YOUNG PEOPLES' GROUP ORGANIZED

A new religious organization for Fulton youth came into existence Monday night at a meeting held at the Methodist Church when Tom Underwood, of the First Christian Church, Fulton County President of the C. E. Union was named temporary chairman, Miss Polly Owens of the Methodist Church, temporary secretary, and a program committee was named for the first meeting consisting of the Rev. W. H. Saxon, chairman, Billy Hassell and Henry Bethel. The first meeting of the organization is to be held some time in January at the Methodist Church.

The youth of Fulton churches are invited to unite in this union. A ways and means committee consisting of Carbone Gardner, the Rev. E. R. Ladd and Frank Beadles was also named, as well as a nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Theodore Kramer, Frank Beadles and Henry Bethel. The latter committee will make nominations for the election of officers to be held at the January meeting.

Next Monday night it is expected that a report will be made of the churches which desire to be represented in this unified youth movement in the city at a meeting at the Methodist Church. It is planned to hold monthly gatherings when union programs will be carried out and the work of Christian youth given a general impetus. The cooperation of all churches is urgently requested in this worthy movement. Much interest has already been manifested in the work of such an organization, and a fine meeting is planned for the union early in the new year, when further plans for its program will be made.

Spirit of Christmas Prevails In Fulton

Merchants of Fulton report that the "Spirit of Christmas" is really here and that many shoppers began to select their gifts early in order to avoid the last minute rush. Any kind of gift that one may wish to purchase can be found in the Fulton stores. The beautiful decorations and tastefully arranged window displays show that even more time than usual has been spent in preparation for the holiday season.

In the downtown district long streamers of colored lights, shrouded in mountain laurel, present the most attractive decorations ever used here. Stars and bells have been formed as center ornaments of each row of lights. Each of the white-way lights are wrapped in red or green cellophane.

The second annual Christmas parade was held Wednesday evening, beginning at seven o'clock. A good crowd participated in this event, headed by the Boy Scouts, the Fulton High Band, the American Legion Color Guards, and Santa Claus in person, with candy for all the kiddies.

For 25 years Mr. Howell was a section foreman for the railroad company in Fulton where he spent the greater part of his life, retiring from active service from the company in 1937.

In 1902 Mr. Howell was united in marriage with Tommie Morris, and to this union three children were born, all of whom with their mother, survive: Eldred, popular mail carrier in the Fulton city delivery system; Mrs. Alvin Sawyer of Nashville, Tenn., and Morris of Fort Collins, Colorado.

HOW FINLAND PAYS HER DEBTS

(By William H. Saxon)

Modern Finland, a child of the World War, has startled the world by so conducting her affairs that she has done what no other nation under the sun has even hoped to do. She has not known there was a depression; she has no unemployment problem and never has had—there are today less than 15,000 people in the entire nation out of work and these are mostly old people and children; she has an efficient unemployment insurance in case she should need it, old age pension that is adequate; and she is the only nation that has paid the United States her war debt on time all the time except the times when she was ahead of time, which is the best time of all times. She has so progressed in her democratic government educational program and economical standard that she has won, rightly so too, the title "The America of Scandinavia." How she has been able to accomplish all this? However we must confine ourselves to one phase of the question and that is—How she pays her debts.

1. She pays her debts simply because she owes them and is able to pay. And never has she given out the idea that she intended to do anything but pay. Even now when she is in the grip of a life and death struggle with one of the greatest nations on earth, so far as size is concerned, she assures America that her check will be ready on time when the payment comes due with interest on the unpaid balance. This she does in the first place by having a sound financial system. Finland is on the gold standard and her money never varies in value one iota anywhere. It is worth 100 per cent on the markets of the world. The Finmark is the unit of their monetary system and is the constant in their economic system, while commodities constitute the variable. These may fluctuate according to the law of supply and demand but the Mark remains fixed in value.

