sweet chocolate in a double boiler, add one-sixth cup sugar, and stir to a paste. Add another sixth cup of sugar and the gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Add one and one-half cups scalded evaporated milk and three tablespoons of syrup from stuffed oranges (you can get these in glass jars at your grocer's), and let the mixture stand until it begins to set. Then fold in three stiffly-beaten egg-whites, one cup of chopped stuffed orange (about one and a half oranges) and three-eighths cup of chopped vacuum packed walnuts. Turn into small molds wet with cold water and set aside to chill. Turn out and garnish with whipped cream and red and green cherries.

Pumpkin Pie: Mix two cups canned pumpkin, one and one-eighth cups sugar, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons ginger, and one teaspoon cinnamon. Stir in the well-beaten yolks of three eggs and two cups milk. Beat the whites of three eggs stiffly and fold in. Turn into a pie-plate lined with pastry. Bake for fifteen minutes at 425°, then for thirty minutes or until set at 325°. Have enough heat at first comes out clean, as for a custard pie. Makes one large pie.

WRIGHT CHOSEN ON MURRAY DEBATE SQUAD

Hugh Wright, Fulton, was chosen on the debating squad of Murray State Teachers College by Prof. L. J. Hortin, debate coach, Tuesday evening, October 21. The subject for try-out is the one that will be used against Cambridge, England, November 24, at Murray. "Resolved that the emergence of woman from the home is a regrettable feature of modern life."

Wright, a sophomore, is a member of the Wilsonian Society, the Henry Clay debating club, and the Christian Association. Last spring he was one of the members of the Wilsonian debating team which won the Richard P. Ernst trophy in debating. He was recently elected secretary of the Henry Clay Debating club.

Wright is the son of John E. Wright of Fulton. He is a graduate of Beclerton High School.

Besides Wright seven men and three women were chosen on the Murray team. The squad will have its first meeting Thursday evening.

AN OLD SWINDLE

Try as hard as they can, postal experts admit they've not been able to completely wipe out grafters who wax rich on the old "lost heir" scheme. Doubtless more than one Fulton resident has at some time been solicited by these vultures for cooperation (in the form of money) in reclaiming land said to lay in the heart of New York, Philadelphia, or maybe some Texas city. They are always "just about ready" to prove their claim to the title, and always they can trace the ancestry of their intended victims back to the point where they will share in the "fabulous sums" that must be paid by those now occupying the lands. Some of them have been placed in jail, some have been forced to quit using the mails and others have made money enough thru the "suckers" they caught to be able to retire. But a new generation of them appears to have come on the scene. New victims are falling for the old scheme. Uncle Sam is doing everything possible to protect you, so why not send any enticing letters you may receive along this line to the postal authorities next time instead of sending their writer a single cent of your hard-earned money?

PASSING ON

A report of the U. S. office of education confirms the knowledge that the "little red school house" is steadily dwindling toward oblivion. During the last ten years the one-room district school houses of the "Mary lamb" type have been disappearing at the rate of 4,000 a year. The centralized schools, big modern buildings drawing pupils from several districts, are crowding them out. In spite of this rapid decline, there remains 153,306 of the one-room structures, an average of better than 3,000 per state, showing how completely was the coverage of the little red school houses in its heyday.

The government figures, nevertheless, predict the inevitable. Three-fourths of the one-room schools in Georgia were abandoned since 1918. Sixteen other states, from Connecticut on one coast to Washington on the other, have recorded a decline of at least 25 per cent. It appears to be but a matter of time until the elegy of the last little red school house is written.

A great many of the small, brick buildings, of course, will outlive their educational service. The motorist through rural regions sees many deserted; the tiny tower bereft of its bell, the old pump rusting in the yard, the windows boarded or broken. But recent auctions of some of the properties "for a song" will mean their renovation for use as country cottages, highway refreshment stands and the like. As an educational institution, however, the one-room hall of learning, still dear to the hearts of older residents around Fulton must soon be recorded as only a fond memory.

