AMERICAN LEGION

The 1931 membership drive of the American Legion Auxiliary, the auxiliary's equivalent of the American Legion, is now well under way. At this writing, the number of Auxiliary members in this state is not known. It is known, however, that the Auxiliary is getting in touch with many of its members to urge them to become members of the American Legion. The Auxiliary is an organization for women who are members of the American Legion.

2 GRAVES COUNTY MUN. SCHOOL EACH OTHER

Murfreesboro, Ky. - Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Frazard, owners of the Murfreesboro Hotel, have had enrolled in their hotel hospital recently wounded in the service of a few close friends. It is a serious condition in the Murfreesboro Hotel for the benefit of the returning veterans. Mr. Frazard, who was shot with a short gun, has returned from the hospital after a short stay. The hotel is located on the outskirts of the city.

A threebullet round in the middle section of the hotel was fired by a group of soldiers who had been present for the purpose of serving. The hotel is located on the outskirts of the city.

RED BARRNS

A wealthy Wisconsin man, desiring to enhance the beauty of the countryside about his home, decided to acquire neighboring farms in order to protect them from development. But he insisted that "red bars" were a curse on the landscape and that he would not build a barn on his land. When he learned that a half-dozen barns had been built on surrounding properties, he was outraged. He had bought those farms in order to protect the landscape and to create an atmosphere of peace and beauty, and he felt that the placement of the barns was not in harmony with his vision. He tried to negotiate with the farmers, but they refused to move the barns. He then decided to take legal action to force the farmers to move the barns. The proceedings were long and complicated, and the outcome was uncertain. Some people thought that the man was being unreasonable, but others supported him, as they believed that the beauty of the landscape was worth preserving. The case was eventually settled out of court, and the barns were moved, but the man had learned a valuable lesson about the importance of protecting the natural beauty of the land. He continued to live on his estate, surrounded by his beloved red bars, until his death.

Help our Merchants to help YOU.

Everybody will agree that a man succeeds and prospers only when he spends LESS money than he receives in a given period of time.

Let's apply this great economic test to the situation in this town. Our business men have invested—and continue to invest—their money in stocks of goods brought here to your very door to meet your daily needs.

Through the pages of this paper they advise you of their ability to serve this community. All of us know that they deserve our patronage. And remember, the more you trade with them the more funds they can invest in larger stocks and new lines.

Better Breakfasts

If you have lived in this community any length of time you will have observed the breakfast table of more than one household, and the charm that makes the meal a success. There are, however, a few principles which are generally recognized as guiding the good breakfast table.

1. Variety.
3. Taste.
4. Economy.

We all know that variety makes the meal pleasant. The breakfast table should present some degree of novelty to each member of the household.

It is generally recognized that milk is a necessary article of diet. A moderate amount of milk is greatly appreciated by the members of the breakfast table.

Nutrition.

The breakfast table should be a place of real nourishment. A good meal is more than just a mixture of ingredients. The meal should be well balanced. It should consist of food that is essential to the growth and development of the body.

Taste.

The breakfast table should be a place of enjoyment. The food should be well prepared and served in a manner that is appetizing.

Economy.

The breakfast table should be a place of economy. The food should be selected with care and should be prepared in such a manner that it will be nutritious and yet not expensive.

Sound Advice

Buckman Smith T. H. Alexander in Commercial Appeal

Almost daily some horrid and evil written to humor times may be bettered and perhaps less unemployment may be reduced. That is a subject on which I will have more to say on a future occasion.

The best protection for your pocket book is the surplus account. More than that, it is useful. A surplus account is building capital. It is active. It is our function, our ambition, to have our people deposit in the bank and every cent that they can.

If you haven't given your self a surplus account, you need to get one. A surplus account can leave his loved ones well provided for in the event of his death. It is a protection that he needs. If you haven't given your self a surplus account, you need to get one.

I am informed by a reader that another one of those financial writers has written that an old man can live on a surplus account as well as any one else in the community. We are informed that there is a surplus account.

I have made it a practice of talking to old men, people who have lived through the world, and I can tell you that they are not the ones who have not had a surplus account. I have talked to them, and I can tell you that they are not the ones who have not had a surplus account. I have talked to them, and I can tell you that they are not the ones who have not had a surplus account. I have talked to them, and I can tell you that they are not the ones who have not had a surplus account. I have talked to them, and I can tell you that they are not the ones who have not had a surplus account.

The important thing right now, as I reckon it, is to pay your bills. It will save you a lot of money. It will save you a lot of money. It will save you a lot of money. It will save you a lot of money. It will save you a lot of money.

The Source of Your Electric Service

Before the construction of widespread transmission systems, the size of a town made a difference in the quality of its electric service.

When each town was served by a small and isolated plant, the efficiency and economy of service naturally varied with the size of the community.

Today, any community, large or small, can tap the widespread system of transmission lines, and have, instead of one small source of electric supply, the advantage of great plants—providing constant and efficient service.

Our service facilities are available without delay—ready to meet increased demands at once.