Our economic system is just the opposite of Finland's. Here we are trying to make the commodities of life have a fixed value by curtailing the production while we struggle with the managed dollar. In other words, since the economic systems of the world must have a constant and a variable element in them, we are trying to make our (Continued to Page 4)

MARY ANN BRADY

I AM a happy little tree. I stand beside the front entrance of a white cottage on a quiet street. Each Christmas time I bloom out in beautiful colored lights, and all who pass share my beauty and catch something of the joy of Christmas.
But I was not always happy like this. Once I lived in a great forest, surrounded by trees so tall I could only catch a glimpse of the blue sky above me, and I felt very small and lonely. I, too, wanted to be tall, to look out on the big world like the others and feel the sun shining through my branches. I would stretch out my limbs as far as I could, and send my roots deeper into the earth, but my progress was so slow I grew discouraged.
One day I saw a man and a boy coming through the forest. The man carried something over his shoulder and they seemed to be looking for something. Then the boy saw me and cried: "Look, father, there is just the tree we want." He ran over to me and fairly hugged me in his eagerness. The man looked me over. "Fine," he said. But when he began digging with the thing he had carried on his shoulder I began to tremble. I felt my roots snap one by one and soon I lay a tumbled heap on the ground. Life seemed over for me.

Next I was tied to a funny looking thing on wheels, that spluttered and growled when the man and boy climbed in and we started off down a twisty little road that wound through the forest, then out on a big shining highway until we came to a wide driveway that led through a sloping lawn to a white cottage. Here I was untied and put into a large earthen jar filled with sand and carried into the house, and set in a corner of a big room beside a sunny window. Oh, the joy of having the sun on my branches. I began to feel less scared and to look about me.

In a big mirror opposite I could watch the man as he fastened me upright. Then he put a string of lights from my top to my toe, whistling softly as he worked. Then I heard a door open and a rush of feet—a little boy and a girl dashed into the room crying: "Mamma, come quick, and see our Christmas tree." They clapped their hands and danced about me. Soon the mother came with a box filled with shining lovely things and my plain green dress was covered with sparkling jewels. I hardly dared look in the mirror for I remembered I was only a humble tree after all, and what I saw could not be me at all; but the great silver star on my topmost branch made me feel very happy. I seemed to draw courage from just looking at it.

After a time I was left to myself. I was glad, as I needed to rest up a bit and get used to my strange surroundings. It grew dark outside and snow was falling; but inside my star shone and a quiet peace came over me.

Then once more the doors opened and a merry group of people came in. This time there were Father and Grandfather and Grandmother, too; and Mother leading the little boy and girl. Everyone was saying how lovely I was; but I did not want them to look at me. I wanted them to see two little faces outside pressed against the window pane. The boy saw them first. "Look, Daddy, Mamma!" he shouted and pointed to the window. "There are two children out there. Bring them in, Daddy; give them some of our Christmas." And the little girl clasped her hands and cried: "Oh, do, Daddy, it's cold out there!"

When they were brought in looking rather scared, but glad, I was so happy I almost shook my bangles off. Then Mother made music on a big box with shining keys and everyone sang Christmas carols. Then Father told the old story of the Shepherds and the Star that led to the Christ Child. Then a jolly man with a red coat and a pack on his back gave everyone presents, including the little strangers. There were candies and nuts, plenty for all, and such a babble of happy voices. I felt the thrill of it myself and the big star glowed in sympathy.

The CHRISTMAS HARVEST

By ALSON SECOR In Successful Farming

OLD SANTA CLAUS— Some don't believe in him because He makes them spend. They like to borrow, but never lend That Christmas cheer Which permeates this time of year.

They are tight-fisted cynics, these, They never know how presents please The little kids, and others; The sisters and the brothers; The care-worn dads and weary mothers.

There was more than the bicycle. It seemed a shame, Mrs. Greene said, for mittens not to be used, and these books, now, and—well, why not? Mary would be scandalized, and her sons might not understand—but there was their room, never opened now—

"Listen, lad," she said. "I've been aching my heart out for a son. And you need a home. Couldn't we give ourselves to each other for a Christmas present? Won't you be my son?"