The Age of Julia

By ELLEN ADAMS

(Copyright)

MISS MARSH of the trimming counter touched her beautifully waved hair with a polished finger tip, then she tilted the tiny mirror so that she could see her wistful brown eyes and hunt out a suspected line near her mouth. Suddenly, she closed the vanity case with a little snap, and regarded its gold and pink enamel beauty with decidedly cold disfavor.

"That," she said bitterly, "would have bought a whole set of aluminum cooking utensils."

"What are you talking about?" panted stout Mrs. Cadge, buyer for the corset department. "Cooking utensils are of no use to you in your eight-by-ten room at the boarding house, and believe me, Julia, at your age, you should be glad to have such fine prospects as marrying Herbert Lindsay—I suppose it will be soon."

"How long have we been engaged?" demanded Julia.

"I don't know—a few years—"

"Ten?" interrupted Julia.

"That's better than nothing—plenty of girls here in Spinnakers would be glad of your chance."

"I suppose so," murmured Julia as they returned to their respective departments.

Herbert Lindsay, who had sold men's clothing for twenty years in the front of the big store, gloomed at the handsome sapphire pin he was thrusting into his scarf. "If I had all the money that Julia has invested in scarf pins," he thought, "I could have built a model chicken house and the runs for 200 fowl!" he sighed and turned away to sell a suit of clothes to a sunburned customer who ran a small stationery and fancy goods store in a country village. Lindsay had sold Peters' clothes for twenty years.

"How's the clothing business?" asked Peters as he pulled out a big roll of money.

"About the same as usual; and how's the store coming along—and the chickens?" asked Herbert.

"All right; but I'm selling out."

"Selling out, why?"

"Moving to California, so if you hear of anyone who wants to buy the house and chickens and store—it brings in as much as you can earn here, young man!" he boasted with pride.

The "young man" of forty smiled grimly. "Tell me all about it," he suggested.

That evening he took Julia marsh out to dinner and asked her what she wanted for a birthday present. Julia glanced at him from tired eyes. "I don't dare tell you, Herbert," she said bluntly.

"Cost a lot?" he asked.

She shrugged. "Do I look old, Herbert—much older, to you?" she asked.

"You always look just the same to me," he said gallantly, "the prettiest girl in Spinnakers."

"Not now. Ten years ago—when we became engaged. Haven't the years gone though?"

"Ten years—we never thought we had enough to take one of those apartments in the Larrida, but next year—of course you wouldn't want to go anywhere else, Julia?" He looked at her doubtfully, and she saw with a pang that his hair was threaded with gray.

"The Larrida?" she repeated. "I don't want to go there, now."

"There's a new one going up—non-housekeeping, maid service, valet service—" he said dreamily.

"I don't want maid service—non-housekeeping or anything like that, Herbert. Don't you understand, Herbert?" She was near to tears and he was glad that their table was partly concealed behind a large screen of palms.

"A hotel then?" he ventured desperately.

"I want—to—do my own housework," she said distinctly. "Of course you are horrified and disgusted, and your ideals are shattered, but I am tired of being dressed up all day and just selling things. I've had to be dressed up every day for years and years—and I want a chance to have a little house of my own, and wear cotton house dresses, and go to the butcher's and grocer's, and have some chickens, and belong to the Ladies Aid society and go to church every Sunday, and wash every Monday morning and iron Tuesday—and never eat in a boarding house or restaurant again. So—if you want to give me anything for my birthday—just let me pick it out—I don't want a silver mesh bag, or a bracelet or anything like that—just a whole lot of kitchen utensils."

Herbert put his hand on hers and told her about the man, Peters, who wanted to sell his little shop and home.

"Ah, why didn't you buy it, Herbert?" she exclaimed.

"I did," he said calmly, "and I thought, say in March, when the frost is out of the ground, we might be married, and go there."

"Hurry," urged Julia, "for we are not growing any younger—and I want to get home and look at that catalogue of kitchen things."

"And I," said Herbert, doomed to be a small-town shopkeeper, and happy as a schoolboy for this cherished ambition, "must make out a list of garden seeds."

