Nicholas Thaw, murderers of Evelyn Nesbit, has been accused of removing a body from the body of Stanford White. The murder was committed on June 27, 1906, in New York City. The police believe that Thaw was acting under the instructions of his employer, the financier and art patron, F. D. G. Vanderbilt.

The police have found that Thaw was present at the time of the murder and that he had a motive for the crime. Thaw was seen leaving the scene of the crime with a suitcase, which contained evidence of his guilt. The suitcase was found in a shallow grave, and Thaw was seen digging a grave on the same day.

The police believe that Thaw was acting under the instructions of his employer, the financier and art patron, F. D. G. Vanderbilt. The police have evidence that Vanderbilt was involved in the murder and that he had a motive for the crime.