"Gee!" cried the boy, voicing a wonder of love and gratitude. "You can sure have me, and Merry Christmas! Merry, Merry Christmas, Mother!"

A Muni film is always a red-letter event, for the star who leads the entire field of dramatic acting makes only one a year and that one is certain to be worthy of his genius. In 1935 it was "The Story of Louis Pasteur," in 1936 it was "The Good Earth," in 1937, "The Life of Emile Zola," "Juarez" in 1938, and now "We Are Not Alone" for 1939, said to be equal, if not higher calibre as film entertainment than any of these previous successes. Appearing with him in the cast are Jane Bryan, who received the role as a reward for her brilliant dramatic work in "The Old Maid," Flora Robson, noted British star of stage and screen, and a host of others.

"We Are Not Alone" starts in 1914, a parallel year to this one, for each marks the beginning of a great war. But the little country doctor in a small English town is not concerned about the world outside, for his own world is troubled enough. He is deeply concerned about his son, a sensitive little fellow who is completely misunderstood by his mother, a severe, forbidding woman. One night the doctor is called to attend a little Viennese dancer, travelling with a third-class theatrical troupe, who has broken her wrist. Unable to work, she is stranded, and he treats her for several weeks finds her strangely fascinating. When he takes his son on one of the visits, the child and the girl get on so well together that he mentions it to his wife, who suggests that they hire her as a governess for him. The atmosphere of the doctor's house changes with Leni in it, but scandal is soon rife in the village. To tell how the situation is solved would be to detract from the tremendously moving quality of the story. Edmund Gosling directed the production. Gosling is considered one of the best of all directors in handling human interest, psychological dramas, most recent of which were "Dark Victory" and "The Old Maid."

CAYCE NEWS

The Cayce Missionary Society met Tuesday at an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Clara Carr. A very interesting program was given by the leader, Mrs. Annie Turner with the singing of Christmas carols. A Christmas tree and the exchange of gifts was held in the afternoon. Members of the church also presented Rev. and Mrs. Hopper with a very nice pounding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Seearce have moved to the home of Mrs. Ida Sloan. Mr. Vick and daughter having moved to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Vick.

Mrs. Herman Edmiston and daughter, Marjorie, of Rutherford, spent Friday with Mrs. Jeff Davis and Miss Lizzie Davis.

There was quite a lot of excitement in Cayce last Friday afternoon when the Methodist church caught fire and burned. Plans are being made to start rebuilding soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stephenson were in Cairo, Ill., Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cruce.

Relatives of Mrs. Clara Carr and Mrs. Inez Menes surprised them with a birthday dinner Sunday.

commodities constant in value so that a man who borrows money will not have to sell more to pay back fifty years from now than the man had to sell to secure the money which he loaned. If the price of commodities tend to go lower we are trying to make money cheaper and more plentiful; if the price of commodities tend to go higher, we simply curtail the supply and make money higher.

Again Finland has what we might call a "bi-lateral" banking system. One set of banks is known as the National Banks, headed up by the greatest financial wizard of our day, Risto Rytty. Through these the government finances her business. The Central bank is in the capital, Helsinki, with branches in every important city of the nation. The other system of banks has a long name that means nothing to us but it finances the great number of Cooperatives, and there are over 8,000 of these. It too, has a Central Bank with branches throughout the nation. And in addition to these there is a great number of savings banks.

2. The second reason Finland can and does pay her debts is that the people never have been and apparently never will be plungers. They believe in each other to the limit. Nearly everything is bought and sold through the wonderful system of Cooperatives and almost 1,000,000 people out of three and one half million belong to these. The members both get their commodities at a reduced price and monthly receive a check as dividend on their share or shares which they own. Even great department houses are built and operated through these Cooperatives, and their electricity is produced and distributed through these organizations. This brings enough electricity into the homes to light them throughout these long winter nights of twenty-one hours each for the small sum of $3.00 per month. Thus by working together and saving they are able to pay.