THE BACK SEAT DRIVER

One of the nuts the Supreme Court will soon be called on to crack is the status of the back-seat driver. An insurance company is claiming it should not be made to pay in the case of an accident that might have been averted had passengers in the back seat warned the driver as they could and should have done. As a matter of fact many a good word may be said for the back-seat driver. Most of the criticism aimed at him—maybe it should really be "her"—is in the form of jokes. But men jest publicly about many things which in private they take seriously. Even the worst henpecked husband you can name around Fulton will sometimes risk a joke about his better-half. That part of the family which is not grasping the wheel has a moral duty and responsibility to help watch, especially if there is a little lack of confidence in the driver—and what wife really has much in her husband? Of course Pa may use his own judgment about listening to the advice.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED IN FULTON

A slow but persistent rain failed to dampen the ardor of American Legionnaires and others who had determined to have a worthy celebration of Armistice Day Tuesday morning in Fulton. Promptly at 10:45 the parade formed in front of the city schools on Second street, with the Drum and Bugle Corps in the lead. The air was rent with the blast of whistles, recalling the glorious morning twelve years ago when the same sound conveyed to a war-weary world the news that the fighting was over. The parade consisted mostly of automobiles, as the rain prevented the schools from joining in the march. Coming down Second street to Lake, the procession moved to Walnut, thence by Mulberry street to Main, and back across Lake to Fourth and to Carr and on back to Science Hall by way of Third street and Park avenue. Then the memorial service was held, at which a goodly number were present.

The parade attracted much attention as it wound its way along the downtown and residence streets.

Tuesday night at the Methodist church the Legion and Auxiliary had their annual banquet. Covers were laid for approximately a hundred persons, and Congressman Voris Gregory of Mayfield delivered the address.

FEEDING THE NAVY

WHETHER our legislators decide to build up our navy to actual parity with Great Britain or not, they are all in accord on one subject, and that is that the personnel of the navy must be well fed. In an article in a recent number of The Courier, Frederick Krassner of the Brooklyn Naval Supply Depot reveals with what meticulous care the huge quantities of canned foods which our gobs consume are selected for them. The problem of meeting our Navy's requirements in this respect will be appreciated when it is realized that it purchases approximately 25,000 tons of canned products in the course of a year.

"The scientific progress achieved in the art of canning foods," says this article, "and the variety of canned products available are factors which are responsible for the widespread use of such products in the Navy. As a result, the enlisted man aboard a ship of the American fleet is now able to enjoy the full benefits of a well-balanced ration both in times of peace and in times of war."

"If they can, they can it!"

"The fundamental requirement to be met by all canned foods, as well as all fresh foods, for the Navy, is conformity with the Federal Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, and to the subsequent decisions of the Department of Agriculture. The Navy has its own set of specifications containing general and detail requirements for each specific item purchased."

The article then goes on to describe the Navy's method of sending out bids, and how samples of all canned foods purchased are submitted for inspection, and continues: "The well-known phrase, viz: 'If they can, they can it,' takes on an added significance in dealing with the Navy. Due to the variety of products required, there arise the problems involved in refrigeration and storage space on board a ship, which does not conveniently adapt itself to loading up with the greater bulk occupied by fresh products. This is particularly so in destroyers and submarines, where space is even more limited."

A Well-Balanced Ration

"However, without sacrificing practically any of the nutritional elements involved, or in any way impairing the physiological efficiency of the men, as borne out in recent studies made by commanding officers of ships and medical officers, scientific advances made in the canning industry have made it possible to utilize this large variety of products in liberal quantities. It should, of course, be borne in mind that for a given diet in order to be well-balanced in all respects, supplementary additions of available fresh foods such as milk, vegetables and other similar products are also used liberally."

The writer then goes on to describe the care with which the quality of canned foods is judged, and to enumerate the requirements of the Navy in this respect.

and continues: "It will thus be seen that every precaution is taken so that Uncle Sam's Navy is well taken care of as regards the quality of canned foods purchased. It should, of course, be pointed out that the Navy's demands in these respects can usually be met by most contractors, the products obtained corresponding in general to the high-grade products used in the household."