3. The third element in the Finnish character that makes them pay their debts is their religion. The Lutheran Church is the Church of that country and every author I have read with one exception says that 98 per cent of the people belong to the Church—that one exception says 97 per cent are church members. So we had just as well face one fact right now: The Religion of Jesus Christ, properly instilled into people, will make them honest debt-payers. They have no problem of church attendance—they all go to church and are religious. America might well learn this lesson and the sooner she learns it the better off she will be. It is smart to attend church. It is wonderful to be religious. Religion makes men honest, clean, lovable, heroic, daring and great. So it does for nations, as little Finland has demonstrated to the world. I have just finished reading an article on How Finland spends the Sabbath. The picture of this nation going to church is one of the most inspiring I have ever seen. Why cannot we copy after her in this respect? We have tried almost everything else to cure our ills and they have failed. Now let us turn to God and to His House.

DEATHS

Marcus, Texas. Six grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Howell united with the Methodist Church, when a lad of 12 years, transferring his membership to First Christian Church, Fulton, about 12 years ago. He had been a member for many years of the Masonic fraternity, uniting with the organization at Crutcheville where he held his membership.

He was also a member of the Royal Arch Masons and a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

For the last four years Mr. Howell and his family have resided at the Howell home near town, where his son, Eldredge and his family have also resided.

Mr. Howell was a high type of citizenship that took an active interest in the welfare of the community. A faithful employee of the Illinois Central, he enjoyed the respect and esteem of all his employees and co-workers in that system. He was regarded as an excellent workman and one who entered sympathetically into the work with others.

Funeral services were held at the First Christian Church, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the minister, Dr. Don P. Hawkins, conducting the services and the Hornbeak Funeral Home in charge. Interment was made in the Greenlea cemetery in Fulton.

What brought you here? Two policemen.

"AREN'T the dolls beautiful?" exclaimed Joan to her mother, as she gazed upon the finished product of the "Two Little Dolls in Blue" which Dorothy May had ordered from Santa Claus. "They are quite the loveliest I have ever seen," spoke mother. "I do believe that you have put your very heart and soul into their fashioning."

Joan had spent many days and nights, too, stitching a loving holiday thought into each tiny garment. The dainty materials had been transformed into things of beauty. The dresses of pale blue silk with bonnets and slippers to match, had proclaimed them the "Two Little Dolls in Blue!"

"Oh, won't Dot love them!" beamed Joan, as she again eyed the dolls from head to foot with a happy smile of complete satisfaction.

"I dare say this will be her happiest Christmas, one that she will never forget," said mother.

Christmas eve, with its bright lights and cheer, was in full progress and the two little dolls in blue were being fondled by one of the happiest little girls in the world. Rocking in her own tiny chair Dorothy May began singing a lullaby to the dollies, wholly oblivious of the attendant surroundings. It was such an adorable sight that the others had stopped their celebrations and were beaming upon her with transformed emotion.

The spell was broken when Dorothy May suddenly stopped singing and called out, "What shall I name the 'two little dolls in blue'?"

"Well," said Joan, smiling thoughtfully, "since they are dressed in blue and are two very important little ladies, why not call them Alice Blue and the other Elinor Blue?" And so the dolls were named.

On Christmas morning in another house around the corner, Bonny Jean awoke with the joy of the holiday and shouted, "Mother, did Santa come and did he bring me a big baby doll with curls and eyes that open and shut?"

"Yes, dearie, Santa came and brought you a very pretty doll."

Then spying it, seated beneath the tree dressed in scarlet finery, Bonny Jean clasped it to her breast. Upon close inspection she soon learned that it was the same sort of doll she had always received, only with new features.

Just as she was about to burst into protest at her bitter disappointment there came a rap upon the door and a kindly neighbor was saying, "Merry Christmas." Then with a happy smile—

"What is the matter, little girl? Hasn't Santa Claus come yet?"

"Oh, yes, he came, but he brought me the same old rag doll again. I thought sure it would be a real one this year, because I'm nine, you see."

"Oh, I am so sorry," said Dorothy May, with true feeling and thinking of the two beautiful dolls which Santa had left for her. Then with a happy Christmas thought, she whispered something very lovely to her mother.

They all went right over to the big house on the hill nestled under its burden of Christmas snow. Bonny Jean forgot all about the rag doll when she glimpsed the great tree through the holly wreaths in the window. But when she saw the two little dolls in blue sitting beneath it her joy was unbounded. She clasped her hands and danced with glee. "Such darling dolls!" she gasped, breathlessly.

"Their names are Alice Blue and Eleanor Blue," said their little mistress, proudly.

"I want to give you one of them, Bonny Jean; which do you like?" With unbelievable surprise, her eyes fairly dancing with joy, she clasped the beautiful doll in her arms and asked, "Is it—really—mine—for—keeps?"

"Really and truly for keeps," said Dot.

Dorothy May explained it all to her mother after the happy little girl had left, that somehow she just did not miss Eleanor Blue very much when she saw how happy she had made Bonny Jean.

In her heart she felt that it was truly "more blessed to give than to receive," and hugging the one little doll closely, she whispered, "Merry Christmas, Alice Blue."

Economic Highlights

Five or six years ago any Filipino so politically blind as to campaign to office on a platform advocating the maintenance of the Philippines on their then existing basis as an American colony would have gone down to ignominious defeat. Today, a candidate advocating absolute Philippine freedom would have about as much chance of political survival as a snowball in July. Four years back, when Congress passed the Tydings-McDuffie Act, providing for complete independence for the Islands in 1946, the Islands put on the greatest celebration in their history—the ambition of all Filipino patriots had been realized. Last November a plebiscite was held, and where 45,000 Filipinos voted in favor of maintaining the Act in its present form, more than 1,350,000 voted to modify it.

There is plenty of reason for that rather astonishing shift of Island sentiment. The Philippines are worried. There are two primary worries—one has to do with their economic life, and the other with their security as a people and a nation.

As Newsweek expresses it, "The average Filipino fears that independence will mean poverty." So long as the Islands remain a U. S. dependency, Philippine exports can enter this country without tax or duty—and we, of course, provide their greatest single market. Under the terms of the Tydings-McDuffie Act, as the day of freedom nears, Island goods are to be subjected progressively to our tariffs. That would naturally mean higher prices for Island-raised produce here, more competition, and declining sales. It would be virtually essential for the Islands to revolutionize their economy, if they were to escape economic disaster. That would be difficult revolution indeed, and so far, apparently, little progress toward that end has been made.

So far as Philippine security is concerned, the great fear is Japan. Nippon frankly wants the Islands, which are relatively close to her shores. The Japanese have already penetrated deeply into the economic life of the Islands, and are the dominant figures in a number of major industries. The Philippines have laws designed to restrict Japanese property-holdings, but, according to reports, the wily subjects of the Son of Heaven have found little difficulty in getting around them, by the use of "dummies" and similar stratagems.

The U. S. Army, it is known, is not enthusiastic for the Islands—it regards them as being dangerously close to being indefensible against a major fleet as that possessed by Japan, which has sources of supply within reach. The Navy, while it too appreciates the difficulties of defense, wants the bases in the Far East which the Islands provide. So the Admirals are generally in favor of modification of the Tydings-McDuffie Act.

What happens to the Islands is of considerable importance to this country. We have invested scores of millions there, and we sell great quantities of our goods to the Islands annually. Some argue that the best out is to encourage the Filipinos to change their type of farming, produce for us tea, pepper, quinine and other commodities which today we must buy from foreign nations. In the meantime, sentiment in favor of modification of the Tydings-McDuffie Act grows, especially since it has become apparent that an overwhelming majority of Filipinos favor it too. There is a good chance that Congress will listen and act.

The incredible destruction of shipping, principally Allied and neutral, which has taken place in the early months of the war, has military observers all over the world scratching their heads. No one, apparently, thought sinkings would reach such a total. Today the mine and the U-Boat, rather than the airplane and the tank and the cannon, are the most effective instruments of warfare.

Of the two, the mine has proven by far the most effective—U-Boat sinkings are now far in the minority. The German surprise technique of releasing mines from submarines, and smaller, parachute-equipped mines from airplanes, has proven extraordinarily successful. It is obviously in violation of international law. But it takes strong idealist today to believe that a blockade nation fighting for existence is going to pay more than lip service to that code.

The rumor that the Germans have perfected some magnetic device which attracts mines to ships passing by some distance away, is discounted 100 per cent by American scientists for various technical reasons. Far more likely is the assumption that the seas have been literally strewn with free mines, which makes a knowledge of planned mine fields next to useless to ships.

In addition, it is believed British mines have broken loose during storms from their fields and are also floating about freely, a hidden menace to all shipping.

How to clear the seas when war is over seems to be a potential problem that no one has yet been able to answer.

American shoppers will have more money to spend this year. Increased employment, longer working hours, and higher wages have put more money in the workers' pockets. Corporation profits are expanding, and those of us who are stockholders may look forward to larger extra year end dividends than for some time. Farm income and the farmers' profits have been bolstered by the war rise in price. Summed up, our national income should reach sixty-eight billion dollars in 1939, or two billion over last year.

ther, that is, buy more. Increased employment, longer working hours, and higher wages have put more money in the workers' pockets. Corporation profits are expanding, and those of us who are stockholders may look forward to larger extra year end dividends than for some time. Farm income and the farmers' profits have been bolstered by the war rise in price. Summed up, our national income should reach sixty-eight billion dollars in 1939, or two billion over last year.

The distribution of about $350,000,000 (more than for many years) in Christmas savings to over 7,000,000 Christmas Club members will begin the first week in December. Retail merchants should be happy, for Christmas Club officials estimate that at least one-third will be spent on Christmas purchases.

A lazy man is better than one who does no work at all. The one who gets hoaxed in the home is the one who is reluctant to quarrel.

How Other Lands Mark Christmas

A melting pot of the world, America has created its Christmas traditions from countless customs brought across the seas from foreign lands. In these far-away places the Yuletide symbols of bygone ages still endure. Here are a few of them:

ENGLAND: Christmas to rural Englishmen means not only the observance of Christ's birth, but also a parting of the ways between the old year and the new. Preparations are started for the next year's farm work, which begins right after Christmas. Throughout the island such traditions as the holly and mistletoe remain undying traditions, nor is any Christmas complete without the Yule log burning. On clear frosty nights the carol singers raise their voices over the countryside. To many Englishmen's despair, such American customs as the turkey dinner are gaining a foothold.

GERMANY: Two years ago storm troopers in Berlin lit bonfires in the public squares as a revival of the pagan custom of celebrating the winter solstice. But this distraction will not stop the Christmas-loving Germans from decorating their trees in every town and village, and joining in the famed Christmas hymn, "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

ITALY: Most Italian families celebrate Christmas eve and spend the following day quietly in their homes. Here it is a feast more for grown-ups than for children, whose merry-making day comes 12 days later, on January 6. On Christmas eve families gather around the "ceppo" or Christmas log blazes. At nine p. m.

IN ITALY—Children of the Italian Alps at Christmas Time, praying before a wayside shrine.

begins the "cenone," or big supper, at which no meat may be served. Gifts for children, which come on Epiphany, are brought not by Santa Claus but by an ugly witch whose name is "Befana."

FRANCE: Exchange of gifts comes not on Christmas but mostly on New Year's day, which in France is the big family day for reunions of cousins, aunts and uncles. Santa Claus is "Pere Noel," who leaves his gifts in wooden shoes. Christmas eve is not spent at home but in revelry and feasting.

BELGIUM: Neither Santa Claus nor Pere Noel visit children here—but St. Nicholas makes the rounds, surprisingly, on December 6! A quaint Belgian custom is the putting up the chimney of a few carrots for the little donkey on which St. Nicholas makes his visits.

RUSSIA: This anti-Christian nation forbids celebration of the Yuletide but no longer compels foreign residents to import their own Christmas trees. Making an about-face, the Soviet government uses this emblem of childhood for its New Year's celebrations when Dadja Moroz, or Uncle Frost, appears with gifts for good children.

POLAND: This Christmas celebration lasts until February 2 and is preceded by fasting which is not broken until the first star appears on Christmas eve. In all homes the tablecloth is placed over a layer of fragrant hay in commemoration of the manger.

HUNGARY: St. Nicholas leaves boxes of candy for children early in December, after which the youngsters must be on their good behavior. They write letters to the angels, who, they believe, bring the presents. If they find bits of tinsel on the floor, they claim this is angel's hair and proof that the angels are everywhere, observing which boys and girls are good.

HOLY LAND: Where it all began nearly 20 centuries ago, worshippers reverently hail each Christmas at the church of Nativity which is built over Christ's traditional birthplace. It has remained unchanged more than 1,500 years. There pilgrims gather from all over the world to intone "Glory to the New-Born King."

3 Christmas Islands, Harbor, Cove, Sound, Are Found in Atlas

Not one, but three Christmas islands will celebrate the Yuletide this year, all of them under the British flag. The first is located in mid-Pacific and is really a submerged mountain 15,000 feet high with only its top above water. The second, in the Indian ocean, is forest-covered and had a population of 40 when the last census was taken in 1898. The last Christmas island is near Cape Breton in the maritime provinces of Canada.

France has a Christmas harbor on Desolation or Kerguelen island about 2,000 miles southwest of Australia. The United States has a Christmas cove near Boothbay harbor, Maine, which is a summer resort.

There is also a Christmas sound near the southern tip of South America about 120 miles northwest of Cape Horn and located in an island belonging to Chile.

1939 Toys Sprout Wheels As Kids Imitate Parents

Today's civilization-on-wheels has revolutionized the Twentieth century toy industry. Several decades ago children played with paint sets and cut-out dolls. Now girls and boys want wheel goods. The desire to have an automobile like dad's is so great that toy auto manufacturers must change their designs as soon as new models appear. Velocipedes must be streamlined, scooters must have pneumatic tires, and doll carriages must be of the latest baby buggy designs.

FIND THE TAX-FREE MAN!

"A nation-wide poll indicates that 25-per cent of the people believe they do not pay taxes," says the Kansas City Times. "Presumably these are people who never ride in motorcars, who do not live in houses or apartments, who do not buy food or clothing or do any of the other things that go to make up present-day living."

"That 25 per cent is pretty mythical. It's the supreme example of self-delusion. It sees no tax bills and so concludes it does not pay. It's pretty much like saying that because you don't see the heat or cold neither can exist."

What this all adds up to is simply that the great bulk of taxes collected in this country are hidden taxes. Nobody sends you a quarterly or annual statement showing the total you pay. Instead you pay taxes hourly, daily, weekly in little pieces—when you make a purchase or pay your rent or go to a show. And, in a year's time, those little pieces total more than 20 per cent of your entire income. In other words, your earnings for over one month out of five go to the tax collector instead of into your own pocket.

A search for the man who does not pay taxes would be about as fruitless as Diogenes' classic search for the completely honest man. He would have to be someone who doesn't live anywhere, doesn't buy newspapers and magazines—a man in brief, who doesn't do anything at all and doesn't need anything to do it with. All the rest of us are taxed—and plenty.

"I have a beautiful home overlooking a private lake."
"Why, I was out to your place and I didn't see a lake."

"Himm, er, well, that's what I overlooked."

Few men succeed who are afraid of doing more than their share. A great family tree is just like any other tree—the nuts develop at the ends of the branches.
